Friday's Express.

LONDON, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1.

We [illegible] particulars of the grand patriotic fete which took place on Wednesday evening by the Duke of Wellington, at the Argyle Rooms, in a numerous party of guests, said to be, indeed, the whole of the Peninsular Heroes, in a large party of members of the House of [illegible].

REPRESENTATION OF NORTH WILTS.—The Conservatives are on the alert, working actively but efficiently. Messrs Codrington, Bright, and Sutton, have been canvassing the county, and the reception given by the Tories to Bright, as they have disagreeably informed him, has been such as to give the most significant chance of success for any one against a candidate so decidedly popular as Mr. Sotheron. A witness behalf a committee has been formed of practical farmers, and a requisition to the sheriff is now in course of [illegible] numerous names for the late requisitioned member, Mr. Sotheron.

REPRESENTATION OF DEVIZES.—The vacancy caused in this borough by the resignation of Mr. Rutherford, has been filled up by the return of Mr. J. Morgan, the Railroads having been unable to find a candidate to oppose the Tory nominee.

The Irish estate trials were on Tuesday last resumed at the Court of Exchequer, Dublin, Samuel Lord Bishop of Limerick, who presides as he well attended and cooperative.

Mr. Fitzgibbon, Q.C., and Mr. Butt, Barrister-at-law, on Friday last, before Chief Baron Pigot, on the part of the Attorney-General for a personal adjudication. The Right Hon. Attorney-General moved for a rule to show cause why a bankrupt should not be called upon him to surrender himself to the Court, and be examined touching a bankrupt's estate, and why he should not be committed to the custody of the Sheriff of the City of Dublin, for refusing to answer such questions as the Court might think proper to put to him. The learned counsel stated that the bankrupt had refused to answer questions put to him by the Commissioners of Bankrupts, on the ground that he would thereby criminate himself. The Court, after hearing the learned counsel on both sides, made the rule absolute.
