VALUABLE WORKS

PUBLISHED FOR HENRY COLBURN,

BY R. BENTLEY, NEW BURLINGTON STREET;

And sold also by BELL and BRADFUTE, Edinburgh; and JOHN CUMMING, Dublin.

In 2 vols. 4to. illustrated with upwards of forty Portraits of distinguished Characters, curious Letters and Documents, in Fac-simile, &c.

HISTORY OF THE IRISH UNION,

With Delineations of the principal Characters connected with that important measure.

By SIR JONAH BARRINGTON,

Member of the late Irish Parliament for the cities of Tuam and Clogher.

“The Author hopes, by this history, to open wide the eyes of Great Britain to the present dangers of Ireland; to draw aside the curtain of ignorance and prejudice by which her history has been so long obscured; to compare her once rising prosperity with her existing miseries; to discover the occult causes of their continuance, and the false principles of her misrule; to display her sacrifices for England, and to unmask her libellers in both countries. In many of the events he was himself a not unimportant actor. He possessed also the advantage of individual intimacy or acquaintance with the most celebrated personages of all parties; without which, and the fidelity of a contemporary and independent pen, the delineation of their characters, and the record of their conduct, if not lost for ever, and thereby leaving a wide chasm in a highly-interesting epocha of British History, would have descended to posterity with imperfect details and an ambiguous authenticity.”—AUTHOR’S PREFACE.

The principles of economy and general convenience which have already suggested, in several successful instances, the cheap monthly publication of works pertaining to the lighter and more amusing departments of literature, have not yet been called into operation, in a similar manner, for the benefit of the Army and Navy. This omission is now about to be rectified by the formation of a collection particularly suited to the tastes and pursuits of the members of the two Services, and comprising the choicest productions of modern times; and the entire Series limited to Twenty Volumes, will form, it is trusted, such a library of entertainment as will prove a desirable acquisition for enlivening the social hours of every Mess and Gun-room at home and abroad.

THE EXTINCT, DORMANT, and SUSPENDED PEERAGE. By JOHN BURKE, Esq.

This work comprises the whole of the Peerages which have been suspended or extinguished since the Conquest, particularizing the members of each family, in each generation, and bringing the lineage, in all possible cases, through either collateral or females, down to existing houses; it connects in many instances the new with the old nobility; and it will, in all cases, shew the cause which has influenced the revival of an extinct dignity in a new creation. It should be particularly noticed, that this new work appertains nearly as much to extant as to extinct persons of distinction; for though dignities pass away, it rarely occurs that whole families do.

HISTORY OF THE NOBILITY AND GENTRY.

Dedicated by permission to the King, the Fourth Edition, in 2 vols. (comprising all the New Creations,) beautifully printed, and illustrated with upwards of 1500 Engravings; among which is a fine likeness of His Majesty, after Sir Thomas Lawrence's celebrated drawing. Price 2*l.* 10*s.* bound in Morocco Cloth;

MR. BURKE'S PEERAGE AND BARONETAGE OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

This new edition comprises three times the number of Families that have ever before been presented to the public in any one publication of a similar description. It embraces every family in England, Ireland, and Scotland, invested with hereditary honours, and every individual in the remotest degree allied to those families; so that its collateral information is now considerably more copious than that of any similar work hitherto published.

'This popular work justly deserves to be considered as a History of the British Nobility. It is enriched by a variety of personal anecdotes, never before published, relative to many illustrious houses, in addition to numerous authentic details connected with their lineage, and communicated to the author by the noble inheritors of the titles. The volumes, containing nearly 1400 pages of letter-press, are, moreover, illustrated with upwards of 1500 heraldic plates, and are printed in double columns, with so remarkably clear and beautiful a type, as to comprise a quantity of matter equal to no less than twelve octavo volumes!—John Bull.

MR. BURKE'S HISTORY OF THE COMMONERS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND.

Forming a DESIRABLE COMPANION to the PEERAGE and BARONETAGE.

'This is a great and important undertaking. Of the Peers and Baronets of Great Britain we have heard and read; but of the Commoners—of families celebrated in History—we remain in total ignorance. We are glad to find Mr. Burke employed in removing a national reproach. He has contrived to make his book not only very useful, but highly interesting—many rare and curious anecdotes having been introduced.—Globe.

DEDICATED TO THE DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE.

Now complete, in one handsome Volume, Royal Quarto, price 5*l.* 5*s.*; or, on large paper, with India Proof Plates, 10*l.* 10*s.*

BEAUTIES OF THE COURT OF CHARLES II.

With Memoirs and Anecdotes of their Lives, and an Introductory VIEW of the STATE OF FEMALE SOCIETY and its Influence, Dress, Manners, &c. during that remarkable reign.

By MRS. JAMESON, Authoress of 'The Lives of celebrated Female Sovereigns,' 'Memoirs of the Loves of the Poets,' &c. Comprising a series of Twenty-two splendid Portraits, illustrating the Diaries of Pepys, Evelyn, Clarendon, and other contemporary writers of that gay and interesting period. Size of the plates, six inches by four and a half; engraved by the most distinguished Artists, from Drawings made by order of Her late Royal Highness THE PRINCESS CHARLOTTE.

The following is a brief Descriptive List of the Portraits comprised in this Work, which supplies what has long been a desideratum in the Fine Arts, and forms a desirable companion to Lodge's Portraits:—Catherine of Braganza, the unhappy and slighted wife of Charles—Lady Castlemaine, afterwards Duchess of Cleveland, the naughty enslaver of the monarch—La Belle Hamilton, Countess De Grammont, one of the ancestors of the Jerningham family—The gentle and blameless Countess of Ossory, interesting from her extreme beauty, her tenderness, and her feminine virtues—Nell Gwynne, merry and open-hearted, who, with all her faults, was at least exempt from the courtly vice of hypocrisy, and whose redeeming qualities make even the justice of history half loth to condemn her—The beautiful and wealthy Duchess of Somerset, the wife of three successive husbands, one of whom encountered a tragical fate—The noted Frances Stewart, Duchess of Richmond ('a foni of adoration, yet armed with indifference'), whose marriage was the immediate cause of Lord Clarendon's disgrace—Miss Lawson, mild and gentle, yet opposing the fortitude of virtue to the perils of a licentious Court—The Countess of Chesterfield, one of the fair principals of De Grammont's celebrated story of the 'bas verts'—The Countess of Southesk, whose faults, follies, and miseries constitute a tale well fitted to 'point a moral'—

The interesting and exemplary Countess of Rochester—The beautiful and arrogant Lady Denham, claiming interest from the poetical fame of her husband, and her own tragical and mysterious fate—The magnificent Lady Bellasy, renowned for her beauty, wit, and high spirit, and recorded as the Mistress of James, Duke of York, only through her voluntary resignation of the marriage contract by which she had really become united with him—Mrs. Nott, fair, sentimental, and Madonna-like—Anne Digby, Countess of Sutherland, beautiful and blameless, the friend of the angelic Lady Russell, and of the excellent Evelyn—The fair coquette, Mrs. Middleton, one of De Grammont's special heroines—Miss Bagot, who became, in succession, the irreproachable wife of two libertine lords—The fair, the elegant, and fascinating Miss Jennings, 'who robbed the men of their hearts, the women of their lovers, and never lost herself!'—The Countess of Northumberland, distinguished for her uncommon grace and beauty, and the blameless tenor of her life—The Duchess of Portsmouth, one of the most absolute of Royal favourites, and one of the most striking examples of the mischief of female usurpation in political affairs—and the Duchess of Devonshire, fair, kind, and true, and wedded to a nobleman who, to the valor and bearing of a Paladin of old Romance, added the spirit of an ancient Roman.

'My motive is not to eulogize the dead, by giving a false varnish to glaring defects; it appears to me more useful to society to draw Nature as she is; to display the defects as well as the beauties; and to show, not by imaginary sorrows, but by palpable and indignant acts, what a mixture of inconsistencies Mankind is; and if, in this chronological series of recently living characters, there should be found some few in elevated life, whose glaring vices I have ventured to paint in the honest colouring of undisguised truth, let no ungenerous motive be attributed. The instances are not numerous; they, thank God! seldom occur in this country; but whenever decency, decorum, and public opinion are thus, in broad day, set at defiance, the posthumous character of the bold perpetrators cannot be too openly exposed to the scorn and contempt of the rising generation.'—Author's Preface.

A New Edition, in 3 vols. 8vo. with Portraits. 27s.

'The Lives of the North family comprise much of the private history of the Reigns of Charles and his brother James. They throw much light upon contemporary authors, and we have here exhibited, as in a mirror, the secret machinations and hidden policy which actuated the great politicians and court intriguers of the period. The work is an essential link in the chain of English History; and is indispensable to the higher classes of Libraries.—Gentleman's Magazine.

'When we consider that, from the first year of his appearance in London, in 1741, down to the moment of his retirement from the stage, in the year 1778, he was on terms of more or less intimacy with all the wise, the illustrious, the patriotic of Great Britain—that he was the favourite of Dr. Johnson, the friend and companion of the celebrated Lord Camden, the associate of Quin and Foote, and Barry and Henderson, the protégé of Pope, the correspondent of Bishop Warburton, the teacher of the early genius of Sheridan and Siddons—we can readily comprehend the interest that must be attached to the biography of such a man.'—Sun.

'The letters of Horace Walpole are masterpieces in their way: that in which they shine unrivalled, is their accurate reflection of the passing scenes of each day, pointed by remarks equally witty and sarcastic. N.B. Any of the volumes may be had separately, to complete sets.

* On these sheets are traced events that will never be forgotten, portraits that will decide the judgment of posterity. It is the book of life or death to many whose names are recorded in it.—Opinion of Las Cases in his Journal.

* This work bears impressed on it the stamp of the gigantic mind from which it emanated: nothing escapes the observation, or transcends the capacity of the Imperial Annalist. He combines the judgment and penetration of Tacitus with the prodigious versatility of Cæsar, and the more enlarged views of modern philosophy and science; policy, religion, war, civil administration, statistics, art, even literature—in short, whatever he touches on—seems to unfold its most recondite principles to his view, and to be fully comprehended and appreciated. To the future historian the value of the “Historical Miscellanies” is incalculable: with regard to the Memoirs themselves, no history can ever supersede them.—Edinburgh Magazine.

As was his custom, Napoleon generally made himself the topic of conversation, and entered much at large into various passages of his life.—New Monthly Magazine.

On these accounts his Narrative of the War in Germany possesses peculiar claims on the attention of the statesman, the soldier, the politician, and the historian, and must form one of the most valuable records that our times can bequeath to posterity.

SOCIETY AND MANNERS.

I.

A SECOND SERIES of BABYLON the GREAT, or MEN and THINGS in the BRITISH CAPITAL. In 2 vols. post 8vo. 18s.

'These volumes treat of all subjects connected with London, from the "forest of masts" in the River, to the allegiance of the Corporation—from the Chapel of St. Stephen's, to the steam-press in Printing House Square—Men, Women, Books, &c.—every thing in and about London that is worthy of notice in an intellectual point of view. Nothing escapes the eye and the lash of the Critic; he insinuates himself into coteries, and collects their foibles—he examines men of every grade and class with an inquisitorial precision, as if he stopped the passengers in the street, one by one, and, after putting his interrogatories, sat down to sum up the general character. All this is done with an air of philosophical truth, a certain gravity and sedateness, that impart a high tone of moral excellence to the production. He has studied the character of London and Londoners with acuteness. We think there is no doubt that the Author is a Scotchman; but, be who he may, he has produced two volumes that are highly creditable to his genius.'—Atlas.

REV. GEORGE CROLY, F.R.S.L. In 2 vols.

'Full of lofty imaginings and poetic thought, we will venture to say that there is hardly a theme which Mr. Croly has not awoken with a masterly hand, and hardly a sympathy which he has not beautifully touched in the great and multifarious range of subjects embraced in these volumes. Thus enriched, we most cordially recommend them to that universal attention which they will repay tenfold by the pleasure they are so well calculated to yield.'—Literary Gazette.

In the conception of the plot, and in the general treatment, the metrical Romance before us is an honour to the modern literature of the country, and is the more interesting as being the work of a woman.'—New Monthly Magazine.

ROMANCES MISES EN MUSIQUE,

par HORTENSE, DUCHESS de SAINT LEU, EX-REINE de HOLLANDE, daughter of the EMPRESS JOSEPHINE; embellished with twelve Plates, illustrative of the Scenes of the several Romances, beautifully engraved on Steel, from the original designs of the Duchess; and accompanied with her Portrait and fac-simile. In 1 vol. price 25s. bound.

The lyrical effusions published by the Duchess de St. Leu, the daughter of Josephine, comprise a series of twelve romances, or ballads which have been set to music by that distinguished lady herself, and have formed, it seems, a delightful and elegant solace in the retirement to which the variations of fortune have consigned her. Three ballads, peculiarly adapted as amateur performances for ladies, have illustrative engravings from the pencil of the Duchess, appended to each of them, descriptive of the scenes of the several romances; and the entire work forms altogether one of the most unique ever produced.

'The book is such as might be expected from the daughter of the most pleasing woman, and the sister of the most gallant cavalier (Prince Eugene) of the age.—Times.

After having sketched with a keen and vivid pencil the court wits and beauties of the seventeenth century, he has suddenly adopted the more natural, if ruder species, of human nature, which are to be found in the nineteenth: and for royal palaces we have cottages and sea-shores; for the smooth-shaven walks of Hampton Court, the wild heaths and umbrageous hollows of the New Forest; and for the glittering denizens of high life, the smuggler, the unkeeper, the foreign adventurer, and the country squire.—Morning Chronicle.

'Mrs. Radcliffe's new Romance is worthy to be her's—her image and superscription are upon it. We tread again the enchanted ground over which we wandered in the days of yore. THE REPRESENTATIVE OF TWO VERY ANCIENT FAMILIES
IN THE NORTH OF ENGLAND,

This Volume

IS RESPECTFULLY INSCRIBED.

P R E F A C E.

THE First Volume of this Work is now completed, and an opinion may be formed of a project, which was deemed at its announcement so beset by difficulties, as to hold out little hope of a successful issue. Those difficulties have however passed away—the completion of the first volume is accomplished, and nothing formidable remains to impede the progress of the second. In these pages will be found the lineage of nearly four hundred families, enjoying in the aggregate probably a revenue of two millions sterling, and deriving, many of them, their territorial possessions from WILLIAM OF NORMANDY; invested however with no exclusive rank—designated by no exclusive title—and born to no exclusive privilege. To this grade in her social system—her independent country gentlemen—England is mainly indebted for her greatness abroad, and her prosperity at home. In this—and her free institutions, she differs from every other country in Europe.

It was the Author's intention to acknowledge his obligations to his principal correspondents individually; but, on referring to the list, he finds it so extensive, that it would be entirely out of place to present such a catalogue here. He begs of them, nevertheless, to be assured that he entertains the strongest sense of the great and valuable assistance he has received. Indeed he is convinced that, could he adhere to his original determination, he should by simply so doing propitiate a more than ordinary degree of favor. He cannot, however, forbear recording the debt he owes to Sir David William Smith, bart. of Alnwick; to William Henry Allan, esq. of Durham; to Michael Jones, esq.; to Ormerod, Surtees, Hodgson, and Baker, the able historians of the counties of Chester, Durham, Northumberland, and Northampton; and to the local historians generally, from whose laborious and useful works he has derived the most essential aid.

* This gentleman, through the alliance of his ancestor, ROWLAND MYNORS, esq. with Theodosia, daughter of Sir Percival Willoughby, knt. of Wollaton, proves Founder's kin to All Souls' Oxford. The descent is thus traced;

BEATRIX CHICHELEY, daughter of John Chicheley, chamberlain of London, born in 1425, wedded Sir William Peche, knt. of Lullingston, Kent, and had (with a son Sir John Peche, knight banneret) a daughter,

ELIZABETH PECHE, who m. John Hart, esq. of the Middle Temple, and had a son,

The following extract from ORDERICUS VITALIS (who wrote nearly 600 years ago a History of Normandy, published by Monsieur du Chesne) may throw some light on the origin of the great house of BASKERVILLE.

“Baldricus Teutonicus married the daughter of Richard, surnamed de Benefacta, Lord of Clare and Tunbridge in England, by Roesia, his wife, sister to Walter Giffard, the second Earl of Buckingham after the Conquest, and daughter of Walter Giffard, Count of Longueville, in Normandy, and first Earl of Buckingham, in England, who was son of Osborne de Bolebec by Avelina his wife, sister to Gunnora, wife of Richard, the first of that name, Duke of Normandy. Baldrick by his said wife had six sons and as many daughters; the sons were NICHOLAS DE BASCHEVILLA, now Bacqueville; Fulke de Anjou; Robert de Courcy; Richard de Nova Villa or Nevill; Baldrick de Balgenzais, now Beangeney or Boysgeney; and Wigenuis, or Wigman of Apulia. NICHOLAS, the eldest, married one of the Dutchess Gunnora's nieces, and by her had two sons, William Martell and Walter de St. Martin, who were ancestors of the Warrens, Earls of Warren and Surrey, and of the Mortimers, Earls of March, &c. &c.”

THE RUSSELLS are of considerable antiquity in Cumberland:—in many of the early entries in the church registers of Millam (which the Rev. Henry Dixon, officiating minister, has recently with much care investigated) they are described as Russells de Duddon Bridge, and de Ar-

Bray, and had a son, Sir George Hart, of Lullingstone, and a daughter,

CATHERINE HART, who espoused Thomas Willoughby, esq. of Blore Place, and left a son and successor,

SIR PERCIVAL WILLOUGHBY, knt., who m. Bridget, eldest daughter and co-heir of Sir Francis Willoughby, knt. of Wollaton, and sister to Margaret, wife of Sir Robert Spencer, created in 1603, Baron Spencer of Wormleighton. By this lady Sir Percival had, with other issue,

FRANCIS (Sir), ancestor of LORD MIDDLETON.

THEODOSIA, m. to ROWLAND MYNORS, esq. of Trego, great-great-great-great grandfather of the present

nabie; by an intermarriage with the ancient family of Taylor, they acquired the estate of ROWENLANDS, to which they removed between the years 1652 and 1657, and they continued to abide there until 1803, when in consequence of the demise issueless of the elder brother, the property passed to William Russell, esq. of Brancepeth Castle, who having himself realised a very considerable fortune in the county of Durham, alienated the acquisition, and it is now in the possession of R. Postlewaite, esq. of Braughton in Furness.

Unfortunately the early registers are so defective, that no very continuous pedigree can be made out before the year 1598, and the baptismal records commence with 1600.

JOHN RUSSELL,* esq. of Arnabie, dying in 1608, was buried at Millam, and s. by his son,

MATTHEW RUSSELL, esq. of Arnabie, who had issue,

MATTHEW, his heir.

Richard, who d. 1st December, 1638.

Elizabeth.

Margaret.

The elder son and heir,

MATTHEW RUSSELL, esq. of Arnabie, born 19th March, 1615, intermarrying with the Taylor family, acquired the estate of Rowenlands, and dying 27th January, 1684, had a son and successor,

MATTHEW RUSSELL, esq. of Rowenlands, b. 15th February, 1657-8, who had (with two daughters, Elizabeth and Bridget) two sons, viz.

ROBERT, his heir.

Matthew, b. 2nd August, 1685, who settled at Sunderland as a merchant in 1700, and upon his demise issueless in 1760, devised half his fortune, which was very considerable, to his nephew William, late of Brancepeth Castle. In Sunderland churchyard a beautiful monument is erected to his memory.

Matthew Russell d. 28th February, 1695, and was s. by his elder son, ROBERT RUSSELL, esq. of Rowenlands, b. 8th October, 1682, who had issue,

MATTHEW, his heir.

WILLIAM, successor to his brother.

Robert, b. in September, 1737, who went out to India as a merchant and there died.

James, b. 6th March, 1744, d. in August, 1745.

Robert Russell died 22nd March, 1757, and was s. by his son,

MATTHEW RUSSELL, esq. b. 31st March, 1733, who died without issue at Rowenlands in January, 1803, and was s. by his next brother,

WILLIAM RUSSELL, esq. of Brancepeth Castle (as stated in the body of the work). This gentleman, who sold the estate of Rowenlands, was distinguished for liberality and benevolence. Among many similar instances may be mentioned an hospital at Cornsary in the county of Durham, which he built and endowed, for a considerable number of aged and infirm persons of both sexes, with a chapel for divine service, and a school attached for a large establishment of boys and girls. During the war in 1803, he raised a corps of volunteer infantry, consisting of two full companies, which he armed, clothed, and completely equipped at his own expense; he was also chiefly instrumental in raising the Usworth troop of yeomanry cavalry, and in the distresses on the termination of the war, he received and maintained the poor, coming from all quarters, in barracks constructed for the purpose, where every comfort was provided, while he kept alive their habits of industry, by engaging such as were able in various works on his extensive estates. Mr. Russell was s. at his decease by his son, MATTHEW RUSSELL, esq. of Brancepeth Castle, vice-lieutenant for the county of Durham (as stated in the body of the work). On leaving Trinity College, Oxford, this gentleman accepted a company in the Durham militia, and was subsequently major of the regiment. In 1801 he was returned member for Saltash (one of his father's boroughs) and continued to serve in parliament until his death in London, 8th May, 1822. He rebuilt the greater part of Brancepeth Castle, and it is now one of the most noble edifices in the north of England. Probably few individuals have ever been so justly, deeply, and universally lamented. Mr. Russell's only son and successor, the present WILLIAM RUSSELL, esq. of Brancepeth Castle, also vice-lieutenant of the county Palatinate, was returned in two successive parliaments for the county of Durham, and proved himself a zealous and disinterested promoter of the reform, by the patriotic gift of his boroughs of Bletchinglye and Saltash, consisting of three seats.

Estates.—Brancepeth, Brandon, Hardwicke, Willington, Westparks, Newton, Newton-cap, Blakestone, Fulthorpe, and Thwaites, in the county of Durham, and Baysdale in the county of York.

CANDLER OF CALLAN.—Edward Candler, esq. the brother of the present representative of the family, has been appointed a deputy lieutenant for the county of Northampton.

* His brothers were

Robert, m. 10th June, 1598, to Elizabeth Cooke.

Jeffery, who d. 2nd February, 1603-4.

Peter, who d. 27th December, 1607.

The family Estates are—Morton Pinkney and Culworth, both in Northamptonshire; with lands in Norfolk and Yorkshire.

ROUS OF COURTYRALA.

P. 119, col. 1, l. 9, for "Penguite," read "Penguite."

FLOOD OF FLOOD HALL.—Alterations in the account of this family.

FLOOD, JOHN, esq. of Flood Hall, in the county of Kilkenny, a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for that shire, m. Miss Saurin, eldest daughter of the Rt. Hon. William Saurin, (brother to the Bishop of Downmore), late attorney-general for Ireland, and niece to the Marquess of Thomond.

Lineage.

This family descends, it is presumed, from Sir Thomas Fludd, kn. of Milgate, who was receiver of Kent, Sussex, and Surrey, and treasurer to the army sent (temp. ELIZABETH) to aid Henry IV. of France. In the subsequent reign, a member of the Kentish house, (who was the first to write his name FLOOD), rose high in favour with King JAMES, and had several grants of lands in divers parts of the kingdom. He styled himself in writing "Flood," while the other branches were written Fludds. Hence derived

FRANCIS FLOOD, esq. of Burnchurch, in the county of Kilkenny, a major in the army, who m. Anne, only daughter and heiress of Colonel Henry Warden, M. P. of Ipswich, in Suffolk, and niece to Agmondesham Cuffe, esq. of Desart, father of the first Baron Desart. By this lady he had issue,

I. WARDEN, of Flood Hall, as stated in the body of the work.

II. John,

III. Charles, } as stated in the body of

IV. Henry, } the work.

V. George, }

I. Warden, LL.D. judge of the high court of admiralty of Ireland, member in the Irish parliament for many years, where he gave efficient support to his distinguished relative, HENRY FLOOD. He m. Miss O'Donovan, sister of General O'Donovan of that ancient family in the county of Cork, and aunt to Sir

William Wrixon Becher, bart. and had issue,

Warden, as in the body of the work.

Francis, a captain in the army, killed in action.

Henry of Paulstown Castle, who m. in 1815, Anna Maria, dau. of Henry Lennon, esq. Donovan, a captain in the army, who served in Holland. He wedded Miss Vignau, niece of the Comtesse De la Motte, and left issue, Warden, captain 51st. Marianne.

Marianne, as stated in the body of the work.

2. Hatton, a colonel in the 1st dragoon guards who served in Holland. He d. unmarried.

3. Francis, a major in the army, and high sheriff for the county of Kilkenny in 1778.

4. Henry, a major in the army, who m. and had issue,

John, of Viewmount, as stated in the body of the work.

Frances, m. to Dr. Reed, M.D. of the county of Carlow.

VII. Richard, who d. unmarried.

VIII. Anne, m. to the Venerable Henry Candler, D.D. archdeacon of Ossory and rector of Callan.

The remainder of the account, as given in the work, is correct, excepting that the mother of the present Mr. Flood, of Flood Hall, was Miss Aldworth, daughter of Richard Aldworth, esq. of Newmarket, in the county of Cork, M.P. and not Miss Bury, as erroneously stated at p. 125.

MOUBRAY OF COCKAIRNY.—SIR ROBERT MOUBRAY has been made a COMPANION OF THE ROYAL HANOVERIAN GUELPHIC ORDER. Sir Robert's great grandfather JOHN MOUBRAY, esq. of Cockairny, who d. in 1732, left two sons, viz.

ROBERT, his successor at Cockairny, (see page 129).

John, who had two sons and three daughters, viz.

John, whose only child, Ann-Cockerall Moubray, wedded James-Trail Hall, esq. of Dublin, barrister-at-law, and has issue.

William.

Margaret, who m. Walter Ross, esq. and left a son,

John-Ross, whose only child, Agnes, espoused Charles Mackintosh, esq.

Magdalen.

Jean, m. to James Campbell, esq. Sir Robert's grandfather, ROBERT MOUBRAY, esq. of Cockairny, who d. in 1779, had issue,

John, who died, captain royal marines.
ROBERT, M.D. who s. to Cockairny, and dying in 1795, was s. by his elder son, the present possessor.

James.

George, lieut. royal navy, who m. Miss
Toby, and had issue.

Elizabeth, m. to John Black, esq.

Mary, m. to Alexander Sutherland, esq.
and had issue.

- Sir Thomas Preston, the third baronet, had been a Roman Catholic priest until his brother's death; but on that event he married as stated in the text; after his lady's death, however, he resumed his sacerdotal character and returned to his duties; when he settled the Westmoreland estates upon his two daughters, and went beyond the seas, (to Flanders, where he died circa 1710), having previously settled the Lancaster estate, the manor and abbey of Furness, upon the Jesuits. The legality of this grant was subsequently litigated, and the estate, by the issue of a trial, adjudged to be forfeited to the crown, which seized upon it in consequence, and granted leases, and eventually the fee simple, to the Prestons of Holker, who had been mainly instrumental in bringing to light the illegal settlement made by Sir Thomas Preston. But it must be remembered that the Prestons of Holker were not the right heirs of Sir Thomas, nor could they ever have been while a male descendant of the Prestons of Cockerham was in existence.
- (It may as well be stated here, that there is in WEST'S Furness an extremely incorrect and imperfect pedigree of the Prestons of the manor of Holker, which entirely omits the Cockerham branch; whose existence is distinctly proved by a pedigree in the Harl. MSS. 1549, fol. 146, as well as by a pedigree in the Herald's office.)

ANDERTON OF EUXTON.

The following extract from the Mercurius Politicus of August the 16th, a republican paper, describing a visit of King Charles II. to the Andertons of Euxton, shows the violent spirit of the times.

"August 14, 1650. This day Charles Stuart lodged at Euxtonburgh, six miles on this syde of Preston, being Sir Hugh Anderton's house, who was prisoner at Lancaster, but sett at liberty by the Scotts. This Anderton is a bloody papist, and one that, when Prince Rupert was at Bolton, boasted much of being in blood to the elbows on that cruell massacre. The next night theyr king lodged at Brine, six miles from Warrington, being Sir William Gerard's house, who is a subtle jesuited papist. This dissembling Scott trusts none so well in Lancashire for his hostes as the papists."

Mr. Coke has represented the county of Norfolk for several years in parliament. He succeeded to the estates at the decease of his father in 1776.

Lineage.

The family of COKE, from which Mr. Coke derives through female descent, and which he now represents, is deduced by CAMDEN, from

WILLIAM COKE, of Doddington, in the county of Norfolk, mentioned in a deed, anno 1206, who was father, by his wife Felice, of

GEOFFREY COKE, of Doddington, from whom descended

SIR EDWARD COKE, the celebrated lawyer. This eminent person, the son of Robert Coke, esq. of Mileham, in the county of Norfolk, and Winifred, his wife, daughter, and one of the heirs of William Knightley, of Morgrave-Knightley, in the same shire, was born at the seat of his father, and at ten years of age sent to the grammar-school at Norwich, whence he removed to Trinity College, Cambridge, where he studied for four years, and was in some years afterwards chosen high-steward of that university. From Cambridge he removed to Clifford's-Inn, and, the year after, he was entered a student in the Inner-Temple, whence he was called to the bar, and being chosen reader in Lyon's-Inn, acquired so much celebrity, that he very soon attained considerable practice. About this period he married Bridget, daughter and co-heir of John Paston, esq. of Huntingfield Hall, in the county of Suffolk, third son of Sir William Paston, of Paston, with whom he acquired a fortune of thirty thousand pounds. An alliance, too, that brought him honours and preferments as well as wealth. The cities of Coventry and Norwich soon after elected him their recorder. The county of Norfolk returned him to parliament, and the House of Commons placed him in the speaker's chair. In the 35th of Elizabeth (1592), Mr. Coke was appointed Solicitor, and the next year Attorney-general. In 1603 he received the honour of knighthood from King James I. at Greenwich, and in three years afterwards was elevated to the bench as chief of the court of Common Pleas, from which he was advanced, in 1613, to the dignity of CHIEF JUSTICE OF ENGLAND (being the last person who bore that title), and sworn of the privy council. His lordship incurred subsequently, however, the displeasure of the court; and while in disgrace, hearing that a noble lord had solicited from the crown a portion of the lands belonging to the church at Norwich, which he had recovered, and settled thereon, he cautioned the peer to desist, or that he would resume his gown and cap, and come into Westminster Hall once again, to plead the cause of the church. Between his paternal property, the great marriage portion he had with his wife, and his valuable offices and lucrative practice at the bar, Sir Edward Coke realized an estate so ample, that each of his sons possessed a fortune equal to that of an elder brother. Camden, in his Britannia, says, "that he was a person of admirable parts, than whom, as none ever applied himself closer to the study of the law, so never did any one understand it better. Of which he fully convinced England, by his excellent administration for many years together, whilst attorney-general, and by executing the office of Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas with the greatest wisdom and prudence; nor did he give less proof of his abilities in his excellent Reports, and Commentaries upon our Laws, whereby he has highly obliged both his own age and posterity." His lordship d. 3rd September, 1633, at the advanced age of eighty-three. A noble monument was erected to his memory at Tittleshall church, Norfolk, with his effigies habited in judge's robes, lying at full length, under a canopy supported by two marble pillars, on the top of which are four large figures, and between the pillars two marble tables, with these inscriptions:—

He was several times imprisoned, and had his lands confiscated. Upon the restoration, however, he obtained restitution, and was appointed by the king governor of Chester Castle. In Pennant's Wales is recorded a gallant exploit of this stout cavalier. During the battle between Poyntz and Sir Marmaduke Langdale, on Rowton Heath, Colonel Shakerley was commissioned to carry the intelligence of an advantage of the Royalists to the king, in Chester, then beleaguered, and to avoid a troublesome circuit, he crossed the Dee in a tub, his horse swimming at the side; and offered to carry back the king's commands in a quarter of an hour, in the same manner. CHARLES delayed, Poyntz rallied, and the royal cavalry were destroyed, which put an end to his Majesty's project of joining Montrose, who was then in force in Scotland. RICHARD DE TURBEVILLE, who lived temp. EDWARD I. and left an only daughter and heiress,

AMICIA DE TURBEVILLE, who espoused William de Arches, and was s. at her decease by her son,

WILLIAM DE ARCHES, knight for Berks in 1336, whose son,

JOHN DE ARCHES, also represented that county in the 8th and 14th of RICHARD II. and 4th and 6th of HENRY IV. He left at his decease a son and heir,

WILLIAM RAWLIN DE ARCHES, who dying without male issue, his estates passed to his only daughter and heiress,

MAUD DE ARCHES, who conveyed those, (since denominated the manor of Arches,) with other territorial possessions to her husband, John Stowe, of Burford, in the county of Oxford, whose name occurs in the list of Berkshire gentry of 1433. The only daughter and heiress of this marriage,

ISABEL STOWE, espoused

JOHN EYSTON, (whose family had, for three generations before, possessed a manor in Isleworth, in Middlesex, now belonging to the Duke of Northumberland,) and was s. by her son,

WILLIAM EYSTON, esq. of East Hendred, living there in 1494, who was father of WILLIAM EYSTON, esq. he was succeeded at his decease, in 1590. This gentleman m. Mary, daughter and co-heir of James Thatcher, esq. of Priesthaves, in Sussex, by whom he had fourteen children. Adhering to the tenets of the Roman Catholic religion, Mr. Eyston had his lands repeatedly sequestered during the reign of CHARLES I. He d. in 1649, and was s. by his eldest son, CONGREVE, OF CONGREVE.

CONGREVE, WILLIAM, esq. of Aldermanston, in the county of Berks, and of Congreve, in the county of Stafford, m. Mary, daughter and co-heiress of Sir William Pepperell, bart.

Lineage.

This family, one of the most eminent in the county of Stafford, was settled at CONGREVE soon after the CONQUEST, and thence derived its surname.

RICHARD CONGREVE, esq. of Congreve, was one of the thirteen Staffordshire gentlemen upon whom King CHARLES II. intended to have conferred the order of the royal oak, were the institution of such a degree of knighthood persevered in. He m. Anne, daughter of Sir Thomas Fitz-Herbert, of Norbury, and granddaughter of Sir Anthony Fitz-Herbert, the eminent judge, by whom he had two sons,

1. JOHN, his successor.
2. William, a colonel in the army, father of

WILLIAM CONGREVE, the celebrated DRAMATIST, b. in 1672.

This distinguished person is spoken of in terms of admiration by every English writer who has had occasion to mention his name. Steele made him the patron of his Miscellany, and Pope inscribed to him the translation of the ILIAD. Placed by circumstances beyond the pecuniary anxieties of an author's profession, he is said to have affected contempt for the profession itself. The anecdote of his telling VOLTAIRE when he came to visit him, that he desired to be considered as a gentleman SOLELY, and not in the light of an author, is one of the mortifying proofs that the highest gifted minds are not always the strongest. The latter years of Congreve's life were rendered miserable by sickness and infirmity. Catarrhs in his eyes produced at length total blindness, and repeated attacks of gout prematurely undermined his constitution. He sought relief from the waters at Bath, but the accident of being overturned in his carriage, left a permanent pain in his side, and, probably, accelerated his death, which occurred in January, 1729, in the sixtieth year of his age. The remains of the poet were interred with great solemnity in Westminster Abbey, and Henrietta, Duchess of Marlborough, erected a monument to his memory. To this lady, who is said to have entertained a most romantic regard for him, he bequeathed the great bulk of his fortune. Congreve's occasional poems are so far below mediocrity, that we have not deemed it necessary at all to allude to them. As a dramatist, his fame is imperishable, and he stands, if not at the head, in the very first class of writers of comedy. Not so much, however, for his humorous and natural portraits, as for those of eccentricity. His wit, indeed, flashes upon us almost to annoyance, and it is often difficult to distinguish the false humour of his fools from the genuine sallies of his lively characters. We shall conclude these observations with Congreve's literary character, from the pen of Doctor Johnson. "Congreve has merit of the highest kind; he is an original writer, who borrowed neither the model of his plot, nor the manner of his dialogue. He formed a peculiar idea of comic excellence, which he supposed to consist of gay remarks and unexpected answers, but that which he endeavoured he seldom failed of performing. His scenes exhibit not much of imagery or passion; his personages are a kind of intellectual gladiators—every sentence is to ward or strike; but they are the work of a mind replete with images, and quick in combination."

Mr. Congreve was s. by his elder son,

JOHN CONGREVE, esq. of Congreve, who m. Mary, daughter of Thomas Nichols, esq.

of Boycot, in the county of Salop, and had issue,

JOHN, his successor.

EDMUND-RODNEY-POLLEXFEN, b. 7th September, 1825.
Baldwin-John-Pollexfen, b. 11th March, 1830.
William-Pollexfen, b. 12th January, 1832.

Mr. Bastard, who represented the county of Devon in several parliaments, succeeded to the estates upon the demise of his father, in 1816.

Lineage.

The family of BASTARD has been seated in Devonshire ever since the CONQUEST. Robert Bastard appears in Domesday Book to have had grants of Eford Meavy, Stonehouse, Blackford, Badestone, Haraldesore, Cumbe, Dunestantone, and Bicheford, all in the county of Devon. His descendants have intermarried with the heiresses of Crispin and of Killiowe, in the county of Cornwall, and into the families of Fitz-Stephen, Besilles, Damarell, Gilbert, Reynell, Hele, and Bampfylde, and have at different periods served as sheriffs of the county. Their seat for many generations was at Garston, near Kingsbridge, until about the end of the seventeenth century.

WILLIAM BASTARD, esq. by marriage with the heiress of Pollexfen, of Kitley, acquired that estate, which has since been the family residence. His son,

POLLEXFEN BASTARD, esq. of Kitley, m. Lady Bridget Poulett, daughter of John, first Earl Poulett, and was s. at his decease in 1733, by his eldest son,

WILLIAM BASTARD, esq. of Kitley. In 1779, a powerful French fleet appearing in the Channel, great alarm was excited for the safety of the Dock Yard and Arsenal at Plymouth, on account of a large number of French prisoners confined there, for the removal of whom no troops could be spared from the garrison, already insufficient for the defence of the place. Mr. Bastard, as a reward for his services in conducting these prisoners to Exeter, assisted only by the gentry and peasantry of the neighbourhood whom he had collected on the occasion, was created a baronet by his late Majesty. The title was gazetted in 1779, but has never been assumed. He m. Ann, daughter of Thomas Worsley, esq. of Hovingham, in the county of York, and had issue,

JOHN-POLLEXFEN, his successor.

EDMUND, who inherited the estates, upon his brother's decease.

He m. Sarah, widow of — Wymondsold, esq. of Lockinge, in the county of Berks, by whom he acquired the estates belonging to that family, but dying without issue in 1816, he was s. by his brother,

EDMUND BASTARD, esq. sometime M. P. for Dartmouth, who m. Jane, daughter and heiress of Captain Pownoll, R. N. of Sharpsham, Devon, and had issue, EDMUND-POLLEXFEN, present proprietor, John, a captain in the Navy, and M. P. for Dartmouth, who inherited the Pownoll estates, and resides at Sharpsham. He m. Frances, daughter and co-heiress of Benjamin Wade, of the Grange, in the county of York, esq.

Philomen-Pownoll, in holy orders, m.

Mr. Wise succeeded his father, 19th May, 1809. He represented Totness in parliament, from 1813 to 1817.

Lineage.

This family, which resided in England before the NORMAN CONQUEST, deduces its descent from

WILLIAM WISE, OR GWISE, living about forty years after that great event. He was s. by his son,

SERLONIUS FITZ-WISE, who had a daughter, m. to Fulford, of Fulford, and a son, his successor,

OLIVER WISE, who was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN WISE, Lord of Greston, father of

HENRY WISE, whose son,

WILLIAM WISE, held sixteen librates of land in Cornwall, in the 40th of HENRY III. (anno 1255). He was s. by his son,

SERLONIUS WISE, lord of the manor of Thrusselton; which lands he inherited from the Viponts. He was s. by his son,

THOMAS WISE, who had two sons,

JOHN.

Oliver, who left a daughter,

Thomasine, m. to Hugh, son and heir of Sir T. Beaumont.

The elder son,

JOHN WISE, inherited lands from the Trevages and Sydenhams, and was sheriff of the county of Devon, in the 5th of HENRY IV. His son,

THOMAS WISE, m. Margaret, daughter and heiress of Robert Brett, esq. of Slottiscombe, (descended from Alured de Brito). By this lady he acquired the manor of Stoke Damarell, where the Wises built a house, called Mount Wise. He had issue, “Having one day lente HENRY VIII. his signet to seale a letter, which having powdered eremites on the seale, why how now, Wise, quoth the king, what, hast thou lice here? And if it like your majestie, quoth Sir William, a louse is a rich coate, for by giving the louse, I part names with the French king, in that he giveth the floure de lice. Whereat the king laughed heartily to heare how prettily so byting a taunt (namely proceeding from a king) was so daintily turned to so pleasante a conceite.”

James Wise was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN WISE, of Sydenham, who m. Alicia, daughter of John Harris, of Hayne, serjeant-at-law to King HENRY VIII. and had, with other issue,

The former, says Westcote, “is the seat of the knightly and dignous family of Wise, and beautified with buildings of such height, as the very foundations are ready to reele under the burthen.” Sir Thomas m. Margaret, daughter and heires of Robert Stafford, esq. of Stowford, in the county of Devon, and dying in 1629, left (with a daughter, Margaret, m. to Sir Samuel Rolle, M.P.) a son and successor,

Again, however, they were disturbed by the said Gryffin, who had summons to appear before the king, to answer for his proceedings: and to render John Charlton and his wife more secure in their title, they had a royal charter in the 7th of EDWARD II. confirmatory of all their lands and castles in NORTH WALES, SOUTH WALES, and POWYS; in which year (26th July, 1313) John Charlton was summoned to parliament as BARON CHARLTON, and from that period to 25th July, 1353. This family has been for several centuries resident, and possessed of lands, in the west of England. According to Risdon and other antiquaries, the Lady Alice Pole, in the reign of Henry III. gave the manor and castle of Compton, in Devonshire, "to one of the family of Peter, whose posterity afterwards took the name of the place." Another branch settled at Torr-Newton, in the adjacent parish of Torr-Brian, of which was,

JOHN PEETER OR PETRE, who lived in the reigns of Richard II. and Henry IV. By his wife Alice he left issue two sons,

JOHN PETER, the elder brother, inherited his father's estates in Devonshire, and left issue by his wife, a son named

WILLIAM PETER, who, as it appears from an inquisition taken in the 12th of Edward IV. was seised of Torr-Newton, Bakebeare, and other lands in the counties of Devon, Dorset, and Hants, and was at that time twenty-four years of age. By his wife Joan, he had several children, among whom were

1. JOHN, who inherited Torr-Newton and other estates in Devon, and who, by Alice, daughter of John Collins, esq. of Woodlands, in the same county, was father of Sir William Peter or Petre, principal secretary of state in the reigns of HENRY VIII., EDWARD VI., MARY, and ELIZABETH, and ancestor of the Lords PETRE, of Writtle, in the county of Essex.

2. WILLIAM.

WILLIAM PETER, the younger son, succeeded to his father's estates at Milton in Hampshire, and Bakebeare in Dorsetshire, and further increased his patrimony by his marriage with Joan, the only daughter of Sir Roger Arundel, of Calwoodley, in the county of Devon, by which lady he had issue three sons,

1. Roger, who d. young.

3. JOHN.

The third son,

JOHN PETER, resided at Bowhay, near Exeter, and was one of the representatives of that city in the first parliament of PHILIP and MARY. He married his cousin Wilmot, daughter of John Peter, esq. of Torr-Newton, and sister to Sir William Petre, and died in 1579, at a very advanced age, leaving a numerous progeny of sons and daughters, amongst whom were

1. John, who was M. P. for Dartmouth in the 1st of PHILIP and MARY (the same parliament in which his father represented Exeter), and d. s. p. in the life-time of his father.
2. Otho, who succeeded his father in his Devonshire estates, and was seated at Bowhay.*

DYMOKE, OF SCRIVELSBY.

The King's Champion.

DYMOKE, HENRY, Esq. of Scrivelsby Court, in the county of Lincoln, The Honorable THE KING'S CHAMPION, b. 5th March, 1801; succeeded to the estates and the hereditary championship at the decease of his father, the Reverend John Dymoke, on the 3rd Dec. 1828, having previously executed the official duties of champion as deputy for that gentleman at the coronation of his late Majesty King GEORGE IV. Mr. Dymoke m. 14th January, 1823, Emma, daughter of William Pearce, esq. of Weasenhall, in Norfolk, and Holm Cottage, Richmond, Surrey, by whom he has an only daughter, EMMA-JANE, b. 11th February, 1826.

This gentleman is the seventeenth of his family who has inherited the ancient office of CHAMPION.

Lineage.

This family ranks in point of antiquity, male and female, with the most ancient in the kingdom. It derives the singular office of CHAMPION from the celebrated baronial house of MARMYUN, or MARMYON, with the feudal MANOR OF SCRIVELSBY, to which the championship is attached.

At the time of the Norman Conquest,

ROBERT DE MARMYON, Lord of Foutney, in Normandy, having by grant of King William the castle of Tamworth, in the county of Warwick, with the adjacent lands, expelled the nuns from the abbey of Polesworth, to a place called Oldbury, about four miles distant. "After which," (writes Sir William Dugdale,) "within the compass of a twelvemonth, as it is said, making a costly entertainment at Tamworth Castle, for some of his friends, amongst whom was Sir Walter de Somerville, Lord of Whichover, in the county of Stafford, his sworn brother, it happened, that as he lay in his bed, St. Edith appeared to him in the habit of a veiled nun, with a crosier in her hand, and advertised him, that if he did not restore the abbey of Polesworth, which lay within the territories belonging to his castle of Tamworth, unto her successors, he should have an evil death, and go to hell. And, that he might be the more sensible of this her admonition, she smote him on the side with the point of her crosier, and so vanished away. Moreover, that by this stroke being much wounded, he cried out so loud, that his friends in the house arose; and, finding him extremely tormented with the pain of his wound, advised him to confess himself to a priest, and vow to restore the nuns to their former possessions. Furthermore, that having so done, his pain ceased; and that in accomplishment of his vow, accompanied by Sir Walter de Somerville, and the rest, he forthwith rode to Oldbury; and, craving pardon of the nuns for the injury done, brought them back to Polesworth, desiring that himself, and his friend Sir Walter de Somerville, might be reputed their patrons, and have burial for themselves and their heirs in the abbey—the Marmions in the chapter house—the Somerviles in the cloyster. However some circumstances in this story (continues Dugdale,) may seem fabulous, the substance of it is certainly true; for it expressly appeareth by the very words of his charter, that he gave to Osanna the prioress, for the establishing of the religion of those nuns there, the church of St. Edith, of Polesworth, with its appurtenances, so that the convent of Oldbury should remain in that place; and likewise bestowed upon them the whole lordship of Polesworth: which grant King Stephen afterwards confirmed." The castle and manor of Tamworth, in Warwickshire, and the manor of Scrivelsby, in the county of Lincoln, were granted by the Conqueror to this Robert de Marmion, to be held by grand serjeanty, "to perform the office of champion at the king's coronation," (the Marmions, it is said, were hereditary champions to the Dukes of Normandy, prior to the conquest of England). Robert Marmion was succeeded at his decease by his son and heir,

ROBERT DE MARMYON, Lord of Fontney, in Normandy, where he possessed a fortified castle, which was besieged by Geoffrey, of Anjou, in the 4th of King Stephen, and demolished. This Robert having a great enmity to the Earl of Chester, who had a noble seat at Coventry, entered the priory there in the 8th of Stephen, and, expelling the monks, turned it into a fortification, digging at the same time divers deep ditches in the adjacent fields, which he caused to be covered over with earth, in order to secure the approaches thereto; but the Earl of Chester's forces drawing near, as he rode out to reconnoitre, he fell into one of those very ditches, and broke his thigh, so that a common soldier, presently seizing him, cut off his head. He was s. by his son,

ROBERT DE MARMION, who, in the 31st Henry II., being constituted sheriff of Worcestershire, continued in that office until the end of the four-and-thirtieth year of the same reign. He was also justice itinerant in Warwickshire, and some other counties, and again sheriff of Worcestershire in the 1st of Richard I. In five years afterwards he attended that monarch into Normandy, and in the 15th of King John he was in the expedition then made into Poitou. This feudal lord died about the year 1217, leaving issue, by different mothers,

ROBERT, his successor.

Robert, jun., who had the estate of Wittingham and Coninsby, in the county of Lincoln.

William, of Torington.

He was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT DE MARMION, who appears to have sided with the French, when they seized upon Normandy in the beginning of King John's reign, for the murder of Arthur, Duke of Brittany; but afterwards to have made his peace, for in the 5th of Henry III. he had livery of Tamworth Castle and his father's other lands. He is supposed to have returned to Normandy in twelve years afterwards, and to have died there in 1241, when he was s. by his son,

PHILIP DE MARMION, who was sheriff of the counties of Warwick and Leicester, from the 33rd to the 36th of Henry III.—in the latter of which years he was questioned for sitting with Richard de Mundevill, and the rest of the justices, for gaol delivery at Warwick, having no commission so to do. The next year he attended the king into Gascony; upon his return whence he was taken prisoner by the French at Pontes, in Poitou, with John de Plesssets, then Earl of Warwick, notwithstanding they had letters of safe conduct from the king of France. In the 45th of the same reign this feudal lord had summons to be at London with divers of the nobility, upon the morrow after Simon and Jude's day; in which year the defection of many of the barons began further to manifest itself, by their assuming the royal prerogative, in placing sheriffs throughout different shires. In this period of difficulty Philip de Marmion, being of unimpeachable loyalty, had, by special patent from the king, the counties of Suffolk and Norfolk committed to his custody, with the castles of Norwich and Orford: a well-judged confidence, for through all the subsequent fortunes of Henry III. he never once swerved from his allegiance. He was present at the battle of Lewes—and his fidelity was rewarded after the royal victory of Evesham, by some valuable grants for life, and the governorship of Kenilworth Castle. He m. Joane, youngest daughter, and eventually sole heiress of Hugh de Kilpec, of Kilpec Castle, in Herefordshire, by whom he had four daughters, his co-heirs, viz.

Joane, m. to William Morteyn, and died s. p. in 1294.

Margery, m. to Ralph Cromwell, and had an only daughter and heiress, Joane, m. to Alexander, Baron Freville, whose grandson,

SIR BALDWIN DE FREVILLE, Lord Freville, claimed the championship in the 1st Richard II. by the tenure of Tamworth Castle, but the matter was decided against him, in favour of Sir John Dymoke.

Maud, m. to Ralph Botiller, and d. s. p.
JOAN,* who had the manor of Scrivelsby, m. Sir Thomas de Ludlow, knt. and had issue,

John de Ludlow, who d. s. p.

* Banks, in his History of Marmyun, says, that this lady was by a second wife, Mary.

MARGARET DE LUDLOW, sole heiress of her brother, with whom we shall proceed as wife of SIR JOHN DYMOKE.

MARGARET DE LUDLOW, upon the decease of her brother, became sole heiress (Banks makes her granddaughter of Sir Thomas de Ludlow and Joan Marmyon), and inherited the manor of SCRIVELSBY, in Lincolnshire; she espoused

SIR JOHN DYMMOK,* knt. and this gentleman thus acquired, with that baronial estate, the office of KING'S CHAMPION. In the 46th and 47th of EDWARD III. Sir John Dymoke represented with William Marmyun, the county of Lincoln in parliament, and in the 1st Richard II. he was again one of the knights for Lincolnshire. At the coronation of this monarch he executed the office of KING'S CHAMPION, and was the first person so officially employed at the coronation of an English prince.† Sir John d. in the 4th of the same reign, leaving Margaret, his wife, surviving, who d. in the 2nd HENRY V. at which time, THOMAS, her son and heir, was sixty years of age and upwards. The said

SIR THOMAS DYMMOK was one of those eminent persons who, immediately prior to the coronation of King HENRY IV. was made a Knight of the Bath, at the Tower. On the coronation day he performed the office of

HENRY DYMMOK, living temp. EDWARD III. m. a daughter of — Plessetis, and had issue,

JOHN DYMMOK, who m. Felicia, daughter of — Harevill, and had a son,

SIR JOHN DYMMOK, the husband of Margaret de Ludlow.

† His right was, however, disputed by Sir Baldwin Freville, then Lord of Tamworth, who exhibited before the court of claims his pretensions to be KING'S Champion, and to the service appertaining to that office, by reason of his tenure of Tamworth Castle, viz.

“To ride completely armed upon a barbed horse into Westminster Hall, and there to challenge the combat with whomsoever should dare to oppose the King's title to the crown.”

Which service the Barons Marmyon, his ancestors, Lords of that castle, had theretofore performed. But Sir John Dymoke counter-claimed the same office as Lord of Scrivelsby. Whereupon the constable and marshal of England appointed the said Sir John Dymoke to perform the office at that time.

CHAMPION as deputy to his mother, then living. And again at the coronation of the renowned HENRY V. he executed the duties of the same office, in the same manner, on behalf of his mother. Sir Thomas m. Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Sir Richard Hebdon, knt. (by his wife, the daughter and heir of Rye) and dying in the last year of HENRY V. was s. by his son,

SIR PHILIP DYMMOK, then twenty-two years old and upwards, who officiated as CHAMPION at the coronation of HENRY VI. Upon this occasion a mandate was made by the King to the keeper of his wardrobe, to deliver to the said Philip Dymmok (then not knighted) such furniture, &c. as his ancestors had been accustomed to have upon these occasions. This Champion espoused Joane, daughter of Sir Christopher Conyers, of Stokeburn, and d. in the 23rd HENRY VI. leaving his son, and successor,

SIR THOMAS DYMMOK, then twenty-seven years of age and upwards. This Champion made a conspicuous figure in the reign of EDWARD IV. His connection, however, with the Lords Welles, and a suspicion that he favoured the Lancastrian interest, led him to a premature death upon the scaffold (refer to Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage, article WELLES). Sir Thomas m. Margaret, second daughter, and eventually one of the co-heirs of Lionel, Lord Welles, by Joane, his wife, daughter and heir of Sir Robert Waterton,* and had issue,

ROBERT (SIR), his successor.

Lionel (SIR), who m. Joane, daughter and co-heir of Richard Griffith, esq. of Stickford, in the county of Lincoln, and had three surviving daughters, his co-heirs, viz.

1. — m. to — Hopton.
2. Alice, m. to Sir William Skipwith.
3. —, m. to J. Goodrich, of Boldingbroke.

Sir Lionel was sheriff of the county of Lincoln in the 7th HENRY VIII. he d. 17th August, 1519, and was buried at Horncastle, where a monument erected to his memory still remains.

Anne, d. in 1462.

The elder son and heir,

* The WATERTONS were a Lincolnshire family of distinction, and were frequently sheriffs of that county.

SIR ROBERT DYOKE was of very tender years at the time of his father's unhappy death. But he had no sooner arrived at maturity, than the King, as if to compensate for the fate of his father, admitted him to have livery of all his inheritance, as well of those lands which came through the late Champion, as of those other estates which had devolved upon him through his mother, the co-heiress of Welles and Waterton, without any account to be taken, either as to their value and extent, or of such fine as the King might be entitled to claim due to the crown upon such occasions.* Sir Robert officiated as Champion at the coronations of RICHARD III. HENRY VII. and HENRY VIII. He was a military man, and one of the principal commanders at the siege of Tournay, where, after the surrender of the city, he was constituted King's treasurer. He was a KNIGHT BANNERET, and was sheriff of Lincolnshire in the 2nd RICHARD III. 18th HENRY VII. and 1st Henry VIII. This distinguished champion espoused, first, Anne, daughter of Alexander Cressnore, by whom he had three daughters. He m. secondly, Jane, daughter and co-heir of John Sparrow, of London, by whom he had a son,

EDWARD, his successor.

Sir Robert d. 13th April, 1544, and was buried at Scrivelsby. He was s. by his son,

SIR EDWARD DYOKE. This gentleman was sheriff of the county of Lincoln, in the life-time of his father, anno 1536; an office which he also filled in the 1st EDWARD VI. and 2nd and 3rd of PHILIP and MARY, in which reigns, as well as in that of Queen ELIZABETH, he was repeatedly returned one of the county representatives to parliament. He officiated as CHAMPION at the coronations of EDWARD VI. Queen MARY, and Queen ELIZABETH. He m. Anne, daughter of Sir George Talboys, sister and heir of Gilbert, Lord

Talboys, of Kyme,* by whom (who espoused secondly, Sir Robert Carr) he had issue,

ROBERT, his successor.

Charles (Sir), of Howell, in the county of Lincoln, and M.P. for the city of Lincoln in 1502, m. Margaret, relict of Anthony Butler, of Coats, and left no issue.

Edward (Sir), who was sheriff of Lincolnshire in 1584, and member in several parliaments for that county.

He m. Troth, daughter of Thomas Dymoke, and left two daughters, viz.

Margaret, m. to William Marbury.
Frances, m. to — Baker.

Sir Edward Dymoke d. in 1566, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT DYOKE, esq. who m. Bridget, eldest daughter and co-heir of Edward, Lord Clinton (afterwards Earl of Lincoln), by Elizabeth, his first wife, daughter of Sir John Blount, knight and widow of Gilbert, Lord Talboys. By this lady he had a numerous family, of which, the eldest and youngest sons were EDWARD (Sir), his successor.

Nicholas, who m. —, daughter of Danvers, and had a son,

EDWARD, who succeeded, upon the death of the honorable champion, Charles Dymoke, his cousin, to the manor of Scrivelsby, with the championship.

The champion d. in 1580, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR EDWARD DYOKE, who claimed and exercised the office of champion at the coronation of King JAMES I. He m. first, Catherine, daughter of Sir James Harrington, by whom he had a son, Charles, who d. young, and a daughter, Bridget, baptized at Hackney, 6th November, 1597. He espoused, secondly, Anne, daughter of Sir John Monson, knight and had another son, Edward, who also deceased young. Sir Edward wedded, thirdly, 13th November,

* The tide of opinion and affairs had now become greatly changed; inasmuch as King EDWARD had married Cecily, his daughter, to John, the half-brother of that very Richard, Lord Welles, whom he had beheaded but a few years before; and, moreover, created the said John, Viscount Welles. Thus the said John, Viscount Welles, was maternal uncle to the young Dymoke; and he through the same alliance, was become the great nephew of the man who had taken away the life of his father. Banks's Hist. of Marmyon.

* The children of Gilbert, Lord Talboys, all deceasing without issue, the inheritance came to be divided between the sisters and co-heirs of the said Gilbert; in which division the castle and manors of North and South Kyme (the old baronial seat of the Kymes) fell to the Dymoke family, who possessed the same until the last century, when they were sold by the Honourable Champion, Lewis Dymoke.

1610, Mary, daughter of — Poulteney, esq. of Misterton, and dying in 1625, was s. by the only son of this marriage,

CHARLES DYMOKE, esq. This gentleman was a zealous supporter of his unhappy sovereign, King CHARLES I. He d. unmarried, in his majesty's garrison at Oxford, in 1644. By his will, proved in the prerogative court of Canterbury 8th July in the same year, he ordered that the sum of £300 should be expended upon a tomb for him at Scrivelsby, where he desires to be buried; he bequeathed to his majesty the sum of £2000 to relieve his necessities, and he charges his estates, and the rents in his tenants' hands, with the payment thereof. Dying a bachelor, the inheritance of the baronial manor of Scrivelsby, with the office of king's champion, devolved, by virtue of a settlement made by him, upon the next male heir, his cousin (the son of his uncle, Nicholas Dymoke),

SIR EDWARD DYMOKE, who performed the duties of champion at the coronation of King CHARLES II. having previously received the honor of knighthood. This gentleman m. 21st June, 1624, Jane, daughter of Nicholas Cressy, esq. of Fulnethy, and had, with other issue,

CHARLES, his successor.

John, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Welborne, esq. and left a son, CHARLES, who m. Mary, daughter of — Needham, and had issue, John-Needham.

EDWARD, who inherited the estates and championship under the will of his cousin, the Hon. Champion Lewis Dymoke. Of this Edward more presently.

Sir Edward was sheriff of Lincolnshire in 1662. He died soon afterwards, and was buried at Scrivelsby 8th January, 1663--4. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR CHARLES DYMOKE, who officiated as champion at the coronation of King JAMES II. This gentleman, by the description of Charles Dymoke, esq. of Scrivelsby, was set down by King CHARLES II. as one of the projected knights of the Royal Oak. He espoused Eleanor, daughter of Lewis Watson, Lord Rockingham, and had issue,

Charles, who d. young.

Edward, who d. in France, in his twentieth year, and was brought over and interred at Scrivelsby, 13th May, 1694.

CHARLES, his heir.

LEWIS, successor to his brother.

He d. about the year 1688, and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

CHARLES DYMOKE, esq. This gentleman fulfilled the duties of champion at the coronation of WILLIAM and MARY, and likewise at the coronation of Queen ANNE. He represented the county of Lincoln in parliament, from 1698 to 1701. He m. Jane, daughter of Robert Snoden, esq. but dying s. p. 17th January, 1702--3, was s. by his brother,

LEWIS DYMOKE, esq. who officiated as champion at the coronation of the two first monarchs of the line of Brunswick. He was member of parliament for the county of Lincoln from 1702 to 1705 inclusive, and from 1710 to 1713. This gentleman lived to an advanced age, being baptized at Scrivelsby, 14th February, 1669, and being buried there 25th February, 1760, at which time he had completed his ninety-first year. He d. unmarried, and the estates at Scrivelsby devolved, under his will, upon his cousin,

EDWARD DYMOKE, esq. who, not living at the period of a coronation, had no opportunity of performing his official duties as champion. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of — Segrave, and relict of James Coward, and dying 12th Sept. 1760, was s. by his son,

JOHN DYMOKE, esq. who performed the duties of champion at the coronation of King GEORGE III. The following paragraph is taken from the British Chronologist for the month of September, 1761.

"Sept. 18. A colonel's guard mounted at Whitehall, and were placed at all the avenues to the abbey, hall, &c.; at night Westminster Hall was illuminated, and John Dymoke, esq. put on his armour and tried a grey horse (which his late majesty rode at the battle of Dettingen) before their Royal Highnesses the Duke of York and Prince Henry, the Duke of Devonshire, &c.; several other horses were walked and rode up and down the hall; and Earl Talbot also tried the horse he intended to ride on the coronation day."

THE REV. JOHN DYMOKE, rector of Scrivelsby, beneficiary of Lincoln, &c. This gentleman being called upon to officiate as CHAMPION at the coronation of King GEORGE IV. was obliged, owing to his clerical character, to act by deputy, and he therefore appointed his elder son, the present HENRY DYMOKE, who fulfilled the duties of the office accordingly. Mr. Dymoke espoused, 19th July, 1799, Amelia-Jane-Alice, daughter of Captain Elphinstone, of the British navy, and admiral of the Russian fleet, by whom he had issue,

The chief part of Scrivelsby Court, the ancient baronial seat, was destroyed by fire sixty or seventy years ago. In the part

* In July, 1814, Lewis Dymoke, esq. uncle of the present champion, presented a petition to the crown, praying to be declared entitled to the BARONY OF MARMYON, of Scrivelsby, in virtue of the seizure of the manor of Scrivelsby; which petition was referred to the attorney-general, who having reported thereon, the same was referred to the House of Lords, where evidence was received at the bar, and the claimant's counsel summoned up, when the attorney-general was heard in reply, and tendered some documents on the part of the crown; but the claimant died before the judgment of the house was given.

“With respect to this claim,” says Nicolas, “it is to be observed, that though the manor of Scrivelsby was held by the service of performing the office of king's champion by Robert de Marmyon, in the reign of William the Conqueror, he was not by seizure thereof a baron, but by seizure of the barony and castle of TAMWORTH, which he held of the king in capite by knights' service; so that, if at this period baronies by tenure were admitted, the possessor of the manor and lordship of Tamworth, (which in the division of his property fell to the share of Joane, his eldest daughter, wife of William Mosteyn, and on her death s. p. to Alexander Freville, husband of Joan, daughter and heir of Ralph Cromwell, by Mazera, the next sister of the said Joan de Mosteyn,) would possess the claim to the barony enjoyed by Robert de Marmyon, he having derived his dignity from that barony instead of from the seizure of the manor of Scrivelsby. Moreover, if Philip Marmyon, the last baron, had died seised of a barony in fee, Lewis Dymoke was not even a co-heir of the said Philip, though he was the descendant of one of his daughters and co-heirs.”

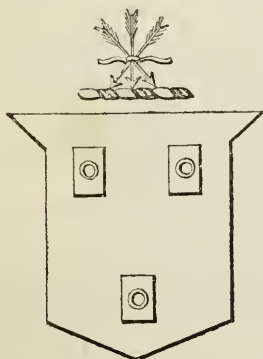

consumed was a very large hall, on the pannels of the wainscoting of which was depicted the various arms and alliances of the family through all its numerous and far-traced descents. The loss has been, in some degree, compensated by the addition which the late proprietors made to those parts which escaped the ravages of the flames. Against the south wall of the chancel, in the parish church of Scrivelsby, is a very handsome marble monument, ornamented with a bust of the Hon. Lewis Dymoke, champion at the coronation of the two first sovereigns of the House of Brunswick. On the north side of the chancel is a marble tablet to the memory of the Hon. John Dymoke, who performed the duties of champion at the coronation of King GEORGE III. On the floor of the south side of the communion table is a plate of copper, on which is an inscription to the memory of Sir Charles Dymoke, knt. who was champion at the coronation of King JAMES II. At the eastern end of the aisle are two tombs, on one of which is the figure of a knight in chain armour, cross-legged, on the other that of a lady with a lion at her feet. By the side of these is the tomb of Sir Robert Dymoke, who was champion at the coronations of RICHARD III. HENRY VII. and HENRY VIII. On the floor of the aisle is also a stone which once contained a brass figure, with corner shields, and an inscription, all of which are now gone.

The family of DE ANYERS, or DANIEL, whence Mr. Willis derives in lineal descent, accompanied WILLIAM the Conqueror into England in 1066, and the name of its patriarch is to be found inscribed on the roll of Battel Abbey.* Owing, however, to the destruction of deeds in the turbulent times of CHARLES I. the lineage can only be traced with accuracy from the year 1250.

WILLIAM DE ANYERS, sen. of Daresbury, in Cheshire, espoused, in 1270, Agnes, daughter of Thomas de Legh, of High Legh of the West Hall, and had, with several daughters, three sons, viz.

The matter was not, however, fully settled until the award of William Hill, prebendary of Lichfield, 23rd HENRY VIII. when William Daniell, of Longdon, in Staffordshire, who claimed as next heir to Daniell, of Lymme, as son of William, brother of John Daniell, late of Cherry Tree Hurst, conveyed all his right in those lands to Thomas De Anyers, esq. grandson of this Thomas.

Lineage.

The family of SHAFTO is of great antiquity in the north of England. Some little incidental proof of the rank which the old lords of Shafto held on the border may be gathered from song and tradition. At the "Raid of the Redswire," in 1575, a hostile meeting between the Scotch and English Wardens, one of the war-cries of the latter was, "A Schaftau and a Fenwick." The Scots had the honour of the day, and amongst the many English who were taken prisoners or wounded,

" Young Henry Schaftan he is hurt,
A souldier shot him with a bow."*

VAVASOUR, OF WESTON.

VAVASOUR, WILLIAM, esq. of Weston Hall, in the county of York, m. Sarah, daughter and co-heiress of John Cooke, esq. of Swinton, in the same shire, by whom he has no issue. Mr. Vavasour succeeded to the estates of his family, and the representation of the ancient house of VAVASOUR, upon the decease of his brother in 1795.

Lineage.

The eminent family of VAVASOUR, or VALVASOR (as Camden has it), derived their name from their office, being formerly king's valvasor, a degree then little inferior to the baronial. "There are," says Bracton, "for the civil government of mankind, emperors, kings, and princes, magnates or VALVASORS, and knights."

SIR MAUGER LE VAVASOR is mentioned in Domesday Book, as holding in chief of the Percys, Earls of Northumberland, considerable manors and estates in Stutton, Eselewood, Saxall (Saxon), &c. He was father of another

SIR MAUGER LE VAVASOR, father of

SIR WILLIAM LE VAVASOR, lord of Haselwood, judge in the reign of Henry II. and one of the witnesses to the charter of the abbey of Sawley, in Yorkshire, refounded by Matilda de Percy, Countess of Warwick. To this abbey he himself also made a considerable donation of land. He was s. by his son,

SIR ROBERT LE VAVASOR, who in 21st Henry III. was high-sheriff of Nottingham and Derby; and from 31st of the same reign having served for eight years successively. He had likewise the custody of the honor of Peverell. He m. Julian, daughter of Gilbert de Ross, of Steeton, by whom he had issue,

1. JOHN (Sir), his successor.

2. Maude, m. to Theobald, brother of Hubert, Archbishop of Canterbury, from whom descended the family of Butler, dukes, marquesses, and earls of Ormonde; and from whom also descended her majesty, Queen Elizabeth, by her grandfather, Sir Thomas Boleyn, created Earl of Wiltshire and Ormonde.

Sir Robert d. 38th Henry III. and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN LE VAVASOR, knt. Lord of Haselwood, who gave to the abbot and convent of Thornton, to the church and canons of St. Peter in Howden, stone from his quarry in Theves-dale (now called Jackdaw Cragg), near Tadcaster, to build their churches, and repair other edifices. He m. Alice, daughter of Sir Robert Cockfield, knt. by whom he had, with a younger son, MALGER, of whose descendants we are about to treat,

Sir William le Vavasor, who s. his father at Haselwood, which he had license to castellate from King Edward I. in whose reign he was employed in the Gascoigne and Scotch wars; and was so esteemed, that he had summons to parliament among the barons, from 28th Edward I. to 6th of Edward II. He gave to the archbishop and chapter of York, from the abovementioned quarry in Theves-dale, the stone of which the noble edifice, the Minster, was erected. He also made and founded St. Leonard's Chapel, in his castle at Haselwood, which, on the foregoing account, was made extra-parochial by the archbishop: the king's charter for the chapel is dated 29th April, 1286, Edward I.: the confirmation is dated 5th June, 1452, being the 31st of Henry VI. Sir Thomas Vavasour, the lineal descendant of this baron, so distinguished himself, with others of the nobility, by raising forces and equipping vessels to defend Queen Elizabeth against the Spanish armada, that the queen, in reward of this zeal, and out of particular regard for one of her maids of honor, who was a Vavasour, and acknowledged by her majesty as her kinswoman, would never suffer the chapel at Haselwood to be molested, where the Roman catholic rites still continue to be celebrated. Lord Vavasour m. Nichola, daughter of Sir Stephen Wallis, knt. of Newton, by whom he had issue three sons,

The estates at Haselwood, &c. devolved by will upon his consin, the Hon. Edward Marmaduke Stourton, (second son of Charles-Philip, sixteenth Lord Stourton, by Mary, daughter and co-heiress of Marmaduke, fifth and last Lord Langdale), who, changing his name to Vavasour, and being created a baronet, is the present Sir Edward-Marmaduke Vava-

STRICKLAND, OF SIZERGH.

STRICKLAND, THOMAS, esq. of Sizergh, in the county of Westmorland, b. 15th March, 1790; m. in November, 1824, Mademoiselle Ida de Finguerlin Bisahengen, youngest daughter of the Baron Finguerlin Bisahengen, and has a son and heir, WALTER, b. at Paris, 5th September, 1825.

Mr. Strickland inherited the estates upon the demise of his father.

Lineage.

We shall begin the detail of this ancient family with an extract from Nicholson and Burn's History of the Antiquities of Westmorland and Cumberland.

“In Helsington there hath been a family at Sizergh Hall, much more ancient than any of the names of Bindlow or Bellingham, as lords of the manor. Which family came from Strickland, (or rather Stirkland,) which was the pasture ground of the young cattle (called stirks or steers) in the parish of Morland, in this county, in which part they had considerable possessions, as well as at Sizergh and other adjacent places, generally holden under the barons of Kendal. It is somewhat extraordinary, that amongst the pedigrees of almost all the other ancient families in this county we have met with no satisfactory account of this family; but the indulgence of the late worthy owner of Sizzergh Hall, Charles Strickland, esq. we have been enabled to make out a regular and authentic deduction of this family from the clearest and most undeniable evidence, viz. the family writings.”

The first of the name of Strickland met with is in the reign of King JOHN, when Gilbert Fitz Reinfred having been compelled, on account of his involvement with the rebellious barons, to give hostages for his future conduct, which hostages were the sons, daughters, and heirs of the principal mense lords holding under the barons of Kendal, amongst whom was the son and heir of SIR WALTER DE STIRKLAND. In the time of Hugh, bishop of Carlisle, who came to the see towards the beginning of the reign of King HENRY III., this Sir Walter had license to keep a domestic chaplain in his family, within the parish of Morland, so as it should be of no prejudice to the mother church. Sir Walter Stirkland granted to the church of St. Mary's, York, and to the prior and monks of Wederhal (which was a cell of the said abbey) four acres of land, in the territory of Stirkland moultier free.

The son of this Sir Walter was

ADAM DE STIRKLAND, whose son,

SIR ROBERT DE STIRKLAND, granted by deed, dated at his manor of Great Stirkland, on the eve of St. John the Baptist, 23rd HENRY III. to William his son, and Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Ralph Deincourt, knt. on their marriage, his whole manor of Great Strickland. This Sir Ralph Deincourt had an only son, Ralph, at whose decease, without issue, the inheritance devolved upon the above Elizabeth Strickland. Sir Robert was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM DE STRICKLAND, who, in the 4th EDWARD I. was under-sheriff of the county of Westmorland. He confirmed in the 20th EDWARD I. the grant made by his great grandfather, to the abbot of St. Mary's, York, and the monks of Wedeshal, and was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR WALTER DE STRICKLAND, who in the 28th EDWARD I. was with the king at the siege of Carlaverok, and in the 1st and 6th of EDWARD II. was knight of the shire for Westmorland. In the 15th of the same reign, he was appointed sheriff of the county of Westmorland. In two years afterwards he was again knight of the same shire. In the 9th of EDWARD III. Sir Walter obtained a grant to inclose his wood and demesne lands at Sizergh, and to make a park there, and to hold the same so inclosed to him and his heirs for ever.

This Sir Walter, on the marriage of his son, Thomas, with Cecilia, daughter of Robert de Wells, settled the manor of Hackthorp and his lands in Overwinder, &c. on the issue of that marriage, with remainder to John and Ralph, his other two sons. He appears to have had issue,

THOMAS, his successor.

John, who was knight of the shire for Westmorland 1st EDWARD III., and to whom Sir Walter granted 7th of the same reign, all his lands of Whenfell, with remainder to his son Thomas.

Ralph.

In the 17th EDWARD III. Sir Walter again represented the county in parliament, and was s. upon his demise by his eldest son,

SIR THOMAS STRICKLAND, who in the 35th of EDWARD III. obtained a patent empowering him to impark his woods at Helsington, Levesnes, and Hackthorp, containing three hundred acres, for his good services done in France. In the same year, Katharine de Ross, daughter of Sir Thomas Strickland, and widow of John de Ross, of Kendal Castle, assigns over to her father (Sir Thomas) the ward and marriage of her daughter, Elizabeth de Ross, who was afterwards married, in the 8th RICHARD II., to Sir William del Parr.

In the 36th EDWARD III. there is an indenture of covenant between Sir Thomas Strickland and Ranulph de Daere, lord of Gillesland, concerning the marriage of Walter, his son and heir, with Margaret de Latham, niece of Ranulph. In four years after, Sir Thomas made a settlement of lands, at Siggeswick and Levens, upon his younger sons, John, Peter, and Thomas, for life, with remainder to his own right heirs. Sir Thomas had a fifth son, William, who was consecrated bishop of Carlisle, 24th August, 1400, and who d. at Rome in 1419.

Sir Thomas d. in 1377, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR WALTER DE STRICKLAND. This gentleman had no issue by his first wife, Margaret de Latham. He espoused, secondly, Isabella, daughter of John de Olney, which John, in the 5th of RICHARD II., settled upon the issue of that marriage a tenement in London, known by the name of Great Place, situate in the parish of St. Mary-at-Hill. In the 14th of RICHARD II. Sir Walter was escheator for the king on the inquisition post mortem of Thomas de Ross, and, in four years after, was a knight of the shire for Westmorland. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR THOMAS DE STRICKLAND, who in the 5th of HENRY V. conveyed his whole estate to trustees, that if he should die in his voyage to serve the king, they should enfeoff Mabel his wife therein, during her widowhood; and if she should die before his son Walter should come of age, then they were to receive the profits during his nonage, delivering the same to William de Tunstale and John de Weffington. In the 5th of HENRY VI. Sir Thomas entered into articles of agreement with Nicholas de Crofte, esq. wherein both parties become bound under the penalty of £400. for the solemnization of a marriage between Walter Strickland, Sir Thomas's son and heir, with Douce, daughter of the said Nicholas, when he the said Nicholas should attain his fourteenth year.

In the 7th Henry VI. Sir Thomas represented the county of Westmorland in parliament.

In the 9th of the same reign Sir Thomas went to London, and joined the solemn cavalcade that was to attend the young king to Paris, in order to his coronation.

In the 10th Henry VI. Pope EUGENIUS IV. granted to Sir Thomas, and Mabel, his wife, license for a domestic chapel and portable altar, which Bull is yet extant, with the seal of lead very fair, about the breadth and somewhat more than double the thickness of half-a-crown, with a cross on one side, and underneath EUGENIVS PPIII. On the reverse, two faces of venerable old men, and above, the letters SPASPE. Sir Thomas was s. by his son,

WALTER STRICKLAND, esq. In the 15th Henry VI. this gentleman had a grant of the office of keeper of the park of Calgarth. In the next year the king appointed him receiver general of all his rents in and about Kendal, with a fee of £10 per annum, and 2s. per day when upon duty. And afterwards, in lieu of these, the king granted to him the pannager and herbage of the said park, the fishing of Windermere, and all his lands and tenements in the hamlets of Appletwhaite and Undermelbeck, for term of life, he paying to the king five marks yearly.

In the 18th of Henry VI. this Walter released to the king the demand of one thousand marks, due to the said Walter, from the crown, for taking of Henry Talbot, a most notorious traitor of our Lord HENRY V. late King of England, by virtue of the proclamation of the said late king; in consideration of the king's granting to him the office of master of the king's dogs called Heirers.

Walter Strickland appears to have been a zealous Lancastrian, and of the forces he was enabled to raise, with their proper habiliments, we have a muster roll* yet extant, which seems to have been made out chiefly in respect of the border service.

— SUMNER, esq. of Windsor, was father of WILLIAM-BRIGHTWELL SUMNER, esq. who, in 1768, purchased the estate of Hatchlands. This gentleman went out early to India, whence he returned after twenty-three years spent in the Company's service, intending to settle in his native country; but the affairs of India being in a critical situation, and requiring the superintendence and exertions of its most active and intelligent servants, he was prevailed upon to go back in the year 1763, as first member of the council under Lord Clive, with an appointment to succeed to the governorship-general in case of his lordship's death or return to England. The decline, however, of his health, necessitated his own return before either of those events took place. He espoused, while in India, Catharine, daughter of JOHN HOLME, esq. of Holme Hill, in the county of Cumberland, and had by her (who d. in 1771, and to whom a white marble tablet is erected in the church of East Clandon), a son and successor,

FAMILY OF PORTMAN.

The PORTMANS appear to have been of distinction in the county of Somerset, in the reign of EDWARD I. at which period flourished

THOMAS PORTMAN, whose grandfather had borne the arms still used by the family. The lineal descendant of this Thomas,

WILLIAM PORTMAN, settled at Taunton, temp. HENRY IV. and was a munificent benefactor to the priory of that place, where he was interred. His son and successor,

WALTER PORTMAN, espoused Christian, daughter and heiress of William Orchard, of Orchard, and was s. by his son,

JOHN PORTMAN, of the Middle Temple, who d. in 1521, and was s. by his son, PLUMER-WARD, OF GILSTON.

WARD-PLUMER, ROBERT, esq. of Gilston Park, in the county of Herts, b. 19th March, 1765, m. first, 2nd April, 1796, Catherine-Julia, daughter of C. J. Maling, esq. of Hilton, Durham, (and sister of Admiral Maling, and of the Countess Dowager of Mulgrave) by whom he has issue, HENRY-GEORGE, late minister plenipotentiary for acknowledging the Mexican Republic, m. Emily, second daughter of Sir John Swinburne,* bart. of Capheaton, and has (with four daughters) two sons, viz.

1. Dudley.
2. Swinburne.

Anne.

Mr. Ward espoused secondly, 16th July, 1828, Jane, relict of William Plumer, esq. of Gilston Park, and daughter of the Hon. and Rev. George Hamilton, son of James, seventh Earl of Abercorn (by his countess, Anne, daughter of Colonel John Plumer, M.P. of Herts, 1680.) In consequence of this alliance and his marriage settlement, Mr. Ward assumed by sign manual, the additional surname and arms of PLUMER. He was educated at Christ Church, Oxford; called to the bar, and appointed in 1805, one of the Welsh judges, but retired from the profession to become under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. He was afterwards, from 1807 to 1811, a Lord of the Admiralty; Clerk of the Ordnance from 1811 to 1823; and finally Auditor of the Civil List, until the abolition of that office in 1831.

Mr. Plumer-Ward is now (1832) High Sheriff for the county of Herts. He is distinguished in the literary world as the author of the History of the Law of Nations, and of TREMAINE, DE VERE, &c. &c.

* The eminent house of SWINBURNE is amongst the most ancient in the kingdom deriving from the flower of the nobility of Europe, and bearing no less than eighty-six quarterings in its shield. It enumerates as lineal progenitors, the early kings of France, many emperors, dukes of Normandy, the Plantagenets, kings of England, the Percies, (including Horspur) the Nevilles, all the Greys, the Willoughbys D'Eresby, the Warrens, Howards, Cliffords, Vescis, Mortimers, Fitzhughs, Fitzalans, Fitzwalters, Ratcliffs; the Bohuns, Vauxes, Dacres of the North, Widvilles, De Ross, De la Poles, Mowbrays, Beauchamps, &c. &c. Of the twenty-five barons who wrenched MAGNA CHARTA from JOHN, it is a fact worthy of observation, that eighteen were direct ancestors of the Swinburnes.

Lineage.

This branch of the family of WARD has long borne the same ARMS as the noble house of WARD, Viscounts Bangor, as SETH WARD, Bishop of Salisbury, in the time of CHARLES II., as Chief-baron SIR EDWARD WARD, as the WARDS of Pomfret, and as JOHN WARD of Squirries, Kent; but nothing positive has, as yet, been ascertained regarding its foundation, prior to the year 1704, owing to the fact of

JOHN WARD, esq. having died in the garrison of Gibraltar, where he had previously served at the taking of that celebrated fortress, under Admiral Rook and the Prince of Hesse. He left an only son, an infant, under guardianship,

JOHN WARD, esq. born in the garrison, and who resided almost all his life in Spain. He was a merchant there, and only settled in England in 1782, having previously espoused a Spanish lady, by whom he had issue,

1. GEORGE, of Northwood Park, in the Isle of Wight, a merchant of great eminence in the city of London, who m. Miss Mary Woolfell, and had the following children, viz.

FAMILY OF PLUMER.

The PLUMERS came from Old Windsor, about the year 1660, upon acquiring Gilston and Blakesware in Hertfordshire. The Stanleys rank amongst the most ancient and influential families in the kingdom. They were of consequence, says Camden, half a century before the conquest, and they have invariably held an eminent place in history. The branch, of which we are more immediately about to treat, has been located in the north for several centuries, and the most ancient of their estates in Cumberland have descended through an unbroken succession of father and son over a period of not less than five hundred years, to the present proprietor.

From

HENRY STANLEIGH DE STONELEY, who lived forty years before the conquest, lineally descended

SIR WILLIAM DE STANLEY, who, espousing Joan, eldest daughter and co-heir of Sir Philip Baumville, Lord of Stourton, became possessed of the manor and bailywick of Wyrall Forest, and thereupon assumed the armorial bearings since used by his descendants, viz. three stags' heads on a bend. By the heiress of Stourton he had, with other issue, a son and successor,

JOHN STANLEIGH, Lord of Stanley and Stourton, who m. Mabel, daughter of Sir James Hawsket, knt. and had issue,

WILLIAM (Sir), Lord of Stanley and Stourton, who had three sons,

1. WILLIAM, who m. Margaret, daughter and heiress of William de Hooton, Lord of Hooton, in Cheshire, and from this alliance lineally descends the present

SIR THOMAS STANLEY-MASSEY-STANLEY, bart. of Hooton, in the county of Chester.

2. JOHN (Sir), from whom derives EDWARD SMITH - STANLEY, EARL OF DERBY (see Burke's Peerage and Baronetage).

3. Henry.

JOHN, of whom presently.

The second son,

JOHN STANLEIGH, purchased lands at Greswithen, in the county of Cumberland, and represented the city of Carlisle in parliament, 20th Edward III. His son and heir,

JOHN STANLEIGH, OF GRESWITHEN, living temp. EDWARD III. bought lands in Embleton and Brackenthaite, in the county of Cumberland, in 1335, and was s. at his decease by his son, NICHOLAS STANLEIGH, of Greswithen, who marrying Constance, daughter and heiress of Thomas de Awsthwaite, Lord of Awsthwaite, acquired that manor (now denominated Dalegarth), as appears by deed dated anno 1345. The lordship of Awstwhaite was granted by Arthur Boyvill, in 1102, to Adam de Awstwhaite, in whose family it continued for 225 years, until the heiress married with the Stanleys. In 1388, Nicholas Stanleigh obtained by purchase, the manor and demesne of Ponsonby. He was s. by his son, THOMAS STANLEIGH, Lord of Awstwhaite, (in the records, called Stanlaw), living in the reign of HENRY VI. who represented the city of Carlisle in parliament.

NICHOLAS STANLEIGH, esq. Lord of Awstwhaite, his son and heir, was s. by his son,

THOMAS STANLEY, esq. of Dalegarth, who, espousing Ann, daughter of Sir Richard Hudleston, knt. acquired lands called Hyton, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM STANLEY, esq. of Awstwhaite and Dalegarth, living 17th HENRY VII. who m. Alice, daughter of Sir Richard Ducket, knt. and had a son,

JOHN STANLEY, esq. of Dalegarth, m. Margaret, daughter of Thomas Senhouse, esq. and was s. by his son,

EDWARD STANLEY, esq. of Dalegarth, who m. Ann, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Briggs, esq. of Cawmire, in the county of Westmoreland, and had a son,

JOHN STANLEY, esq. of Dalegarth, his successor. This gentleman, an active and zealous royalist, was heavily fined by parliament;

but the penalty was subsequently mitigated.* He obtained a grant from the crown, of the fair and weekly market of Raveglass, and likewise purchased the manor of Birker. Mr. Stanley espoused, first, Mary, daughter of Thomas Stanley, esq. of Lee, in the county of Sussex; and secondly, Dorothy, daughter of Henry Featherstonhaugh, of Featherstonhaugh, in the county of Northumberland. He was s. at his decease by his son,

Mr. Isherwood, who is a bachelor of arts of Trinity College, Cambridge, succeeded his brother on the 26th of January, 1801, and served the office of sheriff for Cheshire, in 1815.

Lineage.

The township of MARPLE, or as it was anciently written MERPULL, was granted by deed without a date, by Randle, Earl of Chester, to Robert, son of Robert de Stokeport, and conveyed by the said Robert to his sister Margery, and her husband, WILLIAM VERNON, chief justice of Chester. It remained in the Vernon family until the decease of Sir George Vernon, called the King of the Peak, who left two daughters; one, Dorothy, m. to Sir John Manners, and the other, MARGARET, m. to Thomas Stanley, of Winwick. In the partition of the lands of Sir George, Marple and Wybreslegh, with other estates, devolved upon his daughter, Margaret Stanley, and from the Stanleys Marple came by purchase to the Bradshawes.

HENRY BRADSHAWE, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Eyre, and had, with an elder son,

This remarkable person was baptised at Stockport 10th December, 1602. He m. Mary, daughter of Thomas Marbury, esq. of Marbury, in the county of Chester, and d. without legitimate issue, in 1659.

m. first, Mary, daughter of Bernard Wells, of Hope, in Derbyshire, by whom he acquired Wyberslegh Hall, and had issue,

HENRY, his successor.

Anne, of Peel, in Lancashire, d. in 1692.

He espoused, secondly, Anne, daughter of George Bowden, esq. of Bowden, in the county of Chester, and had several other children. The name of this Henry Bradshawe is the first to the Cheshire petition, addressed to the two houses of parliament, 6th July, 1646, praying for the establishment of the presbyterian religion. He acted as a magistrate under the parliamentary government, and had a commission in the army, being major in Colonel Dukenfield's regiment, under the appointment of Lord Fairfax, and he had also a lieutenant-colonel's commission in Colonel Ashton's regiment of foot. At a later period he was nominated to the command of the militia of Macclesfield Hundred, and was at its head at the battle of Worcester, where he was wounded. In 1652, Colonel Bradshawe was one of the court martial which sat on the trial of the Earl of Derby and other royalists at Chester. In 1660, the survivors of the persons who constituted that court, including Bradshawe, were summoned to appear before the lords' committee, appointed to consider of the privileges of the peerage of this kingdom, to whom the petition of the Countess of Derby had been referred. On this occasion it appears that Colonel Henry Bradshawe was confined in the house of Thomas Lee, a messenger of the black rod, from the 17th July to the 14th August, 1660, on which day the said Colonel Bradshawe, Henry Bradshawe, of Gray's-inn, and Cromwell Meverell, of Tideswell, in Derbyshire, were bound in £500 to Alexander Thane, gentleman usher of the black rod, for the said colonel's appearance. There were at Marple several forms for an apology or answer of Colonel Bradshawe to the charge against him, the substance of all which amounted to this:—"that being an officer under General Cromwell, he was by him commanded to be present at a court martial at Chester, for the trial of the Earl of Derby, and that not knowing what danger he might incur if he should absent himself, was sometimes, though not constantly, present at the managing the said trial, but never subscribed any warrant for the earl's execution: that he knew not by what authority his lordship was removed from Chester, but on the contrary laboured as much as he could to save the earl's life, and at the instance of the succeeding Earl of Derby, he presented a petition to Colonel Macworth, president of the court, for sparing the earl's life, and did earnestly press it, and should not have been present at the last court, but that he had engaged himself to deliver that petition; that being sent for by the late earl he did immediately attend him, and at his lordship's desire wrote to his brother, John Bradshawe, then president of the council of state, to use his utmost endeavours for sparing the earl's life; that he never had any thing which belonged to the said earl, his countess, or any of theirs: that he was a poor man, indebted, with a small estate, and a poor wife and eleven children, all unprovided, to maintain. Wherefore, intending for the future so to demean himself as becomes an obedient subject, he humbly craved the benefit of his majesty's most gracious pardon, and their lordship's favourable construction of the premises, and that his errors might be imputed to his much lamented ignorance and mistake." Henry Bradshawe obtained his release, as appears by a receipt for £40, dated 14th August, 1660, and signed Alexander Thane, being in full of fees due to him as usher of the black rod, from Colonel Henrie Bradshawe during his confinement; and by another signed Cromwell Meverell, dated 23rd February, 1660, for the colonel's pardon suing out, and thirty shillings paid to the master of the black rod as a gratuity on the delivery in of his bail book. On the 15th March following the said Henry Bradshawe was buried at Stockport: and was s. by his son,

HENRY BRADSHAWE, esq. of Marple and Wyberslegh, who purchased Bradshawe Hall, in the county of Lancaster, in 1693. He m. Magdalen, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Barcroft, esq. of Barcroft, in the same shire, and had issue,

ROGER ROUS, of Edmerstone, who espoused Julian, daughter of William Hill, of Penguite and Fleet, in Cornwall, and eventually co-heiress of her brother, John Hill, and had issue,

RICHARD, his successor.

John, who inherited from his mother Halton, and other lands in Cornwall, but dying s. p. bequeathed those estates to his nephew, Sir Anthony Rous, of Edmerstone.

The elder son,

RICHARD ROUS, of Edmerstone, m. Eleanor, daughter of Sir Edmund Mervyn, of Fonthill, Wilts, one of the judges of the common pleas, and had, with two other sons, SIR ANTHONY ROUS, of Edmerstone, his successor, who inherited his father's estates in Devonshire, as well as Halton, and the other landed possessions of his uncle, John Rous. Sir Anthony was a man of great parts and virtues. He was twice sheriff of Cornwall, in the 19th and 42nd of Queen Elizabeth, was one of the burgesses returned to serve in parliament for East Looe in the 27th year of that reign; and in the 1st of King James I. was one of the knights of the shire for Cornwall. He was also provost of Eton college. He d. in the lifetime of the PROTECTOR, and was honoured with public obsequies.*

5. Arthur.

* The following account of his funeral and character is taken from the Mercurius Politicus, a newspaper of the day:—"Monday, the 24th, being the day appointed for the interment of the corpse of the Right Hon. Francis, Lord Rouse, it was performed in this manner: the lords of his Highness's privy council met at his house at Acton, as also divers of the commissioners of the admiralty, and of the officers of the army, with many other persons of honour and quality. His Highness was also pleased to send several of his gentlemen in coaches with six horses to be present at the solemnity; three heralds likewise, or officers at arms, gave their attendance. The corpse was placed in a carriage, covered with a pall of black velvet, adorned with escocheons, and drawn with six horses in mourning furniture. The lords of the council followed it, and the rest, in their order towards Eaton college, by Windsor, where the deceased lord, having been provost, desired he might be interred. A sermon was preached after the burial by Mr. Oxenbridge, one of the fellows, and so the ceremony ended. He needs no monument besides his own printed works to convey his name to posterity; the other works of his life may be termed works of charity, wherein he was most exemplary, as the poor in many parts now with tears will tell you. He chose to lay his bones in his college, because the society had his heart, being men of the same Christian temper with himself; and in his testament he prayed that God would please to continue it (as it is) a famous nursery of piety and learning. I shall add no more but this, that his death was an extraordinary loss to his Highness and good men in particular, and the whole nation in general." Other historians (Clarendon, Wood, &c.) give, however, a very different character of this personage.

6. Elizabeth, m. to John Northcote, esq. The eldest son,

THE RIGHT HON. WARDEN FLOOD, of Flood Hall, was chief justice of the court of King's Bench in Ireland. His lordship espoused Miss Whiteside, and dying in 1764, was s. by his son,

THE RIGHT HONORABLE

HENRY FLOOD, of Farmley, in the county of Kilkenny. This eminent person, so celebrated in the eventful history of his native country, was born in 1732, and educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and at Christ Church, Oxford. In the latter university under the care of Mr. Markham, afterwards archbishop of York. In 1759, Mr. Flood obtained a seat in the Irish House of Commons, but during that session took no part in its debates. In 1761, he was re-elected, and became almost immediately afterwards leader of the opposition. The repeal of POYNING'S LAW* first engaged his great powers, and he ultimately succeeded in having the obnoxious clauses of that statute abrogated. His next patriotic effort was the introduction of a bill for limiting the duration of parliaments, which had previously subsisted in Ireland, for the life of the king. This measure he advocated in vain in the administrations of the lords lieutenant, Northumberland and Hertford; but his perseverance and eloquence eventually triumphed, and the OCTENNIAL BILL passed into a law under the government of Lord Townshend. This was the first victory of importance achieved by the friends of freedom in Ireland:—within a very short period the glorious and bloodless revolution of 1782 followed. In 1775, Mr. Flood was sworn of the Privy Council in both kingdoms, and constituted Vice Treasurer of Ireland. In 1781, the Spirit of Liberty, invigorated from the opposite shores of the Atlantic, roused a feeling in Ireland which concession alone could assuage. England was embarrassed, enfeebled, almost prostrate. Ireland was armed, united, and resolved; Mr. Flood saw the crisis, and seized it,—emancipating himself from the trammels of office, he assailed the Minister in the House of Commons, with all the vehemence of his eloquence—all the weight of his patriotism—all the energy of his character—and demanded a restoration of his country's rights. The government cowering before its powerful assailant, and sensible of the instability of its position, relinquished, without procrastination, what could no longer be retained without peril. The patriots, BURGH and GRATTAN, flew across the house upon this memorable occasion, and embraced the orator, the former exclaiming, “this is the man whose integrity the highest office in the land could not warp.” In 1785, Mr. Flood was returned to the British House of Commons, and continued a member until the dissolution of that parliament. He died in December, 1795. The history of his country, should that history be ever written with impartiality, will do ample justice to the intrepidity, the disinterestedness, and patriotism of this eminent man, and when it records the illustrious characters which adorned the close of the eighteenth century, it will place upon its brightest page the immortal name of FLOOD.

Amongst his contemporaries HENRY FLOOD enjoyed the most splendid reputation. “Here,” said Mr. Curran, speaking of him in a celebrated debate, “all the wisdom of the state is collected, exploring your weakness and your strength, detecting every ambuscade, and pointing to the hidden battery that was brought to bear upon the shrine of freedom.” Upon his resignation of the treasurership, Mr. Montgomery “called the attention of the house to a right honorable gentleman (Mr. Flood), the best, the most noble, the most indefatigable, the most sincere, that had ever sacrificed private interest to the advantage of his country.” In the debate that ensued, Mr. Flood rose and spoke at considerable length, defending his political conduct, and concluding with the following characteristic sentiment; “My ambition has been when out of office not to be factious, and when in office not to be venal.”

We cannot close this notice of Flood, without alluding at least, to the personal dispute which occurred between him and his co-patriot, HENRY GRATTAN. The discussion of Poyning's law first caused a misunderstanding between these celebrated persons, and a subsequent debate upon the repeal of the 6th GEORGE I.* produced an altercation between them, unparalled within the walls of parliament, for vituperation, bitterness, and personality. In 1782, Mr. Grattan obtained a simple repeal of that declaratory act, a course which Mr. Flood maintained in two very powerful speeches was no security against England's preferring at any future period a similar pretension founded upon the PRINCIPLE of the measure. Acting upon this opinion he procured a law renouncing the claim for ever. The dispute to which we allude occurred in 1783, and Mr. Flood, in the course of the debate, entered into a long and interesting narrative of his whole political life.

The question of parliamentary reform, Mr. Flood advocated for the first time in the Irish House of Commons, in 1781, with his accustomed force and eloquence. In 1794, he addressed a British parliament upon the same important subject; and his speech upon that occasion was published in 1831, with his reply to Mr. Windham. They are admiral oratorical efforts, and at the time of delivery called forth the highest eulogy from Mr. Pitt.

Had HENRY FLOOD not been one of the most eminent statesmen and orators of the period in which he lived, his translations of Demosthenes, Æschines, and some of the Odes of Pindar, would have stamped him a man of genius, and insured him a place in the temple of fame. Mr. Flood's style of eloquence is described as of the very first order, replete with knowledge, ardent, vigorous, acute, and argumentative; and it is stated, that while he hurried away his auditory by the force of his great reasoning faculties, he delighted every person of taste and judgment, by a certain felicity of diction, which added infinite grace and beauty to his delivery. He sometimes prostrated his adversary by a single word, thus resembling the great Lord Chatham, whose attributes as an orator and statesman he held in the highest veneration.

HENRY FLOOD espoused, 13th April, in 1762, the Lady Frances-Maria Beresford, daughter of Marcus, first Earl of Tyrone, but died without issue. He devised his ex-

This gentleman, a lieutenant colonel in the army, received the honor of knighthood at Carlton Palace, 20th April, 1825, in consideration of his ancient and honorable descent. Sir Robert s. his father in 1794, in the estate of Cockairny, and in part of the barony of Inverkeithing, originally the property of the potent Earls of Dunbar. This estate was conveyed by Galiena, daughter of Waldeve, fourth Earl of Dunbar, who d. in 1182, to her husband Philip de Moubray, with whose descendants it has continued to the present period, with the exception of the short interval from 1320 to 1346, when the possession was suspended by forfeiture.

Sir Robert Moubray, when a captain in the 80th regiment of foot, embarked at Ceylon in 1801, under the orders of COLONEL WELLESLEY (now Duke of Wellington), to join the standard of Sir Ralph Abercrombie, in Egypt. He served ten years in India, and eight in the Mediterranean.

Lineage.

ROGER DE ALBINI espoused Amicia de Mowbray, sister of Robert de Mowbray, Earl of Northumberland, and had two sons,

1. WILLIAM, from whom derived the Earls of ARUNDEL, the male line of which eminent house expired in 1243, while the female line, now represented by the Duke of Norfolk, continued the family. (See Burke's Extinct Peerage).
2. NIGEL, of whom we are about to treat.

The second son,

NIGEL DE ALBINI, possessor of one hundred and twenty knight's fees in Normandy, and one hundred and forty in England, m. in 1118, Gundred de Gournay, only child of Gerard de Gournay, by Edith, daughter of William, Earl of Warren and Surrey, by Gundred, daughter of WILLIAM the Conqueror. Their eldest son,

ROGER, by special command of King HENRY I. assumed the surname of MOWBRAY, and the arms of that family. This Roger was one of the chief commanders at the memorable battle fought in 1138 with the Scots near Northallerton, known in history as the BATTLE OF THE STANDARD, and adhering to King Stephen, in his contest with the empress, was taken prisoner with that monarch, at the battle of Lincoln. In 1148 he accompanied Lewis, KING OF FRANCE, to the Holy Land, and there acquired great renown by vanquishing a stout and hardy Pagan in single combat. His grants to the church were munificent in the extreme; and his piety so fervent, that he again assumed the cross, and made a second journey to the Holy Land, where he was taken prisoner, but redeemed by the Knight Templars. He d. soon after in the East, and was interred at Sures. Some authorities say that he returned to England, and living fifteen years longer was buried in the Abbey of Riland. This potent personage wedded Alice, de Gant, and had two sons, NIGEL.

Robert.

NIGEL DE MOWBRAY, the elder son, assuming the Cross, set out for Palestine, but d. on the journey, leaving by his wife, Mabel, daughter of Edmond, Earl of Clare, four sons, viz.

1. WILLIAM, ancestor of the Mowbrays, Dukes of Norfolk; also of the Howards, Dukes of Norfolk, and the other branches of that puissant house.

2. Philip.*
3. Robert.*
4. Roger.

The second son,

PHILIP DE MOWBRAY, espoused Galiena, daughter of Waldeve, Earl of Dunbar, and with her acquired considerable property, particularly the Baronies of Barbogle, Dalmeny, and Inverkeithing. The first mention of this Philip in the records of Scotland occurs in a charter dated 1208. He was ambassador to England in 1215 and 1220, to treat of the marriage of King ALEXANDER II. with the Princess Joan. He had two sons. 1. Roger; and 2. Nigel.

ROGER DE MOWBRAY, the elder son, in a charter to the church of Soltray, confirmed to the Abbey of Jedburgh the donation of the church which Waldeve, the son of Cos-

* Regarding the seniority of these two sons, much discussion has arisen. Sir William Dugdale, in his Baronage (I. 124.) arranges the sons thus. 1. William. 2. Robert. 3. Philip. 4. Roger. And says, "Of which Robert I find that he took to wife a countess of Scotland, who had a fair inheritance there, from whom descended the Mowbrays of that kingdom." But in the margin Dugdale refers for his authority to the Monasticon II. 193, which is in these words, "Tunc filius Rogeri de Mowbray primogenitus fuit Nigellus de Mowbray, qui ei successit, qui habuit in matrem Aliciam de Gant. Hic Nigellus cepit in uxorem filiam Edmondi Comitiss de Clara, nomine Mabilam, et genuit ex eâ quatuor filios, scilicet; Wilhelmum de Mowbray, Robertum, Philippum et Rogerum. Ille vero porro Robertus frater ejusdem Nigelli, feoffatus fuit in Scotiâ nobiliter per quandam Baronissam, quam cepit in uxorem, cum totâ terrâ patris sui et post mortem uxoris ordinem sacerdotis intravit, et uultas in manus suas accepit ecclesias in Angliâ, in Normanniâ, et in Scotiâ." Here Robert, the son of Nigel, is the antecedent to ille; Robert, the brother of Nigel, not occurring previously in the Monasticon, where Dugdale just notices Robert, Philip, and Roger, as the younger sons of Nigel, without mentioning the marriage of Robert. Had Robert de Mowbray married a countess in her own right their descendants must have been Earls. The succession of the Earldoms of Scotland, at that early period, is clearly elucidated by Lord Hales in the Sutherland case. And none appears as connected with Robert de Mowbray, who occurs no where in the records of Scot-patrick, "my grandfather" (avus meus) made to that abbey.

GALFRID DE MOUBRAY, the next on record, one of the magnates Scotiæ, from 1287 to 1294, espoused the second daughter of Red John Cumyn, Justiciary of Scotland, sister of Black John Cumyn, who m. Marjory, sister of John Baliol, King of Scotland. They had issue.

1. William. } both d. s. p.
2. John. }

3. Roger, who, engaging in a conspiracy against King ROBERT in 1320, d. in prison before trial, when his great possessions of Barnbogle and Dalmeny, in the county of Linlithgow, Inverkeithing, in Fife; Cessford and Eckford, in Roxburghshire; Methven, in Perthshire; Kellie, in Forfarshire; Kirk Michael, in the county of Dumfries, the office of Standard Bearer of Scotland, and hostilages were forfeited to the crown.

4. PHILIP (SIR), of whom presently.
5. Galfrid.

The fourth son,

SIR PHILIP DE MOUBRAY, fell with King

land at the time in question. William de Mowbray, eldest son of Nigel, executed two charters, inserted in Dugdale's Monasticon II. 190, confirming to the Abbey of Newburgh all the donations made thereto by Roger de Mowbray his grandfather, and Nigel de Mowbray his father, three of the witnesses to which are, "Robert de Mowbray, my uncle, Philip de Mowbray, my brother, Robert de Mowbray, my brother." Here Philip takes precedence of his brother Robert, indicating that he was his elder brother, consequently second son of Nigel. Philip de Mowbray also makes at that period a conspicuous figure in the records of Scotland, where he married Galiena, daughter of Waldeve, the potent Earl of Dunbar, with whom he got great possessions in that kingdom. He must have been a person of high birth and consideration, from his thus obtaining in marriage a daughter of one of the most powerful of the Scottish nobility, and from his being employed in important negotiations with England; and no family of consequence of the name of Moubray existed in North Britain at that period, except that of Nigel de Mowbray. From these premises the legitimate conclusions are, that Philip de Moubray, and not Robert, was second son of Nigel, and that he was ancestor of the Moubrays of Scotland; it is also apparent that the Scottish Countess and Baroness of Dugdale were one and the same person, Galiena, daughter of Waldeve, Earl of Dunbar, spouse of Philip de Moubray.

EDWARD BRUCE at the battle of Dundalk, in 1318. He m. Eve, Lady of Redcastle, in Forfarshire, and had one son and a daughter, viz.

JOHN (SIR), of Redcastle, who was slain at Annan in 1332, on the part of Edward Baliol. His estates were forfeited, and granted to Sir William de Douglas, knt. the grant bearing, that John had succeeded to these estates by hereditary succession to Sir Philip de Moubray, his father,

And

PHILIPPA DE MOUBRAY, designed daughter and heiress of Sir Philip de Moubray in a regal charter 3rd August, 1364. This lady espoused Sir Bartholomew de Loen, a foreign knight, probably of the house of Heynberg, in Guelderland, related to the Dukes of Gueldres, who were connected in marriage with the kings of England and Scotland. Philippa and her husband had Barnbogle, Dalmeny, and Inverkeithing, restored to them by royal charter of 28th May, 1346; and they occur frequently in original instruments down to 1375.

Their only child,

DAVID, assumed, as a matter of course, the distinguished name of his maternal ancestors---MOUBRAY, his father being a foreigner, without property and connexion in Scotland. He was contracted in marriage to the Lady Janet Stewart, daughter of Robert, Earl of Fife and Monteith (afterwards Duke of Albany, and regent of Scotland, son of King ROBERT II.) in 1372, by indenture under which, the estates were provided to the issue of that marriage. In 1401, the lands of Barnbogle, Dalmeny, and Inverkeithing, were the property of

JOHN DE MOUBRAY, indicating that he was son and heir of that marriage. He was subsequently knighted, and a strong proof that he was grandson of the DUKE OF ALBANY, Regent of Scotland, occurs in his forcibly dispossessing Margaret, Lady of Cragy, of her lands of Luckald, in the barony of Dalmeny, "wickedly, contrary to God and all justice," as the record bears, and transmitting them to his son, as none but a near connexion of that unprincipled and powerful governor of the kingdom durst have ventured to act with such flagrant injustice. He was dead before 1st February, 1426, when bougle, in an instrument of appellation to Pope MARTIN V. of that date. The parliament of Scotland decided, 17th March, 1429--30, that the lands of Luckald should be restored to Margaret, Lady of Cragy, and that she should be replaced in the same as freely as she had been before she was despoiled of them by the deceased John de Moubray, knt. and which lands were unjustly detained from her by Philip de Moubray, who was amerced, and found liable to prosecution for expenses and damages. Philip de Moubray occurs in charters and other documents down to 1477.

PHILIP MOWBRAY, his son, had a charter of the barony of Dalmeny, on his father's resignation, 6th February, 1450--1, and occurs in an indenture 25th January, 1461--2. He wedded Isabel Stewart, and had a son,

SIR DAVID MOUBRAY, of Barnbougle, who was served heir of Philip, his father, 9th March, 1466--7, and last occurs in 1494. He was father of

1. JOHN, of Dalmeny, who predeceased his father, leaving a son,

SIR JOHN MOUBRAY, of Barnbougle, who d. in 1519, leaving an only daughter and heiress,

BARBARA MOUBRAY, who espoused Robert Bartoun, son of Sir Robert Bartoun, of Over-Bartoun, high treasurer of Scotland. In 1527, Robert Bartoun was ordained, by act of parliament, to change his name to MOUBRAY, because "the same has been an old and honourable house, and done our Sovereign Lords predecessors good service in their wars and otherwise." The eldest son of this marriage,

JOHN MOUBRAY, of Barnbougle, was father of

ROBERT MOUBRAY, of Barnbougle, whose son and successor,

SIR ROBERT MOUBRAY, of Barnbougle, m. the Lady Anne Erskine, daughter of the first Earl of Kellie, and was obliged through debts and other misfortunes, to dispose of the baronies of Barnbougle, Dalmeny, and Inverkeithing, to the first Earl of Haddington in 1615. He d. s. p. in 1675.

2. WILLIAM, of whom we are about to treat.

The second son of Sir David,

WILLIAM MOUBRAY, of Cockairny, had a charter of the lands of Cockairny, and part of the barony of Inverkeithing, from his nephew, Sir John Moubray, of Barnbougle, wherein he is designed "Sir John's beloved uncle on the father's side;" dated 24th September, 1511. This charter was produced to Nisbet, when compiling his system of heraldry, about 1720, by John Moubray of Cockairny, stated by Nisbet to be the undoubted heir of William Moubray, of Cockairny, to whom the charter was granted, in a direct and uninterrupted male line. As Sir Robert Moubray, now of Cockairny, is in like manner heir-male of the body of this John Moubray, of Cockairny, it follows that Sir Robert is heir of William Moubray, to whom Cockairny was granted in 1511, in a direct and uninterrupted male line.

JAMES MOUBRAY, of Cockairny, the next proprietor of that estate, on record, m. Isabel Cleghorn, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT MOUBRAY, of Cockairny, who m. by contract, in 1576, Margaret, daughter of John Finlasour, of Kelleith, and was father of

JAMES MOUBRAY, of Cockairny, who espoused, in 1600, Marie, daughter of David Leslye, of Otterstoun, in Fife, and was s. by his son,

JOHN MOUBRAY, of Cockairny, who m. in 1636, Elizabeth Logan, of the family of Logan, of Coustoun, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT MOUBRAY, of Cockairny, b. in 1639, who m. in 1666, Margaret, daughter of George Bruce, of Kinnesswood, a near connexion of the Earls of Elgin, Kincardine, and Aylesbury; and of Christian, Countess of Devonshire. Robert Moubray d. in 1681, leaving, with other issue, two sons,

- I. JOHN, his successor.
- II. ROBERT, father of

ROBERT MOUBRAY, of the Bush and Castlelaw, in the county of Edinburgh, whose eldest daughter and heiress, JEAN MOUBRAY, m. in 1748, Archibald Trotter, esq. second son of Alexander Trotter, esq. of Cattleshiel, in Berwickshire, by Jean, dau. of Sir Robert Stuart, of Allbank, bart. by Jean, dau. of Sir John Gilmour, of Craigmiller, knt. lord-president of the court of sessions. They had four sons, viz.

1. ROBERT TROTTER, of the Bush and Castlelaw, who d. leaving issue.
2. Alexander Trotter, of Dreghorn.
3. John Trotter, of Durham Park.
4. SIR COUTTS TROTTER, of Westville, in the county of Lincoln, created a baronet 4th September, 1821, who quarters his mother's arms with his paternal coat (see Burke's Peerage and Baronetage).

The elder son of Robert Moubray,

JOHN MOUBRAY, esq. of Cockairny, is mentioned in Nisbet's Heraldry as undoubted heir in a direct and uninterrupted male-line of William Moubray, of Cockairny, who had the charter of these lands from his nephew, Sir John Moubray, of Barnbogle, in 1511. He m. Margaret, daughter of the Rev. John Kinnaird, minister of East Calder, and granddaughter and heiress of Robert Wallwood, esq. of Tough and Whitfield, by whom he had, with other issue, a son,

ROBERT, his successor.

John Moubray dying in 1732, was buried at Dalgely church (where a monument is erected to his memory), and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT MOUBRAY, esq. of Cockairny, b. 1st January, 1700, who m. in 1726, his cousin Mary, only child of James Dudgeon, esq. of Inverkeithing, and was s. at his decease, in 1779, by his eldest surviving son, ROBERT MOUBRAY, esq. of Cockairny, who m. in 1773, Arabella, daughter of Thomas Hussey, esq. of Wrexham, in the county of Denbigh (sister of Lady Bickerton and of Lieutenant-general Vere Warner Hussey, of Wood Walton, in Huntingdonshire), by whom he had two sons and one daughter, viz.

ROBERT (Sir), present proprietor of Cockairny.

RICHARD-HUSSEY, a rear admiral of the red, companion of the order of the Bath, &c. who assumed by sign manual, in 1832, upon succeeding to the estate of Wood Walton, the surname and arms of HUSSEY (see that family).

Eleanor-Maria-Anna, m. in 1801, James Stuart, esq. of Dunearn, Fifeshire.

Robert Moubray, of Cockairny, d. in 1794, and was s. by his elder son, Sir ROBERT MOUBRAY, knt. now representative of this ancient family.

In the civil commotions of the subsequent reign, they took a prominent part. The elder (colonel Francis), in his advanced age, retired to his native place, and after having added somewhat to the buildings, died there. The younger (colonel Robert) was shot in the wars in Ireland.

ANTHONY, of Somersham Place, was a member of parliament, and commissioner of the navy in the reign of Queen ANNE. This gentleman, a person of celebrity amongst the wits and politicians of his day, a period when St. Stephens displayed no ordinary degree of eloquence, obtained from Lord Bolinbroke the epithet of Silver Tongued Hammond. He espoused Jane, daughter of Sir Walter Clarges, bart. and had issue,

1. THOMAS, of Somersham, who

2. JAMES, the elegiac POET, M.P. for Truro. This eminent person received his education at Westminster school, where he formed an intimacy with the Lords Cobham, Chesterfield, Lyttelton, and several others, who subsequently distinguished themselves in the literary world. His "Love elegies" were published shortly after his death, with a preface by Lord Chesterfield. They are chiefly imitations from Tibullus; are obviously the fruits of a highly cultivated mind, and have been much read and admired notwithstanding the severe and illiberal criticisms of Dr. Johnson.

When Charles fled into the west in disguise, after the battle of Worcester, Mr.

LUTTRELL, OF DUNSTER CASTLE.

LUTTRELL, FOWNES JOHN, esq. of Dunster Castle, in the county of Somerset, and Nethway House, Devonshire, member of parliament for Minehead, b. 26th August, 1787, s. to the estates at the decease of his father, in 1816.

Lineage.

The family of LUTTRELL, or LOTERELL, was established in England by one of the chiefs in the Norman Conquest, whose name is to be found in the Roll of Battel Abbey.

In the reigns of HENRY I. and King Stephen, Sir John Luttrell held, in capite, the manor of Hoton Pagnel, in Yorkshire, which vested in his male descendants until the time of HENRY V. when it devolved upon an heiress, who espoused John Scott, feudal lord of Calverley, and steward of the household to the Empress MAUD.

The estates of Sir Geoffry Luttrell, knt. in the counties of Derby, Leicester, Nottingham, and York, were confiscated in the reign of RICHARD I. for his adhesion to John, Earl of Morton, but they were restored upon the accession of that prince to the throne, as King JOHN. Sir Geoffry subsequently accompanied the king into Ireland, and obtained from the crown a grant of Luttrellstown, in that kingdom. The descendants of Sir Geoffry were afterwards feudal barons of Irlham, and one of those barons, ROBERT DE LUTTRELL, had summons to parliament on the 24th June, and 2nd November, 1295. (See Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage.)

JOHN LUTTRELL (youngest son of Andrew

Luttrell, of East Quantockshead, living temp. EDWARD I.) acquired by grant from the crown, in the 11th Edward III., certain lands and rents in Chilton, in the county of Devon, which shire he represented in parliament in the 37th of the same monarch. He m. two wives, by the first, Rose, he seems to have had no issue; by the second, Joan, he had a son, his successor.

SIR ANDREW LUTTRELL, of Chilton, who had married in the lifetime of his father, Lady Elizabeth Courtenay, second daughter of Hugh, EARL OF DEVON, and widow of Sir John Vere, knt. son of Aubrey de Vere, Earl of Oxford, an alliance which connected the Luttrells with the ROYAL HOUSE OF PLANTAGENET. The son of this marriage,

SIR HUGH LUTTRELL, resided at Dunster Castle, which his mother, Lady Elizabeth, had purchased from the family of Mohun; he was member of parliament for Somersetshire in the reign of RICHARD II. and successively for that county and Devon. In the 8th HENRY IV. Sir Hugh gained a suit at law against Edward Plantagenet, Duke of York, and the other heirs of John Lord Mohun, of Dunster,* by which he obtained possession of the honours and Castle of Dunster, lordship of Carhampton, &c. in the county of Somerset. He was afterwards ranger of Blackmore Forest, in Dorsetshire, a privy-councillor to King HENRY V., and one of the commanders under that martial monarch, at the reduction of Harfleur, in Normandy, anno 1415, and at the memorable

SIR JOHN LUTTRELL, who had been made a Knight of the Bath at the coronation of HENRY IV., anno 1399.† This gallant person espoused, first, Joan, daughter of Sir John Mallet, of Enmore, but had no issue. He m. secondly, Margaret, daughter of John, Lord Audley. He died the year after his father, possessed of the castle, church, and manor of Dunster, lordship of Carhampton, town of Minehead, with several manors in the west, held of the crown, as one entire barony of forty-nine knights' fees. He was likewise seized of the manor of Quantoch, with four other knights' fees in Somersetshire, and was s. by his son,

SIR JAMES LUTTRELL, who was made a KNIGHT-BANNERET at the battle of Wakefield, in 1463, and fell fighting under the standard of Lancaster, in 1471. He was subsequently attainted by King EDWARD IV. and his castle of Dunster, lordship of Carhampton, &c. granted to Sir Edward Herbert, knt. first Earl of Pembroke. He left by his wife, Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Sir William Courtenay, eldest brother of Sir Edward Courtenay, of Haccombe, a son and successor,

SIR HUGH LUTTRELL, who is mentioned by Hollingshed and other historians amongst the persons of note in the west, who joined the EARL OF RICHMOND at his landing, and were afterwards instrumental in quelling the Devonshire insurrection. When the successful issue of BOSWORTH placed the crown upon RICHMOND'S head, as HENRY VII., the estates of Sir Hugh Luttrell were immediately restored, and he was subsequently created a Knight of the Bath, at the coronation of the queen, in 1487. He espoused, first, Margaret, daughter of Robert Hill, and half-sister (maternally) of Lord Daubency,

* From a younger son of this Sir Hugh and Catherine Beaumont, ROBERT LUTTRELL, who died in the 15th HENRY VI. seized of the castle and lands of Luttrellstown, in the county of Dublin, descended the well known Irish family of Luttrell, of which were the extinct EARLS OF CARHAMPTON.

† THE ORDER OF THE BATH was then first instituted, and consisted of forty-six knights, amongst whom were three of the king's sons.

K.G., and secondly, Walthera, widow of Thomas Drelne. He was s. in 2nd of HENRY VIII. by his son by his first wife,

SIR JOHN LUTTRELL, who in the 36th HENRY VIII. was with the Earl of Hertford in Scotland, and present at the taking of Edinburgh and Leith, when he received the honor of knighthood. Two years afterwards he was under the same nobleman at Boulogne, and had the command of a hundred men. In the reign of EDWARD VI. he was likewise distinguished in arms, and was made a Knight-Banneret, for his conduct at the taking of Yester, in the first year of that monarch. He m. Mary, daughter of Sir John Griffith, K.B. by whom (who m. after his decease James Godolphin, of Cornwall) he had three daughters, heiresses to one third part of his estates, the other two thirds devolving, by two entails, and by the will of Sir John himself, upon his next brother,

THOMAS LUTTRELL, esq. M.P. for Minehead. This gentleman, in order to preserve the estates which he thus inherited clear of his nieces portions and of his brother's debts, sold all the lauds in Devon and Suffolk, but those were amply replaced by the estates acquired on his marriage with Margaret, only daughter and heiress of Christopher Hadley, esq. of Withycombe, and great granddaughter of Philippa, daughter of Sir Humphrey Audley, by Elizabeth, widow of Sir James Luttrell. In consequence of this consanguinity it was necessary to procure a special bull, in the 5th of Philip and Mary, from Pope PAUL V. to sanction the marriage. Mr. Luttrell d. in 1570, Margaret, his wife surviving, who was afterwards m. to John Strode, of Parnham, esq. and again to Richard Hill, esq. He was s. by his eldest son,

This gentleman served in all the wars in Flanders, throughout the reign of King WILLIAM, and in Queen ANNE's time was colonel of the royal regiment of marines. He was likewise, during the greater part of those reigns, member of parliament for the borough of Minehead. He espoused Doro-

* This eminent person was born in London, 3rd May, 1750. In his seventh year he was placed at Eton, and became conspicuous amongst his companions for abilities and courage. In 1766, he went to the University of Glasgow, and the next year he entered Oxford as a gentleman commoner. At this period of his life, he felt so little interest in public affairs, that he was said never to know who was prime minister. His debüt, as a public speaker, was at a political meeting in Norwich, and he there opposed, with great energy, the subscription then in progress to sustain the American war. In 1782, he obtained a seat in parliament, as representative for Norwich, and here, as at Eton, he was soon distinguished by his talents and intrepidity. In 1783, he was appointed chief secretary to the lord-lieutenant of Ireland. Upon the disunion amongst the whigs, in 1793, Windham attached himself to Burke, and the next year he was constituted secretary-at-war, with the unusual distinction of a seat in the cabinet. From this time he held office until the retirement of Mr. Pitt, in 1801, at whose decease in 1806, he resumed his station of secretary-at-war, joined to that of colonial secretary, under the Grenville administration. With the whigs he again retired, and ever afterwards sate upon the opposition bench. His death, which took place in 1810, arose from the following circumstance. While passing, in the preceding year, by the end of Conduit-street, (on the 8th July,) he saw a house on fire, and with his characteristic intrepidity, proceeded towards the spot, in order to afford all the assistance in his power. He found the flames rapidly advancing towards the residence of the Hon. Mr. North, whose valuable library he determined, if possible, to save from destruction. He laboured at the task which he thus imposed upon himself, for no less than four hours, during a heavy rain, and amidst the playing of several engines. He laboured, however, not in vain, for most of the books were preserved; but he sustained a serious injury in the hip, by falling under the weight of some heavy volumes; of the accident he took little notice, until an indolent encysted tumour had been formed, when, upon taking surgical advice, he found that it was necessary for him to submit to a painful and dangerous operation. The tumour was accordingly operated upon and removed, 17th May, 1810, but unfavourable symptoms followed, and he expired on the 4th of the following June. "Windham generally acted," (says a recent writer,) "as though he cared for no opinion but his own. He dealt largely in paradoxes, was often false in his philosophy, and occasionally advocated nonsense; yet he had the credit of being an enlightened man, and of always speaking as he thought. A Quixote against what he deemed the prejudices of the great: he frequently startled the dull ear of some stately associate, by asserting that it was essential for the support of our national intrepidity, to encourage cock-fighting, bull-baiting, and pugilism. It was his ambition to realize and embody in himself the popular idea of a thorough Englishman; his eloquence was bold and forcible; his opinions masculine, generous, and tolerant. He had a most fervid affection for the pastimes of our ancestors; and declaimed with equal zeal and eloquence to prove the necessity of their perpetuation. His popular predilections were so nicely balanced by his loyalty, that he enjoyed the raven Castle, &c. and he assumed the additional surname of WYNDHAM. His father was subsequently created Earl of Dunraven and Mountearl, and he inherited those honours himself at the decease of that nobleman, 24th August, 1824.

8. HUGH (Sir), of Silton. This gentleman was called to the degree of serjeant-at-law 1st June, 1660, constituted one of the barons of the exchequer in 1670, and subsequently transferred to the bench of the common-pleas.

9. WADHAM (Sir), of whom we are about to treat.

The youngest son,

SIR WADHAM WYNDHAM, of Norrington, in the county of Wilts, was one of the judges of the court of king's bench, in 1660. He m. Barbara, daughter of Sir George Clarke, knt. of Walford, Northamptonshire, and had, with several other children, rare felicity, as a public man, of being in high favour with the people, without rendering himself at all odious to the sovereign. He was much beloved in private life, his character being amiable, and his conversation varied, sportive, intelligent, and conciliating. So decidedly high did he rank in public estimation, that the immediate neighbourhood of his residence was thronged with carriages during his illness, containing anxious enquirers as to the state of his health; his house was crowded with friends during the consultations of his medical attendants. All classes exhibited the most lively sympathy for his sufferings; and the king himself repeatedly desired to be informed of the progress of his malady; emphatically declaring that the expiring senator was a genuine patriot and a truly honest man." Mr. Wyndham d. unmarried.

1. JOHN, of Norrington, who m. Alice, daughter of Thomas Fownes, esq. and left three sons, viz.

His grandson having settled in the county of Berks, the surname originally signifying "Of the Hill," became corrupted At the Hill, and thence was shortened into ATTHILL. From this DE-LA-HOW lineally descended corded to have displayed on several occasions, proofs of the greatest valour; for these and other services, EDWARD granted him estates to a considerable extent in Buckinghamshire, of which we find mention in the Calendarium Rotulorum Patentium, p. 152, in the following words:

In Doomesday Booke it is recorded, that when the Conqueror was possessed of his newe kingdom of England, hee sent his Comiss^{rs} throughout y^e remote parts thereof, to know howe every man held his lands. In which tyme there was an ould gentleman that lived and was owner of Kynnardsley Castle, in com. Hereford: by name John de Kynnardsley, and by title a knight (if any knights were before the Conquest). This ould gentleman was blind, he had then liveing with him twelve sonnes, whom with himself he armed, and stood in his castle gate, his halberd in his hand, attending the coming of sheriffs and other comiss^{rs} from y^e king, who being arrived, demanded of him by what tenure he held his castle and lands; y^e old kn^t replied by his armes, shewing to them his halberd.”

Lineage.

This family, which derived its surname from "a fair lordship," situated upon the river EDEN, is of great antiquity in the north of England. One of its members espoused in the reign of King EDWARD I. the daughter and heiress of --- Hastings, and thereby acquiring the lands of Croglin, in Cumberland (which remained in the family until the demise of Philip, Duke of Wharton, in 1731), assumed her arms; ensigns which still continue with their descendant, the present Robert Wharton Myddleton, esq. In two years afterwards he marched into Scotland with the Lord Dacre, and was at the taking of Dumfries; for which, and other eminent services, he was summoned to parliament as BARON WHARTON, 30th January, 1545. The lineal descendant and representative of this eminent nobleman, PHILIP WHARTON, sixth Lord and second Marquis of Wharton, was created DUKE OF WHARTON 20th January, 1718. Of this, the eccentric, witty, and gifted Lord Wharton, Walpole thus speaks, "With attachment to no party, though with talents to govern any, this lively man changed the free air of Westminster for the securial; the prospect of King GEORGE'S Garter for the Pretender's; and, with indifference to all religion, the frolic lord, who had written the ballad on the Archbishop of Canterbury, died in the habit of a capuchin.

His Grace, who had been attainted for joining the CHEVALIER, d. in 1731, when all his honours, save the BARONY OF WHARTON, independently of the attainder, became EXTINCT (See Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage); but were that act repealed, the BARONY would then be vested in the present Marchioness Dowager of Cholmondeley, Lord Willoughby de Eresby and Charles Kemeys-Tinte, esq. COLONEL JOHN LANE, who saved King CHARLES after the battle of Worcester, and received him at his seat at Bentley; from which he was conveyed, in disguise, by Miss Lane, as stated above, to Mrs. Norton's, at Bristol. For these signal services pensions were granted, after the restoration, to the colonel and his sister (which were continued, with arrears constantly owing, to the time of Queen ANNE), and the family was moreover dignified with an especial badge of honor, viz. the arms of England in a canton, in augmentation of their paternal coat; and a crest, a strawberry horse, bearing between his fore legs the royal crown. The Jennisons retired to the continent about the year 1770, and their "ancient blood, says Mr. Surtees, is now widely spread by intermarriage with the Noblesse of Bavaria and Austria."

Mr. Lenthall s. to the estates upon the demise of his father. He served the office of High Sheriff for Caernarvonshire in 1828.

Lineage.

The ancestor of this ancient and distinguished family,

SIR ROWLAND LENTHALL, of Hampton Court, in the county of Hereford, was high in favour with King HENRY IV. to whom he was master of the robes. He was one of the lords-marchers, and for some time ambassador to the Parisian court. Sir Rowland accompanied HENRY V. to France, and having a command at the Battle of AZINCOURT, made so many prisoners in that celebrated conflict, that he completed, with the produce of their ransom, the new buildings at Hampton Court. In that mansion was preserved a picture, engraved by Vertue, and said to be an undoubted original of HENRY IV.; pendant from the neck is a chain and medallion, on which are depicted the arms of the Fitz-Alans, Earls of Arundel, and underneath the following inscription: "HENRY IV. King of England, who laid the first stone of this house, and left this picture in it when he gave it to Lenthall."

Sir Rowland espoused Margaret, daughter and eventually co-heiress of Richard Fitz-Alan, Earl of Arundel; upon which marriage, Lady Margaret being related to the king, Sir Rowland had given to him "a thousand by the year," for the maintenance of them and their heirs, of which grant, says Leland, the town of Ludlow forms a part.

Some years afterwards, the Lenthalls sold their possessions, in Herefordshire, to the Cornwalls, Barons of Burford, and settled at Latchford and Great Haseley, in Oxfordshire, (which manors and estates they acquired in the reign of EDWARD IV. by marriage with the heiress of the Pipards,*) where they remained seated for many generations.

In 1603, these estates were possessed by

SIR EDMUND LENTHALL, who was one of those fined, under an act of parliament passed in the reign of JAMES I., for restraining persons of quality from residing so much of the year in London. Sir Edmund dying without issue, the line of the family was continued by his brother,

* A member of this ancient family, having gallantly distinguished himself in the Scottish wars, was summoned to parliament, as a baron, from the 6th February, 1299, to 24th July, 1302. Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage.

WILLIAM LENTHALL, esq. who m. Frances, daughter of Sir Richard Southwell, and had, with other issue,

1. JOHN (Sir), who inherited the family estates upon the demise of his uncle, Sir Edmund. This gentleman, who was a member of the long parliament, m. Bridget, daughter of Sir Thomas Temple, bart. of Stow, and had six sons (of whom four died in infancy), and eight daughters. His eldest son and successor,

EDMUND, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Wade, lieutenant of the Tower of London, and had issue two sons and a daughter. The elder son married late in life, and, selling the old family estates at Latchford and Great Haseley, terminated this branch of the family. The second son,

WILLIAM LENTHALL, esq. having studied the law with eminent assiduity, and having attained high distinction in that learned profession, was, in 1637, admitted a bencher of Lincoln's-inn, made recorder of London, and master of the rolls. In 1639, he was returned member for Woodstock, and when the long parliament met, on the 3rd November, 1640, he was chosen speaker, which important office he continued to hold after the king's death, and until the dissolution of that assembly. In the first parliament called by CROMWELL, as protector, he had no seat; but in the second, he was returned for two places, the city of Gloucester, and the county of Oxford, and was again elected speaker. He subsequently was appointed chamberlain of Chester, chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, and keeper of the great seal. In the single parliament assembled by Richard Cromwell, he sat in the upper house by the title of William, Lord Lenthall, and so great was his influence and weight at the restoration, that General Monck assured King CHARLES, that he could not have brought about that desirable event without Mr. Lenthall's concurrence. This eminent lawyer and statesman m. Elizabeth, daughter of Ambrose Evans, esq. of Lodington, in the county of Northumberland, by whom he left surviving issue, WILLIAM LENTHALL, esq. who m. his first cousin, the Hon. Catherine Hamilton, only child of James, Lord Paisley, by whom (who m. after his decease, the Earl of Abercorn) he left issue, at his demise, a son and successor, BOWES, OF BRADLEY.

BOWES, THOMAS, esq. of Bradley Hall, in the county of Durham, b. 29th of June, 1758.

Lineage.

This gentleman, being a lineal descendant of the elder branch of the Bowes's, of Streatlam Castle, is representative of that ancient family, which, for a long period, was one of the most powerful and distinguished in the county of Durham, renowned for the strenuous loyalty of its members, and the many important services which they had rendered to the crown and to the country. The name, according to GROSE, thus originated: "About the time of the CONQUEROR," says that indefatigable antiquary, "here was a town which, the tradition of the inhabitants states, was burned. It then belonged to the earls of Brittany and Richmond; the castle was built, as Mr. Horseley thinks, out of the ruins of the Roman fortress by Alan Niger, the first earl of that title,* who is said, in a manuscript belonging to the dissolved monastery of St. Mary's at York, placed therein, William, his relation, with five hundred archers, to defend it against some insurgents, in Cumberland and Westmoreland, confederated with the Scots, giving him for the device of his standard, the arms of Brittany, with three bows and a bundle of arrows, from whence both the castle and its commander derived their names, the former being called Bowe Castle, and the latter William de Arcubus." Of this person CAMDEN also makes mention, "Near this stands Strettlham, for a long time the seat of the famous and knightly family of the Bowes, or de Arcubus, who have often done great service to their king and country in times of extremity, their pedigree is from William de Arcubus, &c."

* This is wrong. Alan Niger was second earl of Richmond, see Burke's Extinct Peerage.

SIR WILLIAM BOWES, knt. captain of five hundred archers, and governor of Bowes Castle, was great-great-grandfather of

SIR ADAM BOWES, knt. justice in oyer of the liberties of Durham, and steward of Richmondshire, living in 1345, who m. Alice, sole heiress of Sir John Trayne, knt. lord of Streatlam, by his wife Agnes, heiress of Ralph de la Hay, Lord Percy, of Stainton le Strata, to whom Bernard Baliol gave with his niece Agnes the lordship of Streatlam, &c. By this great heiress Sir Adam had, with junior issue,

ROBERT, his successor.

Thomas, who d. s. p.

WILLIAM, of whom presently.

Sir Adam was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

SIR ROBERT BOWES, knt. lord of Streatlam, who, in the 29th EDWARD III. entailed all his estates upon his issue male. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Lilburne, of Lilburne, in the county of Northumberland, but dying without issue, his possessions descended to his brother,

SIR WILLIAM BOWES, a gallant warrior, who received the honour of knight-banneret at the BATTLE OF POICTIERS. He espoused Maud, daughter and heiress of Jordan Dawden, and with her acquired Dawden, Seaham, Ryhope, Seaton, &c. with the advowson of Dawden church. Sir William was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR ROBERT BOWES, who was made a knight-banneret at the siege of Rouen, in Normandy, and was one of the victims to the indiscretion of Thomas, duke of Clarence, at the battle of Bangey Bridge, where he fell, with several other illustrious personages, in the year 1419. He m. Jane, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Robert Conyers, of Sockburn, knt. and had, with other issue, a son and successor,

SIR WILLIAM BOWES, who was knighted

at the battle of Verneile in 1424. This eminent warrior was chamberlain to John, DUKE OF BEDFORD, whilst regent of France, and was constituted by that prince governor of the castle of Gallyard, in Normandy. He continued abroad twenty years, and sent home a model and plan for rebuilding his castle of Streatlam, to which he retired on his return, and resided there to a great age, being commonly known as "old Sir William Bowes." He m. Joan, daughter of Ralph, Lord Greystock, and acquired by the alliance the manor of Newton, in Durham.

SIR WILLIAM BOWES, his son and successor, was warden for many years of the Middle March against Scotland, and high sheriff of Northumberland. He wedded Maud, daughter of Henry, Lord Fitzhugh, baron of Ravensworth, and had issue,

WILLIAM, his successor.

Robert, } both predeceased their fa-
Thomas, } ther s. p.

RALPH, who inherited the estates of the family upon the demise of his brother issueless.

Margery, m. to William Hilton, of Hilton.

Elizabeth, m. to Sir R. Bulmer, of Witton.

Catherine, m. to Sir Richard Conyers.

Margaret, m. to Sir Humphrey L'Isle.

Isabel, m. to Sir John Swinowes.

Anne, m. to Ralph Wycliffe.

Sir William was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM BOWES, knt. who m. the niece of Lawrence Booth, bishop of Durham, but dying without issue, in 1474, the family estates devolved upon his brother,

SIR RALPH BOWES, knt. who m. Margery, daughter and co-heir of Richard Conyers, of South Cowton, and had issue,

RALPH, his successor.

ROBERT, successor to his nephew.

RICHARD.

Sir Ralph Bowes was s. by his eldest son, another

SIR RALPH BOWES, a military officer of distinction, who received the honour of knighthood on the field of Flodden. He m. Elizabeth, sister of Henry, first earl of Cumberland, and had issue, GEORGE, his successor.

Margery.

Anne.

Agnes.

Sir Ralph dying in 1516, was s. by his only son,

SIR GEORGE BOWES, of Dawden, who m. Muriel Eure, granddaughter of William, Lord Eure, of Witton, and had three daughters, viz.

1. Elizabeth, m. to John Blackiston, esq. of Blackiston.
2. Dorothy, m. to Sir Cuthbert Collingwood, of Eslinton, in the county of Northumberland.
3. Anne.

Sir George dying thus without male issue, was succeeded by his uncle,

SIR ROBERT BOWES, knt. who was master of the rolls, privy councillor to King HENRY VIII. and warden of the Middle Marches. He m. Dorothy, daughter of Sir James Metcalfe, knt. but dying without surviving issue, the family estates devolved upon his brother,

RICHARD BOWES, of Aske, who m. Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of Sir Roger Aske, of Aske, knt. and had, with several daughters, GEORGE (Sir).

Robert, ambassador to Scotland with his elder brother, Sir George. He m. Eleanor, daughter of Sir Richard Musgrave, of Hartley.

The elder son,

SIR GEORGE BOWES, knt. became heir-general of the family, and to him descended the Dawdon estates, with other possessions, in the eastern part of the county of Durham. He was made knight-marshal by special commission, for his signal services to Queen ELIZABETH. When the Earls of Westmoreland and Northumberland reared the Standard of revolt in the North, Sir George was the only person of great influence that opposed the insurgents, having, for that purpose, fortified himself in Barnard Castle. He was in many commissions for treaties with Scotland, and had other marks of confidence and trust. Sir George m. twice; first, Dorothy, daughter of Sir William Mallory, of Studley, near Ripon, in the county of York, and had issue,

WILLIAM, his successor.

Robert, killed in the Keswick mines, in 1610.

George, of Biddick, who m. Magdalen, daughter of Sir Edward Bray, and had issue,

1. GEORGE, successor to his uncle.
2. Robert, of Beddick, who m. in 1620, Joan, daughter of Robert Hutton, D.D. prebendary of Durham, and had several children.

Elizabeth, m. to Sir Charles Wandesford, of Kirtlington, in the county of York.

Anne, m. to Sir John Conyers.

The knight marshal espoused, secondly, Jane, daughter of Sir John Talbot, of Albrighton, in the county of Salop, knt. and had several children. It appears that, by a strange will or entail made by Sir George about the year 1590, the estate of Streatlam, with the great bulk of his property, passed to SIR TALBOT BOWES, his son by the second marriage; and thus his eldest son, by his former wife, was deprived of his birthright, and only inherited from his father the estate and lordship of BRADLEY HALL, which had been acquired by a grant from the crown 14th of Elizabeth. The younger branch, having in this manner become possessed of the immense estates of Sir George, continued for a long time to be one of the most considerable families of the county palatine, until the property finally came to (the descendant of the second marriage)

GEORGE BOWES, esq. of Streatlam, whose only daughter and heiress,

MARY-ELEANOR, espoused, first, John, ninth Earl of Strathmore, who thereupon assumed the surname of BOWES, and had, with other issue,

1. JOHN, who succeeded as tenth Earl of Strathmore, and was enrolled among the peers of the United Kingdom by the title of BARON BOWES, of Streatlam Castle, 18th July, 1815. His lordship m. in 1820, Miss Mary Milner, of Staindrop, in the county of Durham, but dying the day after his nuptials, the Scottish peerage devolved upon his brother, while the principal part of his fortune, including Streatlam, passed by will to his son, JOHN BOWES, esq. the present proprietor of Streatlam Castle, who unsuccessfully claimed the family honors.

2. THOMAS, present Earl of STRATHMORE (see Burke's Peerage).

Mary - Eleanor, Countess of Strathmore, m. secondly, Andrew Robinson Stoney, esq. of the King's county, who likewise assumed the name of BOWES.

Sir George Bowes' eldest son, by his first marriage,

SIR WILLIAM BOWES, knt. of Bradley Hall, was frequently employed in embassies to Scotland, and was treasurer of Berwick-upon-Tweed, in the reign of JAMES I. He m. first, Mary, daughter of Henry, ninth LORD SCROPE, of Bolton, and upon the decease of her uncle, Emanuel, EARL OF SUNDERLAND, heir to that Barony. PERYS TREMAYNE, who m. Onera Trevartea, and was grandfather of

By the heiress of the Trenchards he had issue,

NICHOLAS, his successor.

Thomas, in holy orders, rector of Aulton Giffard, in Devonshire, and canon of St. Peter's, Exeter.

The lady (Isabella Trenchard) surviving her husband, remarried with Sir John Dammerel, and acquired so much influence over her second lord, that he settled upon her and her heirs by Tremayne (she had no children by Dammerel) NORTH HUISH, SYDENHAM-DAMEREL, with other lands, and appointed

NICHOLAS TREMAYNE, who was s. by his son,

THOMAS TREMAYNE, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of — Carew. In 1448, Edmund Lacy, Bishop of Exeter, granted license unto this Thomas Tremayne and his wife, "that they might have divine service celebrated in their presence within the Manor of Collacombe." They had issue a son and heir,

2. Edmond, of whom Prince, in his worthies of Devon, gives the following account. "Being a younger brother he became servant to Edward, Marquess of Exeter, and a great sufferer for his inviolable fidelity to his noble master:—for when the Marquess of Exeter, and the Lady ELIZABETH, (afterwards Queen of England, of Glorious Memory), were committed to the Tower in Queen MARY'S days, upon an accusation of being privy to Wyat's conspiracy, Mr. Edmund Tremayne was set on the rack, thereby to extort from him a confession of their guilt (prisoners were oft examined about her, and some were put to the rack to try if they could be brought to accuse that lady); wherein approving their innocency and his own fidelity, with invincible resolution, he was upon the Lady Elizabeth's advancement to the throne made one of the clerks of her Majesty's most honorable privy council. He had also an honorary salary settled upon him by the city of Exeter, for the good offices it had received and expected from him. He m. Eulalia, daughter of Sir John Saint Leger, and had two sons, named Francis,
who both died issueless."
3. DIGORY, eventual successor to the estates.
4. Richard, (twin with John) in holy orders, and an eminent divine. He was educated at Oxford, and became a fellow of Exeter College, in that University, which he retained until the accession of Queen MARY, when he was obliged from his zeal for the reformation to seek an asylum in Germany, having been deprived of his fellowship. Upon the elevation of ELIZABETH to the throne he returned from exile, and visiting his college had the honor of receiving both degrees of divinity at once on the 15th February, 1565. Doctor Tremayne subsequently removed to Gates Hall, and thence passed within a short period into his own county, being instituted Canon Residentiary of St. Peters, Exeter, and treasurer of that church. He was esteemed in his time a famous preacher, and he is styled by Carew—"Well born, learned, and well beloved." He m.

Tremayne.
6. Nicholas } twins, between these bro-
7. Andrew } thers so great a resemblance in person and sympathy of affection subsisted, as scarcely to have been paralleled in any other instance.
Risen, in his survey of Devon, relates the following singular facts regarding them. "Nicholas and Andrew Tremayne were twins and younger sons of Thomas Tremayne, esq. of Collacumbe, in this county;
they were so like in all their lineaments, so equal in statures, so coloured in hair, and of such resemblance in face and gesture, that they could not be known the one from the other; no not by their parents, brethren, or sisters, but privately by some secret mark, or openly by wearing some several coloured riband or the like: which in sport, they would sometimes change to make trial of their friends' judgments, which would often occasion many mirthful mistakes. Yet somewhat more strange it was, that they agreed in mind and affection as much as in body; for what one loved, the other desired; so on the contrary, the loathing of the one was the dislike of the other. Yea! such a consideration of inbred power and sympathy was in their natures, that if Nicholas was sick and grieved, Andrew felt the like pain, though they were far distant and remote from each other; this too without any intelligence given unto either party.
And what is farther observable, if

Andrew was merry, Nicholas was so affected although in different places; which they could not long endure to be, for they ever desired to eat, drink, sleep, and wake together. Yeal so they lived and so they died. In the year 1564 they both served in the wars at Newhaven, in France (now better known by the name of Havre de Grace), where in this they something differed (though it being in that which was without them, was not much in them) that the one was a captain of a troop of horse, and the other a private soldier; but still with the same sympathy of affection. Being both to the last degree brave, they put themselves into posts of greatest hazard. At length one of the brothers was slain, and the other instantly stepped into his place, and there in the midst of danger, no persuasion being able to remove him, he was also slain.*

8. Robert, who died an infant.

The two elder sons, ROGER and EDMUND, dying issueless, the estates eventually devolved upon the third son,

DIGORY TREMAYNE, esq. who thus became of Collacombe, and was s. by his son,

ARTHUR TREMAYNE, esq. of Collacombe. This gentleman m. in 1586, Mary, daughter of Sir Richard Greville kn., of Stowe, by whom he had a numerous family, and dying in 1634, was s. by his eldest son, John, } both died unmarried.

JOHN, one of the most gallant and devoted of the CAVALIERS in the unfortunate civil wars. He endured much personal suffering and great losses by his fidelity to his royal master, and died in the life time of his father, anno 1664.

Edmund, like his brother, a distinguished and faithful adherent of King CHARLES I. He d. unmarried in 1667.

ARTHUR.

The youngest son, eventually inheriting the estates, became

ARTHUR TREMAYNE, esq. of Collacombe. This gentleman was a colonel in the army. He m. Bridget, daughter of Nicholas Hatherleigh, esq. of Lamerton, and was father of

* Upon the monument of these extraordinary brothers the following lines are engraved.

These liken'd twins, in form and fancy one,

Were like affected, and like habit chose:

Where both encountered fiercely with their foes;

There one of both sore wounded lost his breath,

And t' other slain, revenging brother's death.

WELD, OF LULWORTH.

WELD, His Eminence Cardinal THOMAS, of Lulworth Castle, in the county of Dorset, b. 22nd January, 1773. This distinguished prelate, prior to taking orders in the church of Rome, espoused (in 1796) Lucy, daughter of the Honorable Thomas Clifford, by whom he had an only daughter, MARY-LUCY, m. in 1818, to Hugh-Charles, present LORD CLIFFORD, of CHUDLEIGH, and died in May, 1831, leaving issue.

Upon the decease of his wife, Mr. Weld became a Roman Catholic clergyman, and was soon afterwards promoted to a bishopric. He obtained a cardinal's hat in 1829. His Eminence has for several years devoted his time, and large fortune entirely to the wants and services of the unfortunate, and has justly acquired the highest reputation for piety and benevolence. Mr. Weld is the first Englishman who has had a seat in the CONCLAVE since the pontificate of CLEMENT IX. He inherited his paternal estates at the decease of his father in 1810.

Lineage.

The family of WELD is presumed to derive from EDRICK, surnamed WILD, or SYLVATICUS, who was nephew to Edric, Duke of Mercia, husband of Edina, daughter of King ETHELRED. From him descended

WILLIAM WELD, who settled at Eaton, in the county of Chester, and marrying Anne, daughter of Nicholas de Whitnall, was s. by his son,

WILLIAM WELD, who wedded Margaret, daughter of William Bostock, and was grandfather of EDWARD WELD, who espoused Margaret, daughter of Thomas Cotgrave, of the county of Chester. The grandson of this marriage, JOHN WELD, marrying Joanna, daughter of John Fitz Hugh, of Congleton, had three sons, viz.

1. ROBERT, of Eaton, who m. Elenora, daughter of Robert Oldton, of Wetten

Hall, and from him sprung the WELDS of Eaton.

2. John, who settled at Willey, in the county of Salop, and was patriarch of the WELDS of that place.
3. HUMPHREY (Sir).

The third son,

SIR HUMPHREY WELD, knt. took up his abode at Holdwell, in the county of Herts. He was sheriff of London in 1599, and LORD MAYOR in ten years afterwards. Sir Humphrey espoused Ann, daughter of Nicholas Wheler, esq. and left, with two daughters, at his decease in 1610, a son and successor,

SIR JOHN WELD, knt. of Arnolds, in the county of Middlesex, who wedded Frances, daughter of William Whitmore, esq. by whom (who d. in 1656) he had issue,

1. Thomas, who d. young.
2. HUMPHREY, his heir.
3. John (Sir), of Compton Bassett, in the county of Wilts, a knight banneret. This gallant person m. in 1648, Mary, daughter of William, Lord Stourton, and dying, 11th July, 1674, left an only son, WILLIAM, who succeeded his uncle HUMPHREY.

4. George, who m. Bridget, daughter of — Thimblethorp, esq. of the county of Lincoln, and died in 1696, leaving two daughters, Cicely, m. to James Mahony, Viscount of Oldcastle, in Spain.

5. Anne, m. to Sir J. Cutts, of Childerley.
6. Mary, m. to Thomas Allen, esq. of Finchley.
7. Frances, m. to — Martin, esq. of the county of Buckingham.
8. Margaret, m. to William Bowyer, esq. of Denham Court, Bucks.

Sir John Weld d. in 1622, and was s. by his eldest son,

HUMPHREY WELD, esq. of Holdwell. This gentleman was governor of Portland Castle. He purchased in 1641, from the Howard family, the MANOR OF LULWORTH.*

* The first possessors of this manor are said to have been the DE LOLLIEWORTHS; but the powerful family of the NEWBURGHs held it as early as the reign of JOHN. CHRISTIAN, the sole heiress of SIR ROGER NEWBURGH, carried the estate in 1514, to her husband, SIR JOHN MARNEY, Lord Marney, and her second daughter, and eventual heiress, ELIZABETH MARNEY, marrying Thomas, Lord Howard, of Bindon, conveyed it, with several other considerable estates in Dorsetshire, amongst which was the manor of Bindon, to the HOWARDS, from whom, as stated above, it was purchased in 1641, by Humphrey Weld.

and divers other extensive estates in the county of Dorset. He m. Clare, youngest daughter of Thomas, Lord Arundel, of Wardour, by whom he had an only daughter, MARY, m. to Nicholas Taaffe, Earl of Carlingford. Mr. Weld died about the year 1684, and was buried in King HENRY VII's chapel, Westminster. His nephew,

WILLIAM WELD, esq. succeeded to his estates, and thus became of "LULWORTH." This gentleman espoused in 1672, Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Shireburn, esq. of Stonyhurst, in Lancashire, by whom he had issue, Elizabeth, d. unmarried in 1791.

Humphrey Weld d. in 1722, and was s. by his elder surviving son,

He m. secondly, in 1740, Mary-Theresa, daughter of John Vaughan, esq. of Courtfield, by whom (who d. in 1754) he had

EDWARD, his heir.

John, } both d. young.

THOMAS, successor to his brother.

Mary, who became "a Poor Clare," at Aire, in Artois.

Mr. Weld "lived," says Hutchins, "in great credit and hospitality at Lulworth, maintaining a good correspondence and harmony with the neighbouring gentry and clergy, nor did difference of opinion create reserve or distance; although he ever behaved as a peaceful subject, he was ordered into custody in 1745, on account of his name being mentioned in a reasonable anonymous letter dropped near Poole; but his immediate and honourable discharge is the most convincing proof of his innocence." He d. 8th December, 1761, and was s. by his eldest son,

EDWARD WELD, esq. of Lulworth, b. in 1741; m. first, in 1763, Juliana, daughter of Robert, Lord Petre; and espoused, secondly, in 1775, MARY-ANNE, youngest daughter of WALTER SMYTHE, esq. of Brambridge, in the county of Hants, but had no issue. He d. in 1775, and his widow married THOMAS FITZHERBERT, esq. of Swinerton, whom she survived, and has since held a distinguished place in society as MRS. FITZHERBERT. Mr. Weld was s. by his only surviving brother,

* Within the ground of Lulworth Mr. Weld afforded an asylum to the MONKS OF LE TRAPP, when those austere brothers were driven from France by the revolution. The following account of this monastery is extracted from the "Monthly Magazine" of October, 1800, and from the "Gentleman's Magazine" of 1813. "I paid a short visit in the course of last summer to Lulworth Castle, the seat of Mr. Weld. At eight o'clock, of a pleasant morning in the beginning of July, I left Dorchester, in company with two other gentlemen, one of whom had previously visited the monastery, and kindly undertook the office of guide. After a ride of about eleven miles over downs, covered with flocks of sheep, we declined on the right into a small valley, overhung with woods. The view at the extremity of this valley is beautifully terminated by the English Channel, and in its centre stands LULWORTH CASTLE, an antique Gothic edifice, consisting of four round towers, connected by as many curtains. As strangers are permitted to see the inside of this castle, we alighted at the principal entrance, on each side of which are two Latin inscriptions; the one commemorating the extended toleration granted to the Roman catholics in 1780, the other recording a visit from his majesty King GEORGE III. with which Mr. Weld was honoured. After gratifying ourselves by an inspection of the edifice, we proceeded through the fields for about a mile, before we reached the monastery. This building is constructed of very rude materials, and in a very rude manner. The grounds attached are about one hundred acres, which are cultivated by the monks, with the assistance of a carter and his boy. The community rise at one o'clock in the morning, winter and summer; the choir brothers then begin their devotions, and continue in the chapel until nine, when each goes to some manual labour, in the garden, on the roads, or the grounds, until eleven, when there is a short service, which lasts about half an hour. Then to labour again until half past one, when they return to prayers for half an hour, and are then summoned to their frugal meal. After this meal is over, the only one which they have during the four-and-twenty hours, they return thanks to God, and adjourn to the chapter room, where they continue to read or meditate until the day is nearly over, when they once more go to prayers, and retire to their dormitories about eight o'clock, having spent the whole day in abstinence, mortification, labour, silence, and prayer. Every succeeding day, like the former, continually hastening the grave that lies open. The severity of this rigid order requires no common devotee; perpetual silence restrains them in the greatest enjoyment of life, perpetual abstinence, mortification, and penance, poverty and prayer, seem more than human nature is capable of undergoing, and unless the minds of the religious were buoyed up by the fai-

DANBY, OF SWINTON.

DANBY, WILLIAM, esq. of Swinton Park, in the county of York; b. 9th July, 1752 m. first, in September, 1775, Caroline, daughter of Henry Seymour, esq. by whom (who d. 20th March, 1821,) he had an only son, who died in infancy. Mr. Danby espoused, secondly, 5th January, 1822, Anne-Holwell, second daughter of William Gater, esq.

He succeeded to the estates at the decease of his father in 1781, and served the office of sheriff of the county of York, in 1784.

Lineage.

JOHN DE DANBY, Lord of Great and Little Danby, and of lands in Thirsk, Hutton, and Scowston, left an only daughter and heiress, ARMATRUDE DE DANBY, who wedded Edmund Stringert or Strugen, one of the soldiers of the Conquest, and left a son,

JOHN STRINGENT, alias DANBIE, (in right of his mother) who wedded Margaret, daughter of Thomas Catheral, and was s. by his son, vour of their devotions, they could not keep themselves alive. They abstain wholly from meat, fish, and fowl, and, during Lent, from butter, milk, eggs, and cheese. They seem, nevertheless, perfectly content. The monks observe perpetual silence, scarcely even look at each other, and never speak but to the prior, and then only upon urgent occasions. They never wander from their convent without permission of their superior, but go each morning cheerfully to such work as they are directed to perform. As we passed these poor, humble, unoffending monks at their work, they received us with courtesy and humility, but never spoke. The most perfect silence and tranquillity reigned throughout this little vale, with nothing to interrupt it but the convent bell, and the dashing of the waves upon the shore: even the winds of heaven are restrained from visiting this place too roughly, for the down protects it from their fury."

In 1142, DE CLARE, Earl of Gloucester, took the CASTLE OF LULLWARD for the EMPRESS MAUD.

In 1615, when King JAMES I. came to hunt in the park and Isle of Purbeck, he was hospitably entertained at the castle of Lulworth, as were also, in 1665, King CHARLES II., and the Dukes of York and Monmouth, whose names the apartments they occupied still record. During the civil wars, it was frequently used as a check upon Corfe Castle. In 1789, GEORGE III. with his queen, and the three eldest princesses, visited Lulworth Castle by sea from Weymouth. In 1791, the same royal party repeated their visit by land. In the next year, their majesties, with the Prince of Wales, and five of the princesses, sailed from Weymouth in the Juno frigate, in order to visit again the Castle; the sea, however, running high, none of the nautical party attempted to land, except the PRINCE OF WALES, who effected it at the expense of a severe drenching. In 1830, Lulworth Castle opened its gates to the exiled royal family of France, where they sojourned until their departure for Holyrood House.

Lineage.

OSBORNE DE BOLEBEC, a noble Norman, in the time of ROBERT, father of WILLIAM the bastard, had two distinguished sons,

1. WALTER (Gualtier of the Norman Chronicles) Comte de Longueville, who assumed, for what reason has not been ascertained, the surname of Gyffarde. This gallant person acquired great renown in the armies of WILLIAM, achieving several signal victories for Normandy, in the war between that country and France. When the duke, upon the accession of Harold to the English throne, desired to invade this island, many, indeed most of the Norman nobles held cautiously back from proffering aid; being wearied and impoverished by the continued struggles in which WILLIAM had been engaged since his father's death. But a few staunch friends, amongst the foremost of whom was this Walter and his brother, coming nobly forward with offers of men, ships, &c. the laggards were thereby warmed to the undertaking, and the expedition was accordingly set on foot. In the subsequent success of his chief, the Comte de Longueville largely participated; he obtained no less than ONE HUNDRED AND SEVEN LORDSHIPS in the conquered country, and was constituted EARL OF THE COUNTY OF BUCKINGHAM (for the line of this nobleman, see Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage).

2. Osborne.

The second son, OSBORNE GYFFARDE, having likewise aided in placing England under the yoke of the

Norman, had of course his portion of the spoil, and the fertile county of Gloucester was allotted as the locality of his reward. Here he held the extensive manors of Brimesfield, Rochemtune, Alderberie, and Stoche; upon the first named of which he settled, and there subsequently a great castle was built, (temp. STEPHEN) which continued to be the residence of the family until it was destroyed by the army of Edward II in the Baronial war, anno 1322. This Osborne died about the year 1086, and was s. by his son,

WALTER, his heir.

John, of Black Ladies, who m. Miss Catherine Hawkins, of the county of Kent, and the grandson of this marriage, Peter Giffard, esq. of Black Ladies, eventually succeeded to the estates and representation of the family.

Mr. Giffard adhered with desperate fidelity to the falling fortunes of the CHARLESSES, and several of his family took an active part in the escape of the younger after the fight of Worcester. Boscobel was a lodge of the Giffards, the Pendrels being merely housekeepers, &c. and the tried loyalty of that celebrated family ought rather to be attributed to their attachment to their landlords and feudal superiors, than to any abstract sense of duty to the king. For this zealous devotion to his unhappy sovereign, the whole of Mr. Giffard's property was sequestered by the Drury House Commissioners, and at the advanced age of seventy he was himself obliged to seek a place of concealment. He lived, however, to witness happier days, and received (tardily though) from the restored monarch a royal grant, reinstating him in the whole of his noble possessions. A few months after this act of justice he executed a deed, by which he surrendered every thing to his son WALTER, reserving only for himself a small farm, and such maintenance (with two servants) as, saith the deed, "was becoming to a gentleman of his quality." He did not long, however, enjoy the calm this arrangement seemed to promise. He lived but to see his family replaced in the wealth, influence, and honour, which were their heritage, and died, "full of days," the 25th June, 1663. His successor, PETER GIFFARD, esq. of Black Ladies, (refer to John, second son of Peter, who suffered during the civil wars, and died in 1663), who thus became of CHILLINGTON, and representative of the family. Elizabeth.

Catharine.

Ellen.

Mr. Senhouse succeeded his father in 1814, and served the office of sheriff for the county of Cumberland, in 1826.

Lineage.

The family DE SEWYNHOUSE, DE SEVENHOUSE, or DE SENHOUSE, derives its surname from Hall Sevenhouse, or Senhouse, a district of Cumberland. The first of its members upon record,

WALTER DE SEWYNHOUSE, had a grant of the fifth part of the township of Bolton, in the parish of Gosforth, from Alan de Coupland, and likewise a grant of other lands in the same parish from William de Wayberthwaite. These grants are both without date, but both are witnessed by Sir Adam de Lamplugh, knt. who lived in the times of Kings RICHARD I. and JOHN. Walter was s. by his son,

WALTER DE SEVENHOUSE, who was witnessed to a deed, also without date, with Sir Richard le Fleming, knt. who died about the close of HENRY III.'s reign. This Walter was s. by his son,

NICHOLAS DE SEVENHOUSE, who was s. by his son and heir, another

NICHOLAS DE SEVENHOUSE, who held the hamlet of Newton, or Seascale, in the parish of Gosforth, of Thomas de Multon, of Egremont, as appears by the office of escheat after the death of the said Thomas, bearing date 15th EDWARD II. Nicholas de Sevenhouse became possessed of the hamlet of Newton in right of his wife, a daughter and heiress of De Ponsonby, whose arms quartered with those of De Sevenhouse, engraven on stone, are at present to be seen on the manor hall of Seascale. He was s. by his son, NICHOLAS DE SEWYNHOUSE or DE SENHOUSE, who had a grant of certain lands in Bolton from James de Wayberthwaite, bearing date 6th RICHARD II. and grants of certain other lands within the lordship of Bolton Fell from William de Wayberthwaite, formerly rector of Wayberthwaite, all dated in the 14th of the same reign. He married, as it would seem, a daughter and co-heiress of Alan de Coupland, of Coupland and Seaton, in the county of Cumberland, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM DE SEVENHOUSE, who m. a daughter and co-heir of Lucy. Amongst the archives of the family of Senhouse is still preserved a deed of conveyance from Alice de Lucy, daughter and co-heir of Richard de Lucy, of Egremont, by Ada de Morville, his wife, to her second son, Sir John de Lucy, high sheriff of the county of Cumberland for two years, 31st EDWARD I. and knight of the shire for the same county 34th of the same reign, from whom, by his wife Christian, descended the wife of this William Sevenhouse, which William was s. at his decease by his son,

THOMAS DE SENHOUSE, whose name appears in the return of gentlemen of the county of Cumberland, made in the 12th HENRY VI. It is related that in a warm altercation with a monk of Calder Abbey, relative to his claim of a right to fish in the river Calder, this Thomas de Sevenhouse was so highly exasperated that he hurled the monk over the battlements of the bridge. For this summary act of extra-judicial process he was obliged to compound by a heavy fine imposed upon his estates. He m. a daughter of Sir Richard Hudleston, of Millum Castle, in Cumberland, knight banneret, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS SENHOUSE, who was a party with Richard Hudleston, esq. of Millum Castle, in an award made by his brother, Sir Simon Senhouse,* prior of Carlisle, 16th HENRY VII. He was also, in the next year, a party with William Stanley, esq. of Dalegarth, in Cumberland, in another award made by William Siveger, Lord Bishop of Carlisle, 17th HENRY VII. He m. Eleanor, daughter of John Lamplugh, esq. of Lamplugh, and had JOHN, his successor, ANTHONY, and Margaret, wife of John Stanley, esq. of Dalegarth. This Thomas, as did his father, enjoyed the family estates for half a century. He was s. by his son,

JOHN SENHOUSE, who m. in 1528, Elizabeth, elder sister and co-heir of Richard Eglesfield,† son of Gawen Eglesfield, of Alneburgh Hall, high sheriff of the county of Cumberland in the 9th HENRY VIII. (which Gawen was the descendant in a right line from John de Eglesfield, the elder brother of Robert de Eglesfield, the FOUNDER of QUEEN'S COLLEGE, OXFORD.) This John Senhouse received an ample pardon, by

* SIR SIMON SENHOUSE, prior of Carlisle, second son of Thomas de Sevenhouse, by the daughter of Hudleston. This reverend and learned person caused the principal apartment in the tower of the priory to be curiously painted with the paternal crest, motto, and badge, as well as the motto of his mother's (the Hudleston) family, together with numerous emblematic devices, and pious ejaculations in prose and verse. He had likewise the legends of Saint Anthony, Saint Augustine, and Saint Cuthbert, painted in the aisles of the cathedral at Carlisle. He lies buried under a marble tomb in the north side of the cathedral church.

letters patent, for all such crimes of a treasonable nature as he had previously committed, and he was appointed, also by letters patent, dated 7th ELIZABETH, escheator of the counties of Cumberland and Westmoreland. He d. in 1568, leaving four sons, viz.

1. THOMAS, who inherited all the patrimonial estates of the family, and acquired himself, in the 6th of ELIZABETH, the advowson and right of patronage of the rectory and parish church of Gosforth. He m. Dorothy, daughter of John Vaux, esq. of Caterlen, in Cumberland, and was s. by his son,

JOHN SENHOUSE, esq. of Seascale Hall, who m. Mary, daughter of William Fleming, esq. of Rydal, in Westmoreland, and d. in 1636, leaving issue,

1. JOHN, of Seascale, who m. Anne, daughter and co-heir of John Bimpson, esq. of Shevington, in Lancashire, by his wife, the sister and co-heir of Sir Edward Wrightington, knight, of Wrightington, in the same county. This John's name, under the denomination of "John Senhouse, esq. of Eccleston," was inserted, 28th October, 1652, in the additional bill for the sale of lands and estates forfeited to the commonwealth. His eldest son, John, d. in the lifetime of his father without issue. His second son,

WRIGHTINGTON SENHOUSE of Seascale Hall, who was to have been one of the Knights of the Royal Oak, in 1660, was father of JOHN SENHOUSE, of Seascale Hall, high sheriff of Cumberland, 3rd of ANNE, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Belingham, esq. of Levens, in Westmoreland. This John sold all the patrimonial estates, and his descendants became EXTINCT in the male line about the middle of the last century.

2. Joseph, founder of the Hall Bolton family, which became EXTINCT in the male line about a hundred years ago.

- ii. Peter, of Ellenborough Hall, who was admitted to the freedom of the city of London in 1562. To this Peter, his aunt, Anne Bardsey, granted one half of her moiety of the manor of Alneburgh, otherwise Nether Hall. He d. unmarried, and bequeathed his estates to his brother John.
- iii. JOHN, of whom presently.
- iv. Richard, incumbent of Claughton, in Lancashire.

The third son,

JOHN SENHOUSE, succeeded his elder brother Peter, in his half moiety of the manor of Ellenborough, and inherited from his mother her moiety of the same. He had saved that lady's life, at the imminent risk of his own, from the certainty of being drowned in the river Derwent. He inherited, likewise, his aunt Bardsey's half moiety, and thus became eventually sole proprietor of Alneburgh, or Ellenborough, otherwise Netherhall. This John is the person whom Camden mentions in his Britannia, as having collected with great industry, numerous Roman stones, altars, lavers, statues, with inscriptions, which he had placed with much taste in his houses and buildings; and as having entertained, in 1599, the celebrated antiquary himself, and Sir Robert Cotton, of Conington, with great civility. He was steward of all the lordships, manors, lands, &c. which formerly belonged to the monastery of Holme-Cutram, in the county of Cumberland. He m. Anne, daughter of John Ponsonby, esq. of Hail Hall, and had, with other issue,

1. PETER, his successor.
2. Simon, who was murdered near Dovenby, by Skelton, of Armthwaithe. Skelton and himself are said to have paid their addresses to the same lady, who gave the preference to Simon, and thereby so enraged Skelton, as to excite him to so base an act of unmerited vengeance.
3. Richard, in holy orders, D.D. fellow of St. John's, Cambridge, afterwards dean of Gloucester, and consecrated in 1624, bishop of Carlisle. Of this prelate it is related, that "When he was a scholar at Cambridge, coming into the country to see his friends, his horse happened to cast a shoe, and having no money to pay the smith withal,—'Well, well,' says the smith, 'go your ways, and when you come to be bishop of Carlisle, you'll pay me;' which he did in abundance of gratuity; and was a religious and honest pastor." Dr. Senhouse preached the coronation sermon before King CHARLES I.

and took for his text, "I will give thee a crown of life," which was afterwards esteemed as a prophecy. He was an excellent preacher, eloquent and graceful in delivery; and four much admired sermons were published after his decease.

He was constituted likewise by letters patent (20 JAMES I.) escheator of the counties of Cumberland and Westmoreland, and he served the office of sheriff for the former shire in the 3rd of CHARLES I. He espoused, secondly, Sarah, daughter of John Sunderland, esq. of Cartmel, in Lancashire, and died in 1805, leaving four daughters, viz.

Captain Senhouse adopted a military life when young against the wishes of his parents, and had a narrow escape of his life, having been saved by the timely interposition of the son of a tenant who had followed him to the wars, and who afterwards held a tenement at Ellenborough rent free for life. He was enabled to effect this purchase by the grateful munificence of his mother's sister Bridget, daughter of Andrew Huddleston, esq. of Hutton-John, and of her husband, Joseph Huddleston, esq. of Millum Castle, both of whom adopted him, being themselves without issue, in consequence of some needful kindnesses received from Senhouse's father and mother, during the first years of their marriage; an alliance which had taken place contrary to the wishes of their immediate families, while Joseph Huddleston was a younger brother and before he inherited the patrimonial estate of Millum Castle. The sword was inscribed with the words, "The good will of the Unite Crew." LISTER, OF ARMITAGE PARK.

LISTER, THOMAS-HENRY, esq. of Armitage Park, in the county of Stafford, s. to the estates upon the demise of his father, 24th February, 1828, m. 6th Nov. 1830, Maria Theresa, daughter of the late Hon. George Villiers, brother to the Earl of Clarendon, and has a son and heir,

THOMAS VILLIERS, b. 7th May, 1832.

Lineage.

This family is of great antiquity in the north of England, and the senior branch, now represented by Lord Ribblesdale, has been seated at Gisburne for more than five centuries.

JOHN LISTER, son of Thomas Lister, es-poused, in 1312, Isabel, daughter and heiress of John de Bolton, bowbearer of Bolland, the lineal representative, according to Dugdale, of the Saxon Earls of Mercia. The great-grandson of this marriage,

CHRISTOPHER LISTER, of Middop, m. in the reign of Edward IV. Joan, daughter of Sir William Calverley, of Calverley, and had issue,

1. WILLIAM, of Middop, whose lineal descendant,

Sir William Lister, knt. of Thornton, marrying Mary, daughter of Sir Henry Bellasys, bart. of Newborough, left at his decease, in 1650, with other issue,

SIR MARTIN LISTER, knt. the well-known physician. This eminent person was born at Thornton, in Craven, and educated at Oxford, where he became fellow of Oriol College; but, travelling abroad, he took the degree of M.D. at Basil, and, in 1605, was incorporated at Oxford, as the English universities allowed a more universal communication of honors with those on the continent than is usual at present. His family and country recommended him to Anne, Countess of Pembroke, whom he appears to have served in the double capacity of agent and physician. By her recommendation he became physician in ordinary to Queen ANNE of Denmark, and afterwards to King CHARLES I. from whom he received the honor of knighthood in 1636. Having eventually attained the highest professional eminence, he was appointed president of the college of physicians. He d. about 1657, at Burwell, in Lincolnshire, aged ninety-two; an instance of a constitution, which either needed not the aids of his own faculty, or proved their efficacy.

2. THOMAS, of whom presently.

3. Nicholas, d. s. p.

The second son,

THOMAS LISTER, married the daughter and heiress of Roger de Cliderow, of Cliderow, and had issue,

THOMAS LISTER, of Westby, who m. Anne, daughter and heiress of Richard King, esq. of Kingscrosse, near Halifax, and had, with other issue,

John, who enjoyed his mother's estate, and was ancestor of the Listers of Manningham.

Worston, and was s. at his decease, in 1607, by his eldest son,

THOMAS LISTER, esq. of Westby, baptized at Gisburn in 1604. This gentleman, during the civil wars, espoused the cause of the parliament, and was one of the commissioners for the trial of King CHARLES. He attended, however, only four of their meetings, and never signed the warrant; from which, it appears evident, that he did not cordially approve of the course the proceedings were taking; and it was probably in consideration of this circumstance, that the family estates were exempted from forfeiture at the restoration. He m. Catherine, daughter of Sir Richard Fletcher, knt. of Hutton, in the county of Cumberland, by whom (who espoused, after Mr. Lister's decease, Sir John Assheton,† bart. of Whalley Abbey, in Lancashire) he had issue,

1. THOMAS, of Arnoldsbiggin and Westby, who m. Mary, daughter of Richard Deane, esq. of Ovendenword, in the county of York, and left at his decease, in 1660, an only daughter and heiress,

The gateway is still more ancient, and in feudal times was part of the old castellated mansion; it is a gothic portal flanked by two pentagon embattled turrets, and has a very picturesque appearance.

Mr. Papillon inherited at the decease of his father in 1809.

Lineage.

In Dugdale's Monas: we find TORALDUS DE PAPILLON one of the witnesses to a deed of confirmation, granted by WILLIAM the Conqueror to the church of Durham.

In the reign of King JOHN

RALPH PAPILLON was elected Abbot of Westminster. This eminent divine, one of the most eloquent preachers of his time, rose to distinction under the protection of the Abbot Lawrence, by whom, according to Leland, he was appointed Prior of Hurley, a cell of Westminster. He is said to have written a volume of sermons, and another of homilies, on the epistles and gospels, of which Leland speaks in high terms of encomium. He d. in 1225.

WILLIAM PAPILLON, one of King EDWARD the First's most devoted servants, was recommended by his royal master, in the 31st year of his reign, to the abbot and convent of Leicester, for a corrody from that house. This William Papillon is supposed to have founded the family of Papillon, of Lubbenham, in Leicestershire, being lineal ancestor of

THOMAS PAPILLON, who espoused Jane Viene de la Pierre, and who was succeeded at his decease, 20th November, 1608, by his eldest son, DAVID PAPILLON, of Lubenham. This gentleman obtained a license, dated 23rd May, 1623, from Archbishop Abbot permitting himself and his family to frequent the church at Merston, in the county of Northampton, as being nearer than their own parish church of Lubenham, with a proviso, however, that they should once at least in the year (at Easter) attend the latter, to hear prayers and preaching there, and to receive the sacrament.

Mr. Papillon published, in 1645, "A Practical Abstract of the Arts of Fortification and Assailing, containing four different methods of fortification, with approved rules to set out in the field all manner of superficies, intrenchments, and approaches by the demicircle, or with lines and stakes, written for the benefit of such as delight in the practice of these noble arts." He was likewise the author of another work, entitled "The Vanity of the Lives and Passions of Men." He died in 1659, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS PAPILLON, esq. of Lubenham, b. 6th September, 1623. This gentleman was an eminent merchant, of London, and represented that city in parliament in the 10th of WILLIAM III. He had previously sat for some years, (temp. CHARLES II.) for Dover. He was a strenuous supporter of the patriotic party, by whom King JAMES the Second was compelled to abdicate the throne. He m. Jane, daughter of Thomas Broadnax, esq. of Godmersham, and had issue,

Mr. Papillon died in 1702, having previously given (in 1701) £50. to the poor of the parish of St. Katherine Coleman, and bequeathing £1000. to the Mercers' Company, of which he was master, "to relieve any of his family that might at any future time come to want. He had purchased, in 1666, the manor of Acrise, in Kent, in which and his other possessions he was succeeded by his only son,

PHILIP PAPILLON, of Acrise, b. in 1660, M.P. for Dover, in the reigns of King WILLIAM, Queen ANNE, and in the beginning of that of GEORGE I. He sat afterwards for New Romney. He m. first, in 1689, Anne, daughter of William Jolliffe, esq. by whom he had an only surviving son, DAVID, his heir. He wedded, secondly, in 1695, Susannah, daughter of — Henshaw, esq. by whom, who d. in 1707, he had issue,

Mr. Papillon was a member of parliament for several years, and he was appointed in 1742, a commissioner of excise, which office he resigned in 1754, in favour of his son. He died in 1762, and was succeeded by that gentleman,

Mr. Fountaine was sheriff of Norfolk in 1828. He succeeded his father in 1825.

The family of FOUNTAINÉ was originally of Salle, in Norfolk, and assumed the surname of De Fonte, or Fontibus, from the springs or fountains near which they resided.

The first upon record who assumed the designation,

JOHN DE FONTE, called also De Fontibus de Salle, who flourished in the latter end of the reign of HENRY III. was much in favor with Roger Bigod, Earl of Norfolk. He died in the beginning of EDWARD the First's time, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT DE FONTIBUS, of Salle, whose great grandson,

JOHN FFUNTEYN, of Salle, was returned in 1430, as one of the chief gentlemen of the county. He was a principal benefactor, if not sole founder of the north aisle and north transept of the present church of Salle, wherein he lies buried with his three wives. He d. in 1453, and was s. by his eldest son,

MATTHEW FFUNTEYN, of Salle, who considerably increased his patrimony, by marry-

ELIZABETH.

The eldest son,

SIR ANDREW FOUNTAINE, evinced an early taste for the antiquarian pursuits, in which he was afterwards so eminently distinguished. While at Christ's Church, Oxford, he drew up a list of Anglo-Saxon and Anglo-Danish coins, published in 1705, in Hieke's Thesaurus Septentrionalis. He subsequently formed, upon his travels, a fine collection of pictures, medals, and antiquities. From King WILLIAM III. he received the honor of knighthood, and in 1727, upon the lamented death of Sir Isaac Newton, succeeded that eminently learned person in the office of warden of the Mint. He was likewise vice-chamberlain to Queen CAROLINE, and tutor to Prince WILLIAM. Sir Andrew Fountaine was practically acquainted with the fine arts, and made some designs for Swift's "Tale of a Tub." He d. in 1753, leaving no issue. His sister,

Lineage.

The surname of CLERK or CLARK, a common one throughout Europe, is in Scotland one of great antiquity; and was probably assumed from some office bearing the designation. It is a matter of notoriety, that there were many free barons and men of great possessions and power of the name of Clark, in very early times. Sir James Dalrymple cites a charter (prior to the year 1180) of King WILLIAM of a donation to the abbacy of Holyrood House, and among the witnesses (who are all men of rank) are Hugo Clericus regis; Hugo Clericus cancellarii; Johannes Clericus, &c. &c. In 1296, Richardus Clerk submitted to EDWARD I. and in the same year Benedict Clerk, a man of rank and figure, was carried prisoner to London for refusing to swear allegiance to the English monarch; and Mariota, his lady, obtained a safe conduct to visit him in England. At the battle of Durham, William Clerk was taken prisoner, and remained in captivity until released in 1357, with his sovereign DAVID II. The clan of Chattan, and some of the best Highland families, claim to be descended from the CLERKS; and from charters under the great seal, it appears that various families of this surname have held extensive possessions from a very remote era. The house we are about to treat of, is supposed to be descended from ALANUS CLERK, a free baron of Perthshire, one of the inquest on the service of Sir Alexander Moray, of Abercairny, anno 1349.

JODRELL, OF YEARDSLEY.

JODRELL, JOHN WILLIAM, esq. of Henbury, Yeardsley and Taxal, all in the county of Chester, b. in 1808, s. to the estates upon the demise of his father, 5th March, 1828.

Lineage.

The JODRELLS of Yeardsley, extinct in the elder male line since 1750, but represented through females by the present Mr. Jodrell, of Henbury, were settled at Yeardsley, in the county of Chester, as early as the times of EDWARD III. or RICHARD II.

township of Yeardsley-cum-Whaley, in Cheshire. He m. in 1355, Agnes, daughter of Robert de Bradshawe, and was father of

He afterwards bought Henbury, where he settled in 1779, and became possessed of the Taxal estate, upon the demise of his brother, Foster Bower, esq. barrister-at-law, and recorder of Chester, by whom that property had been purchased towards the close of the last century. SMYTHE, OF METHVEN CASTLE.

SMYTHE, ROBERT, esq. of Methven Castle, in the county of Perth, b. 10th February, 1773, m. first, 5th April, 1810, Mary, daughter of James Townsend Oswald, esq. of Dunnekie, in Fifeshire, and espoused, secondly, 6th February, 1817, Susan-Renton, eldest daughter of Sir Alexander Muir Mackenzie, bart. of Delvine, but has no issue. Lineage.

The surname of SMYTH is of great antiquity in Scotland, and has at different times been written SMYT, SMYTHE, and SMITH. The house of Smith, traditionally, owes its origin to the Clan CHATAN, being descended, it is asserted, from NEIL CROMB, third son of Murdoch, of that clan, who flourished in the time of WILLIAM the Lion. The family, of which we are about to treat, derives from

THOMAS SMITH, who, having applied his talents to the study of physic, attained high eminence in the medical profession, and was appointed apothecary to King JAMES III. as appears by a charter bearing date 29th January, 1477. He was father of

PATRICK SMITH, of Braco, in the county of Perth, who lived temp. JAMES IV. and was s. by his son,

The HOMFRAYS were distinguished amongst the soldiers of the Cross, and they were eminent in the early wars of the Plantagenet Kings. The portrait of John Homfray, living in 1390, and a gallant warrior of that day, is still preserved in the British Museum.

Lineage.

This family, from which sprang the VESCIS, Lords of Alnwick—the LACIS, Earls of Lincoln—the EURES, Lords Eure, in the male line; and the ALTONS, and many other eminent houses in the female, reside at Callaly Castle,* in Northumberland. Following the example of many of their illustrious countrymen, they entered England under the banner of the CONQUEROR, and the gift of numerous estates marked the services which they subsequently rendered to his cause. The family is a scion of the great house of DE BURGH, and it originally bore that surname; but from the time of

* This castle was the abode of WILLIAM DE CALLALY in the beginning of HENRY the Third's time, and of his son, GILBERT, in the same reign, who granted it, with the manor of Yetlington, to ROBERT FITZ ROGER, Baron of Warkworth and Clavering, who assumed the surname of CLAVERING; and that grant being confirmed by the crown, CALLALY has remained ever since in the possession of the family.

HENRY I. until that of Edward I. when commanded to take the designation of CLAVERING, from an estate in Essex, the head of the family assumed for surname the Christian name of his father, with the addition of FITZ.

EUSTACE DE BURGH, Baron of Tonsburgh, in Normandy, younger brother of HARLOWEN DE BURGH, the ancestor of the Lords Clanricarde, and the numerous families of DE BURGH, BURKE, and BOURKE, had two sons, who both held rank in the conquering army, namely, SERLO.

John, surnamed Monoculus, from having but one eye.

The elder son,

SERLO DE BURGH, erected the castle of Knaresborough, which passed at his decease, without issue, to his brother,

JOHN Monoculus, who had three sons,

PAGANUS, } These brothers were witnesses to the royal foundation of the abbey of Cirencester, in Gloucestershire, in 1133.

The elder son, PAGANUS, dying without issue, was succeeded by his brother,

EUSTACE FITZ JOHN, who became one of the most potent amongst the northern barons in the reign of HENRY I. and a great favourite with that monarch. He espoused, first, Agnes, eldest daughter of William Fitz Nigel, Baron of Alton, constable of Chester, and Viscount Constantine. By this lady he acquired the barony of Halton, and had an only son,

RICHARD FITZ EUSTACE.

BOND, OF GRANGE.

BOND, JOHN, esq. of Grange, in the county of Dorset, b. 1st January, 1802, s. to the estates upon the demise of his father, 12th May, 1824.

Mr. Bond lately represented Corfe Castle in parliament, and was high sheriff of Dorset, 1830.

Lineage.

The family of Bond were of great antiquity in the county of Cornwall,* and are said to have been originally seated at Penryn in that county,† but removed thence, at a very early period, to Earth, in the parish of St. Stephens, an estate they acquired in marriage with the daughter and heiress of a very ancient house, which took its name from that place.‡

From this match descended

ROBERT BOND, of Earth, who is stated to have had three sons,

Thomas, who died s. p. m.

ROBERT, of whom hereafter, and

Richard, of Earth, who m. in 1434, 12th HENRY VI. Agnes, second daughter and co-heiress of Richard Maynard, and their posterity were still residing at Earth at the visitation of Cornwall, anno 1620. The Bonds, of Holwood, in the same county, were a younger branch of those of Earth, and are now represented by Thomas Bond, esq. of East Looe, in the county of Cornwall.

* "Bond, of Cornwall, a very ancient family, from whom those of London are descended."—Guillim's Heraldry, edit.—In the pedigree of Sir Thomas Bond, bart. in the college of arms, drawn up in the year 1669, his ancestor, William Bond, of Buckland, in the county of Somerset, is described as being "ex antiquissima Bondorum stirpe in Provincia Cornubiæ oriundus."

† Mr. Bond has an old MS. pedigree on vellum, dated 1636, which deduces their descent from a Norman, who came in at the Conquest, and married the daughter and heiress of Bond, of Penryn, in Cornwall: and in Anderson's pedigree, of Churchill, Duke of Marlborough, we find that Hugh Fitz Roger, second son of Roger de Courcil, (a follower of William the Conqueror, and who obtained from him extensive estates in Somersetshire, Dorsetshire, and Wiltshire, as appears by Domesday), espousing the sister and heiress of Bond, lord of Fisherton, their offspring assumed the surname and arms of that family, viz. sa. a fess or, and hence came the family of Bond. This Bond (or Bondi as he is called in Domesday book) appears to have been a Saxon, and is mentioned in that record as holding Fisherton, in Wilts, as well as other lordships in Dorset and Somerset, as early as the time of EDWARD the Confessor.

‡ "In following the course of the Lyner, you fall down by Master Bond's ancient house at Earthe, descended to his ancestors from a daughter and heir of that name."

The second son,

ROBERT BOND, removed to Beauchamp's Hache, in Somersetshire, and in the year 1431 (9th HENRY VI.) was seated at Lutton, in the Isle of Purbeck, in the county of Dorset, an estate he acquired in marriage with the daughter and heiress of a family of that name, and which has ever since continued in the possession of his descendants. He had issue two sons, viz.

ROBERT, his successor.

William, of Buckland, in the county of Somerset, who was father of DENIS, his successor.

John, of Chickerell, in the county of Dorset, who m. in 1528, Anne, daughter and heiress of John Holmsted, of Frierning, in the county of Essex, and from this alliance the BONDS of Essex derived, who made a difference in their arms to distinguish them as a younger branch, and bore arg. on a chevron sa. a bear's head erased, or, muzzled, gu. between two bezants.

William Bond dying in 1530, was s. by his son,

She was cruelly condemned to death on the pretended charge of high treason by Judge Jeffries, and beheaded at Winchester 2nd September, 1685. This judgment was afterwards reversed by act of parliament. (See State Trials.)

JOHN, fourth son, of whom hereafter.

The fourth son,

This gentleman, at the breaking out of the civil wars, joined the side of the parliament, being at that time one of the representatives for the borough of Dorchester. He subsequently rose high in the favour of CROMWELL, and had the confidence of the parliament as well as of the PROTECTOR. From the commencement of the civil war, he was of the committee for his own county, and from 1654 to 1656, he was M.P. for Weymouth, and one of the council of state from 1648 to 1652. He was likewise comptroller of the receipts of the exchequer, and was nominated one of the judges against the ill fated king; but although he had a real and fixed aversion to the rule of King CHARLES, yet he could not be prevailed upon to take his seat, or in any way to promote the murder of the monarch. Mr. Bond m. first, in 1610, Joane, daughter of John Gould, esq. of Dorchester, by whom he had issue,

"I say this is God's cause, and if ever God had a cause it is this, and if this be not God's cause, then God is no God for me; but the devil is got up into heaven." She had between five and six hundred pounds in her purse. Neither did she marry me for any great wealth, for I had in all the world but 100*l.* a year out of the Exchequer as a pension, and that was but during pleasure, and I was near a thousand pounds in debt; besides the Queen (ELIZABETH, his first cousin) was mightily displeased with me for marrying, and most of my best friends, only my father was no ways offended at it, which gave me great content." Of these sons, two, John and William, lost their lives in the service of their unfortunate master, while their gallant father hurled defiance to the rebels, from the battlements of Pendennis, and maintained his position to the very end of those unhappy conflicts, although besieged both by sea and land, being, as Lord Clarendon relates, then nearly four score years of age, and on one of the best estates and interests in the county of Cornwall.—"Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage."

Lineage.

The family of LEIGHTON was in England long before the NORMAN CONQUEST, and is styled by Camden in his Britannia, Nobilem, et Equestrem Familiam.

SIR TITUS DE LEIGHTON, Knight of the Sepulchre, son and heir of Cuthbert, and grandson and heir of Totilus de Leighton, was a co-founder, upon his return from the Holy Land, of the Abbey of Buldewas, in Salop, of which mention is made in some old manuscripts written by Roger and John Challengworth. The son of this gallant knight,

SIR RICHARD DE LEIGHTON, knt. had a reconveyance of the manor of Leighton from William Fitz Allan soon after the Conquest, and out of this manor, which lay close to the Abbey of Buldewas, Sir Richard gave lands to that house, as appears by his grant without date, inserted in Dugdale's Monasticon, prior to that in which King STEPHEN confirmed the said abbey. From this Sir Richard we pass over a long line of distinguished individuals to

EDWARD LEIGHTON, esq. of Watlesborough, in the county of Salop, who was created a BARONET on the 2nd March, 1692, and represented the shire in parliament in the reign of WILLIAM III. He m. first, Dorothy, daughter of Sir Job Charlton, bart. of Ludford, in the county of Hereford, and had surviving issue,

Lineage.

This very ancient Cumberland family is said to have been located at DYKESFIELD, in that shire prior to the NORMAN CONQUEST.

WILLIAM DEL DYKES was grandfather of

ROBERT DEL DYKES, who granted lands at Burgh to William del Monkys, in a deed supposed to have been made in the time of HENRY III. The grandson of this Robert,

WILLIAM DEL DYKES, living in the reign of EDWARD II., espoused Agnes, heiress of Sir Hugh Waverton, and had (with a daughter Agnes, the wife of J. de Ormsby,) a son and successor,

WILLIAM DEL DYKES, who flourished temp. EDWARD III. and was father of WILLIAM DEL DYKES. This gentleman represented the county of Cumberland in parliament, in the reign of Henry VI. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Lee, knt. of Isell, (a descendant of Lucea, daughter of Hugh, Earl of Chester, whose mother was

THOMAS DYKES, who was distinguished by devotion to the cause of CHARLES I., and eventually fell into the hands of the parliamentarians, being discovered concealed amongst the branches of a mulberry tree in front of his house. Thence he was conveyed to Cocker-mouth, and there had an offer made to him, that his property should be restored, if he simply recanted. This proposition he met however, with a decided negative, adding "prius frangitur quam flectitur," a sentiment since adopted as the family motto. This gallant cavalier m. first, Joyce Fretcheville, niece of Lord Fretcheville, of Staveley, and had issue,

This gentleman, whose patronimic is WARRINGTON, assumed by sign manual in 1811, the surname of CAREW, only. He had succeeded in 1802, in right of his mother, to the Shropshire estates, and inherited, in 1822, a moiety of the Pyncombe estates, in North Devon.

Lineage.

The CAREWS are one of the few families now remaining which can trace their descent without interruption, from the Anglo-Saxon period of English history.

OTHO, living in the time of EDWARD the Confessor, held several lordships in Hampshire, Buckinghamshire, and Middlesex, and was s. at his decease by his son,

WALTER FITZ OTHO, who, at the time of the general survey, appears by Domesday book to have enjoyed the same lordships which his father held. The name and family of this Walter's wife are in doubt, as likewise the seniority of his three sons.* Those sons were

WILLIAM, from whom derived the LORDS WINDSORE.

ROBERT, Lord of Eston.

GERALD.

The third in this list,

GERALD, sometimes styled DE WINDSORE, and at others FITZ WALTER, is called, in the Duke of Leinster's pedigree, the eldest son, but in the pedigree of the Earl of Kerry the youngest. He was appointed castellan of Pembroke Castle and lieutenant of the parts adjacent by King HENRY I. He m. Nesta, daughter of Rhys ap Tewdwr, Prince of South Wales, by whom he acquired the barony, manor, and castle of Carru, with seven other lordships. This Gerald was lineal ancestor of

SIR NICHOLAS CARRU, of Carru, a person of eminence in the reign of EDWARD I. who was summoned to the parliament held at Lincoln by that monarch. He had also two military summonses, and was at the celebrated siege of KARLAVAROK. Sir Nicholas subscribed the letter to the POPE with his appendant seal of three lions. His son and successor,

SIR JOHN CARRU, was father of

SIR JOHN CARRU, knight banneret, a gallant soldier and distinguished statesman, in the martial and victorious reign of EDWARD III. who was present, with his son, Sir John Carru, at the siege of Calais, and was afterwards constituted LORD DEPUTY OF IRELAND. He wedded Margaret, daughter of John, Lord Mohun, of Dunster, and was s. by his son,

SIR LEONARD CARRU, to whom succeeded his son,

* Refer to Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage.

SIR JOHN CAREW, who was knighted by King RICHARD II. and afterwards attained high distinction in the French wars of HENRY V. being one of the commanding officers at the AZINCOURT. Sir John Carew, in the same reign, was joined with Sir George Talbot, in the command of the navy, and obtained for his services a grant of one hundred marks per annum for life, payable by the receiver of Cornwall. This gallant person was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR NICHOLAS CAREW, lord of Carew, who wedded Joan, daughter of Sir Hugh Courtenay, of Hacombe, and had issue,

1. THOMAS (Sir), ancestor of Sir George Carew, earl of Totness.
2. Nicholas, of Hacombe, from whom the Carews (baronets) of that place derive.
3. Hugh, d. s. p.
4. Alexander, ancestor of the family of EAST ANTONY (See POLE-CAREW.)
5. William (Sir).

The fifth son,

SIR WILLIAM CAREW, acquired from his mother, the manors of Wicheband, Widebridge, Bokeland, &c. This gentleman was made a knight banneret by HENRY VII. after the battle of Blackheath. He had a son,

JOHN CAREW, esq. who wedded Margaret, daughter of William Kelly, esq. by whom he obtained the manors of Stoadley and Camerton, but dying s. p. was s. by his brother (or son),

GEORGE CAREW, esq. who was s. by his son,

THOMAS CAREW, esq. who m. Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of Hugh Biccombe, esq. lord of the manor of Crowcombe, and acquired thereby that estate. He was s. at his demise, in 1604, by his son,

SIR JOHN CAREW, knt. who inherited temp. JAMES I. Crowcombe, Clatworthy, Camerton, and Stoadley. This gentleman had, in that reign, a charter of free Warren, in Crowcombe, and a grant of CAREW CASTLE, which latter had been mortgaged by his ancestor, Sir Edmund Carew, to Sir Rhys ap Thomas, and had been forfeited to the crown, whence it was leased to Sir John Perrott, and others; the remainder of whose tenure was now purchased by Sir John Carew. He left at his demise in 1637, a son and successor, THOMAS CAREW, esq. of Carew Castle, and of Crowcombe, who m. Margery, daughter of Sir John Wyndham, of Orchard Wyndham, in the county of Somerset.

This gentleman suffered much for his loyalty to the HOUSE OF STUART, and had the honor of receiving a letter signed by King CHARLES I. commanding his attendance at Oxford. He survived those perilous times, and lived to witness the restoration of the monarchy. He left at his decease, in 1662, a son,

THOMAS CAREW, esq. whose son,

THOMAS CAREW, esq. of Carew Castle, espoused Elizabeth, daughter of John Sanford, esq. of Mynehead, and had issue,

THOMAS, his heir.

John, who inherited at the decease of Lady Carew, relict of Sir Coventry Carew, bart. in 1766, the manor of EAST ANTONY, &c. in Cornwall, but leaving no male issue, the Cornish estates passed, at his decease, to the family of POLE. He had, however, two daughters, viz.

MARY, of whom hereafter, as heiress of CAREW CASTLE, CROWCOMBE, &c.

Elizabeth.

The elder son,

THOMAS CAREW, esq. of Carew Castle, Camerton, Crowcombe, Clatworthy, and Stoadley, M.P. for Minehead in 1762, wedded Mary, daughter of Francis Drewe, esq. of Graunge, in the county of Devon, and had an only surviving daughter and heiress, ELIZABETH CAREW, who espoused JAMES BERNARD, esq. of the Middle Temple, but having no issue, the estates passed at her decease, under an entail to her first cousin, MARY CAREW, eldest daughter of John Carew, of East Antony, in Cornwall. This MARY wedded in 1794, GEORGE-HENRY WARRINGTON, esq. of Pentrepant, in Shropshire, who having assumed the surname and arms of his wife's family, is the present CAREW, OF CAREW.

This ancient family, which was seated at CALMADY, in Cornwall, at a very remote period, appears to have removed into Devonshire about the beginning of the sixteenth century.

JOHN CALMADY, of Calmady, living in 1460, was father of — CALMADY, who is supposed to have married the daughter of Francis Vincent. He had three sons, viz.

1. RICHARD, of Farwood, M.P. for Plympton in 1555, died in 1586, leaving three daughters.
2. VINCENT, of whom presently.
3. Andrew.

The second son,

VINCENT CALMADY, who is supposed to have erected the mansion of LANGDON HALL, m. first Maria, daughter and heir of Robert Nicks, of Lifton, in Cornwall, and had, with other issue, JOSIAS, his successor.

He espoused, secondly, Wylmote daughter of — Alford, by whom he had three sons and a daughter. His will bears date in 1579, and he was s. by his eldest son,

JOSIAS CALMADY, of Langdon, who inherited likewise the fortune of his uncle, Richard Calmady, of Farwood. This gentleman m. Catherine, daughter and heiress of Carew Courtenay,* grandson of Sir William Courtenay, of Powderham, and had, with other issue, his successor, at his decease in the beginning of the seventeenth century,

SIR SHILSTON CALMADY, who received the honor of knighthood in 1618. He m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of John Coplestone, esq. by whom, who d. in 1617, he had no surviving issue. He wedded secondly, Honora, daughter of Edward Fortesque, esq. of Fallow-pit, and relict of Sir H. Prideaux, kn. by whom he had three sons, viz.

JOSIAS, his heir.

Shilston, of Leawood, who espoused Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Humphry Gayer, esq. and had, with two daughters, two sons, viz.

JOSIAS, who eventually succeeded to the estates and representation of the family.

John, M.P. for Oakhampton.

Francis, of Combshead, in Cornwall. This gentleman rebuilt the mansion at that place, where his arms and the initials of his name, with the date 1663, remain over the gateway. He m. Joan, daughter and heiress of Walter Farsland, esq. of Bickington, in Devon, and was father of

FRANCIS CALMADY, esq. of Combs-

* This Carew Courtenay was son of Peter Courtenay, by Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of — Shilston, of Devonshire head, b. in 1664, who was s. in 1701, by his son,

FRANCIS CALMADY, esq. of Combshead, who m. Cecilia, daughter of Warwick Pollexfen, esq. of Mothecombe, in Devonshire, and had, with six other sons† and five daughters, who all died unmarried, his successor in 1747, FRANCIS VINCENT CALMADY, esq. of Combshead, of whom hereafter, as successor to the representation and estates of the branch of Langdon.

Sir Shilston Calmady was killed at the siege of Ford House during the civil wars. His widow survived him, and dying in 1663 was buried in Brideston church, where the following curious epitaph is to be seen upon her tomb :

“ Eight living branches still are springing found,
Though here the root lies dead within the ground.
Two husbands in their tombs divided lie,
Who both did in the bed of honor die ;
But now the king of terrors, oh unjust,
At length has laid their honor in the dust,
Till that which here is in dishonor sown
Be raised in honor to a glorious throne.”

Sir Shilston was s. by his eldest son,

JOSIAS CALMADY, esq. of Langdon, who m. first, Thomasine, daughter of Sir Richard Buller, knt. by whom he had two daughters. He espoused secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of John Coffin, esq. of Portledge, in Devon, and had two sons, Josias and Shilston, who both died young. This gentleman lived to an advanced age, and was principally occupied in relieving the distressed. In his last testament he was yet mindful of their wants, bequeathing twelve pence per week, in second bread, to the poor of the parish of Wembury, for ever, payable out of the rents in Colebrook, now the property of Earl Morley, to be distributed every Sunday, by the churchwardens. And leaving £500 to be raised out of the sheaf of the parish of Wembury, to purchase lands, the income accruing from the same to be applied to the relief of the parish, according to the provisions of his will ; which money has since been expended in the purchase of an estate, Higher Egcomb, and Rumsdown, in the parish of Milton Abbott, in the county of Devon. This benevolent person d. in 1682, and leaving no male issue, was s. by his nephew,

JOSIAS CALMADY, esq. of Leawood, M.P. for Oakhampton in 1680, and sheriff for the county of Devon, in 1688, who thus became also of Langdon. He m. first, Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of Edward Waldo, esq. (by the daughter and heiress of Potter), and by her, who d. in 1694, had (with two younger daughters, who d. unmarried),

JOSIAS, }
SHILSTON, } Successors in turn to the WALDO, } estates.

ELIZABETH, eventually heiress.

Mr. Calmady espoused secondly, Jane, dau. of Thomas Rolt, esq. of Milton, in the county of Devon, and had one daughter, b. in 1701. He was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

JOSIAS CALMADY, esq. of Langdon and Leawood, who served the office of sheriff for Devon, in 1694. He espoused — and had several children, who all died young. His widow died at the advanced age of 92, in 1756, and was buried in Marylebone church, London. Mr. Calmady was s. in 1714, by his next brother,

SHILSTON CALMADY, esq. of Langdon, M.P. for Saltash, at whose decease, unn. in 1730, the estates devolved upon his brother,

WALDO CALMADY, esq. of Langdon, who served the office of sheriff for Devon in 1728. He died issueless, in 1765, when the estates devolved upon his three sisters, as co-heirs, but the two younger dying unmarried, the property passed eventually to the eldest,

ELIZABETH CALMADY, who espoused John Pollexfen, esq. of Mothecombe, in Devonshire, high sheriff for the county in 1718, and left an only daughter and sole heiress,

ELIZABETH POLLEXFEN, (the last survivor of that ancient house), who married

FRANCIS VINCENT CALMADY, esq. of Combshead, (refer to issue of FRANCIS, third son of SIR SHILSTON CALMADY), and had issue,

FRANCIS, his heir.

ELIZABETH, m. to Christopher Hamlyn, esq. of Pascoe, in the county of Devon, and has a son, Calmady-Pollexfen Hamlyn, esq.

POLLEXFEN, of whom hereafter.

Mr. Calmady was s. at his decease, in 1765, by his only son,

FRANCIS CALMADY, esq. of Langdon, who died unmarried, and bequeathed his estates to his youngest sister,

POLLEXFEN CALMADY, who thus became of Langdon. This lady espoused Charles Holmes Everitt, esq. an admiral of the Red, who thereupon assumed by act of parliament, the surname and arms of CALMADY. By the heiress of Calmady, the admiral had issue,

Charles, who died young.

CHARLES-BIGGS, present possessor.

† One of these sons, WARWICK CALMADY, was a captain in the navy at the time Admiral Byng was shot at Portsmouth, and threw up his commission in disgust.

Arabella-Philippa, m. to C. U. Ustek-kys, esq.

Admiral Calmady d. in 1807, and was buried in the family vault, at Wembury, where a neat marble monument is erected to his memory, with the following inscription :

Near this place are deposited the remains of Charles Holmes Calmady, esq.

Admiral of the Blue, who departed this life,
15th March, 1807,

In the 54th year of his age.

In remembrance of his many virtues, of his grateful regard, and sincere affection to his wife, of his fatherly affection to his children, of his compassionate care of the poor and friendless, and of his benevolence to all,

This monument is erected, that the good
May be revered after they are gone hence, and
Are no more seen.

On him, who braves unhurt the battle's roar,
Who wreck'd, still treads again his native shore ;
On him, secure in midnight's peaceful hour,
May rush, O Death, thy desolating power.

There, Christian, watch, each hour instruct thine heart,

To seek, to find, to hold that better part ;
So on thy pillow calmly close thine eye,
Nor tremble, though thy last dread foe be nigh,
Nor wake but in the morning of eternity.

Admiral Calmady was s. by his only surviving son, CHARLES-BIGGS CALMADY, esq., of Langdon Hall, the present representative of this ancient family.

BRACEBRIDGE, OF ATHERSTONE HALL.

BRACEBRIDGE, CHARLES-HOLTE, esq. of Atherstone Hall, in the county of Warwick, b. in March, 1799, m. in 1824, Selina, daughter of William Mills, esq. of Bisterne, in the county of Hants.

Mr. Bracebridge succeeded to the representation of the family at the decease of his father, 21st August, 1832.

Lineage.

This family derives from TURCHILL DE WAREWICK, a Saxon, who, at the period of the CONQUEST, had the reputation of an EARL, and its present representative still retains of the original possessions of this ancestor a rent charge in Kingsbury, the principal seat of the said TURCHILL. Dug-dale says, that this noble Saxon, who was descended from Guy, Earl of Warwick and King Ethelstan, in imitation of the Norman and his followers, assuming a surname, adopted that of ARDEN, a designation given to a woodland tract of the county of Warwick.

TURCHILL DE WAREWICK espoused, first,
—, and had a son,

SEWARD DE ARDEN, living temp. HEN-RY I. who was father of

HENRY DE ARDEN, whose son,

THOMAS DE ARDEN, living in the reign of JOHN, contested for some years with his kinsman, JOHN DE BRACEBRIDGE, the inheritance of Kingsbury, but was eventually forced to abandon his pretensions.

The earl m. secondly, Leverunia, with whom he acquired the manor of Kingsbury, in the county of Warwick, and by her had a son,

OSBERT DE ARDEN, whose service for the manor of Kingsbury, RANUPH, Earl of Chester, granted in the time of STEPHEN, to

Robert Marmion, of Tamworth Castle, and his heirs. This Osbert had issue, OSBERT, his successor.

AMICIA, of whom presently, as heir to her nieces.

The son,

OSBERT DE ARDEN, Lord of Kingsbury, had two daughters, his co-heirs, namely,

ADELIZA DE ARDEN, wife of Simon de Harcourt
and

AMABIL DE ARDEN, wife of Robert Fitz Walter.

These ladies dying both issueless, the lordship of Kingsbury devolved upon their aunt, AMICIA DE ARDEN, wife of

PETER DE BRACEBRIDGG, who had assumed his surname from a place so called, near Lincoln, of which he was LORD. "This Peter," says Dugdale, "was a militarie man, for I find that he gave unto William, the son of Fundus, and his heirs, certain lands within the precinct of this lordship, to the intent that the said William should, upon lawful warning, carry hither to Kingsbury, such painted lances from London or Northampton at the charge of him, the said Peter, as he might have occasion to use in any tournament then, and that whensoever the said Peter should take a journey beyond sea, for performance of such martial exploits, he the said William should attend to bring back his lances." Peter Bracebridgg and his wife confirmed a grant of lands, and the advowson of Kingsbury Church, made by Osbert de Arden, to the nuns of Mergate. The validity of this grant was afterwards, unsuccessfully, contested by Sir Ralph de Bracebridge. Peter was s. at his decease by his elder son,

JOHN DE BRACEBRIDGG, Lord of Kingsbury, who encountered much difficulty in defending his inheritance from his cousin, Thomas de Arden; but eventually succeeded. He d. issueless, in the 2nd of HENRY III. and his estates devolved upon his brother,

WILLIAM DE BRACEBRIDGG, Lord of Kingsbury, who was constituted, in the 19th of HENRY III. a justice of assize at Warwick. This William confirmed to the monks of Merevale the grant of a yard land in Holt, made to them by John, his deceased brother; and whatsoever else the said John had given to that monastery. He was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR RALPH DE BRACEBRIGG, knt. Lord of Kingsbury, who received the honor of knighthood in the 33rd of HENRY III. He left at his decease, a daughter, Matilda, m. to Thomas de Clinton, and a son, his successor,

SIR JOHN DE BRACEBRIGG, knt. who in the 40th of HENRY III. paid a fine of two marks in gold to the king, that his knighthood might be postponed for three years; during which dispensation being amerced at a mark by the Justices Itinerant, in Lincolnshire, for not being a knight, he obtained a special mandate to the barons of the Exchequer, for acquitting him of that penalty. Subsequently adhering to the barons, who took up arms in the 48th of this reign, he was made prisoner by the royal army, at the surprisal of Northampton, confined at Shrewsbury, and compelled to surrender his lordship to Roger de Clifford. Obtaining his liberty he fled with the younger Simon de Montford, to the Isle of Arholme, where he remained until the total discomfiture of his party, when submitting, he regained his lands under the "Dictum de Kenilworth." He fell afterwards into such pecuniary embarrassments, owing to the heavy fines he had to pay, that he was obliged to make a lease of nearly his whole lordship, to Robert de Typetot. He was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR JOHN DE BRACEBRIGG, knt. who in the 3rd of EDWARD II. had a special patent from the crown, exempting him from serving upon juries, or executing the offices of sheriff, escheator, coroner, &c. He d. in six years afterwards, leaving a son,

SIR JOHN DE BRACEBRIGG, who was s. by (his supposed uncle),

SIR RALPH DE BRACEBRIGG, knt. who in the 11th of EDWARD III. levied a fine of two parts of the manor of Kingsbury; and in the 19th of the same monarch, had a military summons to attend the king with horse and arms into France. In three years afterwards he had an especial patent of exemption from the offices of sheriff, escheator, &c. He was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN DE BRACEBRIGG, knt. at whose decease the estates devolved upon his brother,

SIR RALPH DE BRACEBRIGG, knt. styled in an inquisition taken in the 1st of HENRY IV. "Frater Johannis de Bracebrigg Militis." In the 7th of HENRY V. Sir Ralph was summoned the first amongst other persons of note, "Arma portantes, de armis antiquis," as expressed in the writ, to attend the king in person, for the defence of the realm. In the same year he took a lease of the manor house, park, &c. at Lutton, of Richard Beauchamp, then Earl of Warwick, to hold for life. He was afterwards retained by the said earl, who was lieutenant-general of France, to serve him with nine lances and seventeen archers in defence of Calais. This Sir Ralph de Bracebrigg, it appears, (from an old MS. book of Sir Simon Archer, the antiquarian friend of Dugdale) in 1414, attended, with eleven other knights of ancient family, Henry V. to Paris, on the occasion of the coronation of Charles VI. of France. His son,

RALPH BRACEBRIGG, of Kingsbury, espoused, in the 13th of HENRY IV. Joan, daughter of Sir William Newport, knt. and was s. by his son,

RALPH BRACEBRIGG, of Kingsbury, who was s. by his brother,

SIMON BRACEBRIGG, of Kingsbury, who was s. by his son,

RICHARD BRACEBRIGG, of Kingsbury, who m. Joyce Willoughby, and was s. by his grandson,

THOMAS BRACEBRIGG, esq. (a son of Simon Bracebrigg, by Elizabeth, daughter of William Harewell, of Wotton-Waven). This gentleman being deeply indebted to Sir Ambrose Cave, knt. chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, passed by a deed of sale to him the inheritance of his manor and domains. He m. first, Johanna, daughter of George Catesby, esq. of Lapworth, and had with three younger sons,

WILLIAM, who wedded Anne, daughter of Julian Nethermill, a citizen of Coventry, and dying in the 2nd of ELIZABETH, left issue,

Michael, died s. p. in four years after his father.

Margery, m. first, to W. Willington, and secondly, to B. East, esq.

Jane, m. to Lionel Skipwith, esq.

Thomas Bracebrigg espoused secondly, (when he disinherited his children by his first wife) Jocosa, daughter of Thomas Wilton, and had issue,

THOMAS, who was made heir by his father, but having, according to Dugdale, greatly entangled himself in debt, he eventually sold the remainder of the manor of Kingsbury, to Sir Francis Willoughby, knt. of Middleton, and through great improvidence died in extreme want. He m. Alicia, daughter of John Rugeley, esq. of Dunton, and left at his decease in 1607, inter alios,

JOHN, who espoused Susan, daughter of Thomas Cotton, and had an only daughter,

ANNE, the wife of M. Sanders, of Bedworth.

Edmund, m. Dorothy, daughter of R. Rugeley, esq. of Dunton. This line is now extinct.

FAMILY OF HOLTE; OF ASTON,

NOW REPRESENTED BY MR. BRACEBRIDGE.

The ancient deeds and writings of this family having been destroyed when ASTON HOUSE was plundered, in the time of the rebellion, 1641, the first of its members that can be traced is

SIR HUGH HOLTE, living 14 Edward II. who wedded Matilda, daughter of Sir Henry de Erdington, (by Joan, his wife, daughter and co-heir of Sir Thomas de Wolvey,) and was s. by his son,

JOHN HOLTE, who m. temp. Edward II. Alice de Castello, or Castell, daughter, and at length sole heir, of Sir George de Castell, descended from the Castells, ancient Lords of Withbrooke, in the county of Warwick; and, through a female from Reginald de Asseles, Lord of Nechels. In the 4th of Edward III. Alice, (then widow of Sir George, niece and heir to Aliva, one of the co-heirs to Simon de Asseles,) in consideration of forty pounds, passed away all her inheritance in the manor, to her grandson,

SIMON DEL HOLTE (son of the above John). This Simon m. Albeda de Birmingham, (daughter of a noble and eminent house in Ireland,) and had two sons, JOHN and Walter, by the elder of whom,

JOHN ATTE-HOLTE, he was succeeded. From this John we pass to his descendants,

WILLIAM HOLTE, esq. who m. Margaret, daughter of William Cumberford, esq. of Cumberford, in Staffordshire, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM HOLTE, esq. This gentleman espoused a daughter of Adam Knight, esq. of Shrewsbury, and was s. in 1419 by his eldest son,

THOMAS HOLTE, esq. an eminent lawyer, and justice, of North Wales, in the time of HENRY VIII. He m. Margaret, eldest daughter and co-heir of William Willington, esq. of Barcheston, in the county of Warwick, who, surviving him, became afterwards the wife of Sir Ambrose Cave, knt. chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster in the reign of ELIZABETH. Thomas Holte was s. by his son,

EDWARD HOLTE, esq. high sheriff of the county of Warwick, in the 25th of Elizabeth. He m. Dorothy, daughter of John Ferrers, esq. of Tamworth Castle, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR THOMAS HOLTE, knt. of Aston, who received the honour of knighthood from King JAMES I. in his majesty's progress from Scotland to London, and was created a BARONET on the 25th November, 1612. Of this baronet Dugdale says, that "by him was enclosed a fair park here, (at Aston,) and a noble fabrick therein erected, which, for beauty and state, much exceedeth any in these parts." In 1643 he bravely defended this house against 1,200 of the rebel army, and thereby enabled King Charles, who was then his guest, to escape. He submitted, after inflicting a loss of 60 men upon the enemy. Aston Hall still bears the marks of the cannon shot. Sir Thomas was fined by the parliament for his loyalty, in the sum of £4,401. 2s. 4d. as appears from Doing's Catalogue (published 1655) of the Lords, Knights, and Gentlemen, who compounded for their estates. Sir Thomas d. in 1654, and was s. by (the son of his deceased son, Edward Holte, one of the grooms of the bedchamber to King CHARLES I. by his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. John King, Bishop of London,) his grandson,

He m. Jane,* daughter of Sir William Brereton, kn. of Brereton, in Cheshire, and sister, and finally heiress, of Lord Brereton, of the kingdom of Ireland, and was s. by his son,

SIR CHARLES HOLTE, third baronet, M. P. for the county of Warwick, temp. JAMES II. He wedded Anne, eldest daughter and co-heir of Sir John Clobery, kn. of Bradstone, in the county of Devon, (by Anne, his second wife, daughter of George Cranmer, esq. a descendant of the celebrated Archbishop Cranmer,) and, dying 20th June, 1722, was s. by his son,

SIR CLOBERY HOLTE, fourth baronet. This gentleman espoused Barbara, daughter and heir of Thomas Lister esq. of Whitfield,

* This lady becoming the heiress of her great nephew, Francis, the last Lord Brereton, who died 1722, brought the noble mansion and estate of Brereton into the Holte family. She was lineally descended from the seven Earls of Chester, of whom the first, Hugh Lupus, was the nephew of the Conqueror.

in Northamptonshire, and, dying in 1729, was s. by his son,

SIR LISTER HOLTE, fifth baronet, who m. first in 1739, the Lady Anne Legge, youngest daughter of William, Earl of Dartmouth. He espoused, secondly, Mary, youngest daughter of Sir John Harpur, bart. of Calk, in the county of Derby; and thirdly, (in 1754,) Sarah, daughter of Samuel Newton, esq. of King's Bromley, in Staffordshire; but died, s. p. in 1769, when the title and estates devolved upon his brother, CHARLES - HOLTE BRACEBRIDGE, esq.

Sir Charles died in 1782, when the BARONETCY became EXTINCT. Under the will of Sir Lister, who died in 1769, the manors of Brereton and Aston were settled on his brother, Sir Charles, for his life, with remainder to his issue male; remainder to H. Legge, esq. and his issue male; remainder to L. Bagot, Bishop of Norwich, and his issue male; remainder to W. Digby, esq. and his issue male; and, lastly, remainder to the right heirs of the said Sir Lister Holte. Sir Charles left only one daughter, and the estates, thus in reversion, were estimated at about £800,000, in fee. In 1817, an act of parliament was obtained for the dismemberment of the estates, to satisfy the claims of the assignees and mortgagees of Abraham Bracebridge, esq. and other family claims, as well as to indemnify Mr. Legge and Mr. Digby, (both being without heirs male,) for the resignation of their respective interests. Under this act the estates have been sold.

Lineage.

The name of DE STURY, STURGE, or STORIE, has held an honorable place in our records from the earliest era, having been at various periods connected with trusts of distinctions, with knightly degree, and with episcopal rank.

From an ancient line in the north of England (where and in Salop the name chiefly flourished) descended

JAMES STORIE, esq. who was born about the end of the reign of Queen ELIZABETH, and removed from the north of England into Renfrewshire, where he possessed considerable property. He d. at an advanced age, in 1679, leaving issue,

JOHN, his successor.

James, who d. unmarried.

The elder son,

WELLWOOD, OF GARVOCK.

WELLWOOD, ANDREW-MOFFATT, esq. of Garvock, in the county of Fife, a deputy lieutenant for that shire, m. Miss Taylor, and has an only daughter, ANNE. Mr. Wellwood s. to the estates upon the demise issueless of his brother in 1820.

Lineage.

The Wellwoods of Souch and Garvock are of long standing, and considerable antiquity. They were originally nobles of Denmark, but the degree of rank which they enjoyed in that kingdom, before their settlement in Scotland, cannot now be ascertained. The name, anciently written Velvod, Velvod, Welwod, was brought into North Britain by a Danish courtier, entrusted by the King of Denmark with the conduct to Scotland of his daughter, Princess Anne, the queen consort to King JAMES VI. This honorable personage, bearing the name of VELVUD, received from his royal mistress the lands of Souch (which have ever since formed part of the estate), and the armorial bearings of the house.

VELVUD OF SOUCH, son of the founder, left two sons, viz.

1. WILLIAM, his heir.
2. Henry, whose son,

SIR THOMAS WELLWOOD, b. in 1652, was a physician, and an historical writer of eminence. He studied at Glasgow, whence he removed into Holland with his parents, who were compelled to flee from Scotland, in consequence of being suspected of aiding in the murder of Archbishop Sharpe. Having completed his education at Leyden, and taken the degree of M.D., he returned with King WILLIAM at the revolution. Being involved in debt, he borrowed money about this time from the Laird of Garvock, his cousin, promising to repay him when he should come to London. Garvock, contrary to his expectations, did visit that city some years subsequently, when Dr. Wellwood presented his relation at court, as the chief of his family, but never paid the debt. Dr. Thomas Wellwood was afterwards knighted, and appointed one of the royal physicians for Scotland. He attained great eminence in his profession, and acquired a considerable fortune. Sir Thomas Wellwood was author of Memoirs of England, from the year 1588 to 1688, 8vo. : a work of merit, though occasionally tinged with the prejudices and prepossessions of one, who had been a sufferer in the civil contests of the period to which his History refers. He d. in 1716.

WILLIAM WELLWOOD, esq. of Souch, espoused, in 1635, Margaret, youngest daughter of Nichol Wardlaw, of Wester-Luscar, Colonel Kingscote succeeded his uncle in 1773, and never having married, entailed his estates upon the children of his brother, the late Thomas Kingscote, esq.

Lineage.

"It may be said," says Smythe, of Nibley, "of this family, as doubtless of noe other in the county of Gloucester, nor, I think of many others in this kingdome, that the present Mr. Kingscote, and his lineal ancestors have continued in this manor nowe about 500 yeares, never attained, nor dwellinge out of it elsewhere, nor hath the tide of his estate higher or lower flowe or ebbed, in better or worse condition; but like a fixed star in his firmament to have remained without motion in this his little orbe, without any remarkable change; and as to the name of the first ancestor that is not perished, ANSGERUS; it importeth that it is hereditary Saxon."

HELYAR, WILLIAM, esq. of Coker Court, in the county of Somerset, and of Sedgehill, in Wiltshire, b. 14th May, 1778, m. Harriet, daughter of T. Grove, esq. of Ferne House, in the latter county, and has issue,

Mr. Helyar succeeded at the decease of his father 31st August, 1820. He is in the commission of the peace for the counties of Wilts, Somerset, and Devon, and he served the office of sheriff for Somersetshire in 1829.

Lineage.

This family came originally from the county of Devon, where it appears to have been of importance, for we find one WILLIAM HELYAR representing Melcomb-Regis in parliament, in the reigns of RICHARD II. and HENRY IV. In 1616,

WILLIAM HELYAR, archdeacon of Barnstaple, in the diocese of Exeter, and canon residentiary of the Cathedral of St. Peter's in that city, purchased the manor of EAST COKER, with the advowson of the parish of Hardington Mandeville, from Sir Robert Phelps. In this parish he subsequently built an alms-house for twelve poor men and women, and endowed it with an estate in the parish of Whitchurch, in the county of Dorset. Archdeacon Helyar, who had been chaplain to Queen ELIZABETH, was one of the first Fellows of Chelsea College, nominated by King JAMES I. He was made canon of the church of Exeter, in 1602, and became archdeacon in 1605. When the rebels during the civil war, were ravaging the cathedral and plundering the royalists at Exeter, the venerable canon, then between eighty and ninety years of age, was dragged from his bed at midnight, and hurried on board a ship, where he was detained in close custody, subjected to the most barbarous treatment, until he had consented to pay the sum of eight hundred pounds for his redemption. The following is a copy of the protection he thus purchased. "Whereas Archdeacon Helyar has submitted and sent eight hundred pounds to the parliament upon the propositions. These are therefore, to require all the forces of the parliament to take notice thereof and to protect him in his person, family, and goods, strictly charging and commanding that no man henceforth, molest or trouble him. January 19, 1642, signed, Jo. Northcote, Sam. Rolle," &c. &c.

HORTON, OF HOWROYDE.

HORTON, THE REVEREND JOSHUA-THOMAS, of Howroyde, in the county of York, vicar of Ormskirk, m. 6th November, 1832, Harriet, eldest daughter of Sir Thomas Dalrymple Hesketh, bart. of Rufford Hall.

Mr. Horton inherited the estates at the decease of his father in December, 1830.

Lineage.

The antiquity of the family of HORTON is established by the fact, that one ROBERT DE HORTON, manumitted a bondman to his manor of Horton, long before the time of Henry Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, who died in 1310; it is also ascertained that the Hortons had a manor house in Great Horton, with a mill and certain demesne lands thereunto belonging, at a very remote period.

WILLIAM HORTON, descended from the above mentioned Robert, living in 1603, wedded Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Hanson, esq. of Toothill, and had issue,

Mr. Margesson was high sheriff of the county of Sussex in 1805. He succeeded to the estates at the decease of his father, 19th May, 1785.

Lineage.

The surname of MARGESSON is presumed to be of Norman French origin; according to tradition, it was, in early times, "ARGENSON," a name of some distinction still in France. In a pedigree in the Herald's College, the mode of spelling it varies. It seems to have been written, indifferently, Margesson, Margetson, and Margeston; and we find it so varied in some MS. writings in the British Museum. Whitaker, in his History of Richmondshire, calls the Archbishop of Armagh (of this family) Margerison, while in Thoresby's Diary, he is styled Margaretson. The family held lands in the county of York, towards the close of the reign of RICHARD II. or in the beginning of HENRY IV. before the year 1400.

JOHN MARGETSON, or MARGESSON, of Wakefield, living in 1400, was father of RICHARD MARGETSON, of Rotherham, living in 1430, who had two sons, viz.

1. Thomas, whose great-great-grandson, JAMES, having taken holy orders, became eventually ARCHBISHOP of ARMAGH, and PRIMATE of ALL IRELAND. He was born in 1600, at Drighlington, in Yorkshire, and educated at St. Peter's College, Cambridge. His first preferment was the living of Watlass, in his native county; but he soon afterwards became chaplain of the celebrated EARL OF STRAFFORD, and went over to Ireland with that nobleman, then constituted lord lieutenant, when he was made Dean of Christ Church, Dublin. Dr. Margesson lived in seclusion during the usurpation. He was consecrated Archbishop of Dublin in 1660, and translated to Armagh in 1663. His grace founded a free-school at his native place; and dying in 1678, was buried in Christ Church, Dublin. He left several children.

2. RICHARD.

The second son,

RICHARD MARGETSON, of Rotherham, m. about the year 1480, a daughter of William Newdigate, with whom, acquiring considerable estates in Surrey, he settled in that county. The family of Newdigate possessed the greater part of Leith Hill, with the manor of Wootton; and a large proportion of the lands upon this hill belonged, within these few years, to the Margessons. The manor has passed to another proprietor, but some part of the landed property still remains in the adjoining manor of OCKLEY. The great-great grandson of this Richard,

JOHN MARGETSON, espoused, 7th September, 1636, Katharine, daughter of — Parker, and had, with other issue,

WILLIAM, b. in 1655.

Anne, m. to — Wycker, esq. of Knep, and Horsham Park, Sussex, and was mother of

When Bristol fell into the hands of Prince RUPERT, he was constituted treasurer and paymaster to the garrison there, but was made prisoner in 1641, at the fatal battle of Worcester. In recompence of these eminent services, he was named one of the knights of the Royal Oak, but that ORDER never taking place, he received the honor of knighthood in 1663: at which time he was a commissioner of the alienation office, surveyor-general of the Outports, and one of the chief farmers of the Customs. Sir Edmund Turner's benevolence and public spirit were exemplary, and several acts of munificence remain lasting monuments of his character. He endowed the vicarage of Milton Erneys (the place of his birth,) with the inappropriate tithes of the parish, while at the same time he rebuilt the vicarage house and offices. And as Bishop Kennet expresses himself, "that his piety to the church might the better be consecrated by his charity to the poor," he erected an hospital for six poor persons, and endowed it with lands to the value of twenty pounds per annum. At Stoke Rochford he built the alms house, and at Wragley, in Lincolnshire, an hospital for twelve poor persons, whereof six were to be the widows of clergymen, and the remainder poor men and women of that town. After performing various other acts of munificence, this eminent and excellent person d. in 1707, leaving by his wife, Margaret, daughter of Sir John Harrison,* knt. of Stoke

He was afterwards (15th June, 1220) one of the guarantees to the marriage contract between ALEXANDER II. and the Princess JOAN of England, and he assisted at the royal nuptials. Sir John Macuswell acquired the barony of Karlaverok, and was constituted GREAT CHAMBERLAIN of Scotland, in 1231. His son and heir, EUMERUS DE MASCUSWELL, of Karlaverok, was GREAT CHAMBERLAIN of Scotland, in 1258. He espoused Mary, daughter and heiress of Roland de Mearns, and acquired thereby the barony and castle of Mearns. By this lady he had two sons, HERBERT (Sir), his heir.

John (Sir), upon whom his father conferred the barony of Nether-Pollock, in the county of Refrew. From this John have descended the MAXWELLS of Pollock, the MAXWELLS of Calderwood and of Cardness, baronets; the MAXWELLS, Earls of Farnham, and the family of Maxwell, of Park Hill, near Newark.

The elder son,

SIR HERBERT DE MAXESWELL sate in the parliament of Scone, (5th Feb. 1283-4), when the nobles agreed to acknowledge the "MAIDEN OF NORWAY," as Queen of Scotland. He died before the year 1300, having had three sons, namely Sir John, who predeceased him, SIR HERBERT, and ALEXANDER. His successor was his second son,

SIR HERBERT MAXWELL of Karlaverok, who was s. by his son,

SIR EUSTACE MAXWELL, the gallant defender of KARLAVEROK against the power of EDWARD I. Of this celebrated fortress there is a minute and interesting description in an old heraldic French poem, which recites the names and armorial ensigns of the knights and barons who accompanied the English monarch in 1300, in his expedition to Scotland by the western marches, then under the guardianship of Sir Eustace, as Lord Warden. Karlaverock was attacked, and at that time taken. The original of the poem alluded to is preserved in the British Museum, and the passage describing the situation and form of the castle is thus rendered by Grose:

"Karlaverok was a castle so strong that it did not fear a siege, therefore on the king's arrival it refused to surrender; it being well furnished against sudden attempts, with soldiers, engines, and provisions. Its figure was that of a shield (the ancient shield was triangular), for it had only three sides, with a tower on each angle, one of them a lumellated or double one, so high, so long, and so spacious, that under it was the gate, with a turning or drawbridge, well made and strong, with a sufficiency of other defences. There were also good walls, and deep moats filled to the brim with water. And it is my opinion, no one will ever see a castle more beautifully situated, for at one view one might behold towards the west the Irish sea, towards the north a delightful country encompassed by an arm of the sea, so that no creature born could approach it on two sides, without putting himself in danger from the sea; nor was it an easy matter towards the south, it being, as by the sea on the other side, there encircled by the river, woods, bogs, and trenches; wherefore the army was obliged to attack it on the east, where there was a mount."

The castle after sustaining an assault, at length surrendered, when the remnant of the garrison, only sixty in number, were in consequence of their brave defence, taken into the service of the king, and with their release, ransom free, obtained each a new garment.

Some time subsequently, it was retaken by the Scotch, and Sir Eustace Maxwell, the steady friend of King ROBERT BRUCE, assumed the command. It was again invested by "PROUD EDWARD," but the gallant governor, after sustaining his post with heroic resolution for some weeks, had the glory of driving the foreigner at length from his walls. Lest, however, it should afterwards fall into the hands of the foe, he caused it immediately to be dismantled and rased to the ground. For which generous devotion to his country's cause, "THE BRUCE" conferred upon him several territorial grants, pro fractione et prostratione Castri de Carlaverok, &c. The king also remitted him and his heirs for ever, the sum of ten pounds sterling, which was payable to the crown yearly out of the lands of Carlaverok.*

Sir Eustace Maxwell wedded a lady of his own family, Helen Maxwell, and was s. by his son,

HERBERT MAXWELL, who died s. p. and was s. by his uncle,

JOHN MAXWELL, who was made prisoner at the battle of Durham in 1346, and dying soon after, was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN MAXWELL, of Maxwell and Carlaverock, who sat in the parliament at Edinburgh, in 1357, and had a safe conduct into England in 1365. This Sir John left a daughter, Agnes, the wife of Robert Pollock, of Pollock, and a son, his successor,

SIR ROBERT MAXWELL, of Carlaverock. This gentleman was ambassador to England in 1413, and dying in seven years afterwards, was s. by his son,

SIR HERBERT MAXWELL, of Carlaverock, who was appointed steward of Annandale, by his kinsman, Archibald, Earl of Douglas. He wedded Margaret, daughter and heiress of Sir John de Cragie, of Cragie, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT MAXWELL, of Carlaverock, one of the heroes of BANNOCKBURN, and slain in that celebrated battle, anno 1448. He had m. Janet, daughter of Sir John Forrester, chamberlain of Scotland, and left a son,

HERBERT MAXWELL, of Carlaverock, deemed the first LORD MAXWELL, who wedded, first, a daughter of Sir Herbert Herries of Terregles, and had two sons,

ROBERT, his successor.

EDWARD (Sir), of Monreith, ancestor of the Maxwells, barts. of that place.

His Lordship espoused, secondly, Katherine, daughter of Sir William Seton, of Seton, and had, with other children, GEORGE, from whom sprang the MAXWELLS of GARNALLOCK, and ADAM, the MAXWELLS of SOUTHBAR. Lord Maxwell's eldest son,

ROBERT, second LORD MAXWELL, was served heir to his father on the 4th February, 1453, and he sat as a peer in parliament, anno 1467. His lordship espoused the Lady Janet Crichton, daughter of George, Earl of Caithness, and was s. by his son

JOHN, third Lord Maxwell, who m. Agnes, daughter of Sir Alexander Stewart, of Gallies, and, falling at Floddenfield, was s. by his son, ROBERT, fourth Lord Maxwell, hereditary sheriff of Kirkcudbright, and guardian of the West Marches. This nobleman wedded, first, Janet, daughter of William, sixth Lord Douglas of Drumlanrig, (ancestor of the Dukes of Queensbury), and had issue,

ROBERT, his successor.

John, (Sir) who wedded AGNES, eldest daughter and heiress of William Herries, fourth LORD HERRIES, of Terregles, in the county of Dumfries, and became, jure uxoris, LORD HERRIES, of Terregles. His lordship was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM MAXWELL, sixth LORD HERRIES of Terregles, who wedded Katharine Kerr, sister of Mark, first Earl of Lothian, and dying in 1604, was s. by his son,

JOHN MAXWELL, seventh LORD HERRIES, of Terregles, who espoused ELIZABETH, daughter of John, sixth Lord Maxwell, afterwards Earl of Morton, and dying about the year 1627, left a son, JOHN MAXWELL, eighth LORD HERRIES, of whom hereafter, as third Earl of NITHSDALE.

The fourth Lord Maxwell espoused, secondly, Agnes, natural daughter of James, Earl of Buchan, relict of Adam, second Earl of Bothwell. He d. in 1546, and was s. by his elder son,

ROBERT, fifth Lord Maxwell, of Carlaverock, warden of the West Marches, who wedded Lady Beatrix Douglas, second daughter of James, Earl of Morton, and dying in 1552, was s. by his son,

* Carlaverock seems however, to have been again fortified, for in the year 1355, it was taken by Roger Kirkpatrick, and, as, Mayjor says, "levelled with the ground." Probably it was never more repaired, but its materials employed to erect a new building. The frequent sieges and dismantlings it had undergone might, in all likelihood, have injured its foundation.

JOHN, sixth Lord Maxwell, guardian of the West Marches. Upon the execution and attainder of the Regent MORTON, Lord Maxwell obtained as representative of his mother, a new charter of the earldom of Morton, ratified by parliament, but the attainder being rescinded, he was deprived of the dignity which passed in 1585, to the heir of entail. His lordship espoused Elizabeth Douglas, daughter of David, thirteenth Earl of Douglas, and seventh Earl of Angus, and had issue,

JOHN, Lord Maxwell.

ROBERT, who inherited after his brother. Elizabeth, who m. John Maxwell, sixth LORD HERRIES, of Terregles, and had a son,

JOHN, seventh Lord Herries, who succeeded his cousin as third EARL OF NITHSDALE.

He d. in 1593, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN, seventh Lord Maxwell. A feud subsisting between the houses of Maxwell and Johnston, this nobleman slew Sir James Johnston in a rencounter, and fleeing from Scotland in consequence, he was betrayed by the Earl of Caithness, and subsequently tried, beheaded, and attainted in 1613. His lordship had married the lady Margaret Hamilton, daughter of John, first Marquess Hamilton, Duke of Chatelherault, but had no issue. His brother,

ROBERT, eighth Lord Maxwell, was created in 1620, Lord Maxwell of Eskdale and Carlyle, and EARL OF NITHSDALE, in remainder to heirs male, and with precedence of his father's Earldom of Morton (in 1581). This nobleman was celebrated, like his gallant ancestor, Sir Eustace Maxwell, in the time of EDWARD I., by a brave defence of Karloverock, against the parliamentarians in 1640. His Lordship wedded Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Francis Beaumont, and dying in 1644, was s. by his son,

ROBERT, second Earl of Nithsdale, hereditary sheriff of Kirkcudbright. His lordship dying unmarried in 1667, was s. by his cousin,

JOHN MAXWELL, eighth LORD HERRIES of Terregles, as third Earl of Nithsdale. His lordship espoused Elizabeth, sister of John Gordon, first Viscount Kenmure, and was s. at his decease by his son, ROBERT, fourth Earl of Nithsdale, who wedded the Lady Lucy Douglas, daughter of William, first Marquess Douglas. His lordship d. in 1695, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM, fifth Earl of Nithsdale. This nobleman, so celebrated for effecting his escape from the Tower of London, 23rd February, 1716, the night before his intended execution, through the heroic agency of his devoted and incomparable countess, was attainted, and the honors of the senior branch of the HOUSE OF MAXWELL, "the MAXWELLS OF CARLAVEROCK," have ever since been obscured by that penal proceeding (see Lady Nithsdale's letter, at the conclusion of this article). His lordship espoused the Lady WINIFRED HERBERT, youngest daughter of William, first Marquess of Powiss, and dying at Rome, in 1744, was s. by his only surviving son,

JOHN MAXWELL, styled Earl of Nithsdale, who espoused his first cousin, Lady Catharine Stewart, daughter of Charles, fourth Earl of Traquair, (by Lady Mary Maxwell, daughter of Robert, fourth Earl of Nithsdale,) and had an only daughter, his successor, at his decease in 1776,

LADY WINIFRED MAXWELL, who, but for the attainder of her grandfather, would have inherited the BARONY OF HERRIES, of TERREGLES. Her ladyship had espoused, in 1758, WILLIAM HAGGERSTON-CONSTABLE,* esq. (second son of Sir Carnaby Haggerston, bart. of Haggerston Castle, in the county of Northumberland,) and had three sons and two daughters, viz.

1. MARMADUKE-WILLIAM, heir to his father and mother.
2. WILLIAM, who assumed the surname of MIDDLETON, upon succeeding to the seats of Stockeld and Middleton, in Yorkshire, being the estates of the family of his grandmother, Eliz. Middleton. (See Middleton, of Stockeld).
3. Charles, who assumed the surname and arms of STANLEY only. He espoused first, in 1793, Elizabeth, sister and heiress of Sir William Stanley, bart. of Hooton, and secondly, in 1800, Miss Macdonald.
4. Mary, m. to John-Webb Weston, esq. of Sutton Place, in Surrey.
5. Theresa.

Mr. Constable-Maxwell died in 1797, and her ladyship in 1801. Both were succeeded by their eldest son, MARMADUKE WILLIAM CONSTABLE, esq.

* SIR THOMAS HAGGERSTON, bart. m. first, Margaret, dau. of Sir Francis Howard, knt. of Corby Castle, and had nine sons and a daughter. The eldest son, Thomas, was killed in Ireland, in the service of King JAMES II. and died unmarried. The second son,

WILLIAM HAGGERSTON, m. Anne, daughter of Sir Philip Constable, bart. of Everingham, county York, and dying before his father, left, with three daughters, an only son, CARNABY.

Sir Thomas wedded secondly, Jane, daughter and sole heiress of Sir William Carnaby, knt. of Farnham, in Northumberland, but had no other issue. He was s. by his grandson,

SIR CARNABY HAGGERSTON, bart. who wedded Elizabeth Middleton, heiress of Stockeld and Middleton, in Yorkshire, and had, with an elder and a younger son, WILLIAM, who assumed the name of CONSTABLE upon inheriting Everingham and the other estates of that family. He m. Lady Winifred Maxwell, as in the text.

who at the decease of his father, became "of Everingham Park, in the county of York," and at the death of his mother, "of Carlaverock Castle," upon which latter event he assumed, by royal license, the additional surname of MAXWELL. Mr. Constable-Maxwell m. Theresa, daughter of Edmund Wakeman, esq. of Beckford, in the county of Worcester, and had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Marmaduke, of Terregles, in the county of Dumfries, b. 1st January, 1806.

Peter, b. 7th February, 1807.

Henry, b. in 1810.

Joseph, b. in 1811.

Mary, m. to the Honorable Charles Stourton-Langdale, fourth son of Charles, sixteenth Lord Stourton.

Theresa, m. to the Honorable Charles Everard Clifford, second son of Charles, seventh Lord Clifford.

Mr. Constable Maxwell d. in 1819, and was s. by his eldest son, the present WILLIAM CONSTABLE-MAXWELL, esq. of Everingham and Carlaverock.

FAMILY OF CONSTABLE.

The family of CONSTABLE assumed that surname from holding, in feudal times, the important office of CONSTABLE of Chester.

ROBERT DE LACY, younger brother of Roger de Lacy, constable of Chester, and uncle to the first Earl of Lincoln, enjoyed the lordship of Flamburgh, by gift of his brother Roger. He was grandfather of

SIR ROBERT CONSTABLE, of Flamburgh, who received the honour of knighthood, with three hundred others, at a grand festival at Whitsuntide, in the 34th of EDWARD I. From this Sir Robert lineally sprung, through a line of distinguished progenitors, who allied with the houses of Fitzhugh, Skipwith, Cumberworth, and Gascoigne,

SIR ROBERT CONSTABLE, of Flamburgh, M.P. for Yorkshire, 17th EDWARD IV. and sheriff for the same county in two years after. He wedded Agnes, daughter of Sir Roger Wentworth, of Nettlested, in Suffolk, and dying in 1488, left issue, MARMADUKE, his heir.

John, dean of Lincoln.

Philip.

Robert, of Cliffe, serjeant-at-law.

William, of Caythorpe and Wassand, living in 1528, now represented by the Rev. Charles Constable, of Wassand, whose only daughter, Mary, wedded George, eldest son of Sir William Strickland, bart. of Boynton. (See family of CONSTABLE, of Wassand.)

The eldest son,

SIR MARMADUKE CONSTABLE, knt. of Flamburgh, in Yorkshire, married twice: by his second wife, Margery, daughter of Henry, Lord Fitzhugh, he had no issue; but by the first, Joyce, daughter of Sir

Humphrey Stafford, knt. he had (with two daughters) four sons, viz.

1. ROBERT (Sir) of Flamburgh, who, for his signal services against the Cornish rebels, was knighted in 1497. Subsequently, however, taking part in the commotions in Lincolnshire, excited by John, Lord Hussey, he was attainted and executed at Hull. He left by Jane, daughter of Sir William Ingleby, of Riply, a son,

SIR MARMADUKE CONSTABLE, knt. of Nuneaton, a distinguished warrior, whose descendant and representative,

WILLIAM CONSTABLE, esq. of Flamburgh, was created a baronet in 1611. This gentleman, a most violent opponent of the court of CHARLES I. d. s. p. during the PROTECTORATE.

II. MARMADUKE (Sir), of whom we have to treat.

III. William (Sir), of Hatfield.

IV. John (Sir), of Knowlton.

The second son,

SIR MARMADUKE CONSTABLE, knt. acquired EVERINGHAM by marrying Barbara, daughter and heiress of Sir John Southell, knt. He was s. by his son,

SIR ROBERT CONSTABLE, knt. of Everingham, who wedded Catherine, daughter of George Manners, Lord Ros, by the daughter and sole heiress of Sir Thomas St. Leger, knt. and Anne his wife, Duchess of Exeter, sister to King EDW. IV. The eldest son and heir,

SIR MARMADUKE CONSTABLE, knt. of Everingham, m. Jane, daughter of William, Lord Conyers, of Hornby, and dying in 1574, was s. by his son,

SIR ROBERT CONSTABLE, knt. of Everingham, who m. Margaret, daughter of Sir Robert Tyrwhit, and had (with several other children) a son and heir,

MARMADUKE CONSTABLE, esq. of Everingham, who d. in 1632, leaving by Frances, daughter of Thomas Metham, esq. of Metham, a son, his successor,

PHILIP CONSTABLE esq. of Everingham, who was advanced to a baronetcy by King CHARLES I. and suffered severely, in those rebellious times, for his fidelity to that monarch. He espoused Anne, only daughter of Sir William Roper, of Eltham, Kent, and dying in 1664, was s. by his son,

SIR MARMADUKE CONSTABLE, bart. of Everingham, b. in 1619, who m. Anne, daughter of Richard Sherborne, esq. of Stonyhurst, and had (with two daughters, both nuns,) a son and heir,

SIR PHILIP CONSTABLE, bart. of Everingham, b. in 1651. This gentleman wedded Margaret, daughter of Sir Francis Ratcliffe, bart. earl of Derwentwater, and his daughter and heiress, ANNE CONSTABLE, wedding Wm. Haggerston, esq. conveyed Everingham to that family.

A Letter from Winifred Herbert, Countess of Nithsdale, to her sister, the Lady Lucy Herbert, Abbess of the English Augustine Nuns, at Bruges, containing a circumstantial account of the escape of her husband, William Maxwell, fifth Earl of Nithsdale, from the Tower of London, on Friday, the 23rd of February, 1716.*

“DEAR SISTER,

My lord's escape is now such an old story that I have almost forgotten it: but since you desire me to give you a circumstantial account of it, I will endeavour to recall it to my memory, and be as exact in the narration as I possibly can; for I owe you too many obligations to refuse you any thing that lies in my power to do. I think I owe myself the justice to set out with the motives which influenced me to undertake so hazardous an attempt, which I despaired of thoroughly accomplishing, foreseeing a thousand obstacles, which never could be surmounted but by the most particular interposition of Divine Providence. I confided in Almighty God, and trusted that He would not abandon me even when all human succours failed me.

I first came to London upon hearing that my lord was committed to the Tower. I was at the same time informed that he had expressed the greatest anxiety to see me, having, as he afterwards told me, nobody to console him till I came. I rode to Newcastle, and from thence took the stage to York. When I arrived there the snow was so deep that the stage could not set out for London. The season was so severe and the roads so extremely bad, that the post itself was stopped. However, I took horses and rode to London, though the snow was generally above the horses' girths, and arrived safe without any accident. On my arrival I went immediately to make what interest I could among those who were in place. No one gave me any hopes, but they all to the contrary assured me that, although some of the prisoners were to be pardoned, yet my lord would certainly not be of the number. When I enquired into the reason of this distinction, I could obtain no other answer than that they would not flatter me. But I soon perceived the reasons which they declined alleging to me. A Roman Catholic upon the frontiers of Scotland who headed a very considerable party; a man whose family had always signalized itself by its loyalty to the royal house of Stuart, and who was the only support of the Catholics against the inveteracy of the Whigs, who were very numerous in that part of Scotland, would become an agreeable sacrifice to the opposite party. They still retained a lively remembrance of his grandfather, who defended his own castle of Caerlaverock to the last extremity, and surrendered it up only at the express command of his royal master. Now having his grandson in their power, they were determined not to let him escape from their hands. Upon this I formed the resolution to attempt his escape, but opened my intention to nobody but my dear Evans. In order to concert measures, I strongly solicited to be permitted to see my lord, which they refused to grant me, unless I would remain confined with him in the Tower. This I would not submit to, and alleged for excuse, that my health would not permit me to undergo the confinement. The real reason of my refusal was, not to put it out of my power to accomplish my designs; however, by bribing the guards, I often contrived to see my lord, till the day upon which the prisoners were condemned. After that, for the last week we were allowed to see and take our leave of them. By the assistance of Evans, I had prepared every thing necessary to disguise my lord, but had the utmost difficulty to prevail upon him to make use of them. However, I at length succeeded by the help of Almighty God. On the 22nd of February, which fell on a Thursday, our general Petition was presented to the House of Lords, the purport of which was, to interest the lords to intercede with his Majesty to pardon the prisoners. We were however disappointed, the day before the petition was to be presented, the Duke of St. Albans, who had promised my Lady Derwentwater, to present it, when it came to the point, failed in his word. However, as she was the only English Countess concerned, it was incumbent on her to have it presented. We had but one day left before the execution, and the Duke still promised to present the petition, but for fear he should fail, I engaged the Duke of Montrose to secure its being done by the one or the other. I then went in company with most of the ladies of quality then in town to solicit the interest of the lords as they were going to the house. They all behaved to me with great civility, but particularly the Earl of Pembroke, who, though he desired me not to speak to him, yet he promised to employ his interest in my favour, and honourably kept his word, for he spoke very strongly in our behalf. The subject of the debate was, whether the king had the power to pardon those who had been condemned by Parliament; and it was chiefly owing to Lord Pembroke's speech that it was carried in the affirmative. however, one of the lords stood up, and said that the house could only intercede for those of the prisoners who should approve themselves worthy of their intercession, but not for all them indiscriminately. This salvo quite blasted all my hopes, for I was assured that it was aimed at the exclusion of those who should refuse to subscribe to the petition, which was a thing I knew my lord would never submit to; nor, in fact, could I wish to preserve his life on those terms. As the motion had passed generally, I thought I could draw from it some advantage in favour of my design. Accordingly I immediately left the House of Lords and hastened to the Tower, where, affecting an air of joy and satisfaction, I told the guards I passed by, that I came to bring joyful tidings to the prisoners; I desired them to lay aside their fears, for the petition had passed the house in their favour. I then gave them some money to drink to the Lords and his Majesty, though it was but trifling, for I thought if I were too liberal on the occasion, they might suspect my designs, and that giving them something would gain their good will and services for the next day, which was the eve of execution. The next morning I could not go to the Tower, having so many things upon my hands to put in readiness; but in the evening, when all was ready, I sent for Mrs. Mills, with whom I lodged, and acquainted her with my design of attempting my lord's escape, as there was no prospect of his being pardoned, and that this was the last night before the execution. I told her that I had every thing in readiness, and that I trusted she would not refuse to accompany me, that my lord might pass for her. I pressed her to come immediately, as we had no time to lose. At the same time I sent to Mrs. Morgan, then usually known by the name of Hilton, to whose acquaintance my dear Evans had introduced me, which I look upon as a very singular happiness. I immediately communicated my resolutions to her. She was of a very tall slender make, so I begged her to put under her own riding-hood one that I had prepared for Mrs. Mills, as she was to lend hers to my lord, that in coming out he might be taken for her. Mrs. Mills was then with child, so that she was not only of the same height, but nearly of the same size as my lord. When we were in the coach, I never ceased talking, that they might have no leisure to reflect. Their surprise and astonishment when I first opened my design to them had made them consent, without ever thinking of the consequences. On our arrival at the Tower, the first I introduced was Mrs. Morgan, (for I was only allowed to take in one at a time), she brought in the clothes that were to serve Mrs. Mills when she left her own behind her. When Mrs. Morgan had taken off what she had brought for my purpose, I conducted her back to the staircase, and in going, I begged her to send me my maid to dress me, that I was afraid of being too late to present my last petition that night if she did not come immediately. I dispatched her safe, and went partly down stairs to meet Mrs. Mills, who had the precaution to hold her handkerchief to her face, as is natural for a woman to do, when she is going to take her last farewell of a friend on the eve of his execution. I had, indeed, desired her to do so, that my lord might go out in the same manner. Her eyebrows were rather inclined to be sandy, and my lord's were very dark and very thick; however I had prepared some paint of the colour of her's to disguise his with; I also brought an artificial head-dress of the same coloured hair as hers, and I painted his face with white and his cheeks with rouge, to hide his long beard, which he had not time to shave. All this provision I had before left in the Tower. The poor guards, whom my slight liberality the day before had endeared me to, let me go quietly out with my company, and were not so strictly on the watch as they usually had been, and the more so as they were persuaded, from what I had told them the day before, that the prisoners would obtain their pardon. I made Mrs. Mills take off her own hood, and put on that which I had brought for her; I then took her by the hand and led her out of my lord's chamber, and in passing through the next room, in which were several people, with all the concern imaginable, I said, "My dear Mrs. Catharine, go in all haste and send me my waiting-maid, she certainly cannot reflect how late it is; I am to present my petition to-night, and if I let slip this opportunity I am undone, for to-morrow will be too late; hasten her as much as possible, for I shall be on thorns till she comes." Every body in the room, who were chiefly the guards' wives and daughters, seemed to compassionate me exceedingly, and the centinel officiously opened me the door. When I had seen her safe out I returned to my lord, and finished dressing him. I had taken care that Mrs. Mills did not go out crying, as she came in, that my lord might better pass for the lady who came in crying and afflicted, and the more so, because he had the same dress which she wore. When I had almost finished dressing my lord in all my petticoats except one, I perceived it was growing dark, and was afraid that the light of the candles might betray us, so I resolved to set off. I went out leading him by the hand, whilst he held his handkerchief to his eyes. I spoke to him in the most piteous and afflicted tone of voice, bewailing bitterly the negligence of Evans, who had ruined me by her delay. Then said I, "My dear Mrs. Betty, for the love of God, run quickly and bring her with you; you know my lodging, and if you ever made dispatch in your life, do it at present; I am almost distracted with this disappointment." The guards opened the door, and I went down stairs with him, still conjuring him to make all possible dispatch. As soon as he had cleared the door I made him walk before me, for fear the centinel should take notice of his walk; but I still continued to press him to make all the dispatch he possibly could. At the bottom of the stairs I met my dear Evans, into whose hands I confided him. I had before engaged Mr. Mills to be in readiness before the Tower, to conduct him to some place of safety, in case we succeeded. He looked upon the affair as so very improbable to succeed, that his astonishment when he saw us, threw him into such a consternation that he was almost out of himself; which Evans perceiving, with the greatest presence of mind, without telling him any thing lest he should mistrust them, conducted him to some of her own friends on whom she could rely, and so secured him, without which we should have been undone. When she had conducted him and left him with them, she returned to Mr. Mills, who by this time had recovered himself from his astonishment. They went home together, and having found a place of security they conducted him to it. In the mean time, as I had pretended to have sent the young lady on a message, I was obliged to return up stairs, and go back to my lord's room in the same feigned anxiety of being too late, so that every body seemed sincerely to sympathize in my distress. When I was in the room, I talked as if he had been really present: I answered my own questions in my lord's voice as nearly as I could imitate it; I walked up and down as if we were conversing together, till I thought they had time enough thoroughly to clear themselves of the guards. I then thought proper to make off also. I opened the door, and stood half in it that those in the outward chamber might hear what I said, but held it so close that they could not look in. I bade my lord formal farewell for the night, and added, that something more than usual must have happened to make Evans negligent on this important occasion, who had always been so punctual in the smallest trifles; that I saw no other remedy but to go in person: that if the Tower was still open, when I had finished my business, I would return that night; but that he might be assured I would be with him as early in the morning as I could gain admittance into the Tower, and I flattered myself I should bring more favourable news. Then, before I shut the door, I pulled through the string of the latch, so that it could only be opened in the inside. I then shut it with some degree of force, that I might be sure of its being well shut. I said to the servant as I passed by (who was ignorant of the whole transaction) that he need not carry in candles to his master, till my lord sent for them, as he desired to finish some prayers first. I went down stairs and called a coach, as there were several on the stand and drove home to my own lodgings, where poor Mr. M'Kenzie had been waiting to carry the petition, in case my attempt had failed. I told him there was no need of any petition, as my lord was safe out of the Tower, and out of the hands of his enemies as I supposed, but that I did not know where he was. I discharged the coach and sent for a sedan chair, and went to the Duchess of Buccleugh, who expected me about that time, as I had begged of her to present the petition for me, having taken my precaution against all events. I asked if she was at home, and they answered me that she expected me, and had another duchess with her. I refused to go up stairs as she had company with her, and I was not in a condition to see any other company. I begged to be shewn into a chamber below stairs, and that they would have the goodness to send her grace's maid to me, having something to say to her. I had discharged the chair, lest I might be pursued and watched. When the maid came in I desired her to present my most humble respects to her grace, who they told me had company with her, and to acquaint her, that this was my only reason for not coming up stairs. I also charged her with my sincerest thanks for her kind offer to accompany me when I went to present my petition. I added, that she might spare herself any further trouble, as it was judged more advisable to present one general petition in the name of all; however, that I would never be unmindful of my particular obligation to her grace, and which I should return very soon to acknowledge in person. I then ordered one of the servants to call a chair and I went to the Duchess of Montrose, who had always borne a part in my distresses. When I arrived, she left her company to deny herself, not being desirous to see me under the affliction which she judged me to be in. By mistake, however, I was admitted, so there was no remedy. She came to me, and as my heart was in an ecstasy of joy, I expressed it in my countenance. As she entered the room, I ran up to her in the transport of my joy; she appeared to be extremely shocked and frightened, and has since confessed to me, that she apprehended my troubles had thrown me out of myself, till I communicated my happiness to her. She then advised me to return, for that the king was highly displeased and even enraged at the petition I had presented to him, and had complained of it severely. I sent for another chair, for I always discharged them immediately, that I might not be pursued. Her grace said she would go to Court and see how the news of my lord's escape was received. When the news was brought to the king, he flew into an excessive passion, and said he was betrayed, for it could not have been done without a confederacy. He instantly dispatched two persons to the Tower, to see that the other prisoners were well secured, lest they should follow the example. Some threw the blame on me, some upon another. The duchess was the only one at court that knew it. When I left the duchess I went to a house that Evans had found out for me, and where she promised to acquaint me where my lord was. She got thither some few minutes after me, and told me that when she had seen him secure she went in search of Mr. Mills, who by this time had recovered himself from his astonishment, that he had returned to his house where she found him, and that he had removed my lord from the first place where she had desired him to wait, to the house of a poor woman directly opposite the guard-house. She had but one small room up one pair of stairs, and a very small bed in it. We threw ourselves on the bed, that we might not be heard walking up and down. She left us a bottle of wine and some bread, and Mrs. Mills brought us some more in her pockets the next day. We subsisted on this provision from Thursday till Saturday night, when Mr. Mills came and conducted my lord to the Venetian Ambassador's. We did not communicate the affair to his excellency, but one of his servants concealed him in his own room till Wednesday, on which day the Ambassador's coach and six was to go down to Dover to meet his brother. My lord put on a livery, and went down in the retinue, without the least suspicion, to Dover; where Mr. Michel (which was the name of the Ambassador's servant) hired a small vessel, and immediately set sail for Calais. The passage was so remarkably short that the Captain threw out this reflection, that the wind could not have served better if his passengers had been flying for their lives, little thinking it to be really the case. Mr. Michel might have easily returned, without suspicion of having been concerned in my lord's escape; but my lord seemed inclined to have him with him, which he did, and he has at present a good place under our young master. This is an exact and as full an account of this affair, and of the persons concerned in it, as I could possibly give you, to the best of memory, and you may rely upon the truth of it. For my part, I absconded to the house of a very honest man in Drury Lane, where I remained till I was assured of my lord's safe arrival on the continent. I then wrote to the Duchess of Buccleugh (every body thought till then that I was gone off with my lord) to tell her I understood I was suspected of having contrived my lord's escape, as was very natural to suppose; that if I could have been happy enough to have done it, I should be flattered to have the merit of it attributed to me, but that a bare suspicion, without proof, would never be a sufficient ground for my being punished for a supposed offence, though it might be a motive sufficient for me to provide a place of security; so I entreated her to procure leave for me to go about my business. So far from granting my request they were resolved to secure me if possible. After several debates, Mr. Solicitor-General, who was an utter stranger to me, had the humanity to say, that since I shewed such respect to Government as not to appear in public, it would be cruel to make any search after me. Upon which it was decided, that no further search should be made if I remained concealed; but that if I appeared either in England or in Scotland, I should be secured. But this was not sufficient for me, unless I could submit to see my son exposed to beggary. My lord sent for me up to town in such haste, that I had not time to settle any thing before I left Scotland. I had in my hands all the family papers, and dared trust them to nobody. My house might have been searched without warning, consequently they were far from being secure there. In this distress I had the precaution to bury them in the ground, and nobody but myself and the gardener knew where they were. I did the same with other things of value. The event proved that I had acted prudently, for after my departure they searched the house, and God only knows what might have transpired from those papers. All these circumstances rendered my presence absolutely necessary, otherwise they might have been lost, for though they retained the highest preservation after one very severe winter, for when I took them up they were as dry as if they came from the fire-side, yet, they could not possibly have remained so much longer without prejudice. In short, as I had once exposed my life for the safety of the father, I could not do less than hazard it once more for the fortune of the son. I had never travelled on horseback but from York to London, as I told you, but the difficulties did not arise now from the severity of the season, but the fear of being discovered and arrested. To avoid this, I bought three saddle horses, and set off with my dear Evans, and a very trusty servant whom I brought with me out of Scotland. We put up at all the smallest inns on the road that could take in a few horses, and where I thought I was not known, for I was thoroughly known at all the considerable inns on the northern road. Thus I arrived safe at Traquhair, where I thought myself secure, for the Lieutenant of the County being a friend of my lord's, would not permit any search to be made after me without sending me previous notice to abscond. Here I had the assurance to rest myself for two whole days, pretending that I was going to my own house with leave from Government. I sent no notice to my house, that the Magistrates of Dumfries might not make too narrow enquiries about me. So they were ignorant of my arrival in the country till I was at home, where I still feigned to have permission to remain. To carry on the deceit the better, I sent to all my neighbours and invited them to come to my house. I took up my papers at night, and sent them off to Traquhair. It was a particular stroke of providence that I made the dispatch I did, for they soon suspected me, and by a very favourable accident, one of them was overheard to say to the Magistrates of Dumfries, that the next day they would insist on seeing my leave from Government. This was bruited about, and when I was told of it, I expressed my surprise that they should be so backward in coming to pay their respects; but, said I, "better late than never, be sure to tell them that they shall be welcome whenever they choose to come." This was after dinner, but I lost no time to put every thing in readiness with all possible secrecy; and the next morning before day-break I set off again for London with the same attendants, and as before put up at the smallest inns, and arrived safe once more.

On my arrival, the report was still fresh of my journey into Scotland, in defiance of their prohibition.

A lady informed me, that the king was extremely incensed at the news. That he had issued orders to have me arrested; adding, that I did whatever I pleased in despite of all his designs, and that I had given him more trouble and anxiety than any other woman in Europe. For which reason I kept myself as closely concealed as possible, till the heat of these reports had abated. In the mean while I took the opinion of a very famous lawyer, who was a man of the strictest probity. He advised me to go off as soon as they had ceased searching after me. I followed his advice, and about a fortnight after escaped without any accident whatever. The reason he alleged for his opinion was this, that although in other circumstances, a wife cannot be prosecuted for saving her husband, yet in cases of high-treason, according to the rigour of the law, the head of the wife is responsible for that of the husband; and as the king was so highly incensed there could be no answering for the consequences, and he therefore entreated me to leave the kingdom. The king's resentment was greatly increased by the petition which I presented, contrary to his express orders. But my lord was very anxious that a petition might be presented, hoping that it would be at least serviceable to me. I was in my own mind convinced that it would be to no purpose, but as I wished to please my lord, I desired him to have it drawn up, and I undertook to make it come to the king's hand, notwithstanding all the precautions he had taken to avoid it. So the first day that I heard the king was to go to the drawing-room, I dressed myself in black, as if I was in mourning. I sent for Mrs. Morgan (the same who accompanied me to the Tower) because as I did not know his Majesty personally, I might have mistaken some other person for him. She stood by me and told me when he was coming. I had also another lady with me, and we three remained in a room between the king's apartments and the drawing-room: so that he was obliged to go through it, and as there were three windows in it, we sat in the middle one, that I might have time enough to meet him before he could pass. I threw myself at his feet, and told him, in French, that I was the unfortunate Countess of Nithsdale, that he might not pretend to be ignorant of my person. But perceiving that he wanted to go off, without receiving my petition, I caught hold of the skirts of his coat, that he might stop and hear me. He endeavoured to escape out of my hands, but I kept such strong hold that he dragged me from the middle of the room to the door of the drawing-room. At last one of the blue-ribbands, who attended his Majesty, took me round the waist, whilst another wrested the coat out of my hands. The petition, which I had endeavoured to thrust into his pocket, fell down in the scuffle, and I almost fainted through grief and disappointment. One of the gentlemen in waiting took the petition, and as I knew that it ought to have been given to the Lord of the Bedchamber who was then in waiting, I wrote to him, and entreated him to do me the favour to read the petition which I had had the honour to present to his Majesty.

Fortunately for me it happened to be my Lord Dorset, with whom Mrs. Morgan was very intimate. Accordingly, she went into the drawing-room and presented him a letter, which he received very graciously. He could not read it then, as he was at cards with the Prince, but as soon as the game was over, he read it; and behaved, as I afterwards learnt, with the greatest zeal for my interest, and was seconded by the Duke of Montrose, who had seen me in the anti-chamber and wanted to speak to me, but I made him a sign not to come near me, lest his acquaintance should thwart my designs. But it became the topic of their conversation the rest of the evening, and the harshness with which I had been treated soon spread abroad, not much to the honour of the King. Many people reflected that they had themselves presented petitions, and that he had never rejected any even from the most indigent objects. But this behaviour to a person of quality was a strong instance of brutality. These reflections which circulated about, raised the king to the highest pitch of hatred and indignation against my person, as he has since allowed; for when the ladies, whose husbands had been concerned in this affair, presented their petitions for dower, mine was presented among the rest, but the king said, I was not entitled to the same privilege, and in fact I was excluded; and it is remarkable, that he would never suffer my name to be mentioned. For these reasons every body judged it prudent for me to leave the kingdom; for so long as this hatred of the king subsisted I could not be safe, and as it was not probable that I could escape falling into his hands, I accordingly went.

This is the full narrative of what you desired, and of all the transactions which passed relative to this affair. Nobody besides yourself could have obtained it from me; but the obligations I owe you, throw me under the necessity of refusing you nothing that is in my power to do. As this is for yourself alone, your indulgence will excuse all the faults which must occur in this long recital. The truth you may however depend upon, attend to that, and overlook all deficiencies. My lord desires you to be assured of his sincere friendship.

I am, with strongest attachment,

My dear Sister,

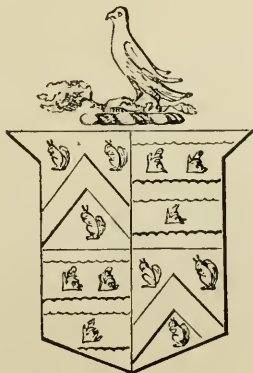

Yours, most affectionately,

WINIFRED NITHSDALE.

HALKETT, OF HALL HILL, NORTH BRITAIN.

HALKETT-CRAIGIE, CHARLES, esq. of Hall Hill and Dumbarnie, in the county of Fife, formerly an officer in the 93rd regiment or Gordon Highlanders, b. in December, 1802, m. in 1824, Susan, youngest daughter of Sir John Marjoribanks, bart. of Lees, in the county of Berwick, and has surviving issue, Alice-Augusta.

 Matilda.

Lineage.

The ancient name of HALKETT, in the writs of this family, is promiscuously written "de Hawkhead" and "de Halkett;" it is said to be territorial or local, and to have been assumed by the proprietors of the lands and barony of Hawkhead, in Renfrewshire, so soon as surnames became hereditary in Scotland.

The exact period when the Halketts established themselves in Fife cannot at this distance of time be precisely ascertained, but we have proofs that they were free barons, and had large landed possessions in the western parts of that county six hundred years ago. The first of the family upon record who distinguished himself by feats of arms was

DAVID DE HALKETT, a powerful warrior, living temp. King DAVID BRUCE, and father of PHILIPPUS DE HALKETT, who flourished in the reigns of Kings ROBERT II. and ROBERT III. In the Chartulary of Dumfermline he is designated "Dominus de Balingall, filius et haeres David de Halkett, anno Domini 1393." From this Philip de Halkett we pass over seven generations, observing the remarkable fact, that the chiefs of this family have always been in the military service of their own country, or that of some allied power.

GEORGE HALKETT, the ninth in direct lineal descent and a distinguished officer, espoused Isabella, daughter of Sir Patrick Hepburn, of Waughton, and had three sons and one daughter, of whom

SIR JOHN HALKETT, knt. the third son, continued the line of the family, and received the honor of knighthood from King JAMES VI. He attached himself to a military life, and went into the service of the states of Holland, where by his bravery and merit he rose to the rank of general, and had the command of a Scots regiment. He was likewise president of the grand Court Marishall in Holland. Sir John m. Mary Van Loon, a lady of high rank in Amsterdam, and was killed at the siege of Bois-le-duc, in 1628, leaving a son and successor,

MAURICE HALKETT, a captain in the army, who m. Mademoiselle Agnes Decquere, a lady of the province of Artois, by whom he had one son, EDWARD. Captain Maurice Halkett was killed at Maestricht in 1675, and was s. in his estates by his only son,

EDWARD HALKETT, a major in the Dutch service, who m. Judith de Pagniet, a lady of the province of Guelderland, and had issue,

CROKER, (Privy Councillor.)

CROKER, The Right Honorable JOHN-WILSON, LL.D. F.A.S. b. 20th December, 1780, m. 22nd May, 1806, Rosamond, eldest daughter of William Pennell, esq. His Majesty's Consul General in the Brazils, by whom he had a son and a daughter, who both died young. Upon the decease of his children, Mr. Croker adopted the sister of Mrs. Croker, and the young lady then assumed his name. The pencil of Sir Thomas Lawrence has rendered the person of Miss Croker familiar to the public in one of his most exquisite portraits. She has lately espoused Mr. George Barrow, son of John Barrow, esq. second secretary of the Admiralty.

Mr. Croker was educated at the University of Dublin, which he entered as a gentleman commoner in November, 1796, and took his degree in 1800. During his sojourn at college, he attained very high reputation as a public speaker, in the celebrated Historical Society, and as a political writer and poet. He is the presumed author of two very popular works, published in Dublin about that period—"Familiar Epistles to Fred. Ed. Jones, esq. upon the Irish Stage," and "A Sketch of the State of Ireland, past and present." The former, which is in verse, attracted more than ordinary attention, passing, we believe, through ten editions, in as many months: the latter, as an adaptation of the style of Tacitus to English composition, is a master-piece. Mr. Croker was called to the bar in 1802, and offering himself soon after for Downe, in Ireland, stood a contested election; but not being returned, presented a petition to parliament. Another dissolution taking place, pending the petition, Mr. Croker was chosen at the ensuing election, in 1807. From that time he has had a seat in every succeeding parliament. Upon the promotion of Lord Plunket to the bench, in 1827, Mr. Croker succeeded that eminent person in the representation of the University of Dublin, wherein he had taken the degree of LL.D. in 1809: in which year he was appointed secretary of the admiralty; an office which he filled until the retirement of his party, in 1830. He had been sworn a member of the most honorable privy council in 1828.

Mr. Croker, during his long tenure of office, confined his parliamentary exertions to subjects connected with his own department, which afforded but few occasions of distinction; but he has acquired great celebrity as leader of the present opposition (1832) in the House of Commons, and his abilities have been confessed by all parties. As a political writer, many articles in the Quarterly Review, and several pamphlets upon public questions, bear ample testimony to his great powers; and a late edition of Boswell's Life of Johnson is a proof of more literary diligence than might have been expected from a poet or a politician.

Lineage.

This family is a branch of the house of CROKER of Lineham, in the county of Devon; a name so eminent, that there is an old proverbial distich, or, as Prince (Worthies of Devon, p. 274) calls it "old saw," recording its antiquity;

"Croker, Crewys, and Coppelstone,
When the Conqueror came, were at home."

The Crokers, who were originally seated at Croker's Hele and Crokern Tor in Devonshire, became possessed, in the reign of Henry IV., of Lineham by marriage with the heiress of Churchill of that place; the younger male branch of which family was the ancestor of the Duke of Marlborough.

The genealogy of Croker of Lineham is preserved with singular accuracy by Prince, Risdon, Pole, and the other Devonshire historians, as well as by numerous pedigrees and documents. There were no less than eleven John Crokers in almost uninterrupted succession, but the last male of the elder branch was Courteney Croker, esq. whose only daughter and heiress, Mary, carried the estate of Lineham into the family of Bulteel, and her grandson John Bulteel, esq. of Fleet, is now the owner of Lineham; which is in the occupation of his eldest son John Croker Bulteel, esq. who is thus the representative by the female line of the eldest branch of Croker of Lineham. This gentleman married in 1826, the Lady Elizabeth Grey, third daughter of Charles, present Earl Grey, K.G. and has been lately elected M.P. for South Devon.

We must now return to a junior, but at present the eldest male branch.

THOMAS CROKER, of Trevillas in Cornwall, second son of the eighth John Croker, of Lineham, obtained, about 1600, the estate of Ballyanker, in the county of Waterford, and while his eldest son remained at Trevillas, (where his branch is supposed to be extinct,) his younger sons, to the number of three or four, migrated to Ireland. They were all probably soldiers; two of them, at least, were so, and distinguished themselves by the extraordinary and almost romantic capture of the city of Waterford in 1650, (see Smith's History of Waterford, p. 147, ed. 1774.) One of the brothers was killed in the assault, the other (Hugh) after a long course of military service settled at Ballyanker, and died in January, 1663: from him the subject of this notice is descended. His youngest brother, Edward, (who was murdered in the Irish Rebellion, 1641) was ancestor of the respectable and wealthy family of Croker, of Ballynagard, in the county of Limerick, and of a numerous branch settled in Dublin, to which belong, Anne, daughter and heiress of Thomas Croker, and wife of Sir Ed. Crofton, bart. created in 1797, baroness Crofton, in her own right; and Thomas Crofton Croker, esq. known by many literary works.

WALTER CROKER, esq. of Tallow, the grandson of Hugh, the captor of Waterford, had by the daughter of Reginald Bray, an only son, JOHN CROKER, esq. of Tallow, who was born in 1695, and died in 1743, leaving three sons,—Walter, of Tallow,—John, of Airhill,—and William, of Johnstown.—John left male issue, but William left an only daughter and heiress, who married the Honorable Frederick Mullins, son of the first Lord Ventry, and by him has issue, Frederick-William, M.P. for Kerry, in the present and two last parliaments.

WALTER CROKER, esq. the eldest son of John, of Tallow, was born in 1728, and d.

in 1789, leaving by his wife, Sarah, daughter of Edward Devereux, esq. one son,

JOHN CROKER, esq. surveyor-general of Ireland, who was born in 1743, and died 29th April, 1814. He was a man of great abilities and most amiable manners, an able and upright public servant, and in private life universally respected and beloved. He m. first, Catherine Welstead, by whom he had surviving issue,

WALTER, who d. in 1807, leaving two daughters, CATHERINE, the wife of William Pennell, jun. esq. and MARGARET, the wife of Lovell Pennell, esq. These ladies both have issue.

Catherine, m. to William Miller, esq. of Londonderry, and has issue.

Mr. Croker espoused secondly, Hester, only daughter of the Rev. Richard Rathborne, and granddaughter of Admiral Wilson,* by whom he had two surviving children, the present Right Honorable JOHN WILSON CROKER, and Sarah, who m. in 1815, the very Rev. J. T. Bond, dean of Ross. Mrs. Bond died in 1820, leaving an only son, who died in 1828.

The surveyor-general d. 29th April, 1814, at the age of seventy-three.

Arms—Arg. a chevron engrailed gu. between three ravens, ppr. quartering the arms of CHURCHILL.

Crest—A drinking cup or, with three fleurs de lis ppr. above it, and on the centre a rose; granted by EDWARD IV. to Sir John Croker, who accompanied him as cup and standard bearer in his expedition to France in 1475. The addition of the fleurs de lis was one of those attentions on the part of the French monarch LOUIS XI. by which he sought to flatter the vanity, and gain the good will of the English gentry. On ministers, says Hume, he lavished pensions and pecuniary bribes. To less influential persons such lighter but more honorable favors as this to Sir John Croker. The tomb of this Sir John Croker, "Signifer Regis Edwardi Quarti," with his effigy in brass, is in perfect preservation in the church of Yealhampton, near Lineham.

This gentleman, by profession a barrister, was constituted judge of one of the vice admiralty courts in North America, and retiring in 1816, received then the honour of knighthood. In 1823, he was elected a bencher of the Inner Temple, and appointed in 1829, treasurer of that society. He succeeded to his paternal inheritance at the decease of his father in 1777.

Lineage.

The surname of this family was originally LE BLOUNT, and Sir Alexander Croke states that he is now the representative of the senior branch of that ancient house, which had its own origin from the BLONDI or BRONDI, of Italy. Its patriarchs, the COUNTS OF GUISNES, claimed alliance with most of the royal families of Europe, and counted amongst their progenitors, the Emperors and Kings of France, the Kings of Denmark, the Counts of Flanders, and the Guelphs, Dukes of Bavaria.

RODOLPH, third Count of Guisnes, (whose grandfather was SIGEFRED, the Dane, first Count, grandson of HAROLD V., King of Denmark) espoused Rosetta, daughter of Hugh, second Count St. Pol, and had three sons, who accompanied the Conqueror into England, one of whom returned into Normandy, while the other two,

SIR ROBERT and SIR WILLIAM,	} remained, and participated largely in the spoils of conquest—Sir William obtaining several lordships in Lincolnshire, and

SIR ROBERT LE BLOUNT, no less than thirteen lordships in the county of Suffolk, of which Ixworth was the head of the feudal barony. The great grandson and lineal descendant of this Sir Robert,

GILBERT LE BLOUNT, Lord of Ixworth, m. Agnes de Lisle, and had two sons,

1. WILLIAM, who succeeded to the feudal barony, and marrying Cicely de Vere, had issue,

WILLIAM, Baron of Ixworth, standard-bearer to the army of the insurgent barons, under Simon Montfort, Earl of Leicester, and slain at the battle of Lewes, temp.

HENRY III., when leaving no issue, the male line of the Barons of Ixworth ceased, and his sisters became his co-heirs.

SIR ROBERT LE BLOUNT, who wedded Isabel, daughter of the Lord of Odinsells, and acquired with that lady the manor of Belton, in Rutlandshire. He had issue,

1. RALPH (Sir).

2. William (Sir), who m. Isabel, supposed to be a daughter of William Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, and had (with another son Peter, who d. s. p.)

WALTER (Sir), of Rock, who espoused Johanna, sister and co-heir of WILLIAM DE SODINGTON, and dying before 1331, was s. by his only surviving son,

JOHN (Sir), of SODINGTON, who m. first, Isolda, dau. and heir of Sir Thomas de Mountjoy, and by her (who d. in 1347) had a son,

JOHN (Sir), from whom, by his first wife, Juliana Foulhurst, descend the BLOUNTS OF SODINGTON, now represented by SIR EDWARD BLOUNT, bart.; and by his second wife, Isabella, daughter and heiress of Sir Bryan Cornwall, the BLOUNTS OF BROMYARD, represented by JOHN BLOUNT, ESQ., OF LEA HALL, in Worcestershire, and the BLOUNTS, of Burton upon Trent. He was also ancestor of the extinct family of BLOUNTS, OF KINLET.

Sir John Blount, the elder, m. secondly, Eleanor, dau. of John Beauchamp, of Hache, and dying in 1358, left another son,

WALTER (Sir), who acquired from his brother Sir John, the Mountjoy estate, in 1374. He was father of surer of Normandy, in the 1st of HENRY V., who left issue, SIR WALTER BLOUNT, created LORD MOUNTJOY, (See Burke's Extinct Peerage,) and Sir Thomas, ancestor of the BLOUNTS OF IVER and MAPLE, DURHAM, now represented by MICHAEL HENRY BLOUNT, esq. high sheriff for Oxfordshire, in 1832.

Sir Robert le Blount d. in 1288, and was s. by his elder son,

SIR RALPH LE BLOUNT, Lord of Belton, in the County of Rutland, who recovered lands in Saxlingham, in the reign of EDWARD I. He espoused Cecilia or Alicia, daughter and co-heir of Sir John Lovet, of Hampton Lovet, in Worcestershire, and was s. by his son,

SIR THOMAS LE BLOUNT, Lord of Belton and Hampton-Lovet, who married twice, and had issue,

1. WILLIAM (Sir), Lord of Belton, &c. whose only son,

SIR JOHN BLOUNT, Lord of Belton, custos of the City of London, and constable of the Tower, in the time of EDWARD III. was summoned to parliament in the first year of that reign, as LORD BLOUNT, of Belton. He m. first—, and had one son,

SIR THOMAS BLOUNT, Lord of Belton, who, with his kinsman, Nicholas, having engaged in the attempt to restore RICHARD II. to the throne, in the year 1400, suffered a most cruel death,*

* Sir Thomas Blount was hanged; but the halter was soon cut, and he was made to sit on a bench before a great fire, and the executioner came with a razor in his hand, and knelt before Sir Thomas, whose hands were tied, begging him to pardon him his death, as he must do his office. Sir Thomas asked, "Are you the person appointed to deliver me from this world?"—The executioner answered, "Yes, Sir, I pray you pardon me." And Sir Thomas kissed him, and pardoned him his death. The executioner then knelt down, and opened his belly, and cut out his bowels, and threw them into the fire. While Sir Thomas was dying, one Erpyngham, the king's chamberlain, insulting Blount, said to him, in derision, "Go, seek a master that can cure you."—Blount only answered,—"Te Deum laudamus! Blessed be the day on which I was born, and blessed be this

2. Nicholas, father of another NICHOLAS, of whom we are about to treat.

The grandson of Sir Thomas le Blount (the son of his second son), NICHOLAS LE BLOUNT, having taken an active part in the insurrection, which proved so fatal to his cousin Sir Thomas le Blount, was outlawed and forced to fly the kingdom. Repairing with other refugees to the court of Milan, he entered into the military service of the accomplished JOHN GALEAZZO VISCOMPTI, who was then at war with the emperor, and who eventually, after routing them at Brescia, drove the imperialists out of Italy. The Duke acknowledged with gratitude the merits of the English, and the splendid rewards which he conferred upon them, were worthy of the magnificent house of VISCOMPTI. Nicholas le Blount subsequently returned to England, but in doing so adopted the precaution of changing his name, as did several other of his companions, amongst whom were JOHN CARRINGTON, who took the name of Smith, the ancestor of the extinct Lords Carrington, and William Fitzwilliams, who assumed that of English; Blount chose the cognomen of CROKE.* He m. Agnes, daughter and heiress of John Heynes by Alicia Athall, and was s. by his son,

JAMES CROKE, alias LE BLOUNT, whose son,

RICHARD CROKE, espoused a lady named Alicia, but of what family is not related. He was s. by his son, JOHN CROKE, esq. who was appointed in 1522 one of the Six Clerks† of the Court of Chancery, and in seven years afterwards obtained a patent for life as Comptroller and Supervisor of the Hanaper in the same court. In the reign of EDWARD VI. he was constituted a Master in Chancery. In 1529 Master Croke had purchased the estate and manor of Chilton, in Bucks, from Lord Zouch, and, in 1539, bought from the crown the priory of STUDLEY, with all the possessions thereunto belonging.

* Harl. MSS. Rawlinson's MSS. in the Bodleian Library, &c. &c.

† As the chancellor had been almost always an ecclesiastic, these officers were anciently actual cleri, or in holy orders, and were regularly promoted to livings under the chancellor's patronage. As clergymen, they were incapable of marrying, and even when they ceased to be in orders the ancient custom of celibacy continued, a restraint which was confirmed by an ordinance in Chancery, 12th of RICHARD II. and was observed until the reign of HENRY VIII.

He wedded Prudencia, third daughter of Richard Cave, esq. of Stamford-upon-Avon, and sister of Sir Ambrose Cave, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, a most intimate friend and near connexion of the Lord Treasurer Burleigh. He d. in 1554, and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN CROKE, knt. of Chilton, b. in 1530, returned to parliament for the borough of Southampton in 1571, and for the county of Bucks in the following year. He wedded, in 1533, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Alexander Unton,* knt. and had issue,

1. JOHN (Sir), of Chilton and Studley, an able and eminent lawyer, who succeeded Sir Edward Coke as Treasurer of the Inner Temple in 1598, and was subsequently appointed Recorder of London, and chosen one of the representatives of that city. In the last memorable parliament called by Queen ELIZABETH, he was elected SPEAKER of the House of Commons, and the manner of his appointment has been most curiously related by a contemporary writer, Sir Simonds D'Ewes. In the 1st year of JAMES I. he received the honor of knighthood, and was made serjeant-at-law. Sir John was afterwards constituted king's serjeant, and a Welsh judge; and he succeeded Sir John Popham, as one of the justices of the Court of King's Bench, in the 5th of the same reign. The arguments of Sir John Croke at the bar, and his decisions from the bench, evinced the profoundest professional knowledge; in testimony of which he received from the Lord Chancellor (Sir Christopher Hatton) a bowl of silver gilt. He m. Catherine, daughter of Sir Michael Blount, knt. of Maple, Durham, and dying in 1619, left issue,†

11. Henry, barrister-at-law, who m. Miss Bennet Honywood, and left, at his decease, with several daughters, an only surviving son,

1. George (Sir), of Waterstock, m. Jane, daughter of Sir Richard Onslow, and left at his decease two daughters, Elizabeth and Sarah; one m. to Sir Tho-

SIR DODSWORTH CROKE, bart. who attained a great age in poverty, and dying issueless in 1728, the male line of the elder branch expired.

2. Henry (Sir), M. P. for Christchurch, temp. CHARLES I. Clerk of the Pipe in the Court of Exchequer, m. Bridget, daughter and co-heiress of Sir William Hawtrej, knt. of Chequers, in the county of Bucks, and dying in 1659, left an only son,

1. SUSAN.

2. MARY, m. to John Thurban, esq. serjeant-at-law, who became eventually possessed of the whole estate of Chequers, which passed with Mr. Thurban's granddaughter, Miss CUTTS RIVATT, into the family of Russell, and is now enjoyed by SIR ROBERT GREENHILL RUSSELL, bart. of Chequers.

3. ISABELL, m. to John (or Samuel) Dod, esq.

3. Charles, in holy orders, and D.D. one of the chaplains to King CHARLES I. Doctor Croke died in 1657, leaving the reputation of an eminent divine.

4. Unton, serjeant-at-law, M.P. who wedded in 1617 Anne, daughter and heiress of Richard Hore, esq. of Marston. Mr. Serjeant Croke attached himself to the Parliamentary interest, and rendered essential services to the cause. He d. in 1670, leaving inter alios

RICHARD (Sir), of Marston, serjeant-at-law and M. P. for Oxford, m. Miss Wright, and had issue, Unton, a celebrated Parliamentary officer.

5. Edward, d. unm.

* The family of UNTON was one of the most influential in the county. Sir Hugh UNTON, great grandfather of Lady Croke, married Sybell, dau. and heiress of William Fettiplace, esq. of Shifford, by BEATRICE, natural daughter of JOHN I. King of Portugal, and sister of ALPHONSO, DUKE OF BRAGANZA, ancestor of the royal family of Portugal.

† Issue of Judge (JOHN) CROKE:

1. JOHN (Sir), of Chelton, M. P. for Shaftesbury, was father of GEORGE (Sir), one of the most eminent lawyers of the period in which he lived, who after passing through the minor gradations of office, was constituted, in 1628, one of the judges of the Court of King's Bench. In the unconstitutional proceedings of the misguided CHARLES I. previous to the breaking out of the Civil War, Sir George Croke did not concur, and, unterrified by the menaces, and uninfluenced by the fascinations of power, followed upon every occasion the dictates of his conscience, always raising his voice in favor of the rights of the people. In the celebrated case of Hampden, after five of the judges had delivered their opinions for the crown, Mr. Justice Croke gave his in favor of that celebrated patriot. In 1621, Sir George purchased Studley from Sir John Croke, of Chilton, having some years previously bought Waterstock from Sir William Cave. He m. Mary, daughter of Sir Thomas Bennet, and left at his decease, in 1642, three daughters, viz.

She m. secondly, Sir Richard Ingoldsby, knt. cousin to the Protector CROMWELL, and a gallant parliamentary commander. The present Marquess of Winchester is a descendant of the latter marriage.

Captain Penrice s. to his estates as eldest co-heir of his father, 2nd November, 1816.

Lineage.

THOMAS PENRICE, esq. of Yarmouth, in the county of Norfolk, (descended from an ancient family of the same name, in Worcestershire, of which was Sir John Penrice, of Penrice Castle, in the county of Glamorgan, whose heiress espousing Sir Hugh Mansel, knt. conveyed the estate of Penrice to that house) was the residuary legatee of John Howe, last Lord Chedworth, and inherited his lordship's estates in Gloucestershire and Wiltshire, which he sold in 1810.

Having been blessed with a natural strong mind improved by a good education, Mr. Penrice made considerable attainment in the study of history and the belles lettres. In music he was an adept, and to the polite arts he was much attached. Of his knowledge in the latter, his Rubens, Titians, Gaidos, Wouvermanns, Ostade, &c. will ever bear respectable testimony. He d. 2nd November, 1816, and after giving his

WINSTANLEY, OF BRAUNSTON.

WINSTANLEY, CLEMENT, esq. of Braunston Hall, in the county of Leicester, b. in 1775, s. to the estates upon the demise of his father in 1808, and served the office of high sheriff of Leicestershire, in 1815.

Lineage.

The family of WINSTANLEY is of remote antiquity in the county of Lancaster, the name occurring in the records of that shire, as far back as the reign of HENRY III. Among its early progenitors, SIR THOMAS WINSTANLEY is mentioned by Froissart and Barnes, as one of the knights attendant upon the Black Prince, in his expedition into Spain, to place Don Pedro upon the throne. The successors of this gallant warrior, allying with the houses of Standish, Worsley, Waller, Longton, &c. remained seated at WINSTANLEY, in Lancashire, until the close of the sixteenth century, when JAMES WINSTANLEY, of Winstanley, one of the poor knights of Windsor, is presumed to have alienated to the Bankeses, the patrimonial mansion and estates.

JAMES WINSTANLEY, esq. b. in 1600, a scion of the Lancashire family, was admitted of Gray's Inn in 1624, and was appointed recorder of Leicester in 1653. He had previously, 25th May, 1650, purchased the manor of BRAUNSTON from the Hastings. He espoused Catherine, daughter of Clement Moss, esq. and had issue,

1. CLEMENT, his heir.
2. Susanna, m. first to — Austin, esq. of Derhams, near Barnet, but had no issue. She espoused secondly, Sir

Edmund Prideaux, bart. of Netherton, and had a son,

SIR EDMUND PRIDEAUX, bart. who m. first, Mary, daughter of Samuel Reynardson, esq. of Hillingdon, in Middlesex, by whom he had an only daughter, MARY (co-heir), who wedded James Winstanley, esq. and had issue.

Sir Edmund espoused secondly, Anne, daughter of Philip Hawkins, esq. of Pennans, in Cornwall, by whom he had another daughter,

ANNE (co-heir), m. to John Pendarves Basset, esq. of Tihiddy, and had a son,

JOHN PRIDEAUX BASSET, esq. who d. unmarried in 1756, when the estates of the Bassets devolved upon FRANCIS BASSET, his uncle. The eldest son of this Francis was afterwards elevated to the peerage as BARON DE DUNSTANVILLE. (See Burke's Peerage.)

3. Catherine, m. to Colonel Silas Titus.*

* This celebrated person was son of SILAS TITUS, of Bushey, Herts, gent. He was b. in 1612-13—entered a commoner of Christ Church, Oxford, in 1637, and became, about 1640, a member of one of the inns of court. In the grand Rebellion, when the Parliament raised an army against the king, he obtained a captain's commission, but disapproving of the course pursued by the Independants, abandoned his colours for the royal standard, and was subsequently of eminent service to the two CHARLESSES. Colonel Titus was a man of wit, and author of the celebrated pamphlet, secretly published, called "Killing no Murder." In this satirical production, several cogent reasons are offered to the USURPER, why he should put himself to death. CROMWELL is said to have been exceedingly terrified, and to have doubted whether

Mr. Winstanley d. 13th Nov. 1666, and was interred at Edmonton, in Middlesex. He was s. by his son,

CLEMENT WINSTANLEY, esq. of Braunston, who m. in 1668, Catherine, daughter of Sir Francis Willoughby, knt. M.P. for Notts, and dying in 1672, was s. by his son, Elizabeth, m. to Thomas Herrick, esq. of Newark, and d. in 1757.

Cassandra, d. unmarried in 1797.

Mr. Winstanley was s. at his decease, in January, 1718-19, by his elder son,

JAMES WINSTANLEY, esq. of Braunston, high sheriff of Leicestershire, who m. his cousin, Mary, daughter and co-heir of Sir Edmund Prideaux, bart. by whom (who d. in 1758) he left issue, CLEMENT, his successor.

Elizabeth.

Anne, m. to Leonard Fosbrooke, esq. of Shardlow, in the county of Derby, and had issue.

he should not follow the author's advice, to avoid the pistol of the assassin. Titus, who was not known to be the author till after the Restoration, had a colonel's commission given him by King CHARLES II, who made him one of the grooms of his bedchamber. He sometimes, to divert the king, or sink a declining favorite, practised buffooneries, better suited to Bartholomew Fair than to the court of a prince, who certainly understood decorum and politeness. Though Titus had pleaded strongly in parliament for the exclusion of the Duke of York, he was no less urgent for the abolition of the test and penal laws, as the surest bulwark against Popery. In the reign of King JAMES, he was sworn of the privy council. He d. in 1704, aged 82.—GRAINGER.

Susanna.

Frances, m. to — Butts, esq.

He d. in March, 1770, and was s. by his son,

CLEMENT WINSTANLEY, esq. who served the office of sheriff for the county of Leicester, in 1774, and the respect evinced towards him upon that occasion, at the assizes, by the gentlemen of the shire, is worthy of observation. They arrayed themselves in blue coats with crimson collars, and attended him from his seat at Leicester, in something like military order. During the shrivalty of Mr. Winstanley, the great contest for the county occurred between John Peach Hungerford and William Pochin, esquires, in the progress of which the sheriff received the compliments of both parties, for his impartiality and integrity. He m. Jane, eldest daughter of Sir Thomas Parkyns, bart. of Bunny, and sister of the first Lord Ranelife, by whom he had four sons and two daughters, viz.

This family was founded by the celebrated writer on Political Economy,

DAVID RICARDO, a gentleman of Jewish origin, who was b. on the 12th April, 1772, and educated in Holland, in order that he might pursue the profession of his father, a Dutch merchant and stock broker, but incurring by an early marriage with a quaker lady of the name of Wilkinson, the displeasure of his friends, he was thrown entirely upon his own resources, the friends of his wife being equally irritated, and obliged to depend solely upon his own industry. Becoming a member of the Stock Exchange, he gradually accumulated an immense fortune, and obtained distinction as a writer upon Finance. In 1810, his opinions upon the deprecation of the currency were first promulgated through the columns of the Morning Chronicle Newspaper, but he subsequently embodied his ideas in a distinct work, and he had the satisfaction to find them adopted and confirmed in the report of the Bullion Committee of the House of Commons. He subsequently published an "Essay on Rent," in which he advocated the principles of Malthus, and entered into an examination of the affairs of the Bank of England. Eventually he proposed an economical currency, and addressed a letter to Mr. Perceval, who was then Chancellor of the Exchequer, upon the subject, but without effect. His most important production was his treatise upon "Political Economy and Taxation," a work said to rank with the celebrated "Wealth of Nations," of Adam Smith. Mr. Ricardo obtained a seat in parliament, in 1819, for the borough of Portarlington, and the same liberality and good sense marked his parliamentary career that had previously characterized his writings. He died of inflammation of the brain, arising from an abscess in the ear, on the 11th September, 1823.

The right honorable gentleman died in 1775, having previously filled the chair of the Worcestershire Quarter Sessions for several years. The following epitaph from the pen of EDMUND BURKE, presents a faithful delineation of his character :

To the Memory of

WILLIAM DOWDESWELL,

Representative in Parliament for the county of Worcester, Chancellor of the Exchequer in the years 1765 and 1766, and a member of the King's Privy Council :

A SENATOR FOR TWENTY YEARS, A MINISTER FOR ONE, A VIRTUOUS CITIZEN FOR HIS WHOLE LIFE.

A man of unshaken constancy, inflexible integrity, unremitted industry.

His mind was generous, open, sincere.

His manners plain, simple, and noble : rejecting all sorts of duplicity and disguise

As useless to his designs and odious to his nature.

His understanding was comprehensive, steady, vigorous, made for the practicable business of the State.

In debate, he was clear, natural and convincing.

His knowledge in all things which concerned his duty profound.

He understood beyond any man of his time the REVENUES of his COUNTRY :

Which he preferred to every thing except its LIBERTIES.

He was perfect master of the law of Parliament, and attached to its privileges, until they were set

Up against the RIGHTS of the PEOPLE.

All the proceedings which have weakened Government, endangered FREEDOM, and distracted the British Empire, were, by him, strenuously opposed ;

And his last efforts, under which his health sunk, were to preserve

His country from a civil war, which being

Unable to prevent, he had not the misfortune to see.

He was not more respectable on the public scene, than amiable in private life :

Immersed in the greatest affairs, he never lost the ancient, native, genuine English character of a Country Gentleman,

Disdaining and neglecting no office in life.

He was a useful municipal magistrate : with great care and clear judgment administering justice,

Maintaining the police, relieving the distresses and regulating the manners of the people in the neighbourhood,

As husband, father, the kindest, gentlest, most indulgent.

He was every thing to his family except what he gave up to his country.

His widow, who labours with life, in order to form

The minds of his eleven children to the resemblance

Of their father, erects this Monument.

Mr. Dowdeswell was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS DOWDESWELL, esq. of Pull Court, who had entered early into the military service of his country, but owing to the fatigue and cold which he experienced while upon active service with his regiment in America, he became totally blind before his thirty-third year. Miss Seward, in one of her "Letters," gives a most interesting description of Pull Court and its inmates at this period. Mr. Dowdeswell m. in 1798, Magdalena, second daughter of Sir Thomas Pasley, bart. but dying issueless, in 1811, the estates devolved upon his next brother.

WILLIAM DOWDESWELL, esq. who thus became "of Pull Court." This gentleman having adopted the profession of arms, served with high reputation in different parts of the world, and attained the rank of GENERAL in his Majesty's service. General Dowdeswell represented Tewkesbury in parliament from 1792 to 1796. He died on the 1st December, 1828, unmarried, when his Lancashire estates devolved upon his next brother, EDWARD CHRISTOPHER DOWDESWELL, D.D. canon of Christ Church, Oxford ; while those in the counties of Worcester and Gloucester passed to his youngest brother, the present EDMUND DOWDESWELL, esq. of Pull Court.

Lineage.

The family of CAY (or, as the name was formerly spelt, KEY) is believed to have enjoyed very fair possessions in the Eastern Borders. The following traditional account of the loss of their ancient patrimony is still recorded: at a remote period, the head of the family having quarrelled with another gentleman, they agreed to settle their dispute, by combat, within the Poundfold of Alnwick. Having procured the key, they locked themselves in, and threw it over the wall. KEY killed his antagonist, leaped over the wall, and made his escape on foot to Newcastle-upon-Tyne, which was, at that period, without the jurisdiction of the Marchers.

This murder and flight constituting March treason, Key's possessions were forfeited, and he spent his life, in great indigence, at Newcastle. His son or grandson, however, found means to be bound apprentice to a brewer in Newcastle, and for several generations they pursued that business, the family continuing to this day freemen of the Corporation of Brewers and Bakers there.

In this line of business, a considerable trade was at length established by Robert Key or Cay, of Newcastle, which was much extended by his widow, when left with a large family, for whom she amply provided. By her exertions a good deal of property was acquired to the family in Newcastle and elsewhere. She was twice nearly ruined by fires, yet, by economy and prudence, she grew rich, and built houses for four of her sons, to whom she gave an excellent education. At a late period of her life, she connected herself in trade with her third son, Robert,* but being obliged to pay debts contracted through his extravagance, was reduced to poverty. Her resolution was, however, not to be shaken—she began the world again, thrived, and grew rich, leaving ample provisions to her family. Her eldest son,

JABEZ CAY, studied at Edinburgh University, in the reign of CHARLES II. when James, Duke of York, was high commissioner in Scotland, 1682. He was one of a number of students, who, according to annual custom, on the 5th November, burnt an effigy of the pope, at the gate of the palace of Holyrood. For this, he, along with others, was summoned before the privy council, and was banished from Scotland. He went to Padua, to complete his studies, and having taken the degree of doctor in physic there, he returned, and practised in Northumberland, where he accumulated a considerable fortune, and, in conjunction with a person of the name of Hutchinson, purchased the estate of North Charlton, in 1696. Dr. Cay dying in 1702, unmarried, left his share of the property to his brother,

JOHN CAY, esq. who obtained also from the representatives of Hutchinson, their interest in the estate, and thus became of North Charlton. He m. Grace, daughter and co-heir of Henry Woolff, esq. of Bredlington, and had issue,

Mr. Cay was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

ROBERT CAY, esq. of North Charlton, and of the Laygate, Durham, b. in 1694. This gentleman was engaged in considerable mercantile speculations, the manufacture of salt, &c. He published a letter in the newspapers of the day, signed with the initials B. K. suggesting the institution of an infirmary at Newcastle. The proposal was followed, and thus gave rise to that excellent establishment. The circumstance was commemorated by giving the name of B. K. ward to one of the departments of the infirmary, which name it still retains. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Reynold Hall, esq. of Catcleugh, and had issue,

They had several grants from the crown; the last of which was in the 12th year of JAMES I. when that prince granted to John Greaves, esq. the then possessor of Beely, the power of holding a court leet for the manors of Beely, Stanton Birchover, Bridgetown, Coroley, Gratton, and Winster. In 1664, the old hereditary estates at Beely were sold to John, Earl of Rutland, and the head of the family left Beely, and settled at Mayfield, in Staffordshire, where his descendants have ever since remained.

The family of Lyttelton has been of long standing in the county of Worcester, and had considerable possessions in the vale of Evesham, particularly at South Lyttelton, whence the name has probably been assumed, in the beginning of the thirteenth century.

THOMAS DE LUTTELTON, about the nineteenth year of Henry III. m. Emma, only daughter and heiress of Sir Simon de Frankley, knt. by whom he had an only daughter, Emma, who m. Augerus de Tatlynton (which Augerus was distrained in the 40th year of Henry III. for not taking upon himself the order of knighthood). Thomas de Luttelton m. secondly, Anselm, daughter and heiress of William Fitzwarren, of Upton, in the county of Worcester, one of the justices-itinerant and judge of the Common Pleas, 12th Henry III. and sheriff of Worcestershire the following year, by whom he left three sons. This Thomas was a considerable benefactor to religious institutions, particularly to the convents of Pershore, and the abbey of Evesham. He was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

EDMUND DE LUTTELTON, who resided at Coulesdon, and had lands at Naunton, in Worcestershire, which still continue in possession of a branch of the family of Lyttelton; dying without issue, his estates devolved upon his youngest and only surviving brother,

THOMAS DE LUTTELTON, who represented the county of Worcester in parliament, from 9th Edward II. to the 34th Edward III. and was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

THOMAS DE LUTTELTON, who recovered the manor of Frankley, by a writ of right, on failure of issue to his cousin, Thomas de Tatlynton. This Thomas de Luttelton was esquire of the body of three successive kings, namely, Richard II. Henry IV. and Henry V.; and was rewarded with several grants of money, timber, &c. from each of those monarchs, pro bono et gratuito servitio, as expressed in the grants. He d. in the 1st year of Henry VI. and left an only daughter and heiress,

ELIZABETH DE LUTTELTON, who m. Thomas Westcote, esq. the king's servant in court, a gentleman of Devonshire, anciently descended; but she being fair, and of noble spirit (to use the phraseology of Lord Coke), and having large possessions and inheritances from her ancestors, de Luttelton, and from her mother, the daughter and co-heiress of Quatermain, and other ancestors, resolved to continue the honour of her name, and therefore provided, by Westcote's assent, before marriage, that her issue inheritable should be called by the name of Lyttelton. Upon this marriage, Mr. Westcote settled at Frankley, and served the office of escheator of Worcester 29th Henry VI. (1450); soon after which he d. leaving four sons and as many daughters. He was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS DE LUTTELTON (or Lyttelton, as he began to write it), who, having been brought up to the bar, was called, in 1454, to the degree of serjeant-at-law; and, in the following year, was nominated king's-serjeant, when he rode justice of the assize in the northern circuit. In 1464 (the fourth year of King EDWARD IV.) Mr. Serjeant Lyttelton was appointed one of the judges of the court of Common Pleas; and the king granted him, at the same time, out of the customs of London, Bristol, and Hull, 110 marks yearly, with the sum of 106s. 10½*d.* for a robe and furs, and 66s. 6*d.* for a summer robe, called linura. In the 15th year of the same monarch, he was created with the Prince of Wales, and other persons of distinction, a Knight of the Bath. Sir Thomas wrote his celebrated "Treatise on Tenures," after he had ascended the bench; a book, which Lord Coke has characterized, as the ornament of the common law, and the most perfect and absolute work that ever was written in any human science." METHUEN, OF CORSHAM.

Frederick-Henry-Paul, b. 23rd February, 1818.

St. John-George-Paul, b. 23rd November, 1819.

Jane-Matilda.

Mr. Methuen succeeded his father in September, 1816. He represented the county of Wilts in two parliaments before 1819, but retired from ill health in that year.

Lineage.

The surname of METHUEN, written at different times Meffan, Methfen, Methfin, Methfyn, Methwyn, Methwen, and METH-UVEN, is local, and was assumed from the barony of Methven, in Scotland, as soon as such designations became hereditary in that kingdom.

“The traditional account of the origin of the Methvens (says Sir Robert Douglas) that a man of distinction accompanied Queen MARGARET from Hungary; and being of singular merit, as well as of high rank, became a mighty favorite with King MALCOLM CANMORE, who, to induce him to stay in his kingdom, bestowed upon him the lands and barony of Methven, in Perthshire, where he settled, from which his posterity assumed their surname; and, to keep in remembrance their descent from Germany, they often carried their arms blazoned on the breast of a spread eagle."

At such a distance of time, it is hardly possible to name with accuracy the person first called METHVEN, but we find many persons of distinction bearing that surname in the early annals of Scotland,—so far back even as the beginning of the thirteenth century.

PATRICK DE METHVEN, who possessed the lands and barony of Methven in the time of ALEXANDER III. was father of

SIR ROGER DE METHVEN, one of the gallant followers of ROBERT BRUCE, but compelled to submit to the Royal Invader in 1296. This eminent person espoused first the widow of Malise, Earl of Strathern, a lady who then enjoyed the largest fortune in the kingdom. By this marriage Sir Roger acquired the lands of Keiller, &c., but having no issue, those estates reverted, upon the decease of the Countess, to the family of Strathern. Sir Roger wedded a second time, and had two sons,

PAUL, his successor.

WILLIAM, heir to his brother.

The name of Sir Roger Methven occurs in numerous charters; the last deed in which we find it mentioned is one from the Countess of Strathern to Sir Robert Erskine, knt. and Dame Christian Keith, his spouse, of the lands of Kentullock, in Perthshire, to which instrument Sir Roger is a subscribing witness. He died at an advanced age in the reign of King DAVID BRUCE, and was s. by his elder son,

PAUL DE METHVEN, of Methven, who was appointed in 1363 ambassador extraordinary to conclude a treaty of peace with England. He died without issue, and was s. by his brother,

WILLIAM DE METHVEN, of that Ilk, who was s. at his decease temp. ROBERT II. by his son,

WILLIAM DE METHVEN, of that Ilk. This laird had a charter under the great seal in 1376 from King ROBERT II. He died in the ensuing reign, and was s. by his son,

JOHN DE METHVEN, of that Ilk, who appears to have been accredited to England in 1397 as ambassador extraordinary. About this period the laird alienated the castle of Methven and part of the lands comprising the barony to John, Duke of Albany, which, on the forfeiture of Duke Murdock in 1425, passed to the Crown, and continued vested therein, until conferred by King JAMES V. upon his mother, Queen MARGARET. The laird died in the reign of JAMES I. and was s. by his son, JOHN DE METHVEN. This gentleman was distinguished at the court of JAMES II. and enjoyed in an especial degree the favor of that monarch. In 1440 he was one of the principal secretaries of state, and lord register of Scotland; and in 1449 he was employed upon an embassy to England, when he succeeded in his mission—that of prolonging an existing truce. The next year he revisited the English court, and again in a diplomatic capacity, to negotiate several important affairs of state. Thenceforward, scarcely any political transaction of moment occurred in which he was not engaged; and in all he acquitted himself with ability, honor, and fidelity. He wedded a daughter of Sir John Haldane of Gleneagles, and dying in the time of JAMES III. was s. by (his son or grandson),

JOHN DE METHVEN, who retained still a portion of the hereditary lands in Perthshire. He m. a daughter of John Blackadder of Tulliallan, and dying soon after the year 1502, was s. by his son,

ANDREW DE METHVEN, who wedded Isabel, daughter of Robert Bruce, of Airth, and had (with a younger son, Andrew, who seems to have obtained a share in his father's lands) his successor,

JOHN DE METHVEN, whose name occurs in a charter under the great seal, temp. JAMES V. of certain lands about Clackmannan. This gentleman having zealously espoused the opinions of the reformers, fled into England, alarmed at the death of Wyshart, and was most graciously received by Queen ELIZABETH, who conferred upon his son,

The Rev. PAUL METHUEN, several beneficial preferments in the county of Somerset, and a prebend in the cathedral church of Wells. The reverend gentleman m. Ann Rogers, of an old Somersetshire family, and dying in 1606 was s. by his son,

The Rev. ANTHONY METHUEN, Prebendary of Wells and Lichfield. This gentleman acquired considerable estates. He m. Jean, daughter and heiress of Thomas Taylor, Esq. of Bristol, and had three sons, namely,

PAUL, his heir.

Anthony, who married, and left issue.

Francis.

Mr. Methven died in 1640, and was s. by his eldest son,

PAUL METHUEN, esq. of Bradford and Bishop's Cannings, in the county of Wilts, who wedded Grace, daughter of John Ashe, esq. of Treshford, in Somersetshire, and niece of Sir Joseph Ashe, bart. by whom he had issue,

1. JOHN, his successor.
2. Anthony, who inherited his father's estate at Bradford, and divers manors in Somersetshire. He m. Gertrude, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Moore, esq. of Spargrove, in the county of Somerset, (by Elizabeth, his wife, eldest daughter of Sir John Bampfild, bart. of Poltimore) and left at his decease, in 1717, an only son,

THOMAS, who espoused Anne, dau. and sole heiress of Isaac Selve, esq. of Beanacre, by Penelope, his wife, daughter and co-heir of Charles, Lord Lucas,* and was s. at his decease, in 1737, by his son,

PAUL, of Corsham, of whom hereafter, as heir to his cousin, SIR PAUL METHUEN.

3. Paul,)
4. William, } all died s. p.

6. Elizabeth, d. unm.

Mr. Methuen d. in 1667, and was s. by his eldest son,

The Right Honourable JOHN METHUEN, of Bishop's Cannings, member of parliament for Devizes, and one of the most eminent political characters of the time in which he flourished. He was of the privy council, and LORD CHANCELLOR OF IRELAND, in the reigns of King WILLIAM and Queen ANNE, and his name as a diplomatist, having been frequently engaged upon embassies of the highest importance, immortalized by the celebrated treaty, called after himself, concluded in 1703 with the court of Lisbon, and which has proved so beneficial to the commerce of Great Britain. He wedded Mary, daughter of Seacole Chevers, esq. of Cumberford, in Wilts, and had issue,

PAUL (Sir), his heir.

Henry, } both died young.

Mary, m. first to Humphrey Simpson, esq. secondly to Sir Richard Anderson, and thirdly to Sir Brownlow Sherrard, bart.

Isabel, d. unmarried.

Mr. Methuen died at Lisbon in 1706, whence his remains were conveyed to England, and interred in Westminster Abbey. His eldest son,

SIR PAUL METHUEN was a man of extraordinary accomplishments, singular integrity, and powerful abilities. In 1692 he accompanied the embassy to Lisbon in the capacity of secretary, and continued to fulfil the duties of that office for five years, when he succeeded his father, whose services were required in Ireland, as envoy. He remained at the court of Lisbon until 1705, when he was accredited envoy to the court of Savoy; but upon the decease of his father in the next year, he returned to Portugal as ambassador-extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary. In 1709 he was appointed one of the lords of the Admiralty, from which, in 1714, he was transferred to the Treasury, and then sworn of the privy council. At this period he was sent ambassador to the King of Spain. In 1716 he was constituted principal secretary of state; in 1720 made comptroller of the household; in 1725 installed a knight of the Bath, and the same year appointed treasurer of the household, which office he resigned in 1730. Sir Paul d. unmarried in 1757, when he was interred near his father in Westminster Abbey, and his estates devolved upon his cousin,

PAUL METHUEN, esq. of Corsham, M.P. for Warwick, who espoused Christian, dau. and co-heir of Sir George Cobb, bart. of Adderbury, in the county of Oxford, by whom he had issue,

Mr. Gurdon inherited the estates at the decease of his father, in 1820. He was formerly lieutenant-colonel of the West Norfolk militia, is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant, and served the office of sheriff of Norfolk in 1824.

Lineage.

This family came into England with the CONQUEROR from GOURDON, near Cahors, on the borders of Perigord, and the name is in the roll of Battel Abbey.

SIR ADAM DE GURDON, knt. living in the time of HENRY III. was in that monarch's reign bailiff of Alton, but was outlawed for treason and rebellion, as one of the Montford faction. He was restored, however, upon the accession of EDWARD, and constituted in 1272, keeper of the forest of Wolmer. He m. first, Constantia, daughter and heiress of Thomas Makarel, of Selborne, in the county of Southampton. He resided in that shire in a mansion-house, called the TEMPLE, which overlooked the forest. Sir Adam espoused secondly, Almeria ——— from whom he was divorced, after having had two sons, the elder of whom was seated in Wiltshire, and the younger settled himself in London. These sons appear, however, to have been disinherited, for their father had a third wife, Agnes, and by her a daughter, JOHANNA, to whom he left his property in Selborne. This lady wedded Richard Achard, and that estate, bearing still the name of Gurdon Manor, belongs now to Magdalen College, Oxford. The armorial ensigns of Sir Adam Gurdon are those still borne by the family of which we are now treating. Sir Adam's second son, (of the elder there is no further account)

ROBERT GURDON took up his abode in London. He d. in 1343, and was s. by his son,

JOHN GURDON, a merchant in London, who d. in 1385, leaving a son,

JOHN GURDON, of Dedham, in Essex, who d. in 1487, leaving a son,

JOHN GURDON, of Dedham, father of JOHN GURDON, of Dedham, who m. first, Mary, daughter of John Butter, esq. of Dedham, but had no issue. He espoused, secondly, Anne, daughter of John Coleman, esq. of Lynes Hall, in Suffolk, and left a son,

ROBERT GURDON, esq. who wedded Rose, daughter and heiress of Robert Sexton, esq. of Lavenham, in Suffolk. This gentleman purchased Assington Hall, from Sir Miles Corbet. He served the office of sheriff for the county of Suffolk, and dying in 1577, was s. by his son,

JOHN GURDON, esq. who m. Amy, daughter and heiress of William Brampton,* esq. of Letton, in Norfolk. This gentleman was sheriff of Suffolk in 1585. He d. in 1623, and was s. by his son, Robert, m. Joyce, daughter of James Harvey, esq. of Essex.

Amy, m. to Sir Henry Mildmay.

Mr. Gurdon espoused, secondly, Muriel, daughter of Sir Martyn Sedley, of Morley, in Norfolk, by a daughter of John Knyvett, of Ashwellthorp, and had another son and two daughters, viz.

The third and youngest son,

ANTHONY MEYNELL, esq. was named joint tenant, with his brother Henry, of a lease of a farmhold in Kilvington, under his father's will. A dispute arose between the brother, Robert Meynell, the serjeant, and the nephew Roger Meynell (son and heir of Anthony) relative to the succession to Henry's estates, which was ultimately decided by a decree of the court of the lord president of the North, at York, the Earl of Rutland president, dated June 18, 1562. After reciting that Henry Meynell, uncle of Roger (the plaintiff) being seized in fee of six messuages and six hundred acres of land, in North Kilvington and Thornaby, did, by his will, devise the same to his brother, Anthony Meynell, father of Roger, the plaintiff, who conveyed them to the said Roger, his son, and by virtue thereof, the said Roger became seized in fee, and enjoyed the same until disturbed by the said Robert Meynell, the serjeant, decreed that the said complainant, Roger Meynell, should quietly enjoy the said premises.

* This John Meynell dying intestate, administration of his effects was granted to Stephen Kirk, of Thornton-le-street, yeoman, 16th September, 1690. The account of his funeral expenses, which is still preserved, states that two hundred and eighty-eight gallons of ale, and an equally amazing quantity of cakes and biscuits were consumed. The total cost was paid out of the effects of the deceased, by his uncle Major John Talbot, of Wood End, who, upon the demise of his nephew John Meynell, had taken possession of his estates in Little Broughton and Dromanby. About eight years subsequently to this event, in consequence of rumours being circulated that John Meynell had been murdered, Roger Meynell of North Kilvington, cousin of the deceased, filed a bill against Major John Talbot, for the recovery of the estates, which Major Talbot had taken possession of. From the pleadings in the cause, it appeared that John Meynell, being a Roman Catholic Recusant, conveyed his lands to his two protestant uncles, Roger and John Talbot, in order to avoid their seizure under the penal statutes then in severe force on account of the infamous plot of the perjured Oates; but with the implied understanding that his two uncles should only hold them in trust for him. Nevertheless upon the demise of John Meynell, Major John Talbot claimed and took possession of the estates, for the recovery of which the action was brought by the heir at law, Roger Meynell, in whose favour Sir John Trevor pronounced his decree. From the interrogatories administered to the witnesses, it appears that when suspicions of the murder arose, Cuthbert Brown, the servant of the deceased John Meynell, being apprehended and examined before the magistrates at Ripon, confessed the foul deed, and also declared at whose suggestions he had committed it. When he was however arraigned before the judges at York, he refused to plead to the indictment, and standing mute, suffered the punishment of the "Peine Forte et dure," and actually died under the horrible infliction of pain. The interrogatories tend to fix the guilt of instigation upon the uncle, Major John Talbot.

* On the back of the inquisition is written by his nephew, Thomas Meynell, of North Kilvington:—

have been a very devout person, and considered as such by his family, as his grandson William Meynell, in a letter dated Cliffe, 12th December, 1670, addressed to his nephew Roger Meynell, esq. of North Kilvington, requesting payment of his annuity, says, "Being hindered at present from coming to see you, I have sent the bearer to give my respects unto you, and to bring me word, how you all keep your health this cold wether, and in particular my little godsonne, to whom I send my hartly blessing, wishing that he may live to the age and goodness of his great-great-grandfather, and then I believe, he will be both weary of this world and fit for heaven." This is a branch of the ancient Milesian family of O'SHEE, now represented by Sir George Shee, Baronet of Dunmore, in the county of Galway, and which claims descent from OLILOLIUM, King of Munster in the third century.

And trace the poet's or the painter's line;
Whose magic touch can bid the canvass glow,
Or pour the easy rhyme's harmonious flow;
While honors, doubly merited, attend
The poet's rival, but the painter's friend.”

These verses refer to “ Rhymes on Art,” and “ Elements of Art.”

SIKES, OF THE CHAUNTRY HOUSE.

SIKES, THE REV. JOSEPH, of the Chantry House, in the county of Nottingham, LL.B. b. 13th November, 1781. succeeded his father in 1798.

Lineage.

This ancient family, as we are informed by Mr. Thoresby in his "Ducatus Leodiensis," published in 1715, derives its surname from Sikes, or Sike-Dyke, near Carlisle, in Cumberland, among the gentry of which shire we find Walter de Sike returned about the commencement of the fifteenth century. One of its branches subsequently settled at Leeds, in Yorkshire, the same learned antiquary acquainting us (after describing the castle of that town besieged by King STEPHEN on his march to Scotland, and in which the ill-fated RICHARD II. lodged some time prior to his barbarous murder in Pontefract) that "where of old it stood, is now a capital messuage, and the ancient manor-house, lately with the park, &c. the estate of Richard Sikes, esq.; his grandson Richard having also it appears been Alderman of Leedes when first incorporated, and his son Richard, Parson of Kirkheaton, £1350 deep in the list of compounders,"—a circumstance of singular distinction at that period. The name was of eminency in RICHARD III.'s time, when, by the "inquisitiones post mortem, et ad quod damnum," we learn that a writ of mesne was sued by Robert de Sike against Daniel Fletwitch, to acquit him of services demanded by the King, the said Robert holding of the crown as mesne lord. It appears also, that Robert and Henrie de Sike were parties, or witnesses, to a deed of extensive transfer early in the reign of ELIZABETH; a curious portrait of the latter (Henrie) is now, among others of little less antiquity, at the Chantry House. In a subsequent era, the close of Queen Anne's reign, a Captain Richard Sikes was sent on a military mission to Ireland, and appointed governor of the town and castle of Athlone.

THE REV. RICHARD SIKES, fifth in lineal descent from Richard Sikes, of Sikes Dyke, temp. HENRY VI. and eldest son of the Rev. Richard Sikes, the Rector of Kirkheaton, was himself Rector of Spofforth and prebendary of York. He espoused Anna, daughter of the Rev. Mark Micklethwait, Rector of Long Marston, and had, with other children, who d. issueless, a son and heir, RICHARD SIKES, esq. M.A. who wedded Martha, daughter and heiress of SIR FRANCIS CAVENDISH BURTON, of St. Helens, in the county of Derby, and dying in 1696, left a son and successor,

JOSEPH SIKES, esq. b. in 1686. This gentleman espoused Hannah, daughter and heiress of William Chambers, esq. of Derby, uncle to the fifth Countess of Exeter, and left, at his decease in 1751, a son,

JOSEPH SIKES, esq. who was, for nearly half a century, one of the acting magistrates and deputy lieutenants for the counties of Nottingham and Derby, and was, as such, not less properly than liberally excused the office of sheriff for either county. He was during an extended period chairman of the Newark bench, as also of its local magistracy, and in those important capacities was in frequent correspondence at eventful epochs with several of the principal members of the then Governments. He held for some time the honorable station of one of the gentlemen of the privy chamber to King GEORGE III. and during the more meridian distinction of that celebrated military commander, the Marquess of Granby, was strongly urged by his Lordship, as well as by his own second cousin, Brownlow, ninth Earl of Exeter, (great uncle to the present Marquess) to accept, as a reward for his valuable and indefatigable public services, their recommendation for a baronetage, an honor which he more than once declined. This praiseworthy country gentleman, who was thrice Mayor of Newark, espoused first Jane, daughter of Robert Heron, esq. of Newark, and aunt to Sir Robert Heron, bt. but by her, who died in 1778, had no surviving issue. He wedded secondly Mary, daughter of the Rev. R. P. Hurton, Rector of Doddington, in Lincolnshire, and domestic chaplain to Lord Delaval, by whom he had

In 1806 he was sworn of the privy council, and in 1812, was appointed a commissioner of the board of control, where he continued to sit until 1828.

Lutrage.

This family is descended from the very ancient house of "O'Sullivan More," whose possessions formerly extended over the greater part of the counties of Cork and Kerry. A curious document relative to the family is still preserved in the Record Office in Dublin. Sir Owen O'Sullivan, who, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth was Tanist, or representative of the Sullivans, during the minority of the son of the elder brother, having refused to relinquish the distinction, when his nephew became of age, the queen instituted a special commission to enquire into the cause. The report of the Lord President of Munster upon the matter, forms the ground of the document in the Record Office, and gives much information on the custom of tanistry, which at that period generally prevailed in Ireland. The lineal representative of this ancient family,

PHILIP O'SULLIVAN, esq. of the city of Cork, died in 1737, leaving two sons,

JOHN, whose male line terminated with his son, Phillip O'Sullivan, esq. a captain in the East India Company's service.

And,

THOMAS BLENCOWE, grandson of John Blencowe, living at Marston St. Lawrence, temp. HENRY VI. obtained in the year 1540, a grant from the crown of the demesne lands and rectorial tithes of the manor of "Lawrence Merston, alias Merston St. Lawrence." From 1690 to 1695, he sat as member of the borough of Brackley; but in the latter year retiring from parliament, he devoted his time and abilities to his profession, in which he acquired high reputation. In 1696 he was appointed a baron of the exchequer, in 1697, a judge of the common pleas, and, in 1702, of the king's bench. In 1714, he was re-appointed to the common pleas, and remained on that bench until 1722, when he retired, his salary being, as a token of respect, continued to him, during the remainder of his life. "In his professional character," says Mr. Baker, (History of Northamptonshire) "he was distinguished by an honest, blunt integrity, and in the intercourse of private life, by a considerate, humane disposition, of which the following anecdote furnishes a pleasing illustration: An old man, whom he had employed in hewing stones, lived to be above ninety years old, and for some time had daily spoiled the stones, instead of rendering them fit for use. Lady Blencowe perceiving it, begged the judge to continue him his eight-pence a day, and desire him to stay at home. "No, no," said the judge, "let him spoil on; he has a pleasure in thinking he earns his daily bread at fourscore years and ten: but if you turn him off, he will soon die with grief."

He was bred to the bar, but falling early into an ill state of health, he was soon obliged to decline the pursuit of his profession, and retire to a private line in the country. "Mr. Marsham," says a writer, in the Gentleman's Magazine, "spent many years of his long life at his seat at Stratton, where he particularly attended to planting, an employment that had from his earliest years afforded him the greatest pleasure. He was not only a great planter, but a very considerable naturalist. To all lovers of a country life, his Indications of Spring will be a continued source of reference, and they point out to us, without error, on an average, how little variable nature is in all her ways." Many and most useful were his other productions. He d. universally regretted in 1797, and was s. by his elder son, WYKEHAM, OF THAME.

WYKEHAM, SOPHIA-ELIZABETH, of Thame Park and Swalcliffe, both in the county of Oxford.

Miss Wykeham inherited the estates and became, at the decease of her father, William Humphrey Wykeham, esq. in July, 1800, representative of the Wykeham family, and of the houses of Fiennes and Wenman, the former Viscounts Saye and Sele, in England; the latter, Viscounts Wenman, in Ireland.

Lineage

The family of WYKEHAM has been settled at SWALCLIFFE from a very remote period; we find mention made of a SIR RALPH WYKEHAM, living in the time of King JOHN, and of a Sir ROBERT WYKEHAM, contemporary with HENRY III.; but of these knights little more is recorded. The great luminary of the family was the celebrated Bishop of

Winchester, WILLIAM OF WYKEHAM, the founder of Winchester College, and of New College, Oxford. It is still however a contested point, whether this eminent churchman was or was not a lineal descendant of the Wykehams of Swalcliffe.* They have from time immemorial claimed him as one of their race; and in later times an inter-marriage has taken place between Richard

* The following facts are advanced in support of the affirmative:

1. The tradition which has ever existed in the family.
2. The distinct assertion of Nicholas Harpsell, himself a fellow of New College, and described as "omni literarum genere ornatus," that the prelate was a descendant of the Sir Ralph Wykeham mentioned above.
3. The circumstance that there were members of Wykeham of Swalcliffe, and the sister of Richard Fiennes, last Viscount Say and Sele, who was the lineal descendant and ultimate heiress of WILLIAM of WYKEHAM.*

From the time of the above Sir Robert Wykeham, there is a chasm until about the commencement of the fourteenth century, when

ROBERT WYKEHAM, Lord of Swalcliffe, espoused Maud, daughter and heiress of Reginald Waterville. He was s. by

SIR ROBERT WYKEHAM, kt. Lord of Swalcliffe and Wykeham, who married Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Sir John Le Sore, and was s. by his son,

JOHN WYKEHAM, who wedded Alys Lygarde, and had a son and successor,

THOMAS WYKEHAM, whose son and heir, by his wife Joyce Hanbury,

SIR EDWARD WYKEHAM, married Isabella, daughter of Gyles Powlton, and was s. by his son,

HUMPHRY WYKEHAM, esq. living in 1569, who m. the daughter of Edward Underhill, and left a son and successor,

RICHARD WYKEHAM, esq. who wedded Anne Houldbrook, and was s. by his son,

HUMPHRY WYKEHAM, esq. of Swalcliffe. This gentleman espoused Martha, daughter of Rowley Ward, esq. serjeant-at-law, and had issue, HUMPHRY, b. in 1668.

He was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD WYKEHAM, esq. of Swalcliffe, who espoused Vere-Alicia, † daughter of the Rev. Richard Fiennes, and sister and co-heir of Richard, sixth and last Viscount Say and Sele, by whom (who d. in 1768,) he had surviving issue,

WILLIAM-HUMPHRY, b. in 1734.

Richard, in holy orders, vicar of Sulgrave, and Chacombe, in the county of Northampton, and of Newton Purcell, in Oxfordshire, m. Mary, daughter of Charles Fox, esq. of Chacombe Priory, in the county of Northampthe Swalcliffe family living in Hampshire, the native county of William, of Wykeham.

4. The more than ordinary connexion which appears to have existed between the Swalcliffe family and the bishop. He gave the manors of Newton and Broughton for two lives to Thomas Wykeham, of Swalcliffe. He made extensive purchases in the neighbourhood, and he devised large legacies to four members of that family. One of them, Nicholas de Wykeham, was the first warden of New College. John Wykeham was elected to the same college, about the time of the founder's death, and Richard, one of the Hampshire branch, soon afterwards. The bishop's heir took the name of Wykeham.

5. The fact that though he entered the service of EDWARD the III. as secretary at twenty-four, we never find him called by any other name.

* This eminent person, who was born at WYKEHAM, in Hampshire, anno 1324, owed his early education to the liberality of Sir Nicolas Uvedale, to whom, after quitting Oxford, he acted for some time as private secretary; a situation which he also filled in the service of Edington, Bishop of Winchester. About the period he had reached his twenty-fourth year, he was similarly employed by KING EDWARD III. and became so great a favorite with his Royal Master, that he was appointed surveyor of the important castles of Windsor, Leeds, Dover, Hadleigh, and of twelve smaller ones, with the parks, manors, &c.: henceforward he was loaded with preferments until at the age of forty-two (1369) he was constituted Bishop of Winchester, and soon afterwards, upon the resignation of Archbishop Langham, made CHANCELLOR OF ENGLAND. So great was his influence at court, that Froissart says: "En ce temps regnoit ung prestre que on appelloit Messire Guillaume de Wickham. Guillaume de Wickham estoit si bien en la grace du Roy Angleterre, que par luy estoit tout fait, et sans luy on ne faisoit riens."

Towards the close of EDWARD's reign he was deprived of his preferments through the enmity of the Duke of Lancaster, but his disgrace was of brief duration, and he was fully reinstated. After the death of the King he was impeached, but most honorably acquitted, and he then obtained a pardon from the crown, to protect him from similar persecution in future. Having escaped these perils he directed his mind to acts of benevolence, and commenced the building of New College in 1379, which he completed in seven years. In 1387 he laid the foundation of his college at Winchester, and finished that work in 1393. These two establishments were subsequently adopted as models for the colleges of Eton and Westminster, and for King's College, Cambridge.

He was again chancellor from 1389 to 1392; again impeached in 1397, and again acquitted. From this period he mixed little in politics, but devoted himself almost entirely to the affairs of his diocese and colleges. He died in 1404, and lies buried in Winchester cathedral.

† William Fiennes, second Lord Say and Sele, espoused Margaret, daughter and heir of William Wickham, son and heir of Sir Thomas Wickham, knight, grandson maternally of William Champneis and his wife Agnes, sister of WILLIAM of WYKEHAM. The family of Fiennes is one of the highest antiquity, and can be traced to CHARLEMAGNE. There are still members of it living in the vicinity of Calais, which city was indebted to John de Fiennes, with Eustace de St. Pierre, and four other patriotic individuals for its safety in the reign of EDWARD III.

Family of Wenman.

The Wenmans were seated at a remote period in the counties of Oxford and Berks.

HENRY WENMAN, of Bluebury, in the latter shire, wedded, in 1481, Emmote, daughter and heiress of Symkin Hervey, of the county of Hereford, and was grandfather of

SIR RICHARD WENMAN, received the honor of knighthood for his gallant conduct at the taking of Cadiz in 1596, where he served as a volunteer. He was sheriff of Oxfordshire in 1627, and the next year was created a peer of Ireland by King CHARLES I. in the dignities of Baron Wenman of Kilmaynham, and Viscount WENMAN. He was s. by his son,

This nobleman was one of the adventurers in Ireland, when that kingdom was reduced by the English Parliament, and subscribing six hundred pounds, had an allotment of land in the barony of Garry Castle, and King's County. His lordship was appointed by the parliament, one of the commissioners to carry the proposition for peace to the king at Oxford, in 1644; and was again appointed commissioner for the treaty at Uxbridge in the same year; and for the treaty at Newport in 1648. He was one of the forty-one members, who for voting, "That the concessions of his Majesty to the propositions, upon the treaty of Newport, were sufficient grounds for the House to proceed upon, for the settlement of the peace of the kingdom," were seized by the army, and committed to close imprisonment. This gentleman, one of the most eminent of our literary veterans, is known as a poet, essayist, and local historian, and has acquired in each department a well earned reputation. His works have passed through several editions, and been favorably received by the critics. Amongst the admirers of his genius, and they are numerous, he had the honor of ranking Sir Walter Scott, with whom he maintained an interesting correspondence.

Mr. Polwhele has acted for thirty years as a justice of the peace and deputy-warden of the stannaries of Cornwall.

Lineage.

This family claims Saxon origin, and takes its name from the manor of Polwhele, (in Domesday Polhel) in the county of Cornwall, a manor occupied, under EDWARD the Confessor, by WINUS DE POLHAL (Polwel or Polwyl), and then by ULFIUS, a vassal of the earl of Moreton; but that was a temporary possession. To make room for the earl of Moreton, the CONQUEROR had expelled the former earl, and all his adherents, from their hereditary lands. In the year 1140, the EMPRESS, then triumphant over STEPHEN, and rewarding her victorious adherents, conferred* lands in Cornwall, upon her chamberlain,

DROGO DE POLWHEILE, with whom the pedigree of the family commences. From this Drogo, we pass to his lineal descendant,

JOHN POLWHYLL, of Polwhyll, living in the time of HENRY V. who m. Alicia —, and had (with a daughter, Elizabeth, m. to Robert Tonkin, of Trevannance) his successor at his decease, 20th of HENRY VI.

OTHO POLWHEILE, of Polwheile,† living temp. EDWARD IV. who espoused Mary, the daughter and heiress of Walter Killebrew, and had a son and heir,

STEPHEN POLWHEILE, of Polwheile, who m. Mary, daughter of Erisie de Erisie, and left a son,

JOHN POLWHEILE, of Polwheile. This gentleman m. the daughter and heiress of John Tresawell, of Tresawell, and was s. by his son, another

JOHN POLWHEILE, esq. of Polwheile, who represented the county of Cornwall in parliament, in the 4th and 5th of PHILIP AND MARY. It is worthy of remark, that of the families which had the honor of sitting in parliament for this shire, from EDWARD I. to PHILIP AND MARY, three only are now extant—Basset, Tremayne, and Polwheile. John Polwheile espoused Grace, daughter of Nicholas Lower, esq. of Trelask, and was s. by his son, DEGORY POLWHELE, esq. of Polwheile and Treworgan: the latter estate, acquired by his marriage with Catherine, one of the daughters and co-heirs* of Robert Trencreek, of that place, the first recorder of the borough of Truro, under the charter of ELIZABETH. By this lady he had issue,

THOMAS, his heir.
John.

* By a deed which begins thus, "Drogoni de Polwheile Camerario meo," &c.

† At the time of the Norman Conquest, stood about two miles east of Truro, the castle of Polwhele, not far probably from that high ground called "The Barrows," in which sepulchral urns had been deposited, and between which and the present mansion house, fragments of gothic arches and pillars, and sculptured and inscribed stones, and baptismal fonts (the work of after ages), have been discovered, and are perhaps still discoverable.

At the other extremity of what is now the parish of St Clement, stood the Castle of Moresk, overshadowing from its turrets "a branch of the sea."

Of these castles we have no distinct account till the reign of EDWARD the Fourth. It was then, in 1473, that William of Worcestre came into Cornwall; and in the vicinity of Truro he notices the two rival castles. The castle of Polwhele was the property of a gentleman then in the service of the King. The castle of Moresk was occupied by a vassal of the Duke of Cornwall, standing near the sea, at the extreme point of the Duchy Manor. Polwhele, unconnected with the Duchy, and independent of the Dukes, "in Villa Polwhele," or "on the manor," (as Worcestre expresses it) had towered on a commanding site for ages. But we are told by Worcestre, who passed the night in "Villa Polwhele," a guest of Otho, that the castle of Polwhele was then reduced to ruins; and it was so reduced, probably by the adherents of Queen MARGARET.

Polwhele's Traditions and Recollection.

* The daughters of Trencreek were,
1. Julian, m. to Carminow.
2. Jane, m. to Penwarn.
3. Catherine, m. to Polwheile.
4. Honor, m. to Mohun.

Some little scattered property still remains with the Polwhele family, a memorial of their alliance with Mohun and Carminow; as also a few small tenements commemorative of their connexion with Edgumbe, Glanville, and Godolphin. In the north side of the old church at St. Erme, there was an aged monument, (now placed in the vestry room of the new church,) charged with five shields of armorial bearings. 1st. Trencreek, quartering a chevron between three Dolphins, and impaling Vivian. 2d. Carminow, impaling Trencreek. 3d. Penwarn, impaling Trencreek. 4th. Polwhele impaling Trencreek. 5th. Mohun impaling Trencreek.

He represented the borough of Tregoney, in parliament, in conjunction with Sir Richard Vyvyan, of Treloararren. "In 1643, we observe him (says his representative, the present Mr. Polwhele) and his relations and friends, Lord Mohun, and Edgecumbe, and Glanville, and Godolphin, and Lower, and Killegrew, rallying round the sacred person of Majesty; and at Oxford, the magnificent hall of Christ Church was their senate house." To his loyalty Mr. Polwhele* devoted a large part of his patrimonial estate. He was s. at his decease, by his eldest son,

JOHN POLWHELE, esq. of Polwhele and Treworgan, who m. ---, daughter of --- Redinge, esq. of Northampton, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD POLWHELE, esq. of Polwhele and Treworgan. This gentleman, who was high sheriff of Cornwall in the reign of GEORGE I. is thus spoken of by the Cornish historian, CAREW, who wrote at that period. "We will close this hundred with the gentleman of mark. . . . Polwhele, whose name is deduced from his dwelling, and his dwell-

 And in that month my nuptial day.
 In May a mayde, a wife, a mother;
 And now in May not one nor other.
 So flowers do flourish, so they fade;
 So things to be undone are made.

† This gentleman was created M. D. by the University of Oxford in 1660. In the Chancellor's letters for that purpose, we find the following account of him. "That he had from the beginning of the late unhappy troubles, vigorously and faithfully served his Majesty, under the command of Ralph Lord Hopton, then Sir James Smith, in the quality of a Major of Horse, and continued in arms until the surrender of Pendennis Castle; from whence he went to his late Majesty of blessed memory, and afterwards followed his now Majesty (Charles II.) in Holland and Flanders, and in and about the year 1650, he returned into Cornwall, his native county, where he betook himself to the study and practice of physic."

* There was a great intimacy between John Polwhele, and the grandfather of Tonkin, the Cornish Historian. "My grandfather (says the credulous historian,) being seized with the spotted fever, which carried him off, July 6th, 1672, and his old friend John Polwhele, esq. (who had been his fellow prisoner in Pendennis Castle) dying the same night, and, as it is supposed, the same moment, at his seat of Treworgan my grandfather, as he was expiring, cried out three times, Polwhele! Polwhele! Polwhele! . . . to signify, as it were, that as they had suffered together in this world, so they were going together to partake of an eternal reward in the next. This I had both from the eldest daughter of my aunt Ley, and from a servant of his, Will. Rickard, who were both present when he died."—Tonkin's MSS. penes De Dunstanville.

Polwhele beareth sable, a saltire engrailed erm." To which Tonkin subjoins: "I think Polwhele should rather signify 'the top of the work,' according to the situation of the place, it lying high. This place gave name to a family of very great antiquity, which flourished here before the Conquest; about which time they were so eminent, that Drew de Polwhele was chamberlain to William the Conqueror's Queen.* Ever since the said Drew, they have lived in much esteem in this their ancient habitation, till Degory Polwhele, on his marriage with Catherine, daughter of Trenchcreek, removed to Treworgan." the urbanity of his manners and benevolence of his heart. By his noble relation, Edgcombe, of Mount Edgcombe, he was presented with a sword, in 1745, which he had no sooner drawn against the rebels, than their defeat at the battle of Culloden restored it to its sheath; and, as deputy-lieutenant, &c. he was equally inclined to serve his country. Much, however, is it to be regretted, that his severe lot was, seclusion from that society to which those abilities, and that disposition, might have been so highly beneficial; as the gout, to which he died an early victim, long chained him to his couch. It was there his exemplary fortitude and resignation were witnessed by many who still survive to lament how rare, at this moment, are such truly Christian virtues." Lineage.

The family of the PROTECTOR, which arose in Wales, and was deemed illustrious by the genealogists of the principality, bore the surname of CROMWELL, by assumption only, its patronimic, WILLIAMS, having been abandoned at the special desire of KING HENRY VIII. "That monarch," saith Noble, "strongly recommended to the Welch, (whom he incorporated with the English) to adopt the mode of most civilized nations, in taking family names instead of their manner of adding their father's, and perhaps grandfather's name to their own Christian one, with nap, or ap, between the Christian and surname, as Morgan ap Williams, or Richard ap Morgan ap Williams, that is, Richard, the son of Morgan, the son of Williams; and the king was the more anxious, as it was found so inconvenient in identifying persons in judicial matters.—Richard's* father seems to have taken the name of Williams for his family name; but as the surname of Williams was of so late a standing, his Majesty recommended it to Sir Richard to use that of CROMWELL, in honor of his relation, the EARL OF ESSEX, whose present greatness entirely obliterated his former meanness."

RALPH BROOKE, York Herald, drew up a pedigree of the family, which he entitled, "A Genealogy of the CROMWELL FAMILY, descended from the WILLIAMS OF WALES, whose predecessors were LORDS OF POWES and CARDIGAN, from 1066 to 1602." He commences with

GLOTHIAN, Lord of Powes, who m. Morveth, daughter and heiress of Edwyn ap Tydwall, Lord of Cardigan, whom the British historians affirm lineally sprang from Caredig, from whom the county of Cardigan took the name of Caredygion. The heir of this marriage,

GWAITH-VOED, was Lord of Powes and Cardigan, Gwente and Gwynvaye. He was wounded to death in a battle against one Avisa, a Scythian infidel, in defending the temple or church of St. David's, and died about the time of the Norman Conquest. He was s. by

GWIVESTAN AP GWAITH VOED, Lord of Powes,† from whom we pass to his lineal descendant,

YEVAN AP MORGAN, of New Church, near Cardiff, in the county of Glamorgan, who wedded Margaret, daughter of Jenkin Remys, esq. of Bagam, and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM AP YEVAN, servant to Jasper Tudor, Duke of Bedford, and to KING HENRY VII. whose son and heir, MORGAN WILLIAMS, espoused the sister of THOMAS CROMWELL, Earl of Essex,* and had issue,

RICHARD, his successor.

Walter, who left two daughters, Joan and Anne.

Richard, who left a son, Henry.

The eldest son,

SIR RICHARD WILLIAMS, assumed, as already stated, at the desire of HENRY VIII. the surname of his uncle, CROMWELL, and through the influence of that once powerful relative, himself and his family obtained wealth and station. "As Vicar-General of all spiritual, the Earl of Essex had an opportunity of obliging his kinsman, then Richard Williams, alias Cromwell, esq. and others, with the sale of the lately dissolved religious houses, at sums infinitely below the very great value of most. Some of the most advantageous purchases were made by this ancestor of the Huntingdonshire Cromwells; and among others, those of the nunnery of Hinchinbrooke, and the monastery of Saltry-Judith, in that county, and all the manors situate in the same county, together with the site of the rich abbey of Ramsey. Additions were made to his possessions by the king, even after the fall of the favorite, Cromwell; so that at the period of his death, Sir Richard's estates probably equalled in value (allowing for the alteration in the value of money) those of the wealthiest peers of the present day. At a tournament held by his royal master in 1540, and described by Stowe, Richard Cromwell, esq. is named as one of the challengers; all of whom were rewarded on the occasion by the king with an annual income of an hundred marks, granted out of the dissolved Franciscan monastery, of Stamford, and with houses each to reside in. His Majesty was more particularly delighted with the gallantry of Sir Richard Cromwell (whom he had knighted on the second day of the tournament), and exclaiming, 'formerly

He wedded in 1518, Frances, daughter and co-heir of the then lord-mayor of London, Sir Thomas Murfyn, of Ely, and had two sons, viz.

HENRY (Sir) his successor.

Francis, of Hemingford, in the county of Huntingdon, M.P. for that shire in the 15th of ELIZABETH, and sheriff for the counties of Cambridge and Huntingdon, in the 29th of the same reign. He m. Margaret, daughter of Henry Mannoek, of Hemingford, and died in 1598.

The elder son and heir,

SIR HENRY CROMWELL, of Hinchinbrooke, received the honor of knighthood from Queen ELIZABETH, in 1563, and the same year was returned to parliament by the county of Huntingdon. He was sheriff for the shires of Huntingdon and Cambridge in the 7th, 13th, 22nd and 34th of ELIZABETH. Sir Henry married twice, but had issue only by Joan, daughter of Sir Ralph Warren, knt.† his first wife, namely,

1. HENRY, of Ramsay, colonel in the army of King CHARLES. This gentleman married thrice, and had several children. Colonel Cromwell died in 1657, and his only surviving son and successor,

HENRY CROMWELL, of Ramsay, reassumed the surname of WILLIAMS.

7. Joan, m. to William Baker, esq. of Bury.
8. Jane, m. to Tobias Palavicini, esq.

Sir Oliver Cromwell wedded secondly, Anne, daughter of Egideus Hiffman, of Antwerp, and widow of Sir Horatio Palavicini, and had other children.

- ii. ROBERT, of whom presently.
- iii. Henry, of Upwood. This gentleman m. twice, and left a son and two daughters, by Mrs. Jones, his first wife,

- xi. Dorothy, m. to the LORD CHIEF JUSTICE (Sir Thomas) FLEMING.

The second son,

ROBERT CROMWELL, settled in the town of Huntingdon, and became a brewer there.. Coke says, (Delection ii. 57. London, 1694) "that his father being asked whether he knew the Protector, replied, yes, and his father too, when he kept his 'brew-house' in Huntingdon." And Sir William Dugdale relates, that "Robert Cromwell, though he was, by the countenance of his elder brother, made a justice of the peace in Huntingdonshire, had but a slender estate, much of his support being a brew-house in Huntingdon." He m. Elizabeth,* daughter of William Stewart, esq. of Ely, and widow of William Lynn, esq. and had surviving issue, OLIVER, his successor.

Catherine, m. first, to Captain Roger Whitstone, and secondly, to Colonel John Jones, one of the Judges whose signature appears to the warrant for the execution of King CHARLES I.

Margaret, m. to Colonel Valentine Waighton, another of the regicides.

Anne, m. to John Sewster, esq. of Wistow.

Jane, m. to John Desbrow, esq. one of the King's judges, but his name does not appear to the warrant for the execution.

Robina, m. first, to Doctor Peter French, canon of Christ church, Oxford, and secondly, to Doctor John Wilkins, bishop of Chester.

* Of this lady nothing is very certainly known: according to Noble, as well as Brooke, she sprang from a branch of the royal family of STUART, and the descent is thus deduced:

BANCO, Thane of Lochabar, slain by MACBETH, was grandfather of

WALTER, who was created LORD HIGH STEWARD of Scotland. His son, ALEXANDER, second Lord Steward, had with other issue,

JOHN, or JAMES, (the eldest son) who succeeded as third Lord Steward. His son,

WALTER, Lord Steward, espoused MARGERY, only daughter, by his first wife, of King ROBERT BRUCE, and had a son,

ROBERT STUART, who ascended the Scottish throne at the decease of his uncle, DAVID II. in 1370, as

ROBERT II. (the first monarch of the house of STUART.)

Andrew, (the third son.)

ANDREW (the third son) Stewart, of Dundavale, was father of

SIR ALEXANDER STEUART, in the service of the King of France, and slain at Vannoile. His son,

SIR JOHN STEUART, knt. settled in England, and was grandfather of

THOMAS STEUART, esq. of Swaffam Market, in the county of Norfolk, whose grandson,

NICHOLAS STEUART, of Well, in Norfolk, m. Cicely, daughter and heiress of — Baskerville, esq. and was grandfather of WILLIAM STEUART, esq. of Ely, whose daughter, ELIZABETH STEUART, wedded first, William Lynd, esq. and after his decease became the wife of ROBERT CROMWELL, and mother of the PROTECTOR.

Note—This connection between the Usurper and his ROYAL VICTIM, may or may not be authentic, all it shows, however, is that they descended from a common progenitor.

Robert Cromwell, who sate in Parliament for the borough of Huntingdon, died in 1617, leaving his son,

OLIVER CROMWELL, then a youth of eighteen, having been born in the parish of St. John, Huntingdon, on the 25th April, 1599. The education of this eminent man was at first entrusted to the Rev. Mr. Long, of his native town, but he was afterwards placed under the care of Doctor Beard, master of the free grammar school in the same place, whence he removed to Cambridge, and entered Sydney Sussex College, as a fellow commoner, 23rd April, 1616. Subsequently he is stated to have become a member of Lincoln's Inn, and to have given himself up to "a habit of gaming, the juice of the grape, and the charms of the fair." His career of intemperance was not however of long duration, for we find him before he had quite attained majority "returning to Huntingdon, harkening to the advice of his mother, attending divine service regularly in his parish church, renouncing his former vicious companions, and with them his extravagancies." He m. on the 20th August, 1620, ELIZABETH BOURCHIER, daughter of Sir James Bouchier, of Fitsted. in Essex, and had by that lady nine children, of whom survived infancy,

I. ROBERT, b. in 1621, d. unmarried, before his father.

II. OLIVER, b. in 1622, killed in 1648, fighting under the parliamentary banner.

III. RICHARD, who succeeded his father in the PROTECTORATE,* m. Dorothy,

* RICHARD CROMWELL was born at Huntingdon, 4th October, 1626; educated at Felsted, in Essex, and admitted of the society of Lincoln's Inn, 27th May, 1647, Mr. (afterwards secretary) Thurloe, becoming one of his securities. On his marriage he became a resident at Hursley; and was distinguished only as the complete country gentleman, devoted entirely to his wife, and to his horses, hounds, hawks, &c. In this comparatively happy retirement he lived for some time; but on his father's advancement to the Protectorate, he was made first Lord of Trade and Navigation, (11th November, 1655) and returned soon after one of the members for Hampshire. In August, 1657, he had a narrow escape from being crushed to death, by the giving way of the stairs of the Banqueting-house, when the members were going to pay their respects to his father; he had some of his bones broken by the accident, but youth and a good constitution soon enabled him to get the better of it. The Protector having resigned the chancellorship at Oxford, in 1657, the University elected Richard, his successor, and he was at the same time created a master of Arts. Shortly afterwards he was sworn a Privy Counsellor, made a colonel in the army, placed at the head of the newly constituted House of Lords, and entitled "the Right Hon. the Lord Richard, daughter of Richard Major, esq. of Hursley, in Hants, and left surviving issue, Elizabeth, who d. unmarried, in 1731.

Anne, m. to Thomas Gibson, M.D. physician general to the army, and d. s. p. in 1727.

Dorothy, m. to John Mortimer, esq. of the county of Somerset, and d. in 1681.

IV. HENRY, of whom presently.

V. BRIDGET, m. first, in 1646-7, to lieutenant general Henry Ireton, lord deputy of Ireland, who died of the plague at the siege of Limerick, 26th November, 1661. She espoused, secondly, general Charles Fleetwood, also lord deputy of Ireland, and died in 1681.

VI. ELIZABETH, m. in 1645-6, to John Claypole, esq. of Norborough, in the county of Northampton, master of the horse to the Protector, and d. in 1658.

VII. MARY, m. in 1657, to Thomas Belasyse, viscount (afterwards earl of) Fauconberg, and died s. p. in 1712-13. This lady, Burnet describes as "a wise and worthy woman, more likely to have maintained the post of Protector, than either of her brothers; according to a saying that went of her, (he continues) that those who wore breeches deserved petticoats better, but if those in petticoates had been in breeches, they would have held faster."

VIII. FRANCES, m. first, in 1657, to the Hon. Robert Rich, grandson of Robert, earl of Warwick, and secondly, to Sir John Russel, bart. of Chippenham, in Cambridgeshire. Her ladyship d. in 1720-1.

Cromwell, after a series of military triumphs, was declared LORD PROTECTOR on the 12th December, 1653, and inaugurated on the 16th of the same month. There is hardly one man in the whole range of history whose good sword achieved an empire, with less of the hero in his composition, than this successful soldier. Fanaticism, superstition, and cruelty, were the predominating traits of his character. A profound hypocrite, he regarded every body who approached him with suspicion; his nearest kindred were objects of distrust. He had no friends; and when, with himself, the influence of his name expired, his family fell without a struggle. Cromwell died at Whitehall, on the 3d September, 1658, and was publicly interred, with regal pomp, in HENRY VII.'s chapel, on the 23d November following. His remains, with those of Ireton and Bradshaw, were dug up, after the Restoration, and being pulled out of their coffins, hanged at Tyburn on the 30th January, 1660-1, until sunset; when they were taken down, beheaded, and flung into a deep hole under the gallows. When the coffin of Cromwell was broken into, a leaden canister was found lying on his breast, and within it a copperplate, gilt, with the arms of England, impaling those of Cromwell, on one side, and on the other the following inscription: "Oliverius Protector Reipublicæ Angliæ, Scotiæ, et Hiberniæ, natus 25^o Aprilis, anno 1599^o; inauguratus 16^o Decembris, 1653; mortuus 3^o Septembris, anno 1658, hic situs est." The Protector's mother died four years before himself, and was buried in Westminster Abbey. His fourth son,

HENRY CROMWELL, b. 20th January, 1627-8, entered on a military life at the age of sixteen, and served under his father in Ireland, of which kingdom he was afterwards lord deputy. "In every situation," says Doctor Leland, "Henry Cromwell was penetrating, just, and generous." So great, indeed, was his prudent conduct during his lieutenancy, that he brought the nation into a flourishing condition, and he behaved with such strict impartiality in his government, as to extort esteem from the most uncompromising royalists. He was endowed, however, with the same moderate disposition as his brother Richard, and on the demise of his father, quietly resigned his command, returning to England, where he continued afterwards to reside as a country gentleman, unconcerned in the various changes of the state, and unembittered by the ills of ambition. It is even thought that he rejoiced in the restoration of the king, and he was not only included in the act of indemnity, but received some marks eldest son of his serene highness, the Protector." On the demise of his father, he succeeded to the sovereign power; it has been remarked as tranquilly, and with as little opposition as though he had been the descendant of a long line of princes. But according to Bishop Burnet, "he had neither genius, nor friends, nor treasure, nor army to support him," and his sway was consequently brief. His reign lasted but seven months and twenty-eight days. He resided abroad until about 1630; but where his various peregrinations led him, is not known with any degree of certainty. When he returned to his own country he appears to have assumed the name of Clark, and to have resided at Serjeant (afterwards Chief Baron) Pengelly's house, at Cheshunt; to the end of his life courting privacy and retirement, and cautiously avoiding so much as the mention of his former elevation, even to his most intimate acquaintance. He died at Cheshunt, 13th July, 1712, in the eighty-eighth year of his age, and was buried with some pomp in the chancel of Hursley church, Hampshire, near his deceased lady.—Thomas Cromwell.

By the interest of the Duke of Ormonde (who was under obligations to his father and grandfather), he became a major of foot; and would probably have obtained further promotion, had he not been cut off by a fever, whilst serving under Lord Galway, in Spain. His death occurred in 1711. He had espoused Hannah, eldest daughter of Benjamin Hewling, a Turkey merchant, and left issue,

Such a course of proceeding is too contemptible for comment.

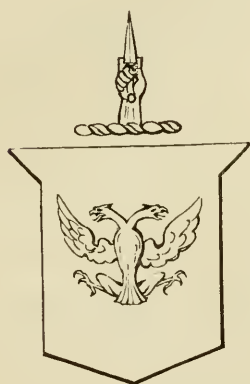

DUNLOP, OF THAT ILK.

DUNLOP, JOHN, esq. of Dunlop, in the county of Ayr, an officer in the 1st Grenadier Guards, b. in 1806, m. in 1829, Charlotte-Constance, daughter of Major-General Sir Richard-Downs Jackson, K.C.H. and has issue, JAMES, b. in 1830.

Charlotte-Constance.

Captain Dunlop, who succeeded to the estates upon the demise of his father, in 1832, represents the Kilmarnock district of Boroughs in parliament.

Lineage.

Of the establishment of the family of DUNLOP of that Ilk, we have no authentic accounts. The first is in the reign of ALEXANDER III. when,

DOM. GULIELMUS DE DUNLOP appears as one of those who sate on an inquest to settle a dispute between Dom. Godfredus de Ross and the borough of Irvine, anno 1260. In 1296,

NIEL FITZ ROBERT DE DUNLOP signed the Ragman's Roll. In 1351

JAMES DUNLOP was in possession of Dunlop as appears from an old valuation of the county of Ayr. He was s. by JOHN DE DUNLOP, who had a charter from Hugh de Blair, dated 1407.

ALEXANDER DUNLOP, mentioned by Rymer, as Alexander Dunlop, of that Ilk, in the reign of JAMES I. and in the early part of JAMES II. appears to have been succeeded by

CONSTANTYNE DUNLOP, as there is a charter in the Dumbarton Rolls, from Constantyne Dunlop, of that Ilk, to his son, Alexander Dunlop, of the lands of Hanthall, dated 1471. This son, his successor,

ALEXANDER DUNLOP, of Dunlop, was father of

CONSTANTYNE DUNLOP, whose retour as Dunlop of that Ilk is dated 1476. He was s. by his son,

CONSTANTYNE DUNLOP, of that Ilk, who was appointed by parliament, in 1489, among other lords (as they were termed) to collect the by-gone rents and casualties of the crown. He is, also, mentioned as a member of an inquest on the retour of Matthew, earl of Lennox. Constantyne Dunlop d. in 1505, leaving (with a daughter, Jannet, m. to James Stuart, sheriff of Bute, great-grandson of King ROBERT II.) a son and successor,

JOHN DUNLOP, of that Ilk, whose infeftment is not dated till 1507. This gentleman m. in 1492, Marion Douglas, and had one son, ALEXANDER, and a daughter, who wedded Hugh Maxwell, of Auld House. He d. in 1509, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER DUNLOP, of that Ilk, who wedded Ellen Cuninghame, of the house of Glencairn, and had five sons, JAMES, William, Constantyne, Robert, and Andrew; by the eldest of whom,

JAMES DUNLOP, of that Ilk; he was succeeded at his decease in 1549. This gentleman espoused Isabel, daughter of Gavin Hamilton, of Orbieston, and had two sons, JAMES and Allan. He was s. at his decease, by the elder,

JAMES DUNLOP, esq. of that Ilk, who wedded in 1574, Jean, daughter of Somerville, of Cambermathan, descended from Sir John Somerville, son of John, third Lord Somerville, and had issue,

JAMES, his heir.

John, who purchased the lands of Garnkirk.

Thomas, who m. Grizell, daughter of Cochrane, of that Ilk, and from this alliance are descended the Dunlops of Househill.

The laird of Dunlop died in 1616, and was s. by his son,

JAMES DUNLOP, esq. of that Ilk. This gentleman m. in 1614, Margaret, relict of John Campbell, bishop of Lismore, or Argyle, and daughter of Gavin Hamilton, bishop of Galloway, son of John Hamilton, of Orbieston, slain at the battle of Langside. By her he had a son JAMES, who eventually succeeded. Resisting the government of CHARLES I. in its attempt to introduce episcopacy into Scotland, the laird of Dunlop, for the purpose of security executed a deed making over his estate to his brother, John of Garnkirk; this deed was acted on in 1633, when his brother took possession, and in five years after, made a resignation to his nephew,

JAMES DUNLOP, esq. of that Ilk, who espoused Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander Cunninghame, esq. of Corschill, by Mary, daughter of Sir Patrick Houstoun, of that Ilk, and had issue,

ALEXANDER, his heir.

John, of whom nothing is known.

Jean, m. in 1674, to William Ralston, esq. of Ralston.

Marion, m. to David Montgomery, esq. of Lainshaw.

During the civil wars Dunlop appears to have acted a prominent part. He was subsequently a warm supporter of the Presbyterians, and was obliged, in consequence, to make over a considerable portion of his estates to Lord Dundonald. From 1665 to 1667, he suffered imprisonment, but was liberated in the latter year under a bond of 12,000 marks, notwithstanding which, we find him, within a few months only, joining in the rising of the Pentland Hills. He was s. at his demise, by his elder son, ALEXANDER DUNLOP, esq. who does not appear ever to have obtained possession of the barony of Dunlop, which his father had made over to Lord Dundonald. This laird was a zealous supporter of the cause of liberty and the covenant. Upon suspicion of being concerned in the rising of Bothwell Bridge, he was arrested on the 30th July, 1683, compelled to surrender a portion of his estates, and to execute a bond for £12,000 to appear in the November following. He was indicted anew in April, 1684, when he made over to his son, John, the lands which had been settled upon him on his marriage. He emigrated soon after to America, and was appointed in 1685, sheriff of South Carolina. He married in 1667, Antonia, daughter and heiress of Sir John Brown, of Fodral, by Mary Scott, daughter and co-heiress of Sir John Scott, of Rossie, quarter master general to the army in the early part of CHARLES the First's reign. He left a son and heir,

JOHN DUNLOP, esq. who obtained the barony of Peacock Bank and other farms, from his father in 1684: and in the following year the Earl of Dundonald resigned to him the possessions which he had acquired from his grandfather. In 1687, the laird of Dunlop, by an adjudication in his favour, recovered all his grandfather's estates, though heavily burdened by expenses and fines. He does not appear ever to have been married, and dying in 1706, was s. by his brother, FRANCIS DUNLOP, esq. of that Ilk. This gentleman was one of those who were appointed March 26, 1707, to see the regalia of Scotland, built up in the crown-room in the castle of Edinburgh, as appears from the minute of proceedings, taken at the time, and left amongst his papers. In 1715, he took an active part against the Chevalier, and was lieutenant-colonel, under the Earl of Kilmarnock, of a regiment of Fencible cavalry then raised. Colonel Dunlop espoused first, in 1709, Susan, only daughter and heiress of John Leckie, esq. of Newlands, by whom he had three sons and one daughter, viz.

JOHN, his heir.

Hugh, who died young.

Alexander, Major of the Enniskillen dragoons.

Antonia, m. to Sir Thomas Wallace, bt. of Craigie.

The laird of Dunlop wedded, secondly, a daughter of Sir — Kinloch, of Gilmourton, by whom he had two daughters, Frances, d. unm. and Magdalene, m. to Robert Dunlop, esq. He died in 1748, and was s. by his son, JOHN DUNLOP, esq. of that Ilk, who was deputed in 1745 by the gentleman of Ayrshire, together with Sir Thomas Wallace, of Craigie, to offer the assistance of the county to the Duke of Cumberland. He wedded Frances-Anne, last surviving child of Sir Thomas Wallace, of Craigie, by Eleanor, his wife, daughter and heiress of Agnew, of Lochryan, by whom he had six sons and six daughters, viz.

Francis, who d. young.

THOMAS, who s. his maternal grandfather, and assumed the surname and arms of WALLACE. He espoused Eglinton, daughter of Sir William Maxwell, bt.

ANDREW, heir to his father.

JAMES.

John, who m. his cousin, Magdalene, daughter of Robert Dunlop, esq. and had issue.

Anthony, who m. Ann, daughter of Alex. Cunningham, esq. younger brother of Sir Wm. Cunningham, bt. of Robertland.

Eleanor, m. to Monsieur Pirochon.

Henrietta, died young.

Susan, m. to Monsieur Henry.

Frances, m. to Robert Vans-Agnew, esq. of Barnbarroch. (See that family).

Rachel, m. to Robert Glasgow, esq. Keith.

Mr. Dunlop d. in 1784, and was s. by his second surviving son,

ANDREW DUNLOP, esq. of that ilk. This gentleman entering into the military service of his country, served in the first American war, and attained the rank of major. He afterwards raised a regiment of horse called the Ayrshire fencible cavalry, which he commanded until its reduction in 1800. Sometime, subsequently, he was sent to the West Indies, and dying unmarried, in 1804, a brigadier-general, in command of the troops in the island of Antigua, he was s. by his brother,

JAMES DUNLOP, esq. of that ilk, who, adopting, like his predecessor, the profession of arms, served likewise in the American war. In 1787, he proceeded to India, as captain of the 77th regiment, where he remained thirteen years, and commanded one of the assaulting columns at the storming of Seringapatam, when he was severely wounded. He returned soon after to England, and was employed at home. In 1810, having attained the rank of major-general, he was appointed to the command of a brigade in the fifth division of Lord Wellington's army, and he remained at the head of that division during the campaign of 1811. In 1812, General Dunlop was elected member for the stewartry of Kirkcudbright, as he was in the two ensuing parliaments. He m. in 1802, Julia, dau. of Hugh Baillie, esq. younger son of Baillie, of Monckton, by whom he had three sons and two daughters, viz.

JOHN, his heir.

Hugh, lieut. R.N. m. 1831, Ellen-Clementino, only daughter of Robert Cockburn, esq.

Colonel Vans-Agnew,* who is a deputy-lieutenant and justice of the peace for Wigtonshire, succeeded his brother, on the 12th October, 1825.

* Colonel VANS-AGNEW served with distinction in India for twenty-five years, during which period he was never absent from his duty beyond a few months. He participated in most of the important actions which occurred, and was almost constantly in the field. He repeatedly traversed the Madras and Bombay territories, as well as the Deccan and Malwah, and has frequently filled high and influential situations.

Lineage.

The family of VANS or VAUS claims to be a branch of the great house of VAUX, so celebrated in every part of Europe. (See Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage.) In page 133 of Sir David Lindsay's Heraldry certified by the privy council, VAUS is mentioned as one of "the surnames of thame that come furth of Ingland with Sanct Margaret;" and in page 17 of the selection of the Harleian Miscellany by Kearsley, printed in 1793, it is said, "Out of these confusions in England, Malcolm King of Scotland did take his opportunity for action. He received into protection many from England, who either from fear or discontentment forsook their country, of whom many families in Scotland are descended, and namely, these, Lindsay, VAUS, Ramsay, &c. &c." Lord Hailes, Rapin, Hume, and other authorities, notice the reception of the Anglo-Normans by Malcolm.

NISBET (Ar. Vans of Barubarroch) says, "The learned antiquary and historian, Sir James Dalrymple, observes that the ancient surname VANS, in Latin Charters called De Vallibus, is the same with the name of VAUX in England, and is one of the first surnames which appear there after the Conquest. One of the family came to Scotland in the time of King David I. and in the reign of his grandson and successor Malcolm IV. mention is made of Philip de Vallibus who had possessions in the South, and soon after that we find the family of Vallibus or Vans, proprietors of the lands and Barony of Dirleton in East Lothian."

JOHN DE VALLIBUS is a witness to two charters of King MALCOLM IV. the one No. 31 in the Coldingham Chartulary, and the other among the Lundin Charters.

In 1174,

JOHN DE VALLIBUS was one of the hostages to the English, for the ransom of the Scots' King, William. He was s. by his nephew or cousin,

JOHN DE VALLIBUS, designed son of Robert of Ellebottl. The son and heir of this John,

JOHN DE VALLIBUS, is called John the younger, Dominus de Dirleton, when granting five marks yearly out of his Fair of St. James's in Roxburghshire, as a composition regarding his disputed patronage of Wilton. This John in 1244, is mentioned as one of the Magnates of Scotland, in the Pope's ratification of the peace between England and Scotland. In 1255 he was one of the Barons who counselled, or rather forced, King ALEXANDER III. to change his ministers. His grandson,

JOHN DE VAUX, appears to have been the second husband of Dervorgill,* (the dau. of Allan, Lord of Galloway, by Margaret, eldest daughter of David, Earl of Huntingdon, third son of King DAVID I. of Scotland,) the widow of Sir John Baliol, and mother of JOHN BALIOL, who claimed and obtained the Crown of Scotland. He sate in the parliament of Brightham, in 1290, and the next year swore fealty at Berwick to EDWARD I. In 1298 he defended the Castle of Dirleton against the famous Anthony Beke, Bishop of Durham. In 1304 he was a principal party to the agreement between EDWARD of England, and John Comyn, and according to Ryley's Placeta, John Comyn, Edmund Comyn, John de Graham, and John de Vaux, sealed this agreement at Strathord, the 9th February, 33 EDWARD I. The sincerity of this submission seems to have been more than doubtful, for in 1306, mention is made of him as a friend of ROBERT BRUCE. To this John succeeded

THOMAS DE VAUX, who is mentioned by Guthrie, and Brady as being one of the sixty-five Earls and Lords who led the Scotch army at the battle of Halidon Hill, 19th July, 1333. He was slain in 1346 at Nevil's Cross, where also his successor,

WILLIAM VAUX, was taken prisoner. After being detained for some time in England, in captivity, he returned to Scotland, and his name appears in many of the transactions of that period, especially as a party to the ransom of King DAVID II. He died in 1364, and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

WILLIAM VAUX, who d. in 1392, and was succeeded by two co-heiresses; but whether they were his own daughters or those of his elder brother, Thomas, who had been killed at the siege of Berwick, in 1355, is uncertain. The elder wedded Sir John Halyburton,† and the second, Sir Patrick Hepburn, younger, of Hailes, ancestor to

* This second marriage of the granddaughter of the Earl of Huntingdon, is not mentioned by Wyntoun or others, but the evidence of it is to be found in the Dryburgh Chart, (Nos. 126, 127, 128, 129,) where is given a Charter by Alexander de Baliol of the wood of Gloddisswood, "qui quondam fuit cum Domni. Johannis de Wallibus, et Dna. Dervorgill Sponse sue"

† The family of Sir John Halyburton, who became (jure uxoris) Lord of Dirleton, ended, after a few descents, in three sisters, viz.

Janet, m. to William, second Lord Ruthven.

Mariota, m. to George, fourth Lord Home.

Margaret, m. to George Ker, of Faudensida.

the well known Earl of Bothwell, husband to Queen Mary.

In his account of the Dirleton family, Chalmers, (Caledonia, vol. ii. p. 436.) omits several generations, and in vol. iii. page 396, talking of Wigtonshire, he makes a curious mistake, for he considers the Barnbarroch, and the Sheuchan families as distinct, whereas they are the same. On the same page however he justly observes, "the name has been changed from Vaus to Vans, a change peculiar to this shire," and although he does not dispute the Barnbarroch branch being descended from a younger son of the Dirleton family, he thinks Alex. Vaux, Bishop of Galloway in 1426, was the first of his name in Wigtonshire.

Nisbet, vol. ii. App. p. 250, says positively, that the Barnbarroch branch are the only remaining heirs male of the Dirleton family, that they descend from a younger son, and although they have no charter older than 1451, yet "that the Vanses of this house have subsisted long before that," Nisbet also says, that, "now since they represent the principal family, by the rules and maxims, that are laid down in Heraldry, they may strike out the mollet, the brotherly difference, and wear and carry the Bend Simple, as they have done for some centuries." Tradition says the same, and that the first Vaux in Wigtonshire married an heiress there; it is said a de Morville.

In "l' Histoire des Malheures de la France sous le Roi Jean," publié à Paris chez Barde, 1611, vol. ii. p. 103, it is stated, talking of the battle of Poitiers, (A. D. 1356.) and of the Scots of note who fell there, "et André Vaus de Galloway, le frere d'armes du Seigneur Archimbald."—Douglas. Barnes, Hollingshed, Abercrombie, and others, mention SIR ANDREW VAUX to have been killed at the battle of Poitiers; and this Andrew is believed to have been the younger brother of Willielmus of Dirleton, to have settled in Galloway, and to have been succeeded by another Sir Andrew whose name appears in the settlement of the Scot's Crown, made at Scone, 4th April, 1373, although in Robertson's records the name is erroneously given, Andreas de Valonius. His younger son was Alexander, Bishop of Galloway from 1426 to 1451, and he was s. by his eldest,

JOHN VANS, who was sent, in 1437, together with Alexander Do^{nus} de Gordon, Alexander Do^{nus} de Montgomery, and Johannis Methven, clericus, as ambassadors from JAMES II. of Scotland, to HENRY VI. of England; and along with these persons concluded a truce the following year. He espoused E. Kennedy, and had issue,

The eldest son,

ROBERT VANS, acquired from the Earl of Douglas, a charter of the lands of Barnbarroch, dated 26th January, 1451, which was ratified by the crown, 13th August of the same year. This gentleman wedded the Lady Euphemia Graham, of the house of Menteth, who long survived him, and became the third wife of Sir William Stewart, ancestor of the Earl of Galloway. By this lady he had issue, BLAIZE, his heir.

Thomas, ambassador to England in 1457, dean of Glasgow, secretary to the king, and keeper of the privy seal.

George, Bishop of Galloway.

Patrick, Prior of Whitehorne.

Robert Vans was s. by his eldest son,

BLAIZE VANS, of Barnbarroch, who m. Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Sir John Shaw, of Haille, and widow of Sir John Stewart, of Garries, by whom he had a son and heir,

PATRICK VANS, of Barnbarroch. This gentleman wedded Margaret, daughter of Gilbert, second Lord Kennedy, one of the regents of Scotland, and grandson of the Princess Mary, daughter of King ROBERT III. by whom he left at his decease, in 1528, a son and successor,

SIR JOHN VANS, of Barnbarroch, who m. Janet, daughter and heiress of Sir Simon McCulloch, of Myretoun, by Marion, dau. of Gordon, of Lochinvar, and thus acquired the hereditary coronership or crownship† of Wigtonshire. Sir John, being slain at the Battle of Pinkie, in 1547, was s. by his son, ALEXANDER VANS, of Barnbarroch, who espoused first, Janet Kennedy, daughter of Gilbert, second Earl of Cassilis, by his wife Isabel, daughter of Archibald, second Earl of Argyle; and secondly, Euphemia, daughter and co-heiress of Sir John Dunbar, by Elizabeth, daughter of Mungo Muir, of Rowallan. Dying, however, issueless, in 1568, he was s. by his brother,

SIR JOHN VANS, of Barnbarroch, who, when under age, was appointed commendator of the famous Abbey of Crossraguel, which, a few years before, had been the scene of those cruelties (mentioned in Pitcairn's History of the Kennedys,) from which Sir Walter Scott has sketched his torturing of the Jew in Ivanhoe. Sir John m. Margaret, daughter of Uchted M'Dowall, of Garthland, by Margaret, daughter of Henry Stewart, first Lord Methven, and had issue. Sir John, who was of the privy council, and a gentleman of the chamber to James VI. died in 1642, and was s. by his son,

PATRICK VANS, of Barnbarroch. This gentleman espoused Grizel, daughter of John Johnston,* of Annandale, lord justice general of Scotland, and widow of Sir Robert Maxwell, of Spotts, by whom he left at his decease in 1673, a son and successor,

JOHN VANS, esq. of Barnbarroch, who dissipated the greater part of the family estates. He wedded Grizel, daughter of Sir John McCulloch, of Myretoun, but dying s. p. m. in 1696, was s. by his brother,

ALEXANDER VANS, esq. of Barnbarroch, who m. Margaret, daughter of Sir William Maxwell, of Moureith, by Agnes, daughter of Sir John McCulloch, of Myretoun. In 1709, their son,

PATRICK VANS, esq. of Barnbarroch, succeeded, and an accumulation of debts forced him to sell every thing but the barony of Barnbarroch. He represented Wigtonshire in the first Union Parliament, and afterwards the Wigton district of boroughs. He m. first, a daughter of Sir James Campbell, of Lawers, by whom he had a son, who died without issue; and secondly, Barbara, daughter of Patrick M'Dowall, esq. of Freugh, by a daughter of Haltridge, of Dromore, in Ireland, and had issue. Colonel Vans retired, early in life, from the army, but died suddenly in 1733, owing to the breaking out of a wound received at the Battle of Almanza. He was s. by his son,

JOHN VANS, esq. of Barnbarroch, who wedded Margaret, only child and heiress of Robert Agnew, esq. of Sheuchan, by Margaret, another daughter of Patrick M'Dowall, of Freugh,† and upon his marriage, under a mutual entail, assumed the additional surname and arms of AGNEW. He died in 1780, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT VANS-AGNEW, esq. of Barnbarroch and Seuchan, who m. Frances, daughter of John Dunlop, esq. of that ilk, by Frances, only surviving child of Sir Thomas Wallace, bart. of Craigie, and had issue,

Lineage.

The very ancient family of SAMWELL was originally of Cornwall, and seated at Restormel Castle, and other residences within that county.

JAMES SAMWELL, a younger branch of this Cornish house, was grandfather of

RICHARD SAMWELL, who m. Amy, daughter of Thomas Gyfford, esq. of Twyford, in Bucks, and had a son,

FRANCIS SAMWELL, who removed from Cotsford, in Oxford, and settled, first at Northampton, and subsequently at Thorpe. This gentleman, who was auditor to King HENRY VII. wedded Mary, daughter and co-heir of the Rev. * This gentleman, one of the most eminent political writers of the seventeenth century, received his education at Trinity College, Oxford, under the care of the celebrated Chillingworth. Upon first entering into political life, though a zealous republican in principle, he formed a strong personal attachment to King CHARLES I. and after serving for years, with the most constant fidelity, attended, at length, his ill-fated monarch to the scaffold, where he received, it is reported, a token of his Majesty's affection. Retiring into private life, during the protectorate, he devoted his leisure to the production of his celebrated work, "The Commonwealth of Oceana," which, by the order of CROMWELL was seized in the press, but restored again through the medium of Mrs. Claypole, the Usurper's favorite child, at whose suggestion it was dedicated to her father, on its publication in

The OCEANA is a species of political allegory, exhibiting in a fictitious land, the form of government most conducive, in its author's opinion, to public liberty.

In order still further to propagate his theories, he instituted a nightly meeting of several able and ingenious men, in the New Palace Yard, Westminster, which bore the name of "THE ROTA."—This assembly terminated at the Restoration. The discussions were warm and spirited, and the voices of the members were taken by BALLOT, a mode of voting first invented by the society. Shortly after the Restoration, Harrington was arrested for a supposed plot against the government, and suffered, in consequence, much hardship and severity. He eventually, however, procured his release, and espoused Katherine, daughter of Sir Marmaduke Darrell. He d. in 1677. Beside the "Oceana," he was the author of many political pamphlets.

In 1729 this gentleman kept his shrievalty for the county of Kent, and rebuilt three years after the mansion of Godmersham. * To be captain of this celebrated band, was in Elizabeth's time, a most distinguished honor.—“This band of Gentlemen Pensioners” (says Miss Aikin, in her Memoirs of the Court of Queen Elizabeth, vol. i. p. 275, of the second edition), “the boast and ornament of the court of Queen Elizabeth, was probably the most splendid establishment of the kind in Europe; it was entirely composed of the nobility and gentry, and to be admitted to serve in its ranks was, during the whole of the reign, regarded as a distinction worthy the ambition of young men of the highest families and most brilliant prospects. Sir John Holles, afterwards Earl of Clare, was accustomed to say, that while he was a pensioner of Queen Elizabeth, he did not know a worse man than himself in the whole band, yet he was then in possession of an inheritance of £4000.” “It was the custom of that Queen,” pursues the Earl's biographer, “to cull out of all counties of the kingdom, the gentlemen of the greatest hopes and best fortunes and families, and with them to fill the more honorable rooms of her household servants, by which she honored them, obliged their kindred and alliance, and fortified herself.”

† This prelate was nearly allied by intermarriage with the Devereuxes, of Sheldon, from whom the present viscounts of Hereford are descended, with Edward Herbert, ancestor of Lord Herbert, of Cherbury, with the ancient Prcyes of Newtown, who trace their origin to Elyston Gloderidd, Earl of Hereford, lord of all between Glay and Severn, and one of the five royal tribes of Wales.

WILLIAM, b. 9th May, 1830.
 Laura-Elizabeth.
 Anne-Clementina.

This gentleman, who is a justice of the peace, and deputy lieutenant for the counties of Ayr and Renfrew, s. to the estates upon the demise of his father, in 1831.

Lineage.

The MURES of Caldwell are immediately descended from SIR REGINALD MORE or MURE, of Abercorn and Cowdams, who appears to have been chamberlain of Scotland as early as 1329, the first year of the reign of David II. The name occurs, written at various periods, More, Mure, Muir, Moor, &c.; and from the correspondence of the armorial bearings, seems to be the same originally as that of the MOORES of Moore Place, in Kent, now represented by the Irish Moores, Marquises of Drogheda. The arms of "Muir of Caldwell," and "Muir of Rouallan," being then the two chief houses of the name in Scotland, are exhibited on page 46 of the Scottish Heraldry, emblazoned by Sir David Lindsay, LORD LYON, about the year 1540. Those of Caldwell present the plain shield of the Mores, "three mullets on a bend;" while on the shield of Rowallan are quartered the wheat-sheaves of the Comyns.

The most ancient of the name on record are the Mores of Polkelly, near Kilmarnock, in Ayrshire; one of whom, David de More, appears as witness to a charter of Alexander II. The direct male line of Polkelly becoming extinct, the estate passed, by marriage of the heir female, to the Mores of Rowallan, cadets of the family, who had acquired the neighbouring estate of Rowallan, from the COMYNS, its ancient lords. Crawford, the Scottish genealogist, supposes Sir Reginald the chamberlain to have been a brother of Sir Adam More, of Rowallan, whose daughter, Elizabeth, was QUEEN Consort of RO-BERT II. the first of the STUART KINGS; but of this there is no evidence and it appears as likely that he sprang directly from the original stock of Polkelly, and may be the same Reginald who, together with a Gilchrist More, signs the Ragman Roll in 1296, and whom Nisbet takes to be the old Polkelly Mores, "the root of the Mores, an antienter family than the Rowallans."

The paternal inheritance of Sir Reginald seems to have been Cowdams, in Ayrshire, not far from the original seat of the family. These lands belonged to him previously to 1328, as shewn by an agreement concerning them between him and the monks of Paisley, dated in that year. They have ever since continued in the family, Mr. Mure, of Caldwell, being still their feudal superior. They are next noticed in a charter of the Earl of Strathern, afterwards ROBERT II., dated 1367, confirming the previous deed of 1328. Johannes Mure, jun. de Cowdams, appears in 1446 as one of the commissioners for fixing the boundaries of the Burgh of Prestwick, and the papers relative thereto, now preserved at Caldwell, extend as far back as 1475.

Sir Reginald acquired his extensive estates of Abercorn, &c. in the Lothians and Stirlingshire, by marriage with one of the co-heiresses of Sir John Graham, of Eskdale and Abercorn; another of whom wedded Walter Stewart, of Scotland; and a third, Sir William Douglas, "the Knight of Liddesdale." He obtained also, by grant from the crown, on the forfeiture of Sir Andrew Murray in 1332, the lands of Tillybardine. These were afterwards restored for a pecuniary consideration, by his son, Sir William More, to Sir William Murray, ancestor of the present Duke of Athol, as appears from an indenture dated 1341. Sir Reginald adhered steadily to the patriotic cause during the English wars in DAVID the Second's reign, and was one of the commissioners appointed, in 1340, to treat with the Lords Percy, Moubray, and Nevil, on a truce between the two nations. He died soon after, leaving two sons and a daughter, viz.

- I. WILLIAM, who succeeded to Abercorn. He was one of the twelve nobles, who, in the parliament of 1357, in the name of the whole estates of Scotland, appointed commissioners to treat with England for the release of King DAVID II. On his death without male issue, his lands of Abercorn, Erth, Torwood, the Dene near Edinburgh, &c. passed with his daughter, CHRISTIAN, to Sir John Lindsay, of Byres, ancestor of the Earl of Crawford.
- II. GILCHRIST, who continued the line of the family.
- III. Alicia, m. first, to Sir William de Herch (or Herries); and secondly, to her cousin, Sir John Steward of Ralston, son of Walter Steward of Scotland, by Isabel Graham. For this marriage there exists two dispensations from Benedict XII. dated Avignon, the one, 13th July, 1340; the other, 10th May, 1341.

Sir Reginald's elder son dying without male issue, the younger,

GILCHRIST MORE, became the male representative of the house of Abercorn. To him descended the property of Cowdams.—The estates of Caldwell, in the shires of Ayr and Renfrew, he is supposed to have acquired by marriage with the heiress of Caldwell of that ilk, then a family of some note, having given a chancellor to Scotland in 1349. Crawford is of opinion that at this time the estates of Rowallan and Polkelly also came to the Abercorn line by a second marriage of Gilchrist with the heir-female of Rowallan, these, he adds, were afterwards settled on the younger children, issue of this marriage, whence the subsequent Mures, of Rowallan and Polkelly, two distinct families. Rowallan passed, about a century ago, by an heir-female, to the Campbells of Loudoun, now represented by the Marchioness Dowager of Hastings, Countess of Loudoun, in her own right. The male line of Polkelly is also extinct. To Caldwell and Cowdams succeeded

JOHN MORE, the first who is designated of "Caldwell," as appears from a letter of remission, granted Oct. 29, 1409, by the Regent Duke of Albany, to him, Archibald More, of Polkelly, (supposed his younger brother) and Robert Boyd, of Kilmarnock, for the slaughter of Mark Neilson, of Dalrymple. He was s. by

JOHN MORE, Lord of Caldwell, who is witness along with George Campbell, Lord of Loudoun, Robert More, of Rowallan, and others, to a charter, dated January 19, 1430. The circumstance of his name taking precedence in the subscription, he being also styled Lord of Caldwell, while the other is simply, Robert More, of Rowallan, is adduced by Crawford and others as evidence that the Mores, of Caldwell were now considered chief of the name. The next possessor of Caldwell was

JOHN MORE, whose charter under the great seal, bears date, 1476. By Elizabeth, his wife, he left a son and a daughter, namely,

ADAM (Sir), his heir.

Marjory, m. to John, Lord Ross, of Hawkhead, ancestor of the present Earl of Glasgow. Her effigy appears recumbent by the side of that of her husband, under an arched niche, in the choir of the church of Renfrew; the three mullets of Caldwell, still visible on the tomb with this inscription: "Hic jacet Johñs Ros miles quondam dominus de Hawkhede et Marjorie uxor sua, orate pro." . . .

He d. before 1492, and was s. by his son,

SIR ADAM MORE, of Caldwell, knighted by JAMES IV. and designated in the crown writs, Nobilis vir Adamus More de Caldwell, miles. "He was," says Crawford, "a gallant stout man, having diverse feuds with his neighbours, which were managed with great fierceness, and much bloodshed."—He wedded Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Sempill, of Eliestoun, and sister to John, first Lord Sempill, by whom he had four sons and two daughters, viz.

CONSTANTINE, who predeceased his father, s. p.

JOHN, heir.

Hector, who was slain in a feud at Renfrew, in 1499, by John Maxwell, eldest son of Sir John Maxwell, of Pollock, and Hugh, brother of Sir John.

Robert, who had a remission granted him under the privy seal, on the 24th of January, 1500, for the slaughter of Patrick Boure, and Ralstoun, of that ilk.

Elizabeth, m. to George Lindsay, of Dunrod.

Janet, m. to John Stewart, of Ardgowan and Blackhall.

From a deed, by Matthew, Earl of Lennox and Darnly, dated January 2, 1500, in favour of Constantine, Mure, as from other documents, it is evident that the estate of Glanderstoun, in Renfrewshire, was acquired about this time from the Lennoxes. Sir Adam d. about 1513, from which date it is presumed, that he fell at the battle of Flodden, fought in that year. He was s. by his second, but eldest surviving son,

JOHN MURE, of Caldwell, who, on the 20th of February, 1515, at the head of his followers, took, by assault, "the castle and palace" of the Archbishop of Glasgow, situated near the city, battering the walls in breach "with artillery," and carrying off a rich booty. He m. Lady Janet Stewart, daughter of Matthew, Earl of Lennox, (and grand-aunt to Lord Darnly, husband of Mary, Queen of Scots), by whom he had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

Alexander, on whom were bestowed, in 1537, the lands of Kittochside, in Lanarkshire, an ancient possession of the family, which returned again, by his failure, without issue. They were alienated, in 1602, to Reid, of Kittochside, the superiority remaining with Caldwell.

Archibald.

Agnes. m. to Patrick Montgomerie, of Giffen.

Elizabeth, m. to Ralstoun, of that Ilk.

The eldest son,

JOHN MURE, of Caldwell, succeeded his father, in 1539. He m. first, the Lady Isabel Montgomerie, daughter of Hugh, first Earl of Eglinton, and secondly, Christian, daughter of Ninian, Lord Ross, of Hawkhead, a papal dispensation for which match, as within the prohibited degree, was obtained from the see of Glasgow, in 1538. The Laird of Caldwell had (with younger children) two sons,

I. JOHN (Sir), his heir.

II. William, who received the lands, and founded the house of Glanderstoun, long a distinct Renfrewshire family, of the first respectability.—He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Hamilton, of Raploch, aunt to Gavin Hamilton, commendator of Kilwinning, and confidential minister of MARY GUISE, Queen Regent of Scotland, and had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Janet, m. to John Pollock, of that Ilk, ancestor of the present Sir Robert Crawford Pollock, bart.

Jean, m. to George Maxwell, of Aldhouse, ancestor of the present houses of Maxwell, of Pollock, and Maxwell, of Springkell, barts. the latter of which descends from Jean Mure.

The son and heir,

WILLIAM MURE, of Glanderstoun, espoused Jean, daughter of the Rev. Hans Hamilton, vicar of Dunlop, of the Raploch family, and sister of James, Earl of Clanbrassil, by whom he left, at his decease, in 1640, (with a dau. Janet, who m. the Rev. John Carstairs, and was mother of the distinguished patriot, WILLIAM CARSTAIRS*) a son and successor,

WILLIAM MURE, of Glanderstoun, who wedded EUPHEMIA MURE, of Caldwell, and had a son, WILLIAM, who inherited Glanderstoun in 1658, and CALDWELL, on failure of the elder branch.

The Laird of Caldwell, together with his kinsmen and dependants, took part with the Earl of Glencairn, at the "Field of the Muir of Glasgow;" a bloody action fought between the partizans of the Earls of Lennox and Glencairn, headed by the latter chieftain, against the Earl of Arran, Regent of Scotland, in 1543. This appears from a remission under the privy seal, granted in 1553, to John Mure, of Caldwell, Archibald Mure, his brother, designed "in Hill, of Beith," and James Mure, of Boldair, for their participation in that affair. John Mure d. about 1554, when

SIR JOHN MURE succeeded to Caldwell. He received the honor of knighthood from King JAMES V. and marrying Janet Kennedy, of Bargeny, had three sons, ROBERT, William, and James. He was slain on the 10th September, 1570, by the Cunninghames of Aikett and Raeburne, of that Ilk, the same who were afterwards principals in

After having been imprisoned during 1684, in Dumbarton and Stirling Castles, and cruelly tortured with thumb-screws and other barbarous instruments, on a charge of being concerned in the conspiracy, for which Russell and Sydney suffered, he was set at large and allowed to travel abroad in 1685. A journal of his tour in the Netherlands, in that and the following year, with other interesting documents, in his hand-writing, are now among the family papers at Caldwell.

SIR ROBERT MURE, of Caldwell. This gentleman was in the confidence of JAMES VI. by whom he was knighted, and to whom he was related through the Lennoxes. A number of original letters addressed to him by that monarch, are still preserved at Caldwell, some of them curious, as illustrating the manners of the times.* He m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Kincaid, of that ilk, by whom he had two sons, by whom he left a daughter, m. to Sir William Hamilton, bart. of Preston. About 1610, the lands of Thornton, near Kilmarnock, long in possession of the family, were alienated to a cadet, founder of the house of Mure, of Thornton, the male line of which becoming extinct in 1701, in the person of Sir Archibald Mure, Lord Provost, of Edinburgh, the estate passed by his heir female to John Cunninghame, of Caddel, and is now held by Colonel Cunninghame, of Thornton, the superiority being still with Caldwell. In the year 1611, occurred the trial of the ferocious LAIRD OF AUCHENDRAIN, chief of an ancient branch of the Mures, in Carrick, whose crimes have been immortalized by the pen of Sir Walter Scott. He was, according to the fashion of the time, supported in his adversity by those of the name, throughout the west of Scotland; and when summoned to Edinburgh by the council, was escorted by the Lairds of Rowallan, Caldwell, Glanderstoun, and other gentlemen of rank connected with them. They abandoned him afterwards, however, when upon a fuller investigation, the infamy of his character was displayed in its true colours. The Laird of Caldwell when cited for having knowingly harboured and concealed an accomplice, or an important witness for the prosecutor pleaded that he could not be expected to do otherwise, in the case of a clansman, and this excuse was deemed sufficient. Sir Robert was s. at his decease by his grandson, ROBERT MURE, of Caldwell, who was served heir to his grandfather in 1617. He m. Jean, daughter of Uchtred Knox, of Ramphorlie, and had issue,

JAMES, } successively "of Caldwell."
WILLIAM, }

Euphemia, m. to William Mure, of Glanderstoun, and had a son,

WILLIAM, of whom presently, as representative of the family.

Robert Mure, it seems, fell in battle about 1640: for in August, 1641, the marriage of the Laird of Caldwell, "whose father died in his country's service," is ordered by the parliament to be passed gratis. Hence it would appear that he was one of the few Scotchmen who perished in the only military transaction of that period, the first revolutionary campaign against CHARLES I. which ended in the rout of the English army at Newburn. He was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT MURE, of Caldwell, who d. in 1644, and was s. by his younger brother,

JAMES MURE, of Caldwell, at whose decease, without issue, in 1654, the estates devolved upon his brother,

WILLIAM MURE, of Caldwell, who espoused, in 1655, Barbara, daughter of Sir William Cunninghame, of Cunninghame-head. This laird, and a few other west country gentlemen, favourable to the cause of civil and religious liberty, met in arms at Chitterfleet, near Caldwell, on the 28th November, 1666; whence a troop of horse, consisting chiefly of the tenantry of that and the neighbouring properties, set out, under his command, to join the covenanters, who had recently risen in Dumfriesshire, and marched upon Edinburgh. But finding themselves intercepted by the king's troops, and hearing, by the way, of the defeat of the whig army at Pentland, they dispersed. Caldwell was attainted, fled to Holland, and died in exile. His estates, on forfeiture, were granted to the celebrated general Dalzell. His lady was imprisoned with two of her daughters, in Blackness Castle, and underwent much cruel persecution, described by Wodrow, the historian of the period. Of Caldwell's three daughters, Jane, the eldest, wedded Colonel John Erskine, of Carnock, but left no issue. Anne, the youngest, died during the prosecution of the family, while

BARBARA MURE, the second daughter, lived to obtain by special act of parliament, (on the 19th July, 1690) a full restitution of her patrimonial estates. She m. John Fairlie, of that ilk, but dying without issue, was s. by her kinsman,

WILLIAM MURE, fourth laird of Glanderstoun, (refer to issue of WILLIAM, second son of the JOHN MURE, who inherited Caldwell in 1539.) This gentleman became, by failure of the elder branch, heir male of line to Caldwell, and heir direct in right of his mother, Euphemia, sister of the last unfortunate laird. He m. Margaret, daughter of Sir George Movat, bart. of Ingelstoun, but dying without issue, was s. by his nephew,

WILLIAM MURE, eldest of eighteen children of James Mure, esq.* of Rhoddens, in Ireland. He m. in 1710, Anne, daughter of James Stewart, bart. of Goodtres and Coltness, Lord Advocate of Scotland, by whom he had, with three younger daughters,

WILLIAM, his heir.

James, who d. young.

Agnes, m. to the Hon. Patrick Boyle, of Shewalton, brother of the Earl of Glasgow.

William Mure, of Caldwell, d. in 1722, while a candidate for the county of Renfrew, and was s. by his elder son, WILLIAM MURE, of Caldwell, who was elected member of parliament for Renfrewshire, in 1742, and he continued to represent the county until 1761, when he was made one of the barons of the Exchequer. He exercised considerable influence in the management of public affairs in Scotland at this period, as appears from a series of confidential letters, addressed to him by members of the BUTE, and other succeeding administrations, some of which throw light on the political intrigues of the day.—These, with other letters, from various eminent literary characters of his time, HUME, ROBERTSON, &c. with whom he was in habits of close intimacy, are still preserved at Caldwell. He m. Katherine, daughter of James Graham, Lord Easdale, of the court of session, by whom he left two sons and four daughters, viz.

WILLIAM, his successor.

James, of Cecil Lodge, Herts, who m.

Frederica, daughter of Christopher Metcalfe, esq. of Hasted, in Suffolk, and has issue, three sons and four daughters, the eldest of the latter, Frederica, wedded Colonel George Horatio Broke, brother of Sir Philip Broke, G.C.B.

Katherine, m. to J. Rennie, esq. of Leith, merchant, and had issue.

Anne.

Margaret.

Elizabeth.

To Baron Mure succeeded, in 1776, his eldest son,

COLONEL WILLIAM MURE, of Caldwell, who served on the staff, under Lord Cornwallis, in the American war, where he was wounded and taken prisoner. He subsequently commanded, during the late war, the West Lowland Fencibles, and Renfrew Militia, and was, for many years previous to his death, vice-lieutenant of the county of Renfrew. He m. Anne, daughter of Sir James Hunter Blair, bart. of Dunskey, and had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

James, lieutenant R.N. who d. in Aug. 1831

David, advocate at the Scottish bar.

Robert.

Jane, m. to the Honorable Lieutenant-

General Sir Charles Colville, G.C.B. brother to Lord Colville, and has two sons and three daughters.

Katherine.

Elizabeth.

Clementina, deceased.

Jemima.

Anne, deceased.

Sophia, d. young.

Colonel Mure d. 9th Feb. 1831, and was s. by his eldest son, the present WILLIAM MURE, esq. of Caldwell.

* Of the remaining children of James Mure, of Rhoddens, two, Colonel George and Captain Alexander, were wounded at the battle of Fontenoy. A third was Hutchinson Mure, Esq. of Saxham Hall, near Bury St. Edmunds, a merchant in London. The descendants of both George and Hutchinson are now settled in the county of Suffolk.

Arms—Arg. on a bend, az. three mullets of the first; within a border, engrailed gu.

Crest—A Saracen's head.

Motto—Duris non frangor.

Estates—The family possessions are now concentrated round the place of Caldwell, by the sale of several detached properties, Glanderstoun, Capelrig, &c. and the purchase by Baron Mure of other lands contiguous. They are situated, partly in Ayrshire, partly in Renfrewshire, and in the parishes of Beith, Dunlop, and Neilston, and comprise a surface of about 5000 imperial acres, of which about 500 are covered with wood, chiefly well-grown timber; the remainder, with trifling exceptions, arable land of good quality, well enclosed and cultivated. The husbandry chiefly confined to dairy produce. A valuable coal is worked on the banks of a small lake, called Lochlibo; and the property abounds with good lime and freestone. The superiorities of Cowdams, Thornton, Kittochside, and some other old possessions, still remain with the family.—The old castle of Caldwell, situated on a rocky eminence, in the county of Renfrew, went to decay on the forfeiture in 1666, and is described as a ruin by topographers in 1690. Nothing now remains but one square tower. The present mansion house was built by Baron Mure, in the middle of last century, after a plan of the architect, Adam, and is large and commodious. It is situated a mile to the west of the old residence, in the parish of Beith and county of Ayr, and is distant 14 miles from Glasgow, 9 from Paisley, and 12 from Kilmarnock.

Seat—Caldwell.

COHAM, OF COHAM.

COHAM, THE REV. WILLIAM-BICKFORD, of Coham, in the county of Devon, m. 17th April, 1827, Augusta-Mary, eldest daughter of Joseph Davie Basset, esq. of Heanton Court, and of Watermouth, in the same shire, and has issue, WILLIAM-HOLLAND-BICKFORD.

Arscott-Bickford.

Mary-Basset-Eleanor.

Augusta-Christiana.

Mr. Coham, who is a magistrate for Devonshire, s. to the estates upon the demise of his father, in 1825.

Lineage.

The mansion house at Coham having been destroyed by fire in the reign of Queen Anne, and the family records lost in the conflagration, we have now traditional authority alone for the early abode of the Cohams on their patrimonial estate, but that establishes the fact beyond doubt, and proves their residence there since the CONQUEST. In the registers of the parish which commenced in 1520, we find the name of

STEPHEN COHAM, of Coham, who was s. by his son,

STEPHEN COHAM, of Coham, father of LEWIS COHAM, of Coham, esq. living in the beginning of the seventeenth century To this gentleman succeeded his son, LEWIS COHAM, esq. of Coham, who wedded, in 1669, Mary, daughter of John Arscott, esq. of Tetcott, near Holsworthy, in Devon, by Gertrude, his wife, daughter of Sir Shilston Calmady, and had three sons and two daughters, viz.

1. STEPHEN, his heir.
2. John, who settled at Bovacott, in the parish of Bradford. He m. Margaret, second daughter and co-heiress of William Holland, esq. of Upcott Avenel, and had an only son,

Arthur, in holy orders, archdeacon of Wilts, rector of Pottern, in that shire, and of Chiswick, Middlesex, who m. Grace Anne, dau. of Plukenett Woodruffe, esq. of Chiswick, and had two sons, who both died s. p. and two daughters, Isabella-Anne, m. to Richard Nowell, esq. and Eliza-Jane, m. to George Hardisty, esq. of Twickenham.

3. Arthur, who m. a daughter of — Burdon, esq. of Burdon, and settled at Holsworthy, Devon, where his descendants continue to reside.
4. Mary, m. to Benoni Bampfylde, esq. of Poltimore.
5. Gertrude, m. to Clement Gay, esq. related to Gay the poet.

The eldest son and heir,

STEPHEN COHAM, esq. of Coham, espoused, in the 5th of Queen ANNE, Mary, dau. and co-heiress of William Holland,* esq. of

* The family of HOLLAND, one of the most ancient and illustrious in England, derived its descent from ROBERT DE HOLLAND, a gallant soldier in the Scottish wars of EDWARD I. who obtained large territorial grants from the crown, and was summoned to parliament as a BARON, in the 8th of EDWARD II. His lordship joining the insurrection of Thomas, Earl of Lancaster, suffered decapitation in 1328. He had wedded (as stated in the text) Maude, one of the daughters and co-heirs of Alan, Lord Zouch, by whom he had with three elder sons,

JOHN DE HOLLAND, who married Elinor, daughter and heir of Sir Andrew de Metsted, of Upcott Avenel, in the county of Devon, by his wife, the heiress of BATHIE, of Weare, and thus acquired that estate; where this branch of the Holland family have ever since resided. This John de Holland having made an avowry in certain lands, it was pleaded against him that the lands, then in question, were seized upon the king's hands, because that Robert de Holland, father of the said John, did aid and assist Thomas, Earl of Lancaster, against King EDWARD II. (lib. 3rd of EDWARD III. folio 10th.) He was s. by his son,

THOMAS HOLLAND, of Upcott Avenel, living temp. EDWARD III. who espoused Lucy, daughter and heiress of John de Holsworthy; and from this alliance lineally sprang, through a long line of eminent progenitors,

WILLIAM HOLLAND, esq. of Upcott Avenel, who married Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Bartholomew Thorne, esq. of Thorne, by his wife, a daughter of Henry Rolle, esq. of Heanton Sackville, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM HOLLAND, esq. of Upcott Avenel. This gentleman m. Mary, daughter of — Fortescue, esq. of Buckland Filleigh, by whom he left at his decease, a son and successor, WILLIAM HOLLAND, esq. of Upcott Avenel, who m. in 1682, Joan Stafford, of Stafford, and left at his decease, two daughters, viz.

MARY, who wedded (as in the text) STEPHEN COHAM, esq. of Coham.
Margaret, m. to John Coham, esq.

Upcott Avenel, in Devon (lineally descended from JOHN, fourth son of Robert, Lord Holland, by Maude, his wife, one of the daughters and co-heiresses of Alan le Zouch, of Ashby), and thus acquired that estate. About this time, COHAM, as before mentioned, was destroyed by fire, and the family, in consequence, removed to their seat at Upcott Avenel. By the heiress of Holland, Mr. Coham had two sons, LEWIS, his heir.

Holland, in holy orders, rector of Northlew, in Devon, who m. Christian, daughter of the Rev. James Silke, of Bedminster, and had issue, STEPHEN, successor to his uncle.
WILLIAM-HOLLAND, heir to his brother.

The elder son,

LEWIS COHAM, esq. of Upcott Avenel, rebuilt the mansion of COHAM. He m. Lucretia, daughter and co-heiress of — Barnfield, esq. of Mambury and Great Torrington, Devon, but dying without issue in 1778, the estates devolved upon his nephew,

STEPHEN COHAM, esq. of Coham and Upcott Avenel, at whose decease unmarried in 1786, the representation and possessions of the family devolved upon his brother

THE REV. WILLIAM-HOLLAND COHAM, of Coham and Upcott Avenel. This gentleman wedded in 1790, Mary, daughter and eventually sole heiress of George Bickford, esq. of Dunsland and Arscott, both in the county of Devon (see family of BICKFORD, of Dunsland at foot), and had issue, WILLIAM-BICKFORD, his heir.

George-Lewis, of Upcott Avenel, a magistrate and deputy lieutenant of the county of Devon.

Holland, a graduate of Trinity College, Cambridge.

Mr. Coham died 15th March, 1825, and was s. by his eldest son, the present Rev. WILLIAM-BICKFORD COHAM, of Coham.

BYRNE, OF CABINTEELY.

BYRNE, CLARINDA-MARY, of Cabinteely, in the county of Dublin. Miss Byrne inherited the estates at the decease of her sister in 1810.

Lineage.

From the earliest era of Irish History, to the invasion of CROMWELL, the family of O'Broin, O'Byrne or O' Birne, was amongst the most powerful and distinguished in the province of Leinster. It traces its descent from Hermon, the youngest son of Milesius, through Ugane More and Cathire More, two of the most renowned warriors that swayed the Irish sceptre.

The O'Byrnes derive their name from BROIN or BRAN, one of the Kings of Leinster, who defeated the Mononians in a pitched battle, and redeemed Leinster from a tax, called Borne or Boiromhe. Many other progenitors of the O'Byrnes, being likewise Kings of Leinster, distinguished themselves in the wars concerning this tax and against the common enemy, the Dane. Of the English, the O'Byrnes were at once the most constant and formidable enemies. Located upon their mountain heights in the wild and singularly beautiful country, which owned their sway, they could watch their opportunity, and at the favourable moment pounce down upon their victims, like the eagle on his prey. Thus on Easter Monday, in the year 1209, they fell upon an immense crowd of Dublin citizens who were celebrating a rural fete, at a place called Cullens Wood, and with the aid of the O'Tooles, another potent tribe seated in their immediate neighbourhood, left three hundred dead upon the spot. Henceforward over a space of several centuries we find the O'Byrnes never relaxing in their resistance and hostility to the English settlers. In 1395 Roger Mortimer, Earl of March, then Lord Deputy of Ireland, laid O'Byrne's country waste, and stormed his Castle of Wicklow. In 1414 John Talbot, Lord Furnival, marched an army through the territories of the O'Byrnes, and numerous and frequent were the forces which subsequent Viceroys found it necessary to oppose to these bold and restless chieftains. When the civil contentions in Ireland for the first time assumed a religious character, the House of O'Byrne acted a most prominent part, and in the confederacy which was formed in defence of the ancient faith, the leaders were the Earl of Desmond, Fiach Mac Hugh O'Byrne, chief of that family, James Eustace, Viscount Baltinglass, and one of the Fitzgeralds. The contending armies met in the defiles of Glendalough, where, after a fierce and bloody engagement, the English were routed in all points; their infantry, to the amount of 800 men cut to pieces, and the Lord Deputy, Arthur Grey, Lord Wilton, with the greater portion of the cavalry driven from the field of battle. The leaguers, however, do not seem to have derived any considerable advantage from their victory: perhaps from the constitution of their army it was not in their power. The Irish, like the Scottish Highlanders, followed their chiefs cheerfully to battle, but the blow being struck, the pressing danger or exciting cause, which had led them forth, having passed away, it was impossible to keep them in the field: they never could be induced to perform the duties of a regular campaign. This it was, which rendered futile all the victories of the DESMONDS, O'Neills, and O'Byrnes.

In 1588, when O'Neill, earl of Tyrone, raised his standard, he was joined by the principal catholic chiefs, and amongst the rest, by the head of the O'Byrnes, which daring sept, in the long and sanguinary contests that ensued, bore a most conspicuous part.

On the accession of JAMES to the throne, in 1603, all Ireland, for the first time, submitted to the English rule. The great northern chiefs, in common with the rest of the ancient Irish nobility, did homage; many passing over to England to render the service in person. They were well received, but within a brief period, treachery accomplished against them, that which force could never effect. Hugh O'Neill, O'Donnell, and many others were compelled to leave Ireland, as banished men; and their broad and fertile lands were conferred upon mercantile companies and ignoble mechanics. The O'Byrnes, amongst the rest, suffered severely. All that remained to them was afterwards seized upon by Cromwell, during his devastating progress through their country in 1646, and the history of the O'Byrnes, as chiefs of numerous and powerful tribes, is no longer interwoven with the annals of their country.

CHARLES O'BYRNE, representative of the great house of O'Byrne, who was deprived by CROMWELL of his extensive domains, espoused Grizel, daughter of Byrne, of Ballincurbeg, and had three sons and a daughter, viz.

1. Mr. Berkeley succeeded to the estates at the decease of his uncle, in 1804.

Lineage.

This ancient family deduces its descent from HARDINGE, a younger son of one of the kings of Denmark, who came over to England with WILLIAM the Conqueror, and fought at the battle of Hastings. His son,

ROBERT FITZHARDINGE, obtained for his fidelity to King Henry II. the CASTLE of BERKELEY, wrested from Roger de Berkeley, of Dursley, a partisan of STEPHEN, and thereby became one of the feudal barons of the realm. He married Eva, niece of William the Conqueror, and founded the monastery of St. Augustine, at Bristol, in the year 1140, and was buried there in 1170. He was s. by his eldest son,

MAURICE DE BERKELEY, who strengthened his tenure of Berkeley Castle, by marrying, at the instigation of HENRY II. Alice, daughter and heiress of the ousted lord, Roger de Berkeley, of Dursley.* By this lady he had six sons, and was s. by the eldest,

MAURICE DE BERKELEY, who died without issue, and was s. by his brother,

THOMAS DE BERKELEY. This feudal lord wedded Joane, daughter of Ralph de Somery, Lord of Campden, in the county of Gloucester, and niece of William Marshal, Earl of Pembroke, and was s. at his decease, in 1243, by his son,

MAURICE DE BERKELEY, who m. Isabel de Credonia, and dying in 1281, was s. by his son,

THOMAS DE BERKELEY, who was summoned to parliament, as Lord Berkeley, of Berkeley Castle, from 23rd June, 1295, to 15th May, 1321. His lordship m. Jane, daughter of William de Ferrars, Earl of Derby, and dying in 1321, was s. by his son,

MAURICE DE BERKELEY, second lord, who wedded Eva, daughter of Lord Zouche, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS DE BERKELEY, third lord, in whose custody the unfortunate EDWARD II. was confined, but being suspected of treating his royal prisoner with too much indulgence, he was required to deliver up the ill-fated monarch with his castle of Berkeley to Lord Maltravers and Sir Thomas Gourney, by whom the king was shortly afterwards barbarously murdered. This baron m. Margaret, daughter of Roger Mortimer, Earl of March, and from him we pass to his descendant,

JAMES BERKELEY, who inherited on the death of his uncle, in 1416, the lordship and castle of Berkeley, and was summoned to parliament from 9th October, 1421, to 23rd May, 1461. This nobleman m. first, a dau. of Humphrey Stafford, of Hooke, in the county of Dorset, but had no issue. He espoused secondly, Isabel, widow of Henry

ROBERT (Sir).

The second son,

SIR ROBERT BERKELEY, knt. born in 1584, inherited from his father the estate of Spetchley, and being bred to the bar, became one of the judges of the Court of King's Bench. "As Sir Robert Berkeley," says Granger, "lived in an age when the genius of the government had a strong tendency to despotism, when the prerogative had been exerted upon almost every emergency, and when the judges held their places during the pleasure of the king, he, with eleven of his brethren, gave his opinion for ship-money; and, if we may judge from the tenor of his conduct in private life as well as on the bench, from honest motives. For this decision he was impeached of high treason, and adjudged to pay a fine of £20,000, to be deprived of his office of judge, and rendered incapable of holding any place, or receiving any honor in the state or commonwealth: he was moreover to be imprisoned in the Tower during the pleasure of the House of Lords." Sir Robert was afterwards plundered by the parliament forces; and a little before the battle of Worcester, the Scotch Presbyterians, though engaged in the king's service, retaining their ancient animosity, burnt his house at Spetchley. He was thus forced to convert the stables into a dwelling, and there he resided with dignity on the wreck of his fortune.* A splendid monument to

* The following account of Rowland Berkeley and his son the judge, is transcribed from the MS. of the elder Habingdon.

"I rank this reverend judge next unto Lords, because as a judge he weareth often that title, and in parliament is to assist in the house of barons, from one of the antientest of which barons, (viz. the Lord Berkeley) he is descended; for James Lord Berkeley had by the Lady Isabell, one of the two co-heirs of Thomas Mowbray, duke of Norfolk, Thomas Berkeley his fourth son, who had issue Richard Berkeley, his third son (who sometime lived, and had a small freehold at Dursley, in Gloucestershire) whose fourth son, Wm. Berkeley, was father of Rowland Berkeley, father of the judge, which said Rowland being the eighth son of the said William, though extracted thus from nobility, yet seemed in the world extenuated for a while, until by God's blessing, and his own industry, he became eminent in wealth and dignity. My warrant for this pedigree I receive from the best authority which England in matters of honor affordeth.

"Now before I attende the judge to his rising sunne, I will accompanie his father to his night of death: whomme if I should commend because he was my ancient friend, and left me not (where the worlde forsooke me) in my stormy troubles, and lastly, not only refused to make a prey of my lands, being offered him, and lying most convenient for him, but also instantly warned me to prevent my ruine, it might be thought that, blinded with affection, I were partial. Passing, therefore, from my private particulars, to matters more public; he was a man of very good witt, which he furnished with learning, initiate in Oxford, but chiefly gained out of stolen hours, and hardly spared from his continual business in his vocation, his memory still remains in Spetchley church, adorned with shields of the noble families from which he was descended. He wedded Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of Thomas Conyers, esq. of East Barnet, of the family of Conyers, of Sokeborne, in the county of Durham, by whom he left at his decease, in 1656, an only son and successor,

* By Elizabeth, his wife, eldest sister and co-heiress of Thomas Fitzalan, Earl of Arundel.

THOMAS BERKELEY, esq. of Spetchley, who wedded Anne, daughter of William Darell, esq. of Scotney, in Sussex (descended from a niece of Archbishop Chiche-by which course, joined with experience, and observations, growing to be of deep judgement, he attained to be for government such a magistrate, as that he gained love, respect, and obedience, which, if the city of Worcester, where he lived divers years, will not acknowledge, his often service for them in parliament (where he shewed himself their friend, and a good commonwealth's man) will testifye for him. Neither was he confined within the circle of this citty, but being in commission for the county, was an uncorrupt and sedulous justice. I omit his worldly blessings being abundant, and fairly ceasing by his death, in a good old age, at his owne mansion at Spetchley, where his sonne, the judge, hath erected a monument for him, and his mother, to whose funeral having offered these ensignes, I will distribute them to his children, and chiefly to the judge, who though not the eldest yet the greatest, and inheriting, with the rest, his father's wisdom, hath surmounted him in learning, which hath beautified with oratory, and strengthened with arguments his possession of the law, whereto, as also to civill government his genius was so inclinable as that after he had been many years a chieff pilott in steering the helm of our countie, as one of justices of the peace there, and which is rarely preceded among others of his profession, carried the staff of authority as sheriff. His majesty, King Charles, advanced him first to his service in place of one of the king's serjeants-at-law; and then as a justice of his royal bench, to determine of the lives, lands, and goods of his subjects.— Thus is he raised from a ship of our shire to be a ruler in the great argosey of England, where although his case is general, yet hath he still a particular love to his native county. Now here you see him ascending to the noon-tide of fortune; let my withered age never behold his declining, but when his sunne must by revolution of time, be set, I hope that leaving behind him an oder of good fame, he will in the end obtain a day of eternal light."

Lineage.

This family was founded in England by the celebrated divine,

DOCTOR PETER ALLIX, of Alençon, in Normandy, who was at the head of the Protestant church in France, and on the revocation of the edict of Nants, refusing to conform, although tendered a bishopric, and even an archbishopric, was banished the kingdom. It is stated that after he had departed from Paris the Government issued a lettre de cachet, and dispatched a messenger to bring back the refractory churchman to the Bastille, and that he had only just embarked at Calais when the messenger arrived there. He reached England, however, in safety, and was complimented with the degree of Doctor of Divinity by both the Universities. The Doctor applied himself immediately to the study of the English language, and soon attained therein an extraordinary degree of perfection. In 1690, he was appointed treasurer of the church of Salisbury, and he produced works of so much utility, that he acquired within a very short time as high a reputation here, as he had previously enjoyed in his native country. He was consulted by the most eminent scholars on the most abstruse subjects, and his genius was acknowledged by those whom the world esteemed not only the ablest but the most impartial judges. His sermons mark the orator—his works the scholar—and his entire life, zeal for the Protestant religion. This eminent divine espoused Made-moiselle Grand, of Berne, in Switzerland, and dying in 1717, left (with a younger son, William, who died unmarried) his successor,

THE VERY REV. PETER ALLIX, rector of Shudy Camps, in Cambridgeshire, and Dean of Ely, who married Miss Elizabeth Wager, niece and co-heir of Admiral Sir Charles Wager, first lord of the Admiralty, temp. King GEORGE I. and was s. by his son, CLUDDE, OF ORLETON.

CLUDDE, EDWARD, esq. of Orleton, in the county of Salop, m. 6th May, 1828, Catherine-Harriett, only daughter of Lieutenant-general Sir William Cockburn, bart. of Cockburn and Ryslaw, and has issue,

ANNA-MARIA.

Mr. Cludde succeeded his father in 1829, and is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for the county of Salop.

Lineage.

The CLUDDES, or CLUYDDES claim Saxon origin, and at a very remote period possessed property in Shropshire. In the reign of HENRY I. they were seated on the lands of Cluddeley, and in the third year of EDWARD III. they acquired, in marriage with the heiress of ORLETON, that estate, which has ever since remained their principal residence.

WILLIAM CLUDDE, esq. of Orleton, was ancestor in the fourth degree of

EDWARD CLUDDE, esq. of Orleton, who wedded Anne, co-heiress of William Beyst, esq. and had two sons, Thomas and Edward, by the elder of whom,

THOMAS CLUDDE, esq. of Orleton, he was succeeded. This gentleman wedded, in 1591, the only child and heiress of John Coston, esq. of Coston, by whom he left an only daughter BEATRICE, heiress of Coston, who espoused Coningsby Freeman, esq. of Neen Solers.

Mr. Cludde, who is said to have served with reputation in Ireland, and to have been offered the honor of knighthood, was s. at Orleton, by his brother,

Colonel CHARLES CLUDDE, of the guards, to whom his elder brother, EDWARD, who was admitted of Grays Inn in 1664, and died in October, 1721, made over his interest in the estate, to avoid the necessity of taking the oaths to government, to which, after the revolution, he had an invincible repugnance. The colonel fell at the battle of Landen, in 1693, leaving, by his wife, Beatrice, daughter of Wrottesley Prince, esq. and relict of Robert Bretton, esq. a son and successor.

WILLIAM CLUDDE, esq. of Orleton, then in infancy. This gentleman, who enjoyed the estates for seventy-two years, and was a magistrate for forty, served the office of sheriff of Salop in 1723. He m. Martha, daughter and heiress of Peter Langley, esq. of Burcot, by whom he left, with two daughters, an only surviving son,

EDWARD CLUDDE, esq. of Orleton, who d. unmarried, and was s. by his nephew,

WILLIAM PEMBERTON, esq. of Wrockwardine, (eldest son of EDWARD PEMBERTON, esq. of Wrockwardine, by his wife, MARTHA CLUDDE, sister of the last proprietor of Orleton). This gentleman, Lieut. Col. of the South Shropshire Yeomanry Cavalry, assumed, upon inheriting, by act of parliament, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of his uncle, Edward, the surname and arms of CLUDDE only. He m. in 1781, Anna Maria, daughter of Edward Jeffreys, esq. of Shrewsbury, and had issue,

EDWARD, his heir.

William, a captain of Dragoons, who d. in 1809.

Col. Cludde, who united in his person the representation of the very ancient families of Cludde, Orleton, and Pemberton, was sheriff of Shropshire in 1814. He d. 25th August, 1829, and was s. by his only surviving son, the present EDWARD CLUDDE, esq. of Orleton and Wrockwardine. "In whatever capacity," says a writer in the Gentleman's Magazine, "Mr. Cludde acted, whether civil or military, or as a private gentleman, he evinced a firmness and persuasiveness, which commanded and obtained esteem."

GURNEY, OF KESWICK.

GURNEY, HUDSON, esq. of Keswick, in the county of Norfolk, fellow of the Royal Society, and vice-president of the Antiquarian Society, b. 19th January, 1775, m. in 1809, Margaret, daughter of the late Robert Barday, esq. of Wry, Kincardineshire, M.P. for that county, by Sarah, daughter of James Allardice, of Allardice, and heiress of Wie to the Earls of Airth and Menteith. Mr. Gurney was elected member of parliament for Shaftesbury, in 1812, and for Newtown, Hants, in 1816, and in six successive parliaments.

Lineage.

The name of GURNEY or GOURNAY is derived from the town of Gournay in Normandy. HUGH DE GOURNAY, Lord of Gournay and the adjacent territory of Le Brai, was one of the Norman Barons who commanded at the Battle of Mortimer against the French in 1054. He came over to England with DUKE WILLIAM, and was present at the Battle of Hastings. HUGH, his son, held manors in Essex at the survey, and GERARD DE GOURNAY, son of the latter, married Editha, daughter of William de Warren, first Earl of Warren, by GUNDRÉD,* daughter of the CONQUEROR, and possessed great estates in Norfolk. These Norman Barons of Gournay deduced their lineage from EUDES, a follower of Rollo, to whom that chieftain assigned the fortress of Gournay, when he divided Neustria among his dependants; they continued to retain these Norman fiefs until the reign of JOHN, when they were seized upon by PHILIP-AUGUSTUS; and another Hugh de Gournay then in possession, retired into England, and died in 1223, leaving a son, HUGH, whose only daughter, JULIA DE GOURNAY, espoused William, Lord Bardolph, of Wirmegay, in Norfolk; and thus the elder male line of the Norman Gournays became extinct.†

Two younger branches of the family continued, however, to exist after this period. The one which was the most distinguished was seated at Barew-Gurney and Englishcombe, in Somersetshire, as early as the survey, and retaining the name of Gournay, through two female descents, added to their territory the estates of the Harptrees and other considerable families, and became powerful feudal barons in the West of England. The most generally known of this family of the Gournays were Sir Thomas de Gournay, one of the murderers of EDWARD II. and his son, Sir Matthew de Gournay, frequently mentioned by Froissart, who died in 1406, at the advanced age of ninety-six, after having assisted at all the great battles of EDWARD III. and the Black Prince. This gallant veteran appears to have been the last male of the Somersetshire Gurneys.‡

The other younger branch of the Norman Gournays held certain manors in Norfolk, as mesne lords under the Barons of Gour-may, the capital tenants, by whom they were subenfeoffed. Of this line was

SIR WILLIAM DE GOURNAY, knt. lord of the manor of Runhall, in Norfolk, temp. HENRY II. and of Swathings in Hardingham and Hingham, whose son,

MATTHEW DE GOURNAY, obtained from Hameline Plantagenet, Earl of Warren, that nobleman's kinswoman, Rose de Burnham or de Warren, in marriage, and with her the manor of Harpley came to the Norfolk Gurneys. The grandson of this marriage,

SIR JOHN DE GURNEY, was in arms against HENRY III. at the Battles of Lewes and Evesham, but having received a pardon, attended Prince EDWARD (EDWARD I.) in 1270 to the Holy Land. This Sir John de Gurney bore for arms, "argent a cross engrailed gules;" a coat borne by his descendants ever since: from him sprang

EDMUND GURNEY, living in the reigns of EDWARD III. and RICHARD II. a lawyer of eminence, who held the situation of standing counsel or recorder, as it would now be called, of the city of Norwich. He wedded the heiress of the De Wauncys, of West Barsham, in Norfolk, at which place the Gurneys were subsequently seated. His son,

SIR JOHN GURNEY, was sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk, in the 1st of HENRY IV. and was one of the knights of the shire for the former county in the parliament held at Coventry, anno 1404. He had no children, and was therefore succeeded by his nephew, whose grandson, WILLIAM GURNEY, is frequently mentioned in the Paston Letters. Their descendant,

ANTHONY GURNEY, lived in the reign of HENRY VIII. He m. Margaret, daughter of Sir Robert Lovel, and one of the co-heirs of the Lords Mortimer, of Attleborough. The family continued at Great Ellingham and West Barsham until the year 1661, when it became extinct in the elder male line, and the estates devolved to co-heiresses. From a younger branch of the West Barsham line descended

JOHN GOURNEY OR GURNEY, of Norwich, merchant, b. in 1655, who embraced the tenets of the Quakers. This gentleman died in 1721, leaving, with two younger sons,

JOHN, whose descendants in the male line became EXTINCT, on the death of Bartlett Gurney, esq. of Coltishall, in Norfolk, in 1802.

JOSEPH, of whose line we are about to treat.

The second son,

JOSEPH GURNEY, esq. was of Keswick, in the county of Norfolk. He wedded Hannah Middleton, of the family of Silkworth and Belsay, in Northumberland, and was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

JOHN GURNEY, esq. of Keswick, who espoused Elizabeth Kett, (lineally descended from the Norfolk rebel, temp. EDWARD VI.) and had issue,

iii. Joseph, of Lakenham Grove, near Norwich, who wedded Jane, daughter of Abel Chapman, esq. and died in 1830, leaving daughters only.

iv. Rachel, m. to Robert Barclay, esq. of Bury Hill, Surrey.

Lineage.

By reference to the records in the office of the Ulster king at arms, it is established that the Milesian house of CONROY, which was formerly written Mulconry, O'Mulconry, and O'Mulconaire, is of great antiquity, and assumes its descent from Niullus Magnus, monarch of Ireland. It enjoyed for many successive generations the hereditary office of seanchie, or herald to the kings of Connaught.

The early part of the pedigree is to be found in the registry entitled "Funeral Entries," one of the books of record in the Irish college of arms, for 1637, when the funeral and lineage of Moylin O'Mulconry, esq. was duly established and registered as the forty-third in lineal descent of this ancient family, and received as such, the warranty, dated 6th July, 1638, of Thomas Preston, then Ulster king at arms. From this

MOYLIN O'MULCONRY, esq. descended, altering their surnames, THORNA O'MULCONRY, esq. JOHN CONROY, or MULCONRY, esq. and CHARLES CONROY, esq. who had a regrant from CHARLES II. dated 10th August, 1678, of various lands in the county of Roscommon, being the residue of the property spared by the confiscations to which the Irish families had been so repeatedly subject; and of these the Conroys were deprived of a further portion in consequence of their adhesion to the cause of JAMES II. Charles Conroy was succeeded by his son,

FEARFASSA CONROY, esq. of Bettyfield, in the county of Roscommon, who died in 1746, and was s. by his son,

JOHN CONROY, esq. b. in 1704. Mr. Conroy died in 1769, and was s. by his only son,

JOHN PONSOMBY CONROY, esq. born in 1761, who wedded Margaret, daughter of Francis Vernon Wilson, esq. of Tully, in the county of Longford, and dying in 1797, left issue, VASSALL, OF MILFORD.

VASSALL, SPENCER-LAMBERT-HUNTER, esq. of Milford, in the county of Southampton, and of Newfound River, in the island of Jamaica, a captain in the royal navy, b. 17th May, 1799.

Lineage.

JOHN VASSALL, an alderman of London, equipped, and himself commanded two ships of war, the Samuel, and the Little Toby, against the Spanish Armada. His son,

The family of VASSALL derives from the ancient house of "DE VASSALL, Barons de Gourdon, in Querci, Perigord.*" In the year 1588,

* "The following narrative of this house is extracted from a French author:—

"La maison de Vassall, originaire de Quercy, et dont plusieurs branches ont formé depuis long temps des établissemens en Perigord, et dans d'autres provinces, a toujours tenu un rang distingué dans l'ordre de la noblesse, par une grande ancienneté, de nombreux services, de bonnes alliances, et par dessus tout, une fidélité inviolable et à toute épreuve envers ses Souverains.

Elle est connue dès le XI siècle, et sa filiation est prouvée littéralement depuis l'an 1343. Quelques généalogistes la font descendre des anciens barons de Gourdon en Querci, lesquels étoient une branche de la maison des Comtes de Toulouse). La maison de Vassall a produit un nombre considérable d'hommes recommandables et distingués dans l'église et dans l'état militaire. Geoffroi de Vassall fut créé Cardinal diacre du titre de St. Eustache par le Pape Innocent II. en 1134, et il souscrivit en cette qualité deux chartes de l'Abbaye de Chini en 1136 et en 1142.

Fortanier de Vassall, général des frères mineurs nommé Archevêque de Ravenne en 1374, patriarche de Grade en 1351. Nommé puis legat du Pape, il fut fait Cardinal en 1361, et mourut la même année.

Geoffroi de Vassall, Archevêque de Vienne, fut transféré à l'archevêché de Lyons en 1444, et mourut en 1446.

Ilélis de Vassall, étoit grande prieure des dames de St. Jean de Jérusalem ou Maltaises de Martel, depuis l'an 1334 jusqu'en 1355, et Hugnette de Vassall étoit prieure claustral de la même maison et dans le même siècle.

Pons de Vassall étoit grand vicaire de Sartat et Camerier de Tulle en 1360.

Gerand de Vassall, de la Quaiée licencié de Sorbonne, étoit Abbé royal de St. Amand de Coli, et grand vicaire de Sartat.

Jean de Vassall, de la branche de Sineuil étoit prévôt de Sartat en 1695, et Louise de Vassall étoit abbesse de l'Abbaye royal de Buque en 1703.

Jean de Vassall, seigneur de la Tourette fut fait chancelier de l'ordre de St. Michel par le roi François I. qui lui écrivit et lui envoya le collier de l'ordre le 7 Octobre, 1520.

Antoine de Vassall, seigneur de la Tourette et

SAMUEL VASSALL, likewise an alderman of London, represented that city in parliament in 1640, and again in 1641. In the latter he was voted the sum of £10,445. 12s. 2d. for the damage he had sustained during his patriotic resistance of the arbitrary import of tonnage and poundage, and it was further resolved to consider him for his imprisonment and personal sufferings. He was one of the three hundred members who signed the protestation to support the church of England, and the liberty of Parliament, and was appointed a member of the council during the recess. He subscribed £1200. against the rebels in Ireland, his name appearing at the head of the list. In 1643, Alderman Vassall took the covenant, and was appointed in 1646, one of the Commissioners for the Kingdom of England, for the conservation of the peace with Scotland; about the same time he was chosen with Sir Thomas Soane, to give answer to the persons who brought up the city petition, and in 1648, he was appointed with the other members of the house who were citizens, to form a committee. This Samuel Vassall had two twentieths of all the Massachusetts bay, in New England. He left a son,

JOHN VASSALL, esq. who purchased large tracts of land in Jamaica, and settled there. He m. Anne, daughter of John Lewis, esq. for many years English resident at Genoa, and had issue.* His younger son,

LEONARD VASSALL, esq. wedded Miss Gale, and his second son,

JOHN VASSELL, esq. having espoused Eli-de la Curenont, prêta serment de fidélité pour l'ordre de Chevalier de St. Michel, dont il fut décoré par le roi Charles IX. le 13 Nov. 1570.

M. le Marquis de Vassall, de Montoiel, fut fait gentilhomme de la Manche, et puis successivement Major Général, Brigadier, l'un de huit inspecteurs d'infanterie, ensuite Maréchal de camp, et Lieutenant-Général.

M. le Chevalier de Vassall, de Montoiel, fut colonel du régiment de Dauphine brigadier, inspecteur d'infanterie, ensuite Maréchal de camp.

M. de Vassall de Sardigni fut colonel au régiment de la vieille marine, ensuite brigadier, et fut tué au siège de Barcelonne.

M. de Vassall de Marsac fut Major au régiment du Roi, inspecteur, et brigadier.

M. de Vassall de Taradel fut lieutenant de Roi à Marsal in Lorraine.

Nicolas de Vassall, Chevalier de la Quaizée, capitaine au régiment du roi cavalerie, fut fait lieutenant-colonel par brevet en 1761, pour récompense de diverses actions de valeur, et entr'autres d'avoir avec un détachement de quatre-vingt hommes forcé trois-cent Prussiens, avec un officier général qui les commandoit, à mettre bas les armes et à se rendre prisonniers de guerre. Dans la guerre de 1735, quatre-vingt officiers du nom de Vassall servoient tous à la fois dans tous les grades, depuis celui de lieutenant général, jusqu'à celui de simple cadet gentilhomme.

La maison de Vassall a toujours été, et elle est encore une des plus nombreuses en individus, que l'on connoisse; elle étoit déjà partagée du temps de St. Louis en plusieurs branches dont les deux principales étoient connue sous les noms de "Fraisinet" et "de Vaillac," c'est de la première qu'étoit noble Bertrand de Vassall, seigneur de Rin hac, chef de toutes les branches actuellement existantes; ces deux branches qu'on peut appeler anciennes parcequ'elles précèdent l'année 1400, et auxquelles on peut ajouter celles de Yvars, de Balagué, et autres, établies en Quercy, en Albigeois, en Rouisgue, &c. ont contracté des alliances avec les maisons d'Angoulesme, d'Auriale, de Belcastel, de Caltrés, de Casnac, de Puycaudel, d'Ebrard, &c. &c. et parmi les alliances modernes on compte celles d'Abzae, de Favars, de Broglie, de Gontaut, de la Roque, de Villars, &c.

Cette maison est une de celles que l'on connoit avoir produit plus de branches, et on cite comme un fait remarquable et peut-être unique en France, qu'elle a formé en moins de quatre-cent ans—trente-sept branches ou rameaux; et si l'on ajoute à ce nombre les branches qui ont existé avant l'an 1400 et sur l'existence des quelles il reste quelques traces dans les anciens titres; la totalité pourroit s'élever à près de cinquante; singularité qu'on peut regarder comme une espèce de phénomène généalogique.

Ces trente-sept branches ou rameaux tirent leur origine de trois branches principales connues sous les noms de Rin hac, de Nozac, et de la Tourette; et c'est d'elles que dérivent toutes les autres; ces trois branches ont été formées dans le XV siècle de la manière suivante:

Bertrand de Vassall, damoiseau, fils de Bason de Vassall et de Nina de Raffilhac, épousa vers l'an 1360, demoiselle Resplandine de Rin hac, qui lui porta la terre de son nom; il étoit déjà Seigneur, du chef de sa mère, de celles de Nozac, et de la Tourette; il fit son testament le 2 Août, 1395, en faveur de son fils qui suit, Jean de Vassall, seigneur de Rin hac, de Nozac, de la Tourette, &c. épousa, en 1414, demoiselle Jeanne de St. Gilly, dont il eut trois fils, Jean, Pierre, et autre Jean, ce dernier mourut sans postérité, laissant pour héritier Pierre son frère.

1^o Jean de Vassall l'aîné épousa, en 1413, demoiselle Louise de Toucheboeuf, dont il eut Jacques, qui a continué la branche aînée connue sous le nom de Rin hac.

2^o Pierre de Vassall s'allia avec demoiselle Marguerite de la Johannie en 1460, de ce mariage provinrent deux fils, dont l'un nommé Jean épousa demoiselle Marguerite de Paulin, et devint la tige de la branche de Nozac; le second, nommé aussi Jean, est auteur de la branche de la Tourette. La branche de Rin hac a formé quatorze rameaux dont huit sont éteints.

De la branche de Nozac, sont sortis huit rameaux dont quatre sont éteints.

La branche de la Tourette a produit quinze rameaux dont neuf sont éteints.

* All the senior branches of this family are now extinct, excepting the descendants of two of the children of FLORENTIUS VASSALL, namely:—

zabeth, daughter of Spencer Phipps, esq. had (with three daughters, Ruth, Elizabeth, and Lucy,) a son, JOHN VASSALL, esq. who settled at Boston in America, but was deprived of his lands there in the first American war for his attachment to the parent state. He returned to England, and resided alternately between Charles Lodge, in the county of Wilts, and the city of Bath. He m. Miss Elizabeth Oliver, and had issue,

1. JOHN, who wedded Miss Elizabeth Athill, and his son,

JOHN, d. 23rd March, 1827, s. p.

2. SPENCER-THOMAS.

3. Thomas Oliver, who d. s. p.

4. Robert Oliver, who settled in Jamaica.

5. Leonard, d. s. p.

6. Elizabeth, m. to John Gustavus Le-maistre, esq.

7. Mary, m. to John Gytins Archer, esq. and d. s. p.

The second son,

SPENCER THOMAS VASSALL, being designed for a military life, obtained an ensigncy in the 59th regiment of foot, at the early age of twelve. He soon afterwards embarked for Gibraltar, where he served during the memorable siege, and from that period until his gallant career closed on the ramparts of Monte Video, he was uninterruptedly engaged upon active service in almost every part of the globe. He was twice with the army in Flanders, once in the West Indies, several times on the coast of France, and once on that of Spain. He was the first man that landed in the Isle Dieu, and planted the British colours there. He formed part of both expeditions to Holland; in the last of which he was ordered by the Duke of York to attend General Don to the enemy's camp with a flag of truce. On that occasion, when Brun, the French commander in chief, in a fit of rage, pretending to suspect the motives of the mission, declared to General Don that he was determined to treat him as a spy, he turned round to Major Vassall, and said with a contemptuous smile, "Pour vous, monsieur, je vous plains," Vassall receiving the proffered sympathy with merited contempt, immediately replied, "Sir, I disdain your pity, and am ready to share the fate of my general." After experiencing every kind of indignity, and having been twice led out for execution, these brave men were at length released, and allowed to return to England. Shortly afterwards Major Vassall purchased the lieutenant-colonelcy of the 38th regiment, and was for some years stationed in Ireland, where it was his fortune to be the field officer, of the day in Dublin, on the memorable 23rd July, when Lord Kilwarden, and many others were killed by the insurgent populace. His cool determined conduct upon that occasion obtained for him the high commendation of the Irish Government, and of the commander in chief. He subsequently embarked with his regiment for the Cape of Good Hope, and assisted at the capture of that important settlement; of the town and fortress of which he was appointed commandant. This lucrative and honorable post he resigned to embark with his regiment in the second expedition dispatched to the coast of Spanish America, and there he found a soldier's grave in gallantly leading his troops to the assault of Monte Video. His conduct, his courage, his fate are so faithfully depicted in the following letter from his orderly serjeant, to Sir Home Popham, that we know not how we could better close this summary of his valiant achievements.

Monte Video, 10 Feb. 1807.

SIR,

Pardon the liberty I am taking, as the gratitude I owe to my everlamented and best friend, Colonel Vassall, obliges me to give you and his friends an authentic account of his last; I being his orderly serjeant, and the chief person to witness his bravery, and the gallant manner in which he acquitted himself in doing his duty, in that unfortunate hour in which he fell. On our approach to the wall we missed the breach; the grape and musketry flew so hot it drove the men into confusion, and would have made numbers of them retreat but for his exertions. When he observed any of the men stoop or flinch, he cried out as loud as possible, "Brave 38th, my brave men, don't flinch; every bullet has its billet. Push on, follow me, thirty eighth!" He rallied them repeatedly in this manner, until he got them inside the breach. He immediately directed a party to take possession of the corner battery next the sea, which was done in a few minutes, and another, under the command of Major Ross, to advance to the great church, and he was advancing himself to the main battery on the right, when a grape shot broke his leg, and as soon as he fell he cried out, "Push on,

of { RICHARD VASSALL, of Jamaica, whose dau. and heiress,
ELIZABETH VASSALL, espoused, first, the late Sir Godfrey Webster, bart. and, secondly, LORD HOLLAND, who has assumed the additional name of VASSALL.
ELIZABETH VASSALL, who wedded Major General the Hon. John Barrington, son of the first Viscount Barrington, and was grandmother of the present Lord.

somebody will take me up, my good soldiers, charge them, never mind me; it's only the loss of a leg in the service." He sat up, and helped to tie on a handkerchief to stop the blood, and cried out all the time of the action, "I care not for my leg, if my regiment do their duty, and I hope they will." As soon as the town surrendered he heard the men cheer, he joined them with as great spirits as if nothing had happened, and called to me to have him carried to the head of his regiment. I feel to the heart for his family. I could wish to have fallen with him, sooner than part with a man who was so good a friend to me. At half-past three on the morning of the 3rd, he received his wound; at one o'clock on the morning of the 7th, he departed, and at eight the same evening he was interred at the entrance of the great church, with all military honors.

I am, sir,

Your very humble obedient servant,

B. MATHEWS.

The remains of this gallant soldier were at first interred in the grand church at Monte Video, with military honors, but were afterwards removed to England, and deposited in the family vault in the church of St. Paul's, Bristol, where a monument, designed by Flaxman, executed by Rossi, and erected by Colonel Vassall's widow, bears the following inscription.

Sacred to the Memory of SPENCER THOMAS VASSALL, esq.
 Lieutenant-colonel of the 38th regiment, who,
 After twenty-eight years of active and unremitting service,
 During which he had acquired a high military reputation,
 Was mortally wounded at the storming of Monte Video, in South America,
 On the 3rd of February, 1807,
 At the moment he had conducted his intrepid followers within the walls of the fortress,
 And expired on the 7th of the same month,
 Aged 40.
 His beloved remains, brought to England by the companions of his victory, are deposited near this spot,
 Where, to record her own, her children's, and her country's loss,
 She, who was the wedded and happy witness of his private worth,
 Has caused this monument to be erected.

"Stranger, if e'er you honor'd Sidney's fame,
 If e'er you lov'd Bayard's reproachless name,
 Then on this marble gaze with tearful eyes,
 For kindred merit here with VASSALL lies!
 But far more blest than France or England's pride,
 In the great hour of conquest VASSALL died;
 While still undaunted in the glorious strife,
 Content he purchased victory with life,
 And nobly careless of his own distress,
 He bade his mourning comrades onward press;
 Bade them (the hero victor o'er the man,) complete the conquest which his sword began;
 Then proudly smil'd amidst the pangs of death,
 While thanks for victory fill'd his parting breath."†

HAY, OF LEYS.

HAY-BALFOUR, DAVID, esq. of Leys, in the county of Perth, and of Randerston, in Fifeshire, succeeded his father in 1790, and is now male representative of the noble family of HAY.

Lineage.

The traditional origin of the house of Hay runs thus:—In the reign of Kenneth the Third, anno 980, the Danes, who had invaded Scotland, having prevailed at the battle of Luncarty, near Perth, were pursuing the flying Scots, from the field, when a countryman and his two sons appeared in a narrow pass, through which the vanquished were hurrying, and impeded for a moment their flight. "What," said the rustic, "had you rather be slaughtered by your merciless foes, than die honorably in the field; come, rally, rally!" and he headed the fugitives, brandishing the yoke of his plough, and crying out, that help was at hand: the Danes, believing that a fresh army was falling upon them, fled in confusion, and the Scots thus recovered the laurel which they had lost, and freed their country from servitude. The battle being won, the old man, afterwards known by the name of Hay, was brought to the king, who, assembling a parliament at Scone, gave to the said Hay and his sons, as a joint reward for their valour, so much land on the river Tay, in the district of Gowrie, as a falcon from a man's hand flew over till it settled; which being six miles in length, was afterwards called Errol; and the king being desirous to elevate Hay and his sons from their humble rank in life, to the order of nobility, his majesty assigned them a coat of arms, which was, argent, three escutcheons, gules, to intimate that the father and two sons had been the three fortunate shields of Scotland. The stone on which the falcon lighted is still to be seen in the carse of Gowrie, in a small village called Hawkstone. So much for tradition. But the incontrovertible fact is,

WILLIAM DE HAYA, who obtained a grant of the lands of Errol, from William the Lion, espoused Juliana, daughter of Ranulph de Soulis, Lord of Liddesdale, and had issue,

1. WILLIAM, his heir.
2. Robert, witness to a charter confirming the liberties of Durham and Coldingham Abbeys, in 1204. He was ancestor of the TWEEDDALE family.

William de Haya, who held the office of king's butler (Pincerna Domini regis) during the reigns of MALCOLM IV. and WILLIAM the Lion, died about the year 1170, and was s. by his elder son,

SIR WILLIAM DE HAYA, who obtained from WILLIAM the Lion, the manor of Herrol, now Errol, in Perthshire; erected into a barony, for the service of two soldiers, to which Hugh, Bishop of St. Andrews, is a witness. He m. Eva de Petenalin, and thereby acquired the lands of Petenalin; which he and his wife, Eva, gave to the Priory of St. Andrews. Sir William died towards the close of the twelfth century, and was s. by his son, DAVID DE HAYA, who wedded Helen, daughter of Gilbert, Earl of Strathern, and had two sons, viz.

1. GILBERT, who succeeded his father at ERROL, and was ancestor of the NOBLE house of Errol, which ended in heiresses in 1717; the youngest of whom espoused the Earl of Kilmarnock, and her descendant is now EARL OF ERROL (See BURKE's Peerage and Baronetage).

The second son,

Seat—Seggieden, upon the left bank of the Tay, about four miles below Perth, and Killicranky Cottage, in the pass of Killicranky. About the time of JOHN BALIOL, SEGGIEDEN and the hospital there belonged to the monks of St. Augustine; an order, which first appeared in Britain in 1250. Spottiswood has subjoined to "Hopes minor pratiques," in his account of hospitals belonging to the popish clergy, that "these hospitals were erected either for receiving strangers, or for maintaining poor and infirm people, and they were governed by a superior who was called Magister." Among the hospitals which he enumerates is that of "Seggieden," and Cardonnel in his picturesque antiquities of Scotland gives a list of twenty nine hospitals, one of which is Seggieden.

SEGGIEDEN afterwards belonged to George Hay, first Earl of Kinnoul, Lord High Chancellor of Scotland, who died in 1634, and was succeeded by George, the second Earl, who adhering to the fortunes of King CHARLES I. during the civil wars, contracted so much debt that he found it necessary to execute a deed of division, dated 1647, by which the lands and Barony of Seggieden were assigned, with others, to Sir Thomas Blair, of Balthayock. These lands were subsequently in 1652, purchased from the Blairs, by JOHN NAIRN.

HICKES, OF SILTON HALL.

HICKES, FOWLER, esq. A. M. Un. Oxon, of Silton Hall, in the county of York, b. in April, 1765, barrister-at-law, and deputy-lieutenant for the North Riding of Yorkshire.

Lineage.

The family of HICKES, appears by Thoresby's Ducatus Leodiensis, to have held the manor of Nunnington, in the North Riding of Yorkshire, so early as the fourteenth century.

JOHN HICKES, Lord of Nunnington, about the year 1580, had two sons,

2. Robert, who remained at Nunnington. This gentleman, b. in 1586, married in 1619, Frances Wright, and had several children. His grandson, Marmaduke, was mayor of Leeds in 1666—1681, and 1694.

The elder son,

— HICKES, who took up his abode at Nesse, near Nunnington, had two sons, Ralph, who continued at Nesse, and

WILLIAM, who migrated to Newsham Hall, near Kirby Wisk, in the North Riding of Yorkshire. He married Elizabeth Kaye, and had issue,

GEORGE, b. 20th June, 1640, the celebrated Dr. GEORGE HICKES, Dean of Worcester 1679, and Suffragan, Bishop of Thetford, a man of universal learning, deeply read in the primitive fathers of the church, and particularly erudite in the old northern languages and antiquities, of which his "Linguarum veterum Septentrionalium Thesaurus," and the "Grammatica Anglo-Saxonica" are splendid proofs, and held in high estimation in this country, and throughout Europe.

The death of CHARLES II. to whom Dr. George Hickes was chaplain, and his high church principles deprived him of the see of Bristol. At the revolution he was an uncompromising non juror, and therefore bereft, in 1690, of his benefices and other church dignities. Subsequently he espoused the cause of the CHEVALIER, and was actively engaged in the service of that unfortunate prince. Dr. George Hickes died in 1715, in the 75th year of his age.*

JOHN, brother of George, was of different religious principles, and became eminent as a nonconformist. In the year 1675, having published a pamphlet complaining of the conventicle act, and of the oppression of many honest men in Devonshire, where he was incumbent of Stoke, two king's messengers were sent to apprehend him as a state criminal. "It happened," continues Dr. Calamy in his nonconformist's memorial, "that upon the road Dr. J. HICKES fell into the company of these messengers, having no suspicion of them. He travelled all the morning and dined with them, when they talked with great freedom against one John Hickes as an ill man and a great enemy to the government. He bore with their scurrility till dinner was over, and then going to the stable to his horse, of which he was always tender, he there gave them to understand he was the person that they had so vilified, and to teach them to govern their tongues better in time to come took his cane and corrected them till they begged his pardon. He then mounted his horse and rode to London." Upon his arrival, he procured by means of a friend in power an introduction to the King, with whom he so successfully pleaded, that he not only obtained indemnity for himself, but for all the Devonshire nonconformists. In the ensuing reign joining the standard of the illfated Duke of Monmouth, to whom he was chaplain, he suffered death as a traitor, A. D. 1685.*

Glost. His lordship died in 1629, and was succeeded by (the husband of his eldest daughter) Edward Noel, esq. (See Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage).

FAMILIES OF BOTELEL AND BOSVILLE.

The BOSVILLS were originally from Yorkshire, where several distinct branches formerly flourished, and where some still remain. In the course of a long and unbroken descent they allied with families of high distinction through whom they became connected with many of the princely and noble houses of Europe.

SIR RALPH BOSVILLE, of Bradburne, (second son of John Bosvile, of Gunthwaite, in Yorkshire) appears to have been the first of this family who settled in Kent. Sir Ralph, who was clerk of the court of wards and liveries, espoused Anne, daughter of Sir Richard Clement, of the Moat, in Ightham, (by Anne, his wife, relict of John Grey, brother of Thomas, second marquess of Dorset, and grandson to ELIZABETH WIDVILLE, queen consort of EDWARD IV.) and dying in 1580, left, with other issue,

SIR ROBERT BOSVILLE (his second son). This gentleman espousing Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of John Sybil, of Eynsford, acquired that estate, and settled there about the year 1586. Sir Robert died in 1623, and was s. by his son, JOLLIFFE, JOHN-TWYFORD, esq. of Ammerdown Park, in the county of Somerset, inherited the estates at the decease of his father, in 1824.

Lineage.

The family of JOLLIFFE, originally JOLLI, is of considerable antiquity in the counties of Stafford and Worcester, and the pedigree, in possession of the senior members, comprises intermarriages with many eminent and noble houses. The following lines by SAVAGE, entitled the "Portraiture of a Gentleman," are known to have been intended for Mr. Jolliffe:

A graceful mien, engaging in address ;
 Looks which at once each winning charm express ;
 A life, where love, by wisdom polish'd, shines,
 Where wisdom's self again, by love, refines ;
 Where we to chance for friendship never trust,
 Nor ever dread from sudden whim disgust ;
 To social manners, and the heart humane ;
 A nature ever great, and never vain ;
 A wit that no licentious coarseness knows :
 The sense, that unassuming candour shows :
 Reason, by narrow principles uncheck'd,
 SLAVE TO NO PARTY, BIGOT TO NO SECT ;
 Knowledge of various life, of learning too ;
 Thence taste, thence truth, which will from taste ensue ;
 Unwilling censure, though a judgment clear ;
 A smile indulgent, and that smile sincere !
 An humble, though an elevated mind ;
 A pride, its pleasure but to serve mankind :
 If these esteem and admiration raise,
 Give true delight and gain unflatt'ring praise ;
 In one bright view the accomplished man we see :—
 These graces all were thine, and thou wert he.

Mr. Jolliffe was succeeded, at his decease, in 1771, by his son,

THOMAS-SAMUEL JOLLIFFE, esq. M.P. for Petersfield, who wedded, in 1778, Mary-

Mary-Anne.

Mr. Jolliffe died on the 6th June, 1824, at the close of the seventy-eighth year of his age. The following particulars of this excellent country gentleman appeared in the Bath Herald of that period.

"Descended from an ancient family, which dates its origin from the incursion of the Norman Conqueror, and collaterally allied to some of the chief nobles of the Kingdom, Mr. Jolliffe filled an elevated station in society with distinguished ability and credit. Of late years he resided almost entirely in the country ; but he formerly mingled in the brilliant circles of the Metropolis, and sat in several parliaments, during the government of Lord North, and the first period of Mr. Pitt's administration. In the House of Commons, as in every other situation, he sustained the character of a high minded and scrupulously honorable gentleman. Of the disinterested and upright principle which universally governed his conduct, he early in life gave an eminent proof, by resisting a very flattering overture, which embraced high hereditary rank, as well as pecuniary emolument, rather than desert those connexions whose political views he had conscientiously adopted. Mr. Jolliffe had considerable property in various parts of England ; but his chief estates were in Somersetshire, for which county he was several years since, appointed high-sheriff, and served the office with a degree of splendour, which has seldom been equalled ; the whole of his retinue on that occasion being selected from his principal tenantry. As a magistrate, he was acute, active, humane, upright, intrepid, and intelligent ; his opinions were received with the sincerest deference, and his decisions heard with respectful acquiescence. On the institution of the Fencible Dragoons, at an important crisis of the late war, he was appointed to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel ; a situation for which he was peculiarly qualified by his habits of activity, his address in the management of his horse, and his personal accomplishments. Since the reduction of the regiment, he has resided almost exclusively on his extensive domain ; where in the calm scenes of domestic retirement, he became the centre of a grateful and admiring circle."

Mr. Jolliffe was s. by his elder son, the present JOHN TWYFORD JOLLIFFE, esq. of Ammerdown Park.

Lineage.

“The Town of Hamerton,” says Doctor Whitaker, “gives its name to one of the most ancient families in the North of England.” The first member of which upon record,

RICHARD DE HAMERTON, living in the 12th of HENRY II. was lineal ancestor of

ADAM DE HAMERTON, Lord of Hamerton, who flourished towards the close of the reign of EDWARD III. He m. Katherine, daughter of Elias de Knolle, and acquired thereby the manors of Wigglesworth, Knolmsmere, and Hellifield.* He was s. by his son,

RICHARD DE HAMERTON, Lord of Hamerton, Knolmsmere, Wigglesworth, and Hellifield, who augmented his possessions by espousing Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of William de Radcliffe, (and of his wife Ellen, niece and heiress of Henry de Langfield, of Langfield). The son and heir of this marriage,

LAURENCE HAMERTON, of Hamerton, Langfield, &c. obtaining in the 19th of HENRY VI. license to fortify and embattle his manor of Hellifield, erected the mansion of HELLIFIELD-PEEL. He wedded Isabel, daughter of Sir John Tempest of Bracewell, (see page 290) and left issue,

RICHARD (Sir), his heir.

Isabel, m. first, to — Radcliff, of the county of Lancaster, and secondly, to Sir John Mallory, of Studley.

Alice, m. to Richard Sherburne, of Stonyhurst.

Elizabeth, m. first, to Thomas Aldwark, of Aldwark, and secondly to John Woodrove, of Wollay.

Jane, m. to — Metcalfe, of Nappey.

Grace, m. to Thomas Pudsay, of Barford.

Katherine, m. to Peter Murfield, of Tong.

He was s. by his son,

SIR RICHARD HAMERTON, of Hamerton, who founded a chantry in the church of Long Preston, dedicated to our Lady, and

* HELLIFIELD, anciently HELGEFELT, (the field of HELGE, its first Saxon possessor) was held by its mesne lords of the knights of St. John, of Jerusalem, and by the latter of the Percies, chief lords of the fee. The Knolles acquired it from Isabel, daughter of Richard de Helgefelt, and widow of Robert de Stainton.

St. Anne. This gentleman wedded Elizabeth, relict of Sir Ralph Harrington, and daughter of Sir John Assheton, K.B. of Assheton-under-Linc. He d. in 1480, leaving with a daughter, Jane, the wife of Brian Roccliffe, of Cowthorpe, one of the barons of the Exchequer, a son and successor,

SIR STEPHEN HAMERTON, of Hamerton, who was made a knight banneret in Scotland, by Richard, Duke of Gloucester, in the 20th EDWARD IV. He espoused Isabel, daughter of Sir William Plumpton, of Plumpton, and dying in the 16th HENRY VII. was s. by his only son,

JOHN HAMERTON, of Hamerton, &c. This gentleman m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Geoffrey Middleton, of Middleton, in Westmorland, and had issue, STEPHEN (Sir), his successor.

Thomas, living in Craven, in the time of HENRY VIII.

John Hamerton d. in the 6th HENRY VIII. and was found by inquisition to have been seized in demesne as of fee in the manors of Hamerton, Knolsmere, Wigglesworth, Hellifield, Langfield, &c. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR STEPHEN HAMERTON, of Hamerton, who m. in the 21st HENRY VII. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Ralph de Bigod, knt. of Setterington, and had an only son,

HENRY, who wedded Joan, daughter of Christopher Stapleton, esq. of Wighill, and died, supposed of a broken heart, on the day of his father's execution. He left an only daughter, MARGARET, who wedded Francis Redman, esq.

In the 17th HENRY VIII. we find Sir Stephen Hamerton in the train of Henry de Clifford, first earl of Cumberland, and in favor at court, but afterwards being involved in the great Northern insurrection, (anno 1537) he received his majesty's pardon. Rebelling* a second time with the Lord Darcy, and his brother-in-law, Sir Francis de Bigod, he was taken prisoner, conveyed to London, and executed and attainted. The estates of this unfortunate gentleman falling under the attainder, HELLIFIELD PEEL remained vested in the crown, until granted (in the 37th HENRY VIII.) by the name of "the manor of Hellifield, with its appurtenances, part of the possession of Stephen Hamerton, knt. attainted of high treason," to George Browne, and his heirs, to be held of the King in capite for the consideration of £296. 9s. 2d. The estate did not remain however long in this family, for in the 7th EDWARD VI. it was alienated to Sir Arthur Darcy, knt. and by him, in the next reign, transferred to John Redman, esq. father of the gentleman who had married the granddaughter of the attainted Sir Stephen Hamerton. In the 3rd of ELIZABETH, this John Redman passed the manor to the nephew, and next male heir of the said Sir Stephen, namely,

JOHN HAMERTON, esq. who thus became "of Hellifield-Peel." This gentleman wedded Ursula, daughter of Robert Banister, esq. of Kilbrook, and was s. at his decease by his son,

LAURENCE HAMERTON, esq. of Hellifield Peel, who espoused Mary, daughter of William Wycliffe, esq. of Wycliffe, and had a son and successor,

STEPHEN HAMERTON, esq. of Hellifield Peel. This gentleman m. first, Mary, daughter of Sir Mauger Vavasor, knt. of Weston, (see page 54) but had no issue. He wedded secondly, in 1607, Mary, daughter of Laurence Lister, esq. of Thornton and Midhope, and was s. at his decease, 9th November, 1651, by his eldest son,

JOHN HAMERTON, esq. of Hellifield Peel, b. in 1610, m. Dorothy, daughter and co-heir of Richard Folkingham, esq. of North Hall, in Yorkshire, and was s. by his eldest son,

STEPHEN HAMERTON, esq. of Hellifield Peel, who espoused Eleanor, daughter of Alexander Rushton, esq. of Rushton Grange, and dying in 1676, left an only surviving son and heir,

STEPHEN HAMERTON, esq. of Hellifield Peel, b. in 1668, who m. Anne, daughter and heiress of Sir Edward Chisenhall, of Chisenhall, in the county of Lancaster, and was s. in 1745, by his eldest son,

JOHN HAMERTON, esq. of Hellifield Peel, b. in 1695, who m. first, Mary, daughter of Thomas Purchase, esq. of Langton, by whom (who d. in 1740) he had an only surviving child,

* By some of our historians this Ranulph is styled Earl of Carlisle from residing in that city. He was Lord of Cumberland and Carlisle by descent from his father, but having enfeoffed his two brothers, William of Coupland, and Geffery of Gillesland, in a large portion thereof, he exchanged the earldom of Cumberland for that of Chester, on condition that those whom he had settled there, should hold their lands of the king in capite.—Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage.

Afterwards travelling, he was introduced to the acquaintance of Cardinal Bellarmine, who shewing to him the picture of Mr. Whitaker of Cambridge, which hung up in his library, told him, pointing to the picture, that he was the most learned heretic that ever he read, or to that effect. After his return he was made chaplain in ordinary to Queen ELIZABETH, took the degree of D.D. in 1600, was made principal of St. Edmund's Hall the year after, being at that time rector of Islip, near to, and in the county of Oxford, and soon after chaplain in ordinary to King JAMES I. He was a person well accomplished in all kind of learning; profoundly read in the fathers, and in select divinity; an accomplished linguist; and of an aquiline acumen; as one who is profuse in his praise tells us."†

STAUNTON, OF STAUNTON.

STAUNTON, THE REV. J. of Staunton Hall, in the county of Nottingham, LL. D. b. in May, 1765, m. in May, 1793, Elizabeth, daughter of Job Brough, esq. and has issue, WILLIAM-JOB-CHARLTON, in holy orders, m. Isabella, only daughter of the Very Rev. Dr. Gordon, Dean of Lincoln.

Elizabeth-Katherine, m. to George, eldest son of Dr. Gordon.
Mary-Anne.

This gentleman, whose patronymic was ASPINSHAW, assumed, together with his wife and children, in 1807, by sign manual, the surname and arms of STAUNTON, of STAUNTON only. Dr. Staunton is rector of Elton-super-montem, and of Staunton-cum-Kelvington.

Lineage.

The family of STAUNTON,* which is of great antiquity, can be regularly traced from the time of the CONQUEROR, and though the name has not been ennobled, the STAUNTONS have ever maintained the station, scarcely less enviable, of respected country gentlemen.

Many of the branches have honorably served the state in parliament, on the bench, in the church, and in the army.

GALFRIDUS DE STAUNTON (son of Malge-rus, temp. William the Conqueror) gave lands in Kelum to the monastery of Rufford, which King STEPHEN confirmed. He espoused Beatrice de Muschamp, and was grandfather of

SIR WILLIAM DE STAUNTON, knt. who granted freedom to Hugh Travers, and all his progeny, for the reason that the said Hugh had assumed the cross for him, and proceeded to Jerusalem. Sir William m. Athelina, daughter and co-heir of John de Musters, lord of Bosingham, in Lincolnshire, and thereby acquired part of that estate. Sir William* was s. by his son,

* There is a kind of rhyming bard-like pedigree of this family, made by one Robert Cade, who wrote a similar one for the Skeffingtons. It is of considerable length, containing nearly 150 stanzas, and transcribing all the epitaphs from the church. The commencement is as follows :

O champion cheefe and warlike wight ;
Of Staunton's stocke the pryme
The and thy sequel I must blase,
And pedegrewe define.
Though Haroldes they in noble sorte
Thy arms not pende in vaine,
Yet something wants that here is writte
As Books and Toubmes shew plain.
The first Sir Mauger Staunton, Knight,
Before Williame came in,
Who this realme into one monarche
Did conquer it and winne.
At which same time this Mauger, Knight,
Thrughe feats of arms and shield,
In marcyall prowse so valiant was,
That then he waune the field.
&c. &c. &c.

* In the rhyming pedigree before alluded to, is the following account of Sir William and his son,

Sir William Staunton kt. was next Dame Athelin was his wife
Sir Geoffrey Staunton kt. their heire,
Bothe voide of vice and strife.
And Sir Henry his brother was,
Who gave himself to learne,
That when he came unto man's state,
He could the laws discerne.
And in the same went forward still,
And profited much, I know,
At yvnes of court a counseiler
And serjeant in the law.
And in processe of tyme indeede,
A judge he came to bee
In the Common Benche at Westminster,
Such was his high degree.

SIR GEOFFREY DE STAUNTON, knt. father of SIR WILLIAM DE STAUNTON, knt. who gave to Sir Theobald de Trickingham, knt. in frank marriage with Margaret, his sister, and to their heirs, his rent in Scarthorpe and Silkeby; and the seal now appended to this deed exhibits Two chevrons and "S. ANTHONY STAUNTON, esq. of Staunton, under age, and in ward to the earl of Rutland. The tradition is that "Sir Matthew Palmer, of Southwell, won him at bowls of Robert Dallington, servant to Earl Roger, who gave him to that gentleman in 1604, and when he, the said Sir Matthew had him, he married him to his sister Frances. By this lady (who married for her second husband Robert Waring, of Wilford), he had a son and successor,

He subsequently raised a regiment of foot, and provided for it at his own expense. This heavy outlay with sequestration and composition money, reduced and eventually quite ruined his estate, for which he never afterwards obtained any return. Colonel Staunton's second but eldest surviving son,

HARVEY STAUNTON, esq. of Staunton, inherited the remnant of his father's possessions, and was last heir male of this ancient family, after a continued male succession of upwards of 500 years. He died s. p. m. and left his estates to his eldest daughter, royal visitors. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Staunton, in virtue of his tenure of the manor of "Staunton," commonly called "Castle Guard," with an appropriate speech to the Prince Regent (GEORGE IV.), when His Royal Highness honoured the Duke of Rutland with his presence at the christening of the Marquess of Granby, January, 1814. Mr. Delafield is the second son of the late John Delafield, esq. but his elder brother, Count Delafield, having established himself abroad, he is now the representative of the family in England. The Count appears to be the undoubted heir to the ancient BARONY OF FITZ WARINE, which has been suspended for more than four centuries.

Lineage.

This family derives its descent from the COUNTS DE LA FELD, the once powerful proprietors of the demesnes and castle near Colmar, of which the latter still bears their name. These Lords had large possessions in Alsace and Loraine, and are frequently mentioned in the wars of those countries. The Croix d'or of La Feld, their ancient badge, is still the coat armour of the house immediately before us.

It is probable that HUBERTUS DE LA FELD was the first of his race that emigrated to England; and that he came over amongst the crowd of foreigners who attended the conqueror hither, his name appearing enrolled as the owner of lands in the county of Lancaster, in the third of WILLIAM I. The name of JOHN DE LA FELD occurs in the 12th of HENRY I. as a proprietor in the counties of Lancaster and Bucks; of ROBERT DE LA FELD, without a date, and of JOHN DE LA FELD, in the 38th and 43rd of HENRY III. The last mentioned person,

JOHN DE LA FELD, witnessed two deeds in the same years on the marriages of his son and daughter, viz.

JOHN, of whom presently.

ELIZABETH, who m. (43d HENRY III.)

Norman D'Arcy, of Nocton, in the county of Lincoln, and had issue,

PHILIP D'ARCY, who was summoned to parliament as LORD D'ARCY, in 1299.

JOHN (Sir), D'ARCY, a very distinguished personage in the reigns EDWARD I., EDWARD II., and EDWARD III. In the two latter he was JUSTICE OF IRELAND, and was summoned to parliament as a BARON in 1332. He m. first, Emeline, dau. and co-heir of Walter Heron, of Hedleston, in Northumberland, and secondly, Joane, daughter of Richard de Burgh, Earl of Ulster, and widow of Thomas Earl of Kildare. By the first, he had three sons, and by the second, a son William, and a daughter ELIZABETH, m. to James, EARL OF ORMONDE, surnamed the noble Earl.

Robert D'Arcy, of Starlingburgh, in the county of Lincoln.

The son,

JOHN DE LA FELD, espoused in the 38th of HENRY III. Elizabeth Fitzwarine, (whose father was Lord Warden of the Marches in the North,) and had three sons, JOHN, Robert or Hubert, and Nicholas, of whom, the eldest,

JOHN DE LA FELD, married in the 15th of EDWARD I. Maude, daughter and heir of Montacute, by whom he had two sons,

ROBERT, or HUBERT,

JOHN. Canon of the abbey church, at Hereford.

The elder

ROBERT (OR HUBERT) DE LA FELD, wedded in the 11th of EDWARD II. his cousin, the daughter and heir of Fulke Fitzwarine, and was s. by his son,

JOHN DE LA FELD, who espoused in the 23d of EDWARD III. Margaret de Tyringham, and had three sons, THOMAS, Robert, and Nicholas. The eldest,

THOMAS DE LA FELD, wedded in the 45th EDWARD III. Elizabeth, his kinswoman, daughter of Thomas Butler, second son of Thomas, Earl of Ormonde, and great-great-granddaughter of Elizabeth De la Feld, wife of Norman D'Arcy. He fell soon after his marriage in the French wars, and leaving no issue, was s. by his brother,

ROBERT DE LA FELD, who m. in the 51st of EDWARD III. Elinor Butler, sister of his brother's wife, and co-heir with her of their father the Hon Thomas Butler. By this lady he had, with a daughter Anne, abbess of a convent at Lancaster, a son and successor,

ROBERT DE LA FELD, who wedded 12th of HENRY IV. Alice, daughter and heiress of Sir Reginald de Grey, and was s. by his son,

SIR THOMAS DE LA FELD, who wrote himself of Ailesbury in England, and of the Lordships of Fieldston and Culduffe, in the county of Kildare, in Ireland. This gentleman m. in the 16th HENRY VI. Katherine, only daughter of Sir Thomas de Rochfort,*

* By Elizabeth, only daughter and heir of John D'Arcy, by Joane, only, or as some assert eldest daughter and co-heir of John Fitzwarine, son and heir of William Fitzwarine, summoned to parliament 16th EDWARD III. as Lord Fitz Warine. In Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage there is an evident mistake regarding this Lord Fitz Warine and his descendants, who are confounded with those of Robert, Lord Fitzpayne. Lord Fitzwarine left an only son, Ivo or JOHN FITZWARINE, who was with the Earl of Buckingham at the siege of Nantz, and after that, in 9th Ric. II. with the Duke of Lancaster in his naval expedition for the recovery of the inheritance of Constance, his wife, heir to the kingdom of Castile. His daughter, JOANE, m. John D'Arcy, by whom she had an only child, the above-mentioned ELIZABETH D'ARCY, who wedded Sir Thomas de Rochfort.

by whom (who wedded secondly, Thomas Luttrell, esq. of Luttrellstown, ancestor of the Earls of Carhampton) he had a son,

SIR JOHN DELAFELD, who wedded, in the 35th of HENRY VI. Elizabeth Hankford, sister of Sir Richard Hankford,† and had issue,

THOMAS, his heir.

Gerald, who m. an heiress and assumed her surname and armorial ensigns, though his son resumed the family name, but retained his mother's coat armour, viz. or, a lion gu. and arg.

Catherine, m. in the 18th of EDWARD IV. Sir Richard Barnewall, and conveyed to her husband the lordship of Fieldston. Their descendant in the fifth degree, NICHOLAS BARNEWALL, of Turvey, was created in 1646, Baron Turvey, and Viscount Barnewall, of Kingsland.

The elder son,

SIR THOMAS DELAFIELD, m. in the 21st of EDWARD IV. Margaret, daughter and heir of Ralph Howard (descended from the Howards of Fersfield), and had a son, JOHN, and a daughter, Isabel; which John having removed with the court to Calais in 1500, on account of a great pestilence then raging in England, and not returning for several years, it was supposed by his family that he had perished; and ISABEL, his only sister, being married to Gerald Fitzgerald, of Alloone (descended from Maurice, first Knight of Kerry, and son of John, fourth Lord of Offaley), took the lordship of Culduffe into that family, for which the Fitzgeralds of Alloone quartered the arms of Delafield. She had issue, Bartholomew Fitzgerald, married to Anne Aylmer; and Alison Fitzgerald, m. to Gerald Aylmer, ancestor to the Lords Aylmer. In some years afterwards,

JOHN DELAFIELD returned, after a long absence, to the great joy of his family, and married Thomasine, the "faire daughter" of Sir Thomas Dillon, ancestor of the Earls of Roscommon. He had two sons, Gerald, the younger, married Elinor Plunket, of the Killeen family, and the elder,

† Sir Richard Hankford's only daughter and heiress, ANNE HANKFORD (niece of Lady Delafield), espoused Thomas Butler, Earl of Ormonde, and had two daughters, namely,

ANNE BUTLER, m. to Sir James St. Leger.

MARGARET BUTLER, m. to Sir William Boleyn, K.B. their son,

SIR THOMAS BOLEYNE, was created Viscount Rochford, and Earl of Wiltshire and Ormonde. He was father of

ANNE BOLEYNE, the unhappy queen consort of HENRY VIII.

SIR THOMAS DELAFIELD, became his successor. This gentleman espoused Margaret Fleming, granddaughter of the Lord Slane, and was s. by his son,

PATRICK DELAFIELD, who wedded in 1563, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Cusack, esq. of Gerardstown, and his wife, the Hon. Anne St. Lawrence, daughter of Nicholas, sixteenth Lord Howth,* and was s. by his son,

JOHN DELAFIELD. This gentleman married Anne de la Bere, co-heir of her brother, who was a younger branch of the De la Beres of Gloucestershire. He had two sons,

JOHN.

William, m. to Isabel Dudley, and had a son, William.

The elder son,

JOHN DELAFIELD, esq. m. in 1610, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Thomas Hampden, son of John Hampden, of Hampden, in Bucks, and had four sons, JOHN, William, James, and Thomas. The eldest,

JOHN DELAFIELD, esq. espoused, in 1636, Elizabeth Brooke, and was father of JOHN DELAFIELD, esq. born 1637. This gentleman, having entered into foreign service, participated in the triumphs of Prince EUGENE of Savoy, and at the glorious engagement of Zenta, against the Turks, led on by the grand vizier in person, having taken a standard from the infidels, was created, a COUNT OF THE HOLY ROMAN EMPIRE in 1697. Mr. Constable s. to the estates upon the demise of his uncle, 6th July, 1812. He is in the commission of the peace for the three ridings of Yorkshire.

Lineage.

From the CONSTABLESHIP of Chester, which it formerly enjoyed, this family derives its surname. Soon after the Norman conquest, WILLIAM having conferred on Hugh de Abrincis the palatinate of Chester, to hold "ita liberè ad gladium sicut ipse rex tenebat Angliam ad coronam," that nobleman, for the greater efficiency of his government, nominated eight barons under himself being according to Camden, "all his trusty friends." Of these the chief was NIGELL, the cousin of Hugh, whom the Earl created Baron of Halton, and appointed, in recompense for his bold and daring exploits, CONSTABLE of CHESTER, then an officer of a high rank, to whom was committed the command of all the soldiers, with the charge of the horses, armour, and other munitions of war. This

NIGELL, son of Ivon, Viscount Constantine, in Normandy, by Emma, sister to Adam, Earl of Bretagne, was father of

WILLIAM FITZ NIGELL, Constable of Chester, founder of the abbey of Norton, whose daughter,

AGNES, heiress to her brother William, espoused EUSTACE FITZ JOHN, one of the most potent among the Northern barons in the reign of HENRY I. This Eustace was son of John Monoculus, Lord of Knaresborough, brother and heir of Serlo de Burgh, who erected, temp WILLIAM the Conqueror, the castle of Knaresborough. By his first wife, Agnes, Eustace acquired the Barony of Halton, &c. and had an only son, RICHARD FITZ EUSTACE. He wedded secondly, Beatrice, only daughter and heiress of Ivo de Vesci, Lord of Alnwick, in Northumberland, and of Malton in Yorkshire, and had issue,

WILLIAM, ancestor of the great baronial House of VESCY.

Jeffery.

This Eustace Fitz John, who founded the abbeys of Alnwick, in Northumberland, and of Walton and Malton, in Yorkshire, was slain in the wars against the Welsh, with Robert de Courcy, and many others in the first year of HENRY II. His eldest son,

RICHARD FITZ EUSTACE, inheriting the honors of his mother, became Baron of Halton and CONSTABLE of CHESTER. He wedded Albreda, daughter and heiress of Eudo de Lizours, and half sister (by the mother) of Robert de Lacy, Baron of Pontefract, and had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

ROBERT, the Hospitaller.

ROGER, Lord of Warkworth, in Northumberland, from whom sprang the great Northern House of CLAVERING. (See Clavering of Callaly, p. 237).

The eldest son and heir, John, becoming heir to his half uncle, Robert de Lacy, assumed that surname, and inherited, as

JOHN DE LACY, the Baronies of Halton and Pontefract, with the Constableness of Chester. This feudal chief, who was Lord of Flambro, Baron of Halton, and Constable of Chester, had two sons, ROGER, Constable of Chester, Lord of Halton and Pontefract, who gave to his brother Robert the Lordship of Flambro'. He participated in the achievements of the Lion hearted RICHARD, and was ancestor of the Lacys, EARLS OF LINCOLN. (See Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage).

ROBERT.

The second son,

ROBERT DE LACY, or CONSTABLE, who obtained from his elder brother Roger, a grant of the Lordship of Flamburgh, wedded a Lady, named Agnes, but of what family is not recorded, and had a son and successor, CRAWFURD, OF CROSBY.

CRAWFURD, ROBERT, esq. of Newfield, in the shire of Ayr, commandant of its yeomanry, and one of its deputy-lieutenants, m. in 1813, Frances, dau. of the late Henry O'Brien, seq. of Blatherwick Park, Northamptonshire, and has issue,

This gentleman, who is now male representative of the CRAWFURDS, of CRAWFURD, Loudoun, Crosby, &c. inherited the estates at the decease of his father, in 1794. He was formerly a captain in the 7th Hussars, and served with that regiment in the Peninsula.

Lineage.

The family of CRAWFURD is of Norman origin, and appears to descend from one of those knights who accompanied Malcolm Canmore from England, and encouraged by grants of land from that prince, settled in Scotland. In the Chartularies, Advocates Library, Edinburgh, mention is made of a Reginald de Crawford in the beginning of the 12th century. He assumed his name (agreeably to the practice of the age) from his barony of Crawford, in Clydesdale, signifying in Gaelic, "the pass of blood."^{*} In 1127 there were two knights (brothers, and sons most probably of this Reginald) Sir John and Sir Gregan Crawford, both in the service of King DAVID I. In commemoration of that monarch's life, having been preserved when hunting in Holyrood Park, by the younger brother, the abbey of Holyrood was founded, and Sir Gregan's arms placed therein.

In 1170 a Dominus GALFREDUS DE CRAWFURD, frequently occurs among the Magnates Scotiæ, as a witness to the charters of his sovereign. He wedded — sister of John le Scott, earl of Chester, and daughter of David, earl of Huntingdon, second son of DAVID I. of Scotland, by his Queen Maud, daughter of Valdosius, earl of Northumberland, and Judith, niece of WILLIAM the Conqueror. From this Galfred sprang

SIR JOHN CRAWFURD, of Crawford, who died in 1248, and was buried in Melrose Abbey, leaving two daughters, his co-heirs, who conveyed the greater portion of the Crawford estates to the families of their husbands, Douglas, ancestor of the dukes of Douglas, and Lindsay, ancestor of the earls of Crawford and Lindsay. The territory thus divided was afterwards called Crawford Lindsay, and Crawford Douglas. But a third portion subsequently, for distinction, denominated Crawford John Barony, remained in the possession of John Crawford, the male representative of Sir John. From Galfred de Crawford also sprang

SIR REGINALD DE CRAWFURD, a personage of great eminence, who espoused, about the year 1200, the heiress of the extensive barony of Loudoun, in Ayrshire (which afterwards gave the title of earl to its possessors) and he became the first viccomes or lord lieutenant of the county, the office being made hereditary in his family. The fifth in descent from this Sir Reginald, was another

SIR REGINALD CRAWFURD, knt. of Loudoun, viccomes de Air, one of the most patriotic upholders of the freedom of Scotland, against the English monarch, EDWARD I: he lost his life in the service of his country, with his great kinsman, SIR WILLIAM WALLACE,* leaving an only daughter and heiress,

* This distinguished and immortal hero was son of Malcolm Wallace, lord of Ellerslie, by Margaret, his wife, sister to Sir Reginald Crawford, of Loudoun, and aunt to the Sir Reginald, mentioned in the text.

* The pass, however, near which stand the ruins of Crawford Castle, has, for many centuries, been called Norman Gill.

SUSANNA, who espoused Sir Duñcan Campbell, of Lochaw, and from this marriage lineally descends the present

Flora - Muir Campbell - Rawdon-Hastings, COUNTESS OF LOUDOUN, in her own right. (See Burke's Peerage.)

Sir Reginald dying thus without male issue, the representation of the house of CRAWFURD reverted to his cousin,

HUGH CRAWFURD, second son of Sir Reginald Crawford, of Loudoun, who was treacherously murdered at Ayr in 1297. This Hugh, who appears to have inherited from Loudoun the lands of Monoch, of which his grandfather had a charter in 1226, and also CROSBY, near Kilbride, an ancient tenure of Loudoun, was s. at his decease, by his son,

REGINALD CRAWFURD, of Crosby, who obtained in 1320 a grant of the lands of AUCHINAMES, in Renfrewshire, for his services to Robert Bruce, as well as an augmentation to his arms of two lances in saltire, commemorative of his exploits at Bannockburn. To him succeeded his son,

REGINALD CRAWFURD, of Auchinames* and Crosby, whose name appears prefixed as a witness to a charter by Robert, the high steward, in 1358. His son and successor,

THOMAS CRAWFURD,† of Auchinames, is

* Auchinames being the larger possession became the designation of the family, though in a different county and a less ancient estate.

† Crawford, the eminent historian and genealogist, deduces the CRAWFURDS of KILBIRNIE from a younger brother of this Thomas,

JOHN CRAWFURD, who was direct ancestor of MALCOLM CRAWFURD, of Greenock, who espoused Marjory, daughter and sole heiress of John Barclay, of Kilbirnie, a branch of the ancient house of Barclay of Ardrossan. From this marriage descended

JOHN CRAWFURD, of Kilbirnie, who succeeded to that estate in 1622. He m. Mary, daughter of James, Earl of Glencairn, and, about the year 1627, rebuilt the house of Kilbirnie, in a style of feudal magnificence. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN CRAWFURD, knt. of Kilbirnie, who left by his second wife, Magdalene, daughter of Lord Carnegie, two daughters, Ann, m. to Sir Archibald Stewart, of Blackball.

MARGARET, who wedded the Hon. Patrick Lindsay, second son of John, fourteenth Earl of Crawford, and first Earl of Lindsay.

Sir John Crawford having settled the estate of Kilbirnie on the issue of the marriage of his daughter Margaret, it eventually devolved to her eldest son, mentioned by Crawford, in his History of Renfrewshire, in which he relates the substance of a mortification to the church of Kilbarchan, dated 1401, for a monk to say mass for the salvation of his soul, and his wife's, and his father's, and mother's, and for the soul of Reginald Crawford, his grandfather. He wedded the daughter and heiress of Malcolm Galbraith, and was s. by his son,

ARCHIBALD CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, who m. Margaret, daughter and co-heiress of Sir William Douglas, of Peircetoun, and had (with a younger child, Thomas, ancestor of the Crawfurds of Thirdpart) a son and heir,

ROBERT CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, who wedded, first, —, daughter of Archibald, Earl of Angus; and secondly, a daughter of Houstoun, of Houstoun. He was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

ROBERT CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, who, in 1488, acted as arbiter between the abbot and convent of Paisley, and the burgh of Renfrew. This gentleman accompanying his sovereign, JAMES IV. to the battle of

JOHN LINDSAY, esq. who assumed, upon becoming of "Kilbirnie," the surname and arms of CRAWFURD. In 1693, he was elected M.P. for Ayrshire, and again in the reign of Queen Anne. In 1705, he was elevated to the peerage as Viscount GARNOCK. His lordship was s. by his eldest son,

PATRICK CRAWFURD, second Viscount Garnock, who died in 1735, and was s. by his eldest son,

PATRICK CRAWFURD, third Viscount Garnock, who died unmarried, and was s. by his brother,

GEORGE CRAWFURD, fourth Viscount Garnock, who inherited, on the death of the celebrated John, Earl of CRAWFURD and LINDSAY, the estates and honors of that family. His lordship m. in 1755, Jean, eldest daughter and heiress of Robert Hamilton, esq. of Bourtnehill, and dying in 1781 left issue,

GEORGE, who s. as twentieth Earl of Crawford, and fifth Viscount Garnock. His lordship, who was lord-lieutenant of Fifeshire, died unmarried in 1808, and was s. by his sister, Lady MARY LINDSAY CRAWFURD.

Robert Lindsay Hamilton, who d. unmarried in 1801.

Bute, died unmarried.

Jean, m. to Archibald, eleventh Earl of Eglington, and d. s. p. in 1778.

Mary, the present Lady MARY LINDSAY CRAWFURD, of Crawford Priory.

†† About twenty years ago, a claimant appeared for the barony and estates of the great family of Crawford and Lindsay; for a full account of which claim, and an able refutation of its pretensions, see "An Examination of the Claim of John Lindsay Crawford to the Titles and Estates of Crawford and Lindsay, by James Dobie, esq. F. S. A."

Flodden, was there slain in 1513, and was s. by his eldest son,

JAMES CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, who obtained from his father in 1498, a charter of Crosby and Monoch. To him succeeded his son,

THOMAS CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, living in 1535. This laird married Marion, daughter of Montgomery, of Hazlehead, by whom he had three sons, successive Lords of Auchinames, by the eldest of whom,

JOHN CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, he was succeeded at his decease. This gentleman being slain at the battle of Pinkie in 1547, and dying without issue, the estates devolved on his next brother,

WILLIAM CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, who wedded Annabel, daughter of Chalmers of Gadgirth, and had one son,

JAMES, who m. the Lady Elizabeth Cunningham, daughter of William, sixth Earl of Glencairn, by a daughter of Gordon of Lochinvar, and predeceasing his father, left an only child,

JANE, on whom he settled the lands of CROSBY. This lady wedded, about the year 1606, PATRICK CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, and thus the ancient estates of the family were reunited.

William Crawford died in 1582, when the barony of Auchinames, according probably to the tenure on which it was held, passed to his brother,

PATRICK CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, who m. a daughter of John Frazer, third laird of Knock (by Margaret, his wife, only child and heiress of Sir John Stuart, of Glenderston, fourth son of John, first Earl of Lennox, grandson of the celebrated Sir John Stuart, Count Devereux, field-marshal of France), and had a son and successor,

WILLIAM CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, who wedded, in 1587, a daughter of Sir Patrick Houston, of that Ilk, and was s. by his son,

PATRICK CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, who espoused, in 1606, Jane Crawford, heiress of Crosby, and thus again united the ancient estates of Crosby and Auchinames. He had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

James, whose issue is extinct.

Auchinames was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, who was infeft in 1649. He m. Anna, daughter of Sir Coll Lamont, of Inneryne, and had, with several daughters, a son and heir,

ARCHIBALD CRAWFURD, of Auchinames, Crosby, &c. the sixteenth baron or chief of this family descended from Loudoun in a direct male line. He m. a daughter of Porterfield, of that Ilk, and had a son, WILLIAM, who m. Helen, daughter of Sir Thomas Burnet, of Crimond, and dying vitâ patris left an only daughter, who wedded Patrick Edmonston, of Newton, and had several children.

The laird leaving no male issue, and having feued out and otherwise disposed of the lands of Auchinames, the superiority of that estate, together with the lands of Crosby in Cunningham, was purchased by Patrick Craufurd, of Drumsoy, a descendant of the Craufurds of Kerse, who had married Jane, the second daughter of Archibald of Auchinames. Hence Drumsoy is styled of Auchinames, as having the superiority. Crosby, similarly acquired, is still in possession of his descendant, John Craufurd. Archibald Crawford leaving no male issue, the representation of the family reverted to his uncle,

ROBERT CRAWFURD, designed by Nisbet, "Captain Robert Crawford, of Nethermains;" and that the Nethermains so alluded to, was the Nethermains of Kilwinning, whence sprang the Crawfurds of Newfield, is sufficiently attested by the will of Patrick Crawford, of Auchinames, lately discovered among the records of the Commissary Court of Glasgow. This testament bears date at Crosby, parish of Largs, the XII day of December, 1648, and in it are enumerated his children by name; it is "witnessed by William Craufurd, younger, of Auchinames, my son; Robert Hunter, of Hunterston, my son-in-law; and Robert Crawford, of Naymains, also my lawful son," and written by his son James, who was bred to the bar.*

Robert Crawford married Christian, dau. and co-heiress of Robert Brown, of Nethermains and Burrowlands; which latter estate was conveyed by the younger sister to her husband, Alexander Blair, of Giffordland. He died in 1678, leaving three sons, PATRICK CRAWFURD, esq. of Nethermain, who had an only daughter AGNES, who wedded in 1709, John Boyd, esq. of Craneberry Moss, and appears to have alienated Nethermain to the family of Glasgow.

On the demise of Patrick Crawford of Nethermain, without male issue, the representation devolved on his brother, MOSES CRAWFURD, esq. who m. first, Marion Francis, of the ancient family of Francis of Stane, and had a son Archibald, (named after his cousin-german, the last of Auchinames, then resident at Crosby,) who died in infancy, and a daughter Christian. Lineage.

The family of CAMPBELL, is one of the most distinguished in Scotland; and its head, ARGYLL, in feudal times, was perhaps the most powerful subject in the kingdom.

SIR COLIN CAMPBELL, of Lochow, (grandson of Sir Colin, distinguished for his warlike achievements by the surname of More or the Great.) was lineally descended from Gillespick Campbell, who eight centuries before, had obtained, by marriage with an heiress, the lordship of Lochow, in Argyllshire. BRECK; from whom spring Campbell of Succoth and some others.
Dugald, who lost his estates by his adhesion to Edward Baliol.

The second son,

JOHN CAMPBELL* appears to have held ARDSKEODNISH as well as BARBRECK. His descendants continued possessed of the latter estate until, the male heirs having failed in the sixth generation, the heiress conveyed BARBRECK to her husband,

COLIN CAMPBELL, a relation of Archibald, second earl of Argyll, who, in right of his marriage, assumed the designation "of Barbreck," and as he lineally descended from Sir Colin, father to John, the FIRST BARBRECK, the link of the male line was thus restored. To Colin Campbell and the Lady of Barbreck, succeeded their son,

COLIN CAMPBELL, of Barbreck, whose name appears as witness to two deeds, bearing date 1575. He was s. by his son,

SIR ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, knt. of Barbreck, mentioned in several records in the early part of the seventeenth century. Sir Archibald was s. about the year 1630, by his son,

COLIN CAMPBELL, of Barbreck, who wedded a lady of his own name. This laird, as well as his successors, were for nearly a century connected with, and actively engaged in, all the troubles that afflicted Scotland. During the civil wars of the reign of CHARLES I. the Campbells were pre-eminently distinguished, and when the estates of the kingdom (assembled in Edinburgh, 26th August, 1643,) passed an act for the committees of war, and putting the kingdom in a posture of defence, Robert Campbell, of Glenurchie, Sir Duncan Campbell, of Auchinbreck, Duncan Campbell, of Dundron, and Colin Campbell, of Barbreck, were appointed colonels of horse in the sheriffdom of Argyll. Colin Campbell served in other wars besides those of Scotland, as an agreement between himself and his wife's brothers indicates. He afterwards fought and was taken prisoner at the battle of Inverlochy, when the Marquiss of Argyll was defeated by Montrose. "The moon shone so clear," says Wishart, in describing this engagement, "that it was almost as light as day; they lay upon their arms the whole night, and, with the assistance of the light, they so harassed each other with slight alarms and skirmishes, that neither gave the other time to repose. They all earnestly wished for day, only Argyll, more intent on his own safety, conveyed himself away about the middle of the night, and having very opportunely got a boat, escaped the hazard of a battle, choosing rather to be a spectator of the prowess of his men, than share in the danger himself. Nevertheless, the chiefs of the Campbells, who are indeed a set of very brave men, and worthy of a better chief, and a better cause, began the battle with great courage. But their first ranks discharging their muskets only once, Montrose's men fell upon them sword in hand, with a great shout, and advanced with such impetuosity, that they routed the whole army, and put them to flight, and pursued them for about nine miles, making dreadful slaughter all the way. There were fifteen hundred of the enemy slain, among whom were several gentlemen of distinction of the name of Campbell, who led on the clan, and fell on the field of battle, too gallantly for their dastardly chief. Montrose, though an enemy, pitied their fate, and used his authority to save and give quarter to as many as he could. In this battle Montrose had several wounded, but he had none killed but three privates, and Sir Thomas Ogilvie, son of the earl of Airlly; while Argyll lost the lairds of Auchinbreck, Glensaddell, and Locknell, with his son and brother; and BARBRECK, Inneraw, Lamont, Silvercraigs, and many others prisoners." Colin Campbell left two sons, DONALD and Duncan; by the elder,

DONALD CAMPBELL, of Barbreck, he was succeeded about the year 1648, although the saine in his favor, as heir to the estate, is not dated until about two years afterwards. This laird was appointed in 1648, by the convention of the Scotch estates, one of the colonels of Horse for the county of Argyll, and in the act passed in 1661 by the parliament, for "raising the annuities of 40,000 lib. sterling, granted to his majesty, Donald Campbell, of Barbreck, is nominated one of the parliamentary commissioners to carry it into effect in the county of Argyll. For several years subsequently, Barbreck was entrusted by the Scottish parliament with various duties of importance; but in 1686, being involved in the misfortunes of the ill-fated earl of Argyll, the lands and barony of BARBRECK were forfeited and granted to Sir James Steuart, of Bute, and to render this grant effectual, the Scottish parliament passed an act of Ratification in favor of Sir James. No actual possession followed, however, on this parliamentary ratification; for we find in the year after the Revolution, that WILLIAM and MARY, by their commissioners, issued a proclamation

* In the genealogies of the family of Argyll, written in 1777, by Mr. Duncanson, of Inverary, this JOHN is styled John Annan, or weak John; and the same author thus proceeds, "some reckon John Annan to have been the eldest son, and, by advice, to have resigned the estate to his brother, reserving for himself the straight of Craignish. From this John Annan is descended the old family of BARBRECK."

for calling together the militia on this side of the Tay, and amongst other nominations, Archibald Campbell, younger of Berbreck, appointed captain. To Donald succeeded his son, ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, of Barbreck. This gentleman continued for many years in possession of the lands and barony of Barbreck, but from the persecutions to which he and his family had been so long subject, during the disturbances of Scotland, and the heavy fine which had been imposed on his father, Barbreck was compelled to borrow money from Lord Breadalbane and others, which led eventually to an attempt on their part to sell a portion of the Barbreck property, but this was resisted by the Duke of Argyll, who considering that the proceeding had violated the charter by which the lands were originally held, claimed their reversion to himself as chief of the clan. The case was heard, by appeal, before the House of Lords, in 1732, and decided* in favour of his Grace, who thus obtained possession of the estate.† Archibald Campbell espoused Barbara, daughter of Sir Dugald Stewart, sheriff of Bute, and sister to James, first Earl of Bute, by whom he had issue,

JAMES, his heir.

JOHN, successor to his brother.

The elder son,

JAMES CAMPBELL, esq. of Barbreck,‡ wedded his cousin, Isabel, daughter of John Campbell, esq. of Castle Hill, sheriff of Caithness, but leaving no surviving issue (his only son had died abroad unmarried), the representation of the family devolved upon his brother,

JOHN CAMPBELL, esq. of Barbreck, who m. Elizabeth Hay, co-heiress of her uncle, — Hay, esq. who possessed an estate called Hartfield, and to which there belonged a valuable salmon fishery, near Tain, in Rothshire. By this lady he had (with three daughters, the eldest married to — Stewart, esq. of Kilwhinlock, and the second to Colonel Campbell, of Saddle,) two sons, CHARLES,

* This judgment, which has been since considered peculiarly harsh and severe, occurred only about fifteen years before the passing of an act abolishing the arbitrary right, under which the claim was established.

† This property, or rather that part containing the site of the old mansion of Barbreck, was afterwards, in 1754, bought by another Archibald Campbell, who subsequently disposed of it to General Campbell, of Ballimore, who left it to his nephew, General Campbell, of Lochnell.

his heir, and Lionel, who wedded a daughter of Sir James Campbell, bart. of Auchenebreck, and d. in 1804. The elder son, COLONEL CHARLES CAMPBELL, of Barbreck, inherited that portion of Hartfield which belonged to his mother; and his aunt Mary conveyed to him the remainder: the whole of which he subsequently sold to David Ross, esq. of Inverchasly (afterwards a Scotch judge, by the title of Lord Anker-ville). Colonel Campbell also possessed property in the Isle of Bute, held of the crown, and acquired, by purchase (principally in 1767), a considerable estate in Argyllshire. He wedded, in 1750, Miss D. Morgan, and had (with two daughters, one of whom died single, and the other married, David Campbell, esq. of Combie) three sons, viz.

1. DONALD, his heir.

2. Laurence, b. in 1753, a captain in the army, originally of the Scots Greys, and afterwards of the 71st Highlanders; in which latter regiment he served, and was wounded, during the American war. He died in 1824.

3. Charles, a major-general in the army, b. in 1762, and d. in 1822.

Colonel Campbell died in 1792, and was s. by his eldest son,

DONALD CAMPBELL, esq. of Barbreck, b. in 1751. This gentleman, having at an early age adopted the military profession, was distinguished, under General Mathews, in India, and, while a prisoner in Bidanore, acquired such an influence over the governor, that he hastened at a very critical moment the surrender of that important fortress. Captain Campbell wedded in 1778, Mary Campbell, a daughter of Lord Frederick Campbell, by whom he had issue,

FREDERICK-WILLIAM, his heir.

John, b. in 1786, who lost his life while serving with Lord Keith on board H. M. S. Queen Charlotte, which was burnt off Leghorn, 17th March, 1800.

Captain Campbell, who was sixteenth "of Barbreck," died in 1804, and was succeeded by his only surviving child, the present FREDERICK-WILLIAM CAMPBELL, esq. of Barbreck, who has disposed of his estate in Argyllshire, retaining only a superiority, to connect him with the country where so many of his ancestors were actively engaged.

Lineage.

This family deduces its line from a common ancestor with the noble and potent houses of the Geraldines, or Fitz Gerald's, of Ireland, and the Gerards and Carews of England, (see pedigree of Carew, p. 266,) being all descended from GERALD DE WINDSOR, constable of Pembroke, and governor of South Wales, who, by Nesta, his wife, daughter of Rhys-ap-Tudur, Prince of South Wales, had three sons, viz.

William, ancestor of the Lords Gerard, of England, and Earls of Kerry, in Ireland.

MAURICE.

David, who was consecrated Bishop of St. Davids about the year 1147, and d. in 1176.

The second son,

MAURICE FITZ GERALD, was one of the soldiers of fortune who accompanied STRONGBOW into Ireland, in 1168; he d. in the year

1177, and was buried in the Abbey of Grey Friars, at Wexford. He had five sons and a daughter,

1. GERALD FITZ MAURICE, Lord Justiciary of Ireland, ancestor of the Earls of Kildare, now Dukes of Leinster.
2. THOMAS, who m. Ellinor, daughter of Jordan de Montmorenci, Lord of Huntspil, a branch of the great French house of Montmorenci, and was progenitor of the house of DESMOND, from which OSBER, or OSBORN, the founder of the family before us, descended.
3. Alexander.
4. Maurice.
5. Walter.
6. Nesta, m. to Hervey de Montmorenci, Constable of Ireland, brother to Jordan, mentioned above.

From the second son, THOMAS, sprang the house of DESMOND, and a branch from that numerous sept was established in Wales, by

OSBER, or OSBORN, frequently denominated FITZGERALD, but more commonly called by the Welsh heralds, WYDDEL, (the Irishman,) who emigrated from Ireland, his native country, about the middle of the thirteenth century, for the purpose, probably, of supporting LEWELYN, the reigning monarch of the Welch, in his contests with the English king. Osborn subsequently obtained, in requital of his services, the grant of an extensive territory in the county of Merioneth. He had two sons, EINION AP OSBORN, who had four sons, but of their descendants, if any be extant, nothing is now known, and CYNRIC AP OSBORN, who, on the division of his father's lands, according to the custom of Gravel kind, prevalent in Wales until the passing of the ordinance for the better government of that country in the parliament of the 34th and 35th of HENRY VIII., inherited, as a portion of his share, the domain of Cors-y-gedol, in Merionethshire. His issue were,

The elder son,

LEWELYN AP CYNRIC, wedded Nest, or Nesta, one of the daughters and co-heirs of Griffith ap Adda,* of Dolgoch, in the same county, by whom he had GRIFFITH, Jerwerth, Einion, Angharad, and Janet. The eldest son,

4. Mali, m. to Howel Sele, of Nanney, who was slain† in a quarrel with Owen Glyndwr. The hollow oak in which the body of Howel was imured by Glyndwr was standing until October, 1813, and is the subject of a beautiful engraving, from a sketch made by Sir R. C. Hoare, bart. the day on which the venerable tree fell to the ground.
5. Tibod, m. first, to Howel ap Jevan ap Jorwerth, of Cynlleth, secondly, to Jevan Vaughan ap Jevan, and thirdly to Griffith ap Blethin, of Mold, by whom she was mother of Reinold ap Griffith, a zealous partisan of the house of Lancaster.

1. DAVID AP JEVAN AP EINION, who was constituted during the ascendancy of the House of Lancaster, Constable of the Castle of Harlech, in Merionethshire.† Hg m. Margaret, dau. of John

† A descriptive poem, on the death of Howel, by the Rev. Mr. Warrington, is printed in the notes to Sir Walter Scott's Marmion.

‡ His defence of this fortress against the forces of EDWARD IV. is thus noticed in the autobiography of the celebrated Lord Herbert of Chisbury. "Sir Richard Herbert being employed together with his brother William, Earl of Pembroke, to reduce certain rebels in North Wales, Sir Richard Herbert besieged a principal person of them at Harlech Castle in Merionethshire. The captain of this place had been a soldier in the wars of France, whereupon he said he had kept a castle in France so long, that he made the old women in Wales talk of him, and that he would keep this castle so long that he would make the old women in France talk of him; and indeed as the place was almost impregnable but by famine, Sir Richard Herbert was constrained to take him by composition, he surrend'ring himself upon condition that Sir Richard Herbert should do what he could to save his life; which being accepted, Sir Richard brought him to King EDWARD IV. desiring his Highness to give him a pardon, since he yielded up a place of importance, which he might have kept longer upon this hope; but the King replying to Sir Richard Herbert, that he had no power by his commission to pardon any, and therefore might after the representation hereof to his Majesty, safe deliver him up to justice, Sir Richard Herbert answered he had not yet done the best he could for him, and therefore most humbly desired his Highness to do one of two things, either to put him again in the castle where he was, and command some other to take him

The fifth son,

RHYS AP JEVAN, married Gwenhwyvar, daughter and co-heir of Howel Vaughan, of Fronoleu, in the county of Carnarvon, lineally descended from Owen Gwynedd, Sovereign Prince of North Wales, and had two sons, JEVAN and Rhyderch. The elder,

JEVAN AP RHYS, living on the 4th March, 1513, m. Laurea, daughter and heiress of Richard Bamville, of Glynn, in Merionethshire, Constable of Harlech Castle, and had (with two daughters, one the wife of Morgan ap Robert, the other, supposed to be Catherine, m. to William, or John, ap Madoc Vychan), a son and successor,

The King finding himself urged thus far, gave Sir Richard Herbert the life of the said captain, but wital he bestowed no other reward for his service."

It is proved by the rolls of parliament, that David had continued to hold the fortress against the royal mandate to deliver it up, for the space of three years, and tradition assigns to him a much longer defence. Famine obliged him at length to surrender. During his custody of the castle (in 1463,) the virtuous but inebecile HENRY VI. and his high minded and spirited Queen found refuge within its walls.

WILLIAM ALINGTON, esq. high sheriff of the counties of Cambridge and Huntingdon, in the reign of EDWARD IV., descended from Sir Hildebrand de Alington, under marshal to WILLIAM the Conqueror at Hastings, wedded Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of John de Argentine, fifth Baron Argentine, and thus acquired the manor of Wigmondley, in the county of Hertford, held in grand sergeanty, by service of presenting the first cup at the coronation of the kings of England; which service was claimed and allowed at the coronation of King JAMES II. and has ever since been performed by the lords of that manor. From this William Alington and Elizabeth de Argentine, lineally descended,

SIR GILES ALINGTON, high sheriff of the counties of Cambridge and Huntingdon, 3rd and 11th of HENRY VIII. who m. Mary, only daughter and heiress of Sir Richard Gardiner, and had with other issue,

1. GILES, of Horsheath, in the county of Cambridge; high sheriff of that shire, in 22nd of HENRY VIII. and of Huntingdon in the 37th of the same monarch. Mr. Arlington appears to have attended King HENRY VIII. as master of the ordnance at the siege of Bullogne, by the inscription of a clock which he brought from that siege, and affixed over the offices at Horseheath Hall, in which was the alarm bell of the garrison of Bullogne. His direct descendant,

WILLIAM, of Horseheath Hall, was elevated to the peerage of Ireland as BARON ALINGTON of Killard, on the 28th July, 1642.

Lord Alington was s. by his son, William, second baron, who was created a peer of England, 5th December, 1682, by the title of BARON ALINGTON, of Wymondeley, in the county of Herts. His only son and successor in 1684,

GILES ALINGTON, third lord dying in minority, anno 1691, the English peerage expired, while that of Ireland reverted to his uncle, the Hon. Hildebrand Alington. (See Burke's Extinct Peerage.)

ABNEY, OF MEASHAM HALL.

ABNEY, WILLIAM WOTTON, esq. of Measham Hall, in the county of Derby, b. 5th January, 1807, m. 6th May, 1828, Helen-John-Sinclair, eldest daughter of James Buchanan, esq. of Blair-Vadock, in the county of Dumbar-ton, by Lady Janet Sinclair, his wife, daughter of James, late Earl of Caithness.

Mr. Abney inherited the estates at the decease of his grandfather, in 1827.

Lineage.

The family of ABNEY, originally D'Aubigny, is of great antiquity in the county of Derby, where they were seated at Abney in the Peak, (to which doubtless they gave the name) about the time of the Conquest.

JOHN DE ABENEY, living at Wivelislie, in the year 1318, was father of

WILLIAM DE ABENEY, whose son,

JOHN DE ABENEY, espoused about the year 1400, the elder co-heir of William de Ingwardeby, of Willesley,* and acquired thereby, the manors of Willesley, and Potlock, in Derbyshire, with lands in Packing-

* The family of Wiveleslie, (the ancient name of Willesley) was possessed of the lordship at a very early period. In the year 1160,

MICHAEL DE WIVELESIE was lord of the manor, and granted lands to John de Yngwereby, then living at Willesley. The son of this John,

WILLIAM DE INGWEREBY, wedded about the year 1290, ALBRED A DE WIVELESIE, daughter of MICHAEL, and sister of Ado de Wiveleslie, and obtained the rest of the lands together with the lordship. They were succeeded by their son, NICHOLAS DE INGWEREBY, whose grandson,

WILLIAM DE INGWARDREBY, left two daughters, co-heirs to his estates. The elder married JOHN DE ABENEY, as in the text; the younger espoused Thomas Stokes, esq. of Tamworth.

WILLIAM DE ABENEY, lord of Willesley, who was s. by his son,

JOHN DE ABENEY, who d. in 1505, and was s. by his son,

GEORGE DE ABENEY, of Willesley, who wedded Ellen, daughter of John de Wolseley, of Wolseley, in the county of Stafford, and had, with other issue,

1. George, d. s. p.

2. JAMES, of Willesley, who m. Mary, daughter and heir of Henry Milward, esq. of Dowbridge, and was father of

GEORGE, who wedded Margaret, daughter and co-heir of Michael Lowe, esq. of Tymore, in the county of Stafford, and dying at the advanced age of ninety-five, in 1645, was s. by his eldest son,

JAMES, of Willesley, high-sheriff of the county of Derby in 1631, and member of parliament for Leicester. This gentleman espoused Jane, daughter of Edward Mainwaring, esq. of Whitmore, in the county of Stafford, and was s. at his decease, aged ninety-four, by his eldest surviving son,† † THOMAS ABENEY, his younger son, settled in the city of London, and filled the highest municipal offices. He was chosen alderman in 1693, and in that year was one of the sheriffs. In 1700 he attained the civic chair, and was subsequently elected to parliament by the city. He was knighted by King WILLIAM, having during his mayoralty, rendered important services to him and to the protestant cause, and was one of the principal founders of the Bank of England. Sir Thomas died aged eighty-three, father of the City of London, president of St. Thomas's Hospital, and one of the directors of the Bank of England. He m. Mary, sister and co-heir of Thomas Gunston, an eminent merchant of London, and lord of the manor of Stoke Newington, and left one son and three daughters, all of whom died issueless.

EDWARD (Sir), LLD. a judge of the court of King's Bench, high sheriff of the county of Derby, and M. P. for Leicester, who died in 1631, aged ninety-six. His second son, and eventual representative,

THOMAS (Sir), an eminent lawyer, and one of the judges of the Common Pleas, died of the remarkable jail fever in 1750, and was s. by his only son,

THOMAS, who m. Parnell, dau. and co-heir of George Villiers, esq. of Hanbury, in the county of Stafford, and dying in 1790, left an only dau. and heir, PARNELL ABNEY, who m. General SIR CHARLES HASTINGS bart. and conveyed the estate of Willesley to her husband. She was mother of the present SIR CHARLES ABNEY-HASTINGS, bart.

3. ROBERT.

The third son,

ROBERT ABNEY, esq. who obtained from his father the estate of Newton Burguland, m. Arthurine, daughter of Robert Howe, esq. of Hertfordshire, and dying in 1602, left a son and successor,

THOMAS ABNEY, esq. of Newton Burguland, who wedded Anne, daughter of Robert Smith, esq. of Lockington, and had issue,

ROBERT, who d. s. p.
THOMAS.

The second son,

THOMAS ABNEY, esq. settled in London, and became eventually heir of his brother. He wedded first, Anne, daughter of George Ullock, esq. of Measham, in the county of Derby, and had a son, Thomas. He espoused secondly, Susannah, daughter of George Swindale, esq. of Ashby-de-la-Zouche, and had, with other issue, a son, ROBERT ABNEY, esq. born in 1672, who m. Mary, second daughter of W. Webb, esq. of Hamstal, Redware, in the county of Stafford, and had issue,

1. ROBERT, of Oldbury, near Birmingham, who left an only daughter and heiress, SUSANNAH, second wife of Roger Holmes, esq. of Walsall.

2. George, whose line is now EXTINCT.

3. WILLIAM, of whom presently.

The third son,

WILLIAM ABNEY, esq. of the Inner Temple, purchased the estate of MEASHAM, and erected the family mansion there. This gentleman b. 25th November, 1713, lived like many of his predecessors to an advanced period of life, and died, after filling all the duties of a country gentleman in the most exemplary manner, at the age of eighty-seven, in the year 1800. Mr. Abney was one of the last of that old fashioned race of English proprietors, who now only survive amongst the writers of Romance. After refusing a seat upon the BENCH, he resided constantly upon his estate in the country, performing all the duties of a magistrate firmly, humanely, and actively. His chief pleasure arose from expending little upon himself, and assisting his poorer neighbours, maintaining at the same time a most hospitable establishment; all within his immediate vicinity, tenantry and neighbours were alike welcomed with a truly patriarchal reception. His carriage, built at the coronation of George III. was drawn by four long tailed horses and driven by a coachman, above fifty years in the family. His domestics had grown grey in his service, and it was curious to see him waited upon by four or five tottering servants of nearly his own age, who regarded him more as a brother than a master. His liveries corresponded with the other parts of his establishment—long shoulder knots, with sleeves and waistcoat pockets of the fashion of the preceding century. He was a man of very vigorous mind, a Whig of the revolution, and in 1793, discoursed of the actors in that great event with the familiarity of a contemporary. His attachment to the House of Hanover was almost idolatrous, and his proudest boast was his having headed a party to oppose the Chevalier when at Derby on his advance southward. The utility of a personage in a local district endowed with so much public spirit, and gifted with a mind so liberally and nobly constructed is attested by the direction which he gave to the fortunes of two men who rose to considerable eminence, and whose course was attended by great national prosperity. The first, WILKES of Measham, distinguished as a cotton spinner, and the partner of the late Sir Robert Peel, was indebted to Mr. Abney for the means of bringing his abilities and industry into activity. The second, William Salt of Tottenham, was one of the children of a numerous family of a widowed tenant of Mr. Abney, whom he first educated, and subsequently apprenticed to the ribbon trade in Coventry. This gentleman, like Wilkes, accumulated a great and honorable fortune.

Mr. Abney,* espoused Catherine, daughter and heiress of Thomas Wotton, esq. of Little Cannons, in the county of Herts, and had four sons and two daughters, viz.

ARCHER, OF TRELASKE.

ARCHER, EDWARD, esq. of Trelaske, in the county of Cornwall, b. 25th April, 1792, m. 2nd August, 1815, Charlotte-Catherine, only child of Charles Harward, esq. of Hayne House, in Devon, and granddaughter of Sir William Chambers, by whom he has issue,

Mr. Archer s. his father in 1822, and served the office of high-sheriff of Cornwall in 1832.

Lineage.

The ARCHERS came over at the time of the Conquest, and the name is to be found in the Battle Abbey Roll. A branch of the family was ennobled, anno 1747, in the person of THOMAS ARCHER, esq. M.P. for Warwick, who was created BARON ARCHER, of Umberlade, in Warwickshire. (See BURKE's Extinct and Dormant Peerage.)

The line more immediately before us appears to have been settled in Cornwall for at least four hundred years, a John Archer having represented Helston in parliament so far back as the time of HENRY VI. During the usurpation of CROMWELL, a presumed member of the Cornish family attained eminence at the bar, and was made serjeant-in-law in 1658, preparatory to his being placed on the bench of the Common Pleas the next year. The elder branch of the Cornish Archers, which was seated near the Lizard, became extinct in the reign of EDWARD IV. when the heiress wedded Leveles of St. Burian, in the church whereof their ensigns are constantly traced in old carved work amongst the quarterings of other families. Upon the extinction of this branch the representation devolved on the Archers of Trelaske.

JOHN ARCHER (whose father married — Swete, of Modbury, in Devon) espoused the sister and heiress of Samuel Addis, of Whiteford, and left, with other issue, at his decease in 1726.

SWETE NICHOLAS ARCHER, esq. of Trelaske, who served the office of sheriff for Cornwall in the year 1758. He m. Anne Basset, sister of Francis Basset, father of Lord de Dunstanville, but dying s. p. was s. by his nephew,

Mr. Archer died at Plymouth, whither he had gone for the benefit of his health, and was buried in the family vault at Lewannick. He was s. at his decease by his brother,

CURWEN, OF WORKINGTON HALL.

CURWEN, HENRY, esq. of Workington Hall, in the county of Cumberland, b. 5th December, 1783, m. 11th October, 1804, Jane, daughter of Edward Stanley, esq. of Whitehaven, and has issue, Julia.

Jane.

Mr. Curwen s. his father on the 9th December, 1828. He is in the commission of the peace for Cumberland, and high sheriff the present year.

Lineage.

"Workington (says Camden) is now the seat of the ancient knightly family of the CURWENS, descended from Gospatric, Earl of Northumberland, who took that name by covenant from Culwen, a family of Galloway, the heir whereof they had married. They have a stately castle-like seat; and from this family (increaseth vanity) I myself am descended by the mother's side."

IVO DE TALBOYS, first Lord of Kendal, brother of Fulk, Earl of Anjou and King of Jerusalem, espoused Elgiva, daughter of our Saxon monarch ETHELDRED, and was father of

ELDRED or ETHELDRED, second feudal Lord of Kendal, who m. Adgitha, and was s. by his son,

KITEL, third Baron of Kendal. This feudal lord married a lady named Christiana, as appears by his grant of the Church of Morland to the Abbey of St. Mary's in York, to which she was a subscribing witness. By her he had issue,

I. GILBERT, successor to the barony of Kendal, whose son,

WILLIAM, assumed, according to Dugdale, from being governor of Lancaster Castle, the surname of LANCASTER. From him descended

JOHN DE LANCASTER, who was summoned to parliament as a BARON in 1299. (See Burke's Extinct Peerage.)

II. ORME.

III. William.

The second son,

ORME, wedded Gunilda, sister of Waldieve, first Lord of Allerdale, son of Gospatrick, Earl of Dunbar, and acquiring by grant from the said Waldieve the manor of Seaton, below Derwent, parcel of the barony of Allerdale, took up his abode there; he had also by the same conveyance the towns of Camberton, Crayksothen, and Flemingby. The walls and ruins of the mansion-house of Seaton, Mr. Denton states to have been visible in his time. Orme was s. by his son, GOSPATRIC, to whom Alan, second Lord of Allerdale, his cousin german, gave High Ireby, which remained vested in a younger branch of the Curwens, which terminated in female heirs. This Gospatric was the first of the family who was Lord of WORKINGTON, having exchanged with his cousin, William de Lancaster, the lordship of Middleton in Westmorland for the lands of Lamplugh and Workington in Cumberland.

In this bargain De Lancaster retained to himself and his heirs an annual rent charge of 6*d.* to be paid at the fair of Carlisle, or a pair of gilt spurs, binding Gospatric and his heirs to do homage, and to discharge his foreign service for the same to the barony or castle of Egremont. Gospatric had, with four younger sons (Gilbert, Adam, Orme, and Alexander), his successor,

THOMAS, called after the fashion of those times, SON OF GOSPATRIC. To this Thomas, one Rowland, son of Ughtred, son of Fergus, gave the lordship of CULWEN, in Galloway. He d. 7th December, 1152, having had issue,

THOMAS, who m. Joan, daughter of Robert de Veteripont, but died in the lifetime of his father, leaving an only daughter, who wedded Harrington, of Harrington.

PATRIC.

Alan, who acquired by gift of his brother Patric the lauds of CAMERTON, and thence deriving their surname, the Camertons descend from him.

This Thomas, son of Gospatric, granted Lamplugh to Robert de Lamplugh and his heirs, to be holden by the yearly presentment of a pair of gilt spurs. To his second son, Patric, he had given, while his eldest son was living, the lordship of CULWEN, in Galloway, and the said Patric assuming his surname therefrom, became

PATRIC DE CULWEN; his elder brother dying subsequently without male issue, he succeeded to the entire estate, and was thenceforward designated "Patric de Culwen, of Workington." He was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS DE CULWEN, of Workington, who was s. at his decease by his brother,

GILBERT DE CULWEN, of Workington, who left, by his wife Editha, a son and heir,

GILBERT DE CULWEN, of Workington, who d. in the third of EDWARD III. and was s. by his son,

SIR GILBERT DE CULWEN, of Workington, who was returned to parliament by the county of Cumberland in the 47th, 48th, and 50th of EDWARD III. He died in the seventh of the next reign, and was s. by his son,

SIR CHRISTOPHER DE CULWEN, of Workington. This gentleman, like his father, represented his native county in several parliaments. He was sheriff of the same shire in the second and twelfth of HENRY VI. by the name of CULWEN, and in the sixth of the same reign by that of CURWEN, to which latter cognomen the family has ever since adhered. Sir Christopher was s. by his son,

SIR THOMAS CURWEN, of Workington, M.P. for Cumberland, who d. 3rd EDWARD IV., and was s. by his son,

SIR CHRISTOPHER CURWEN, of Workington, living temp. HENRY VII. who left at his decease a son and successor,

SIR THOMAS CURWEN, of Workington. This gentleman d. in the 34th of HENRY VIII., and in that year, by an inquisition of knight's fees in Cumberland, it was found that he held the manor of Workington of the king by knight's service, as of his castle of Egremont. He was possessed at the same time of the manor of Thornthwaite, and of one third of Bothill, with the manors of Seaton and Camerton, and divers tenements in Gilerouse, Great Broughton, and Dereham. He was s. by his son,

SIR HENRY CURWEN, of Workington, who had the honor of affording an asylum in his mansion-house to the Queen of Scotland, MARY STUART, when that unhappy princess sought the protection of England, and had the good feeling to treat the fallen sovereign with the deference due to her princely station and the kindness claimed by her misfortunes. The queen remained at Workington until removed by ELIZABETH, first to Cocker mouth Castle and then to Carlisle. The apartment in which her majesty slept bears still the name of the "Queen's Chamber." Sir Henry m. first, Mary, daughter of Sir Nicholas Fairfax, and had a son NICHOLAS, his successor. He wedded, secondly, Jane Crosby, and had

George, who d. s. p.

THOMAS CURWEN, esq. of Workington, at whose decease, unmarried, 25th CHARLES II. the estates passed to his half brother,

ELDRED CURWEN, esq. of Workington, who died the next year, and was s. by his son,

HENRY CURWEN, esq. of Workington. This gentleman dying without issue, his branch of the family expired, when the estates and representation reverted to his cousin, (refer to descendants of Sir Henry Curwen by his second wife, Jane Crosby.)

ELDRED CURWEN, esq. who thus became "of Workington." Mr. Curwen served the office of sheriff of Cumberland in the 3rd of GEORGE II., and represented Cocker mouth in parliament. He died in the 18th of the same reign, and was s. by his son,

HENRY CURWEN, esq. of Workington. This gentleman who was returned to parliament by the city of Carlisle, in 1762, stood for the county of Cumberland at the general election in 1768, and after an unprecedented contest was placed at the head* of the poll, by a considerable majority. Mr. Curwen espoused the daughter of William Gale, esq. of Whitehaven, and had an only daughter and heiress,

ISABELLA CURWEN, who m. JOHN CHRISTIAN, esq. of Unerigg Hall, and conveying to him the lands of the Curwens, he assumed, in 1790, their surname and arms, and thus became

JOHN CHRISTIAN-CURWEN, esq. of Workington. Mr. Christian had been married previously to Miss Taubman, of the Isle of Man, who left at her decease an only son, JOHN CHRISTIAN, esq. of Unerigg Hall, one of the Dempsters of that island. By the heiress of the Curwens (his second wife) he had issue,

HENRY, heir to his mother.

William, in holy orders, rector of Harrington, in Cumberland, now deceased.

Edward, of Belle Grange, in the county of Lancaster.

Mr. Curwen served the office of sheriff for Cumberland in 1784. In 1786, he was returned to parliament for Carlisle, and continued to represent that borough in several parliaments. He became subsequently knight of the shire for Cumberland, and so remained until his decease, on the 9th December, 1828. Mr. Curwen acquired distinction by his rural pursuits and as a practical farmer introduced numerous valuable improvements, under his own immediate superintendence, which gave a novel direction to the business of the agriculturist. He was succeeded at his decease in his own estates by his eldest son, JOHN CHRISTIAN, esq. and in those of the Curwens, by his second son, the present HENRY CURWEN, esq. of Workington Hall.

Lineage.

This family, styled by Camden in his Brittania "the honorable and ancient house of Tyrwhitts, knts.," has been seated for several centuries in the north of England. The first person of the name of whom we have any certain account is SIR HERCULUS, who is said (on the authority of the Vincent and Harleian MSS.) to have been knighted and settled in Northumberland 2nd WILLIAM I. Himself, or his son, bearing the same name, married a daughter of Sir Thomas Scargill, knt. and was living A.D. 1109, 10th HENRY I. This Sir Hercules is stated to have thus acquired the surname of TYRWHITT. Severely wounded in defending a bridge, single handed, against numerous assailants, at the moment he had succeeded in forcing them to retire, he fell exhausted amongst the flags and rushes of an adjoining swamp, while the attention of his party, who in the interim had rallied, was fortunately directed to the spot where he lay by a flock of lapwings (or as called in some counties tyrwhits) screaming and hovering above, as is customary with those birds when disturbed in the vicinity of their nests. Camden, however, in his Remains derives the name from the place so called. The son of Sir Hercules,

SIR ROBERT TYRWHITT, was Lord of Tyrwhitt and Assancke, in Northumberland. He wedded a daughter of Sir John Witherington, and from this marriage descended, through a line of progenitors who allied with the Umfravilles, Lowthers, Harbottles, Ogles, Vauxes, of Gillesland, Nevilles, &c.

ROBERT TYRWHITT, grandson of Sir Oliver, who was grandson of Sir Hercules. This gentleman, who is described (Harl. MSS. 810) as "Robertus Tyrwhit arm de Ketilby, com. Linc. ac Tyrwhitt com. Northumbria," is mentioned in several of the MSS. sometimes as of Tyrwhitt and at others as of Ketilby. He m. Anne, daughter of William Wycliffe, esq. of Wycliffe, a (sister or cousin of the celebrated John Wycliffe, who was succeeded in the mastership of Baliol College, Oxford, by Thomas Tyrwhitt, a cadet of the family,) and had two sons, THOMAS, of Tyrwhitt, who m. a daughter of Alan de Boisterick, and was ancestor of the Tyrwhitts, of Northumberland.

WILLIAM (Sir).

The second son,

SIR WILLIAM TYRWHITT, of Ketilby, in the county of Lincoln, is described in the Harleian MSS. No. 1550, as "Primarius Justicianus Angliæ," but of Sir William's being invested with the chief-justiceship we have no other authority. He m. the daughter and heiress of John Grovale, esq. of Harpswell, in Lincolnshire, and had (with a daughter, Cecilia, who wedded Sir William Newport, knt. and became, after her husband's death, abbess of Ipswich) a son and successor,

SIR ROBERT TYRWHITT, knt. of Ketilby, who was one of the judges of the court of King's Bench, in the reigns of HENRY IV., V., and VI.; his patents, four in number, are dated 8th HENRY IV., 1st HENRY V., 1st HENRY VI., and may be found in Calendarium Patentium, Turri Londinensi. He is named among the "Tireurs des Petitions" to parliament either for England or Gascony and Aquitaine, for every parliament between 9th Henry IV. and 7th Henry VI. That the boldness of the feudal chief, however, strongly predominated in the character of this learned functionary over the meekness of the Christian judge, appears too evident by the following curious extract from Cotton's Records. "13 HENRY IV., William Lord Rosse, of Famlake, complayneth against Robert Tirwhitt, one of the justices of the King's Bench, for withholding from him the manor of Molton Rosse, in Lincolnshire, and laying wait for the sayd Lord Rosse with the number of 500 men. Sir Robert Tirwhitt before the kynge confesseth his fault and craveth pardon, and offeringe to stand to by order of two lords of the kindred of the sayd Lord Rosse as they should choose, whereunto the kynge agreed, and the sayd Lord Rosse chose the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Lord Grey, chamberlaine to the kynge, who made alonge award leaving the right of common of pasture in Wragby in coin. Linc. to the determination of Sir William Gascoigne, chief-justice, and it was enjoyned to the said Sir Robert Tirwhitt that at a day certaine he shod repair at Molton Rosse 2 tunnes of Gascoigne wyne, 2 fatt oxen, and 12 fatt sheepes, and offer reparation. And that he should bring together all knights, esquires, and yeomen, that were of his own, and that they shod all confess their fault and crave pardon, and further offer to the sayd Lord Rosse 500 markes in money, and that the sayde Lorde Rosse should refuse the money, graunt him pardon, and take his dinner only." The whole of the proceedings in this matter, from their commencement by the petition of William Lord Roos to the award of the arbitrators above mentioned, are recorded at great length in the rolls of parliament 13 Henry IV. The details are very curious and throw much light on the manners of that day. The award is an object of particular interest to the philological antiquarian, as being almost the earliest specimen, on record, of English as a written language.

This feud between the families of Rosse (or Roos) and Tyrwhitt continued up to the time of JAMES I. who on the occasion of several lives being lost on both sides in a casual rencontre during a hunting party, caused a gallows to be erected at Molton Rosse, near Belvoir, declaring that he would hang the first like offender on it. This gallows is said to be renewed from time to time, up to the present day, whenever it falls into decay.* Sir Robert had issue,

WILLIAM (Sir), his heir.

John, of Harpswell, who m. the daughter and heiress of Sir — Rolleston, knt. and had four daughters, of whom Elizabeth, espoused John Whichcote, of Whichcote, in Shropshire.

Katherine, m. to Sir John Griffith, knt.

Maud, m. to Sir William de Montresor.

The elder son,

SIR WILLIAM TYRWHITT, knt. of Ketilby, shared in the glories of Agincourt,† and received by royal grant, 8th HENRY V. the Bailiwick of three towns in France; in this grant he is styled "toutissimo dilecto militi meo Willō Tyrwhit." Sir William, who was likewise appointed in the 1st HENRY VI. Seneschal, of certain castles and parks in the county of Lincoln, founded the hospitals of Wranby and Glanford Brigg, in that shire, and the Chantry and Chapelry of Higham, in Essex; was sheriff for Yorkshire, 14th HENRY VI. and one of the Knights of the Body to that monarch. He was s. at his demise, 29th HENRY VI. by his son,

ADAM TYRWHITT, esq. of Ketilby, sometimes styled Sir Adam, knt. This gentleman wedded, first, a dau. of John, second Lord Lumley, and secondly, a dau. of Sir William Newport, knt. by Cecilia, daughter of Sir William Tyrwhitt. His son and successor,

SIR ROBERT TYRWHITT, knt. of Ketilby, received a general pardon, 34th HENRY VI. for all offences he might have committed, and died 36th HENRY VI. possessed of three manors in the county of York, and fifteen in the county of Lincoln, (sic inquis: post mortem) besides divers manors, lands, advowsons, &c. in Nottinghamshire, Essex, Sussex, and London. Sir Robert m. Jane, daughter of Sir Richard Waterton, knt. and was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM TYRWHITT, of Ketilby, who acquired by grant, from RICHARD III. the

SIR ROBERT TYRWHITT, knt. of Ketilby, grantee of Cameringham and Stainfield, at which latter place he built the mansion bearing that name, long the residence of the Stainfield branch of the Tyrwhitts, its first baronets. This gentleman, vice-admiral of England, and a banneret, was seneschal of the priory of Newstead, as also of Elsham, and bailiff of Barton on Humber, 26th HENRY VIII.* He m. Maud, daughter of Sir Robert Tailboys, of Goulton, and had issue,

Robert (Sir), of Leighton Bromswould, in Herts, one of the ecclesiastic commissioners for Lincolnshire, 26th HENRY VIII. who received large grants in the counties of York, Lincoln, Herts, Essex, and Sussex. Sir Robert was sometime Master of the Horse to Queen MARY. He

* About this period the BEVERLEY branch of the TYRWHITTs, descended from Adam Tyrwhitt, second son of Brian Tyrwhitt, of Tyrwhitt, and in the fourth degree from Sir Hercules, became EXTINCT, the great part of their possessions in the counties of York and Lincoln devolving on the Tyrwhitts of Ketilby. A WILLIAM TYRWHITT, of this branch, afterwards Sir William, who married a daughter of John Lord Lumley, was at Agincourt, with three archers; he was son of Robert Tyrwhitt, of Beverley, who died 6th January, 1427, two years before his contemporary, Sir Robert Tyrwhitt, of Ketilby. It appears too that soon after the first Sir William Tyrwhite described as "Primarius Justicianus Angliae," settled at Ketilby, that the lordship of Tyrwhitt, in Northumberland, was usurped by a prior of the order of Knights Hospitalers of St. John, of Jerusalem; it shortly after came into the possession of the Ogles, who were connected with the Tyrwhitts.

Sir Robert's eldest son and heir,

SIR WILLIAM TYRWHITT, knt. seneschal of the priory of Gaykewell, served the office of sheriff for Lincolnshire, 28th HENRY VIII. and, with his brother Robert, was one of the ecclesiastical commissioners for that county, in the 26th of the same reign. Sir William, who obtained large grants from the crown at the dissolution of the monasteries, married a daughter of Sir Robert Girlington, of Normanby, and predeceasing his father in 1541, left issue, speaks:—"Thomas Gataker was a branch of an ancient family so planted, by Divine Providence, at Gatacre Hall, in this county, (Shropshire) that they have flourished the owners thereof, by a non-interrupted succession, from the time of King EDWARD the Confessor. This Thomas, being designed a student for the law, was brought up in the Temple; where, in the reign of Queen MARY, he was often present at the examination of persecuted people. Their hard usage made him pity their persons and admirable patience, and to approve their opinions. This was no sooner perceived by his parents (being of the old persuasion) but instantly they sent him over to Louvaine in the Low Countries, to win him to a compliance to the popish religion, and for his better encouragement, settled on him an estate of one hundred pounds per annum, old rent. All would not do. Whereupon his father recalled him home, and revoked his own grant, to which his son did submit, as unwilling to oppose the pleasure of his parents, though no such revocation could take effect without his free consent. He afterwards devoted his mind from the most profitable to the most necessary study: from law to divinity; and finding friends to breed him in Oxford, he became the profitable pastor of St. Edmund's, in Lombard Street, London, where he died anno 1593, leaving Thomas Gataker, his learned son, heir to his paynes and piety."—The said

This gentleman filled for many years the most influential civil offices in the colony of Honduras, and was appointed, in 1817, one of the royal commissioners for holding the high criminal courts there. He was advocate for the crown on several important occasions, and enjoyed the rank of major in the militia. Having succeeded to the estates of his ancestors, upon the demise of his cousin, Thomas Westby, esq. of Rawcliffe, in 1829, he resigned soon after into the hands of his majesty's secretary of state for the Colonies the civil appointments he then held of Clerk of the Supreme and Lower Courts, and keeper of the records in Honduras.

Lineage.

The family of WESTBYE, or WESTBIE, now written WESTBY, is one of those ancient catholic houses still numerous in Lancashire, which, through good and bad repute, adhered to the faith of their forefathers.

The Westbys were originally from Yorkshire, but had a settlement in Lancashire prior to the conquest, and are of Saxon descent.

In the general survey, the township and lands of Westby are distinctly set forth, as then existing in the hundred of Amounderness, in the north western part of Lancashire. All these lands were once held under the great Saxon chief, TOSTI, the brother of Harold, afterwards by Roger de Poitou the Norman, and are now in the possession of J. Clifton, esq. of Lytham.

The WESTBYS have, at various periods, held lands at Mowbreck, near Kirkham. Bourn, in Poulton, Much Urswick, in Furness, in Alston, Balderston Thorton, Thornton Stanoe, and Great and Little Eccleston, in the county of Lancaster, and at Westby, near Gisbourn, in Yorkshire, but they have been deprived of the greater portion of these broad and fertile domains, by religious persecutions, and for their active zeal in support of the ill fated house of STUART.

In 1233,

GILBERT WESTBYE was sheriff of Lancashire: from him descended

WILLIAM WESTBIE, esq. of Westbie, in the county of York, living temp. HENRY VII. who was father of

WILLIAM WESTBIE, esq. of Westbie, who in 1553, when a muster of soldiers was made in the county palatine of Lancaster, and when the hundred of Amounderness furnished three hundred men to her majesty, was appointed one of the commanders. He m. a daughter of Regmaiden of Wideacre, and was s. by his son,

JOHN WESTBYE, of Westbye, who was granted, in the 2nd of ELIZABETH, a crest by a curious patent, which sets forth at some length, the origin of armorial bearings, heralds and officers of arms, and states that John Westbye had long been "in nobleness bearing arms." This gentleman seems to have been a bold and stirring man, for when ELIZABETH found that the reformation had rather retrograded than advanced in Lancashire, and that her commissioners, with the bishop of the diocese at their head, made but small progress in the work, her majesty, in 1567, issued a royal reproof to the bishop in her usual style of decision, reminding him of his duty, and requiring his vigilant performance in forcing a conformity to common prayer, &c. It appears by his lordship's reply, that the mandate of the haughty queen, when applied to this John Westby, was treated with scorn and contempt, instead of the submission and thanks with which it had been received by many, and his name was sent up to the council as one not unlikely to promote resistance, and who would willingly lose blood in those matters. Nevertheless, a few years after, when the nation's strength was called out for the general welfare, this John appears to have arrayed himself and furnished the queen with his quota of light horse, coat of plate, pike, long bowes, shafts of arrows, steel caps, and other armour. (Subsequently to this period, a further patent or certificate was granted by the college of arms, temp. JAMES II., setting forth that "this family were gentlemen of blood and coat of armour, and lineally descended from the principal male branch of the ancient family of Westbye, of Westbye, in Yorkshire, and that since their coming into Lancashire, they had matched with some of the chiefest families of the county, and their pedigree and arms are registered in the visitation of Yorkshire in 1584, and three several visitations of Lancashire made in 1613 and 1665.") This John Westby espoused Ellyn, daughter of Kirby, of Rawcliffe, in the county of Lancaster, and had one son and two daughters, viz.

THOMAS, his heir.

Mary, m. to Thomas Hesketh, son and heir of Hugh Hesketh, esq. of the Maynes.

Ellyn, m. to Robert Molyneux, esq. of the Wood.

The only son and heir,

THOMAS WESTBY, esq. styled in the pedigree "of Mouldbury, or Mowbreck," alienated in 1610, all the Westby lands in Much Urswick within Furness, by granting leases for 1000 years, on the compliance of most eccentric observances and dues, which are still paid, and at something like pepper corn rents. He m. twice, first, Perpetua, daughter of Edward Norris, esq. of Speke, in Lancashire, and secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Preston, esq. of Holkar. By the first he had, with three daughters, five sons, viz.

JOHN, who m. in 1619, Dorothy, dau. of Richard Brathwayte, esq. of Burnside, in the county of Westmoreland, but dying s. p. settled, by deed dated 10th July, 1662, the estates of Mowbreck and Burne, in Lancaster and Westbye, in Yorkshire, on his nephew, Thomas, with remainder to his half-brothers, George and Robert.

Thomas, a medical man, who d. fighting for the king, (CHARLES I.) in the latter wars, without issue.

Edward, } both d. s. p.
William, }

Francis, of Myrscough, b. about the year 1624, who m. Ann, daughter of Richard Bakehouse, esq. of Myrscough, in Lancashire, and had four sons and six daughters, all of whom died s. p. excepting Perpetua, m. to Richard Blackburn, esq. of Thistleton, and his eldest son and successor.

THOMAS, of Burne, b. in 1641, who m. twice, first, in 1661, Bridget, daughter of Thomas Clifton, esq. of Westby and Lytham, in Lancashire, and secondly, Margaret, daughter of — Braithwaite, esq. of the county of Westmoreland. He d. about the year 1649, leaving (with other issue, who d. unmarried) two sons, viz.

I. JOHN, of Mowbreck and Burne, b. in 1662, who m. in 1688, Jane, dau. of Christopher Parker, esq. of Bradkirk Hall, in Lancashire, and had four daughters,

1. CATHARINE, married to Alexander Osbaldiston, esq. of Sunderland Hall.

2. BRIDGET, who wedded William Shuttleworth, esq. of Turn-over-Hall, Upper Rawcliffe, Lancashire, and had an only daughter,

MARGARET, who inherited her mother's portion of the Mowbreck estates. She espoused, in 1744, THOMAS WESTBY, esq. of White Hall, and thus after a lapse of more than one hundred years reunited the Mowbreck and Rawcliffe branches.

3. MARY, m. to the Rev. Mr. Alderson.

4. ANN, m. to the Rev. John Bennison.

II. ROBERT, who inherited the estates of his brother John. At this gentleman's decease, s. p. m. in 1762, Mowbreck and Burne devolved on his four nieces as co-heirs;

but the Yorkshire property never having been diverted by any deed from that prescribed by lineal descent in the heirs male, consequently passed to the then existing eldest male descendant of George Westby, of Rawcliffe, eldest son of Thomas Westby, of Mowbreck, by his second marriage.

By his second wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Preston, esq. of Holkar, he had five sons and a daughter,

GEORGE, who founded the RAWCLIFFE branch of which we are about to treat.

Robert, who resided at Killington, in the county of Westmoreland.

Charles, } who in 1664 were serving
Bernard, } in the Life Guards.

Richard, who lived at Wynder, in Lancashire. He m. Jenette, daughter of Bryan Taylor, esq. of Milthope, and had three daughters.

Elizabeth.

Thomas Westby, (the elder) of Mowbreck, having purchased, temp. CHARLES I., Rawcliffe (now White) Hall, from the Kirby family, settled that estate on his eldest son by his second marriage,

GEORGE WESTBY, esq. of Rawcliffe, who attained the rank of major in the army. The family had taken, with the Kirbys and others, too active a part in the misfortunes of their unhappy sovereign not to feel the pressure of his enemies, and their estates of Rawcliffe were seized by the parliament, and in September, 1653, were sold by the commissioners, as being forfeited for treason to the state. They were repurchased by friends, but as the Westbys were catholics and labouring under the then tyrannical disabilities regarding the tenure of land, the titles were taken in the name of Protestants, and by repeated transfers thus secured. It was not until many years after that Major Westby was known to be the real owner of these estates. He wedded, first, about the year 1650, Margaret, daughter of Thomas Hesketh, esq. of Mayne, in Lancashire, and had one son,

JOHN, his heir.

He m. secondly, a lady named Rosomond, by whom he had issue,

THOMAS, who settled at Clonmel, in Ireland, and hence sprang, it is presumed, a large and highly respectable family, seated in the county of Tipperary.

Elizabeth.

Ann.

Major Westby was s. at his demise, by his eldest son,

JOHN WESTBY, esq. of Rawcliffe, who m. in 1684, Jane, daughter of Thomas Bleasdale, esq. of Alston, in the county of Lancaster, and had issue,

Thomas, b. 30th July, 1757, inherited, as heir at law to his cousin, Thomas Westby, esq. of White Hall, the landed property of Eccleston and Turn Over Hall, which that gentleman had purchased after making his will. Mr. Thomas Westby has by deed settled those estates on his younger children. He m. 7th February, 1787, Ann, dau. of John Ashley, esq. of London, a branch of the Shropshire family of that name, and has surviving issue,

1. GEORGE, now of "White Hall."

Turn Over Hall, in Lancashire, by Bridget, his wife, daughter and co-heir of John Westby, esq. of Mowbreck. This lady inherited her mother's fourth share of the Mowbreck estates, and this alliance united the descendants of the children of the first and second marriage of Thomas Westby, of Mowbreck, the common ancestor who had then been dead more than one hundred years. By the co-heiress of Mowbreck, (who died at an advanced age, in 1806) Mr. Westby, had issue, his younger brother, Thomas. William dying, however, unmarried, in 1811, two days previously to John, the whole of the possessions devolved on

THOMAS WESTBY, esq. of Rawcliffe and Mowbreck, who greatly improved the property, by purchasing three other estates, named Boggery Gate, Eccleston Hall, and Turnover Hall, the seat of his maternal ancestors. He died unmarried, 17th of November, 1829, and devised Rawcliffe, Mowbreck, and Boggery Gate, to the present GEORGE WESTBY, esq. grandson of his uncle GEORGE. Lineage.

The family of WILLIAMS, traditionally of Welch extraction, were seated at Perry Court, parish of Stourminster Newton, in the county of Dorset, about the beginning of HENRY VI.'s reign. It is not precisely ascertained by what means they became first possessed of Herringston (formerly Winterbourn Herring) but it is evident that they had been established there for two generations at least before the marriage of Robert Williams, with the co-heiress of De la Lynde, through which alliance they obtained the representation of the HERRINGS, anciently lords of that manor, and from whom it had derived its additional designation.*

JOHN WILLIAMS, of Perry Court, temp. HENRY VI. died in 1464, and was s. by his son,

JOHN WILLIAMS, of Perry Court, who died in 1493. He was father of another

* "The family of De la Lynde," says Coker, "were men of great note in these parts," of whom Robert De la Lynde was living temp. HENRY II. They were seated at an early period at HARTLEY, in the parish of Great Mentern, acquired in marriage with the heiress of a family of that name, where they continued until the co-heiress of Herring conveyed to them, as stated, CLENSTON.

"Kings Stagge Bridge," (in the parish of East Pulham, in the county of Dorset) "got that name upon this occasion: King HENRY III. having disported himselfe in the Forrest of Blackmore, hee spared one beautifull and goodlie white harte, which afterwards Sir De la Lynde, a neighbouring gentleman of antient descent and especiall note, with his companions pursuing killed at this place; but hee soone founde howe dangerous it was to bee twitching a lion by the eares: for the king tooke soe great indignation against him, that hee not onlie punished them with imprisonment and a grievous fine of money, but for this fact hee taxed their lands; the owners of which yearlie vntill this daye paye a rounde summe of money by waye of amercement unto the Exchequer called white harte silver. The posteritie of this man ever after gave for their arms white hartes heads in a red shielde, and the Forrest alsoe from that time beganne to lose its antient name, and to bee called the Forrest of Whiteharte."—Coker's Survey of Dorset.

* "The SYWARDS, at a very remote period, possessors of the Hamlet of Herringston, were a family of great antiquity, and held lands in the county of Dorset, before the conquest. "The ancient and knightly family of Herring, or Harang, was of considerable note, and had possessions in this country." (Ibid.) They were seated at Chaldon-Herring, as early as the reign of King JOHN. MORAY, OF ABERCAIRNY.

MORAY, JAMES, esq. of Abercairny, in the county of Perth, a justice of the peace and deputy-lieutenant for that shire, formerly captain of the 15th Dragoons, and afterwards lieutenant-colonel of the Perthshire Local Militia, espoused Elizabeth, daughter of General Sir William Erskine, bart. of Torrie. He succeeded to the estates at the decease of his father in 1810.

Lineage.

The great house of MORAY, or MURRAY, whose acknowledged chieftainship is now vested in ABERCAIRNY, derives from

FRESKINE, a Fleming, who settled in Scotland during the reign of DAVID I., and acquired from that monarch the lands of Strathbrock, in the county of Linlithgow. "Soon after the insurrection of the Moraymen in 1130," says Chalmers, "Freskine, who probably contributed by his skill and bravery to the subduement of those ancient people, obtained from the same prince some of the most fertile districts of the Lowlands of MORAY," including Duffies, Inshkiel, Rosile, &c., and erected a fortalice at Duffies, where he resided, and where the massy ruins of the castle are still to be seen. Freskine was s. in 1158, by his only son,

WILLIAM DE MORAVIA, as appears from a charter, granted under the great seal, by WILLIAM the Lion, "Willielmo, filio Freskini, scilicet terras quas Freskine, pater suus, tenuit, tempore regis David avi mei." He left two sons, namely,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Hugh, who obtained from his father the lands of Duffus. He had a son, Walter, who is frequently mistaken for Walter, the son of William. He is witness to a charter in the chartulary of Moray, in which there is a donation made to the church of Spynie, and is designed—"Domino Waltero de Moravia, filio quondam Hugonis de Moravia."

The elder son and heir,

WILLIAM DE MORAVIA, according to numerous grants and other deeds, in the archives of the episcopal see of Moray, s. his father in 1200, in those records he is described "Willielmus filius Willielmi filii Friskini." He subsequently made a donation to the church of Spynie, as appears by a charter in the chartulary of Moray, wherein he states that "Hugone, fratre meo," is a witness. He seems to have wedded the daughter and heiress of David de Olifard, justiciary of Loudoun, in the reign of ALEXANDER II., to have acquired by her the lands of BOTHWELL, and to have had* a son and heir,

WALTER DE MORAVIA, who succeeded his father in 1226, and was the first of this family designed by the title of "Bothwell." In a deed in the chartulary of Moray, this Walter is stated to be the son of William, and in a charter of confirmation granted by ALEXANDER II. anno 1248, and by another deed, in 1253, it is evident that David de Olifard was the successor of Walter de Moravia, and the ancestor of Walter de Moravia, which two deeds are taken from the chartularly of Glasgow, and are in the possession of the family of Panmure.

Walter de Moravia wedded a daughter of Duncan, earl of Fife, and had two sons, WILLIAM and ANDREW, by the elder of whom,

SIR WILLIAM DE MORAVIA, Dominus de Bothwell, he was succeeded in 1284. He died, however, without issue, in 1293, and was s. by his brother,

SIR ANDREW MORAY, of Bothwell, who is styled Sir William's son, by Crawford, but erroneously, as appears from the last clause in Sir Williams' mortification of the church of Wallyston, to the see of Glasgow, in which Andrew appends his seal to the deed, as his brother's presumptive heir, "Sigillum nostrum apposimus," saith Sir William, "et sigillum Domini Andrea Moravia, fratris nostri, apponi procuravimus." Sir Andrew Moray, who was joint governor of the kingdom, distinguished himself as the associate of WALLACE, when that illustrious patriot reared the standard of national independence. He m. a daughter of Sir John Cumin, Lord of Badenach, and falling at the battle of Stirling, left issue,

- i. ANDREW (Sir), who succeeded at Bothwell. He espoused the Lady Christian Bruce, sister of King ROBERT I. of Scotland, and had two sons,

JOHN, } successively lords of THOMAS, } Bothwell. The elder dying without issue, and the younger, Thomas, leaving an only daughter and heiress, JEAN, m. to Archibald, Lord of Galloway, afterwards Earl of Douglas, the representation of the family devolved on the posterity of WILLIAM MORAY, of Drumsargard.

- ii. WILLIAM, of Drumsargard.

* Besides WALTER, his heir, this William had other sons, "who," continues Chalmers, "propagated the name of MORAY, by founding other houses, one of which was the MURRAYS, of Tullibardine, now represented by the duke of Athol."

The second son,

SIR WILLIAM MORAY, obtained the barony of DRUMSARGARD, from his uncle, Sir William, and we find him frequently designed by that title, in his father's lifetime. In 1290, his name appears amongst the signatures of a great portion of the Scottish nobles, affixed to a letter to EDWARD I. concerning a marriage between Queen MARGARET of Scotland, and Prince EDWARD of England, and in 1296, he took the oath of fealty to the English monarch. Sir William died in about four years after, and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN MORAY, designed in many authentic writs, Dominus de Drumsargard, a personage of great influence at the period in which he lived. He wedded in 1299, the Lady Mary, only daughter of Malise, sixth earl of Strathern, by whom he acquired the lands of ABERCAIRNY, Ogilvie, &c. and had issue,

MAURICE (Sir), } successive pro-
ALEXANDER (Sir), } prietors.

Walter, to whom his brother, Sir Alexander, gave the lands of Drumsargard, by charter under the great seal dated 13th November, 1375. He was ancestor of the MORAYS, of Ogilface, a family now extinct.

Sir John Moray dying in the early part of the fourteenth century, was s. by his eldest son,

SIR MAURICE MORAY, of Drumsargard, a bold and steady adherent of DAVID BRUCE, who obtained in 1343, from that monarch, a charter of the EARLDOM of STRATHERN, to himself and the heirs male of his body. His lordship married a daughter of Thomas Randolph, earl of Moray, but had no issue. Accompanying King DAVID on his unfortunate expedition into England, the earl was slain at the battle of Durham in 1346, when the title of Strathern reverted to the crown, while the estates and representation of the family devolved on his brother,

SIR ALEXANDER MORAY, who was returned heir to his paternal inheritance in 1349. In 1366, at the decease of Thomas, last lord of Bothwell, without male issue, Sir Alexander claimed as next heir male, the succession to his estates, but the lord of Galloway having wedded, as before stated, the daughter and heiress of the deceased lord of Bothwell, had obtained full possession. "The power of the Douglasses," says the Baronage, "being then very great, Sir Alexander found it impossible for him to get justice in the ordinary courts of Judicature: Yea, their influence was then so universal that he could not get lawyers to plead his cause. This is fully instructed by the following contract; Sir Alexander having married Lady Janet, daughter of William Earl of Ross, sister of Queen Eupham, and relict of the baron of Monymusk, the queen and her son, David, Prince Palatine of Strathern, being the parties contractors, became bound to use their best endeavours to get justice done him in relation to the lordships of Bothwell, and to procure him council and lawyers to plead his cause." The contract is dated at Perth, 20th November, 1375. "This curious paper," continues Sir Robert Douglas, "which is very honourable to the family, being narrated at full length in Crawford's Peerage, page 42, to that we refer our readers. But the Lord Galloway having taken every measure to secure himself in that possession, his interest with the king being very great, and the authority and power of the Douglasses being considerable over the whole kingdom; it never was in Sir Alexander's power to recover his just right to the lordship of Bothwell, and being determined to live no longer in that part of the country, where he thought he had been so ill used, he gave the lands and barony of Drumsargard to his brother, Walter, and retired to Perthshire, where he had an opulent fortune."

Sir Alexander Moray being subsequently implicated in the slaughter of one Spalding, was necessitated to plead the privilege of the clan Macduff,* which he obtained accordingly. He was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR ANDREW MORAY, of Ogilvy and Abercairny, on whom King JAMES II. of Scotland, conferred the honour of knighthood. He m. a daughter of Sir Humphrey Cunningham, of Glengarnock, an ancient Ayrshire family, by whom he left at his demise, temp. JAMES III. (with two daughters, the elder m. to Sir Maurice Drummond, of Concraig, and the younger to Charles Campbell, of Strouchore) a son and successor,

SIR HUMPHRY MORAY, of Ogilvy and Abercairny, who obtained a charter from King JAMES III. on his own resignation, erecting his lands of Ogilvy, Abercairny, Kyntocher, Connothy, &c. into one free barony, and at the same time, exempting them from appearance before the Steward Court of Strathern. He wedded Catherine, daughter of Patrick, Lord Graham, and sister to William, first earl of Montrose, by whom he left a son and heir, BATES, OF MILBOURNE.

BATES, RALPH, esq. of Milbourne Hall, in the county of Northumberland, b. 13th December, 1799, s. to the estates at the decease of his father in 1813.

Lineage.

The family of BATES has been established many centuries in the county of Northumberland, and has enjoyed the highest respectability.

WILLIAM BATES, esq. of Bedlington, in that shire, was father of

JAMES BATES, esq. of Milbourne, living

temp. EDWARD IV. who is styled son and heir apparent of William Bates, in a deed of a sale of lands and a house in Bedlington, in the occupation of the above William Bates, from John Spitter and Gilbert Clark. The next on record,

THOMAS BATES, esq. of Ovington Hall, in Northumberland, was returned in 1554 to parliament, as member for the borough of Morpeth, which he continued to represent in the reigns of MARY and ELIZABETH. This gentleman appears to have been high in favour with the former queen, for we find her Majesty addressing to him in 1556-7, the following complementary letter,

MARY THE QUEENE

By the Queene

“To our trustye and welbiloved

Thomas Baytes was subsequently, during the reign of ELIZABETH, appointed supervisor of all his Majesty's houses, lordships, manours, lands, and tenements in Northumberland. In Bishop Barnes book he is styled deputed patron by the queen, of the rectory of Whalton, and on the 9th of August, 1579, he presented Robert Bellamy, Clk. doctor of physic to that rectory. His son and heir, CHUTE-WIGGETT, WILLIAM-LYDE, esq. of the Vine, in the county of Hants, and of Pickenham Hall, in Norfolk, b. 16th June, 1800. This gentleman, whose patronymic is WIGGETT, assumed, by royal license, in 1827, on inheriting the estates of the Rev. Thomas Vere Chute, the additional surname and arms of that family. He is a magistrate for the counties of Hants and Norfolk, and a deputy-lieutenant of the latter shire, for which he served the office of sheriff in 1832.

Lineage.

The CHUTES were of long standing in the counties of Kent and Somerset, where they were originally settled. They were lords of the manor of Taunton, until about the year 1500, when Edmond Chute sold the manor to Lord Denham. The Kentish branch of the family expired in 1700, on the death of Sir George Chute, bart.

The first of the family on record,

ALEXANDER CHUTE, lord of the manor of Taunton in 1268, had a son,

This Philip Chute, standard bearer to HENRY VIII. obtained, in recompense for his gallant services at the siege of Boulogne, an augmentation to his armorial ensigns. This branch of the CHUTE family became extinct in 1700, upon the demise of SIR GEORGE CHUTE, bart.

Lineage.

This family boasts of Saxon blood, and claims distinction for a full century at least before the conquest.

ROHAND, the first of the Saxon Earls of Warwick, temp. ALFRED, the Great, left an only daughter and heiress,

FELICIA, who espoused GUY, son of Siward, Lord of Wallingford, and conveying the earldom to her husband he became

GUY, EARL OF WARWICK, "the memory of whom, (saith Dugdale) for his great valour, hath ever since been, and yet is so famous, that the vulgar are of opinion that he was a man of more than ordinary stature, and the Welsh, taking notice of his brave exploits, will needs have him to be descended from British parentage." The achievements of this chivalrous earl, true or fabulous, are so generally known, that it is almost unnecessary to refer to Dugdale's Warwickshire, in which they are fully set forth. Guy died in 927, and was s. by his son,

REYNBURN, Earl of Warwick, who espoused, "the beautiful Lady Leonetta, daughter of King ATHELSTAN," and was s. by his son,

WEGENT, Earl of Warwick, a man renowned for his personal valour, and martial prowess. He was a benefactor to the monastery of Eversham, and was s. by his son,

UFA, Earl of Warwick. This nobleman who was distinguished for piety, granted in 974, with the consent of King EDGAR, the whole village of Whitlarford to the monks of Eversham. He died about the beginning of the reign of EDWARD, the Martyr, and was s. by his son,

WOLGEAT, Earl of Warwick, who, Dugdale states, was deprived of his lands and honors, "for his wicked courses and oppressions." His hereditary successor, was

WIGOD, who married the sister of Earl Leofrick, and was s. by his son,

ALWYNE, who in the general survey, is styled, Alwinus Vicecomes. "The reason whereof," observes Dugdale, "I conceive to be either, because that he did exercise the power and authority of the Earle of Mercia, (scil. Earl Leofrike, his uncle) here in Warwickshire as his ancestors had done, for which respect he and they have been reputed earls, as I have already showed, and have ranct them in that degree; or else that he hath the custody of the county to the king's immediate use." Alwine left issue, TURCHILL DE WARWICK, whose name stands likewise in the catalogue of earls. This nobleman, a man of great power and note, was lord of vast landed possessions, at the time of the CONQUEST, as appears by the general survey. He married two wives, and had issue* by both:—by the first, three sons, viz.

SIWARD.

Peter, a monk in the Abbey of Thorney. Ralph.

By the second Leverunia, one son,

OSBERT, for whose descendants, see BRACEBRIDGE, of Atherstone, p. 270.

The eldest son,

SIWARD DE ARDEN, witnessed in the time of HENRY I. several grants made by Geoffrey de Clinton, on endowing Kenilworth priory, and he was himself a benefactor to the monks of Thorney in Cambridgeshire, by presenting them with his mill at Riton, and other lands in the county of Warwick. By his wife Cecilia he left two sons, HUGH and HENRY; the elder

HUGH DE ARDEN, inherited the estates, and made magnificent benefactions to the church. Dying s. p. he was s. by his brother,

HENRY DE ARDEN, who in the 12th HENRY II., was certified as holding five knights' fees of William, then Earl of Warwick. He had issue,

1. THOMAS, his heir, who was one of those assembled at the tournament of Blith, in Nottinghamshire, against the royal prohibition; for which act of disobedience his lands were seized upon by the crown, but restored in the 7th of HENRY III. He wedded Eustachia, widow of Savaricus de Malaleone, a Poictovin, and dying before the 17th of HENRY III. was s. by his son, SIR THOMAS DE ARDEN, of Curdworth, who being taken prisoner at Evesham, fighting under the banner of the Barons, was forced to dispose of his vast landed property.

II. William.

From the second son,

WILLIAM DE ARDEN, lineally descended*

SIR JOHN DE ARDEN, knt. who resided at his manor of Pedimore, in the time of EDWARD III. leaving, at his decease, an only surviving daughter, Rose, the wife of Thomas Pakeson; he was s. by his brother,

SIR HENRY DE ARDEN, knt. who appears to have been the first of the family seated at PARK HALL, in Warwickshire, "for in his time, (writes Dugdale) scil. 47 EDWARD III. did Sir John de Botetourt, Lord of Weolegh Castle, not only confirm the same to him, with the appurtenances lying in Castle Bromwich, but released all the services by which he held the same, reserving only a red rose to be yearly paid to himself, and his heirs, on the feast day of the nativity of St. John the Baptist, for all services and demands whatsoever." This Sir Henry de Arden subsequently represented the county of Warwick in parliament, and in the 5th of RICHARD II. we find him joined in commission with the Earl of Warwick, and other persons of note to put down the rebellion then raging in that shire. The year previously he had a release from his niece Rose, the daughter and heir of Sir John de Arden, of all her interest in the manor of Pedimore, and in the lands of Curdworth, Sutton, &c. &c. He was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR RALPH DE ARDEN, who attended the Earl of Warwick to the siege of Calais with one lance and two archers. He d. in the 8th of HENRY V. leaving a son and heir,

ROBERT DE ARDEN, then eight years of age, and in ward to Joan Beauchamp, lady of Bergavenny. He was afterwards one of the chief gentlemen of Warwickshire, and was sheriff of that county, and of the county of Leicester, in the 16th of HENRY VI. In the war of the Roses he arrayed himself under the banner of York, and in one of the reverses of his party suffered death and attainder. He had m. Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Richard Clodshall, and was s. by his son,

WALTER ARDEN, who m. Eleanor, daughter of John Hampden, esq. of Hampden, in the county of Buckingham, and dying 17th HENRY VII. left a son and successor,

JOHN ARDEN, of Park Hall, one of the esquires of the body to King HENRY VII. This gentleman m. Alice, daughter of Richard Bracebrigg, esq. of Kingsbury, "but concerning this marriage," says Dugdale, "there arose no small difference betwixt the parents on each side: Walter Arden (the father) alleging that said Richard and his servants had stolen away his son; howbeit, at length by a reference to Sir Simon Mountfort, knt. of Colshill, and Sir Richard Bingham, the judge, it was determined that the marriage should be solemnized betwixt them, in February, 13th EDWARD IV. and in consideration of two hundred marks portion, a convenient jointure settled: as also that for the trespass done by the same Richard Bracebrigg, in so taking away the young gentleman, he should give to the before specified Walter Arden the best horse that could be chosen in Kingsbury Park." John Arden d. in the 17th HENRY VIII. and was s. by his son,

THOMAS ARDEN, esq. of Park Hall, who wedded Maria, daughter of Thomas Andrews, esq. of Charwelton, and had issue,

1. WILLIAM, who died before his father, (36th HENRY VIII.) leaving by his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Edward Conway, esq. a son and heir,

EDWARD ARDEN, esq. who succeeded his grandfather at Park Hall. This gentleman having incurred the hostility of the Earl of Leicester was prosecuted, through the means of that nobleman, with great rigour and violence for high treason, and being executed and attainted, his forfeited estates were granted to Edward Darcy, esq. but his son and heir, by his wife, Mary, daughter of Sir Robert Throgmorton,

ROBERT ARDEN, esq. eventually recovered all these lands except Curdworth, in virtue of an entail made upon his marriage with Elizabeth, daughter of Reginald Corbet, one of the justices of the Common Pleas. By this lady he had an only child,

SIR HENRY ARDEN, knt. who wedded Dorothea, daughter of Basil Fielding, esq. of Newnham, and dying in the life-

Mr. Swettenham inherited the estates on the demise of his father, 9th April, 1825.

Lineage.

This very ancient family, which, according to tradition, was seated at Swettenham long antecedent to the Conquest, and had a confirmation of the estate, temp. WILLIAM Rufus, to the then Saxon possessor, derives its surname from a compound of two Saxon words, Sweet, pleasant or agreeable, and Ham, a dwelling-place or village; words that aptly describe the situation of the manor.

PETER, LORD OF SWETTENHAM, had, (with a younger son, Peter)

RICHARD SWETTENHAM, Lord of Swettenham, living in the reign of HENRY III. father of

NICHOLAS DE SWETTENHAM, Lord of Swettenham, temp. EDWARD I. whose son, RICHARD DE SWETTENHAM, Lord of Swettenham, was father of

RICHARD DE SWETTENHAM, whose son,

RICHARD DE SWETTENHAM, of Swettenham, had two sons, THOMAS, his heir, and William, who seated himself at Caryngham, and was ancestor of the SWETTENHAMS of that place. The elder son,

THOMAS DE SWETTENHAM, of Swettenham, living in the 12th of EDWARD III. was s. by his son,

This gentleman, who is now the chief of the great northern family of Dundas, inherited that honor at his birth with the lands of his family, his father having died previously.

Lineage.

"The Dundasses," says Lord Woodhouselee, in the transactions of the Royal Society, "are descended of a family to which the historian and the genealogist have assigned an origin of high antiquity and splendour, but which has been still more remarkable for producing a series of men eminently distinguished for their public services in the highest offices in Scotland. If the pride of ancestry is ever allowable, it is where those ancestors have adorned the stations which they filled by that genuine merit, which independently of rank, must have entitled them to the respect and esteem of their fellow citizens."

The DUNDASSES are generally believed to have sprung from the DUNBARS, Earls of March, who derived themselves from the Saxon Princes of England.

COSPATRIC, first Earl of March, died in 1139, leaving two sons, viz. Cospatric, the second earl, and

UTHRED, living in the time of DAVID I. who obtained from Waldeve, his father's elder brother, the lands and barony of Dundass, in West Lothian. His son,

HELIAS, had a confirmation of the lands of Dundas, in the reign of King DAVID, and assumed therefrom, in conformity of the then prevailing custom, his name and designation, while to denote his alliance with the old Earls of March, he adopted for his armorial bearings the ensigns of those lords, differing, as a mark of cadency, in the colours only. He was s. in the beginning of the reign of WILLIAM, the Lion, by his son,

SERLE DE DUNDAS, who is frequently mentioned in the affairs of Scotland, temp. King WILLIAM. He died early in the next reign, and was s. by his son,

HELIAS DE DUNDAS, father of

RADULPHUS DE DUNDAS, whose name appears prefixed as witness to a charter, whereby ALEXANDER II. confirmed a donation of Richard Baird, to the monastery of Kelso. He was succeeded by his son,

SAER DE DUNDAS, who swore allegiance to EDWARD of ENGLAND, in 1296. He died before the year 1300, leaving a son and heir,

SIR HUGH DE DUNDAS, one of the gallant adherents of the GREAT but ill-fated WILLIAM WALLACE, to whose cause, and that of Scotland, he never forfeited his fidelity, but fought with unshaken fortitude to the last. His son and successor,

SIR GEORGE DE DUNDAS, equally firm to ROBERT BRUCE, fell at the battle of Duplin, in 1332, and was s. by his son,

JAMES DE DUNDAS. This laird having a violent contest with the Abbot of Dunfermline, regarding the right to certain islands in the Forth, incurred the highest censure of the church, and was excommunicated. He lived however to adjust the dispute, and to have the anathema removed. He died before 1364, and was s. by his son,

JOHN DE DUNDAS, who obtained from DAVID II. a charter, dated 18th February, 1364, of the lands and barony of Fingask. He left at his decease, a daughter Agnes, m. to Sir Adam Forrester, of Corstorplim, and a son, JAMES DUNDAS, of Dundas, who occurs in numerous charters from 1378 to 1439. He m. first, a lady whose name and family are not recorded. By her he had three sons, viz.

- I. JAMES, } both knights, and suc-
- II. ARCHIBALD, } cessive proprietors

III. Duncan, LORD LYON. This Duncan Dundas, a man of much note in his day, was frequently employed in embassies to England, and ever discharged his duty with integrity and honour. He acquired from his family the barony of Newliston, and founded the branch of Dundas of that place.

The laird of Dundas married secondly, Christian Stewart, daughter of John, Lord Innermeath and Lorn, and had further issue,

- IV. Alexander, progenitor of the DUNDASES of Fingask.
- V. Thomas, who appears to have died s. p.

espousing the interests of his father-in-law, he was committed prisoner to the Castle of Dumbarton, with his brother Duncan, when his lands were confiscated. He died issueless before the year 1452, as appears by a remission from King JAMES, "quondam Jacobo Dundas de eodem, &c." and was s. by his brother,

SIR ARCHIBALD DUNDAS, of Dundas. This laird obtained charters from King JAMES III. of the lands and barony of Bothkener, and of the lands and barony of Blairmucks. He was high in favour at Court, and had several confidential embassies entrusted to him. Some short period before the king's decease, Dundas received a letter from his Majesty, announcing the royal intention of conferring upon him the Earldom of Forth, but the monarch's unexpected death in battle, prevented the fulfilment of the promise. He obtained however, from JAMES IV. in 1491, a grant of the island of Inchgarvie, with liberty to build and fortify a castle thereon, with numerous and important privileges attached. He died within a short time afterwards, and was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM DUNDAS, of Dundas, who was served heir to his father in 1494. He m. Margaret, daughter of Archibald Wauchope, of Niddery, and had two sons,

- I. WALTER (Sir) his heir.
- II. George.

He wedded secondly, Catharine, daughter of Laurence, third Lord Oliphant, and had further issue,

- III. JAMES (Sir), of Arniston, from whom descended

ROBERT DUNDAS, an eminent lawyer, who was constituted a judge in 1689. He m. Margaret, daughter of Sir Robert Sinclair, of Stevenson, and had, with other children,

ROBERT DUNDAS, of Arniston, b. 9th September, 1695, who, following the profession of his father, was appointed solicitor-general of Scotland in 1717; lord advocate in 1720. In 1722 he was returned to parliament by the city of Edinburgh; and in 1737 raised to the bench as one of the judges of session, when he assumed the titular designation of LORD ARNISTON. He subsequently (anno 1748) succeeded the celebrated Duncan Forbes in the presidency of the court. His lordship m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Watson, esq. of Muir House, and had, with two daughters, a son,

Lineage.

The family of CASSAN, or DE CASSAGNE, is of ancient French lineage. Douglas, in his Barouage of Scotland, page 296, under the article Spens Destignots, Lords of Destignots and St. Germain, (a branch of Spens, of Lathallan, descendants of the house of the great Macduff, Thane of Fife,) on the authority of documents in the archives of the Senescalliat des Lannes, names the Cassagnes, as "Lords de Montagu," and of Bonthion, and calls them "a family of distinction in the province of Bearne," anterior to the year 1509, at which period we find them, according to the same historian, forming alliances with some of the most ancient of the French Noblesse, and especially with the house of Spens.

STEPHEN CASSAN, of Montpellier, born in 1659, passed at the revocation of the edict of Nantes, into Holland, and in 1689, being then an officer in the foreign brigade, commanded by Schomberg, went to Ireland, where, in 1692, he married, as appears by the records in Ulster's Office, Elizabeth, daughter and sole heiress of Joseph Sheffield, esq. of Navestock, in Essex, and of Cappoly, (since called Sheffield, to mark the descent of the Cassans from the Sheffield) in the Queen's county, and in consequence of this alliance, the family of Cassan, by authority and license from Ulster, now quarter the armorial insignia of the ancient houses of St. Liz, Sheffield, and Greene. (see families of Sheffield and St. Liz, at foot.) Stephen Cassan died 1750-1, aged 92, seised of all the estates which had been granted to his wife's father, Joseph Sheffield, by the crown 22nd March, 1667, 19th CHARLES II. (refer to the 15th report of the Commissioners, respecting the public records of Ireland, printed by order of the House of Commons, p. 102). He had an only son,

MATTHEW CASSAN, esq. his successor at Sheffield, born in 1693. This gentleman inherited likewise his mother's property at Navestock, which he sold while at the Temple; he built the present mansion at Sheffield, and is the same Matthew Cassan, who occurs as residuary legatee and administrator to his cousin, John Sheffield, of Navestock, nephew of Joseph, his maternal grandfather. He m. first, Ann, daughter of Jonathan Baldwin, esq. of Cool Kerry, and of Summer Hill, Queen's county, and had, (with other issue, who d. s. p.)

STEPHEN, his heir.

Richard-Sheffield, barrister-at-law, b. 2nd December, 1729, who m. Isabella, daughter of Alexander Hamilton, esq. of Knock and Ballybrenagh, in the county of Dublin, M.P. for Belfast, from 1739 to 1760, sister of George Hamilton, solicitor general, and afterwards Baron of the Irish Exchequer, from 1776 to 1784, and of Hugh Hamilton, D.D. who was bishop of Clonfert, 1796, and died bishop of Ossory, in 1805. Mr. Richard Sheffield Cassan died, — leaving four daughters only.

Mr. Cassan wedded secondly, Christian, daughter of John Walsh, esq. of Jamaica, and had further issue, Ricarda, daughter of Richard Annesley, esq. of New Ross, M.P. and niece of Charles, first marquess of Ely, see Burke's Peerage) and lieutenant colonel James Price.

The eldest son and heir,

STEPHEN CASSAN, esq. succeeded at Sheffield, on the decease of his father, Matthew. He was born 22nd May, 1724-5, admitted a student of Lincoln's Inn, 2nd April, 1745, and took his certificate for the Irish bar, 2nd March, 1750, to which he was shortly afterwards called. Lineage.

This family, originally Danish, was settled in the county of Durham in the eleventh, twelfth, and thirteenth centuries. Hutchinson, in his History, states that they had assumed the local name of Burse-blades, or Purse-blades, from residing at Burs-blades, in the parish of Lanchester, near Durham, as appears by Bolden Book, and that they had enjoyed considerable possessions there under the Bishop of Durham. The first mentioned in Bolden Book is

RADULPHI, Counti de Bursebred, or Bursebleyd, whose son,

PHILIP DE BURESLADES, was grandfather of

JOHN DE BURESLADES, one of whose sons,

WILLIAM DE BURSBLADES, b. about 1550, having married Margaret Appleyard, daughter and heiress of — Appleyard, of Hellington, in Yorkshire, lord mayor of York,* acquired the manors Sutton, cum Bransholme, Sudcoates, Merflete, and Dripoole, in Holderness, and of part of the manor of Sculcoates, all in the county of York, became domiciled in that shire. This William is designated in old deeds "Gulielmus Blaides," and sometimes "Gulielmus Bleyds de Sutton." By the heiress of Appleyard (who espoused, secondly, 12th February, 1592, William Barber, esq.) he left at his decease, 3rd March, 1591, (he was buried in the family vault in the church at Scowscotes) a son and successor,

By this lady (who died 21st August, 1772, aged 67, and was buried in the vault at

* "MARVEL," says a writer in the Gentleman's Magazine, "was an honest republican; he adhered to the principles under which he had entered upon public life, and with stern pride of heart, and probably ardent hopes of a restoration of the commonwealth, he retained an uncompromising attachment to his cherished theories of government. In addition he was a wit and a satirist; a spirit that prided itself in exemption from the prevalent corruption and popular follies, because these follies and that corruption formed the butts against which it was his delight to exercise the keen shafts of his wit, his irony, and his ridicule." Andrew Marvell was born in 1620 at Hull, and educated at Trinity College, Cambridge. He subsequently travelled to Rome, where he first associated with Milton, who thus describes his accomplishments in a letter to "the honourable the Lord Bradshawe," dated Feb. 1652-3. "He hath spent four years abroad in Holland, France, Italy, and Spain, to very great purpose as I believe and the gaining of those four languages; besides, he is a scholler, and well read in the Latin and Greek authors; and no doubt of an approved conversation, for he comes now lately out of the house of the Lord Fairfax, who was generally, where he was entrusted to give some instructions in the languages to the lady his daughter." In 1657 Marvell was appointed assistant Latin secretary to the Protector, Milton being his superior in that office; and in 1658 or 1659 he was first elected to parliament as one of the burgesses for his native town, which he continued to represent for nearly twenty years, until his death in 1678. His attendance in parliament was unusually assiduous; and he maintained a correspondence with his constituents almost every post, which is said to be the last instance of that valuable relation between representatives and electors. It has also been said that he was the last representative who received wages from his constituents. For interesting particulars of this undehending senator refer to "DOVE'S Life of MARVEL."

Sculcoates) he had issue, of whom, his successor, BENJAMIN, alone married. This Hugh Blaydes was so staunch a loyalist that in the rebellion of 1745 he raised and supported a company of volunteers amongst his own tenants and dependants. He died 9th April, 1759, aged 74, and was s. by his son, BENJAMIN BLAYDES, esq. of Melton and High Paull, in the county of York, b. 5th March, 1735; baptized 31st March, 1736. This gentleman was lord of the manors of Sutton cum Stoneferry, and Paghill, alias Paull and Thorngumbeld, all in Holderness, and of part of the manor of Sculcoates. ROCHE, OF LIMERICK.

ROCHE, GEORGE, esq. of Granagh Castle, in the county of Kilkenny. This gentleman, who claims the ancient Irish peerage of FERMOY, inherited the estates and representation of the Roches of Limerick, at the decease of his brother, in 1825.

Lineage.

The family of ROCHE OF LIMERICK, has branched from that of Castletown-Roche, in the county of Cork.

JOHN ROCHE, of Castletown-Roche,* descended from the Viscounts Fermoy, was a member of the Catholic Parliament or Council held at Kilkenny during the civil wars, and his name appears as such to the declaration of the Irish Roman Catholics in 1641. His eldest son,

ROBERT ROCHE, espoused Juliana O' Moore, daughter of Alexander O' Moore, of Ballina, in the county of Kildare,† and was s. by his eldest son,

STEPHEN ROCHE, known by the designation of Dov, or Black, from his complexion, whose estate, already injured by composition in the time of CROMWELL, was entirely forfeited under WILLIAM III. Compelled in consequence to leave the county of Cork, he retired to Kilrush, in Clare, and afterwards took up his abode at Pallas, in the county of Limerick, in the vicinity of his brother-in-law, William Apjohn, esq. He m. Anastasia, elder daughter and co-heir of Thomas Lysaght, esq.‡ (the other co-heir, Catherine, was the wife of Mr. Apjohn) and was s. by his son,

JOHN ROCHE, esq. b. in 1688, who wedded Anne, youngest daughter of Philip Stacpole, esq.§ of Mountcashell (the fee of which estate is now in Thomas Roche, esq.) Kilneen, and Kilcoman, in the county of Clare, (by his wife, Christian, daughter of John Creagh, of Ballyvolane, in the same shire, colonel in the Irish army, anno 1642), and had, with other issue,

i. STEPHEN, his heir.

ii. John, who m. Miss Harold, cousin of General Harold, of the Saxon service, and had a daughter, Mary-Anne, who wedded John Meade, esq. of Limerick, and was mother of Captain Roche Meade, of the 21st regiment, deputy-adjutant-general.

‡ This gentleman in his passage to England, on his route to the University of Oxford, during the short war of 1665, was captured by a French privateer, and carried into France, where he became a convert to the Roman Catholic religion. Incurring thus the displeasure of his father, he was disinherited, and the estate of the family left by that gentleman to a younger son, the grandfather of the first Lord Lisle (of Ireland).

§ Philip Stacpole was son of James Stacpole and Christian, daughter of Denis M'Mahon, of Clonagh, one of the most ancient families of Clare. Three of Philip Stacpole's brothers fell at the battle of Aughrim, fighting under the banner of their legitimate sovereign, JAMES II. He died himself in 1714, aged seventy years, after serving as high sheriff for the county of Clare, being the last Roman Catholic, prior to the penal laws, who filled that office. The present Earl of Limerick enjoys some of the estates of this family, acquired by the marriage of his ancestor with a co-heiress of the Stacpoles.

* For the ROCHE FAMILY generally, see NICHOL'S Rudiments of Honor, 8vo. 1726, article FERMOY, where its descent from the sovereign houses of Europe is deduced.

† Of a very ancient family, and allied by intermarriage with that of the Earls of Kildare. Alexander O' Moore was next brother to the celebrated RORY or ROGER O' MOORE, who, according to HUME, was one of the chief promoters of the rebellion of 1641, but acquitted by the same historian of any participation in the massacre of that year. His birth, influence, and talents are placed in a very conspicuous light by Doctor Lingard; see also HUME, and Warner's History of the Irish Rebellion, (4to. 1767) page 25, where it is stated that the popular adjuration at the time was—"God—Our Lady and Roger O' Moore help us!"

1. John, who m. Miss Whyte, dau. of Charles Whyte, esq. of Leixlip, and had a son,

* In the year 1724, this Doctor Ankettle was a student of medicine at Paris, when John Fitzgibbon, father of the Lord Chancellor Fitzgibbon, Earl of Clare, visited that capital to pursue a course, not of divinity, as Sir Jonah Barrington states, but of medicine. Young Fitzgibbon immediately sought his townsman, who was allowed a day to show Paris to his friend, and both traversed the city accordingly in all directions. At length they stopped at a late hour to visit the cathedral of NOTRE DAME, in the immediate vicinity of their college; and exhausted with fatigue, fell so soundly asleep on the benches of the choir, as to escape the sexton's closing the church at night. It was past midnight when the youths awoke, and finding themselves thus immured, touched in their groping about the bell-rope, and soon made the great chimes resound to the no small amazement of the worthy sexton, and alarm of the good city of Paris. They were, of course, quietly liberated. John Fitzgibbon subsequently relinquished his medical studies, and was called to the Irish bar in 1732, when he successfully laid the foundation of his prosperous house.

Lady Morgan finds her story of "The O'BRIENS and the O'FLAHERTYS," on some circumstances recited in this document relative to the dissensions of these powerful sept.

RODDAM, OF RODDAM.

RODDAM, WILLIAM, esq. of Roddam Hall, in the county of Northumberland, b. 4th January, 1793. This gentleman, who is the fourth son of Walter Spencer Stanhope, esq. of Cannon Hall, in Yorkshire, inherited the estates of his kinsman and godfather, Admiral ROBERT RODDAM, under the will of that gallant officer, at his decease in 1806, and assumed, in consequence, the surname and arms of RODDAM.

Lineage.

This family, ranking amongst the most ancient in the British dominions, is still resident upon lands granted to their Saxon progenitors, in a very curious charter from King ATHELSTANE :

I Konig Athelstane
giffis heir to Paulane Odiham and Roddam als gude and als fair als ever ye mine ware and yair to witness Maud my wife.

A charter particularly and circumstantially noticed by MAJOR, in his Chronicles of England and Scotland, who describes an irruption of the English into that kingdom, temp. RICHARD II. when the monasteries of Melros, Driburg, Newbottel, and Edinburgh, were burnt; and then states, that, after the departure of the invaders, Robert Stewart, Earl of Fife, second son of the King of Scotland, with James, Earl of Douglas, and Archibald, Earl of Galway, at the head of thirty thousand men, made reprisal by eutering England by Solway Frith, wasting the rich and fertile lands, and carrying away abundant spoil. In the course of the foray this ancient deed was discovered and brought to the Scots commander, Robert, Duke of Albany, subsequently Regent of Scotland; who, whenever he afterwards heard of long charters and other similar writings, was wont to say, that in former times there was more probity, when our ancestors were unaccustomed to such minute prolixity in their conveyances; and supported his opinion by reciting from memory these letters patent of King ATHELSTANE.

Notwithstanding Roddam lies at a great distance from that part of England which the Scotch ravaged at their first entrance by Solway Frith; yet it is most likely that a detachment entered Northumberland at the same time (as was customary on such invasions), and finding the writing in question, brought it to Robert, while his head quarters were in Cumberland or Westmorland. It is a well-known fact that ATHELSTANE won a great victory* over the Scots and Danes in the country near Roddam, where he commanded in person, so that he probably rewarded Pauline's good services by this grant on the spot.

The following passage is to be found in Leland's Collectanea, vol. ii. p. 571. anno 1351.

'Gilbert Rodam having fifty-three glayves with him, and eighty archers, fought with Reynald de Gulion, Capitaine of Parys, near Stampes (now Etampes, in Normandy), that had seven hundred men of armes and four hundred brigantes with him. Gilbert was slayen there; yet the Englishman had the victory, and Reynald was there taken prisoner; but he, by the help of a false Englishman, was conveyied or ever he had payid his ranssom.'

Leland's Itinerary, written in the time of HENRY VIII. (vol. v. p. 93.) states that "The Roddams, or Rudhams, were men of fair landes in Northumbrelande, about Tylle river, ontyl one of them having to wife one of the Umfraville daughters, killed a man of name, and thereby lost the principale of eight hundred markes by yerc; so that at this time Roddam, or otherwise Rudham, of Northumbrelande, is but a man of mene landes."

The greater part of the original estate was certainly forfeited during the sway of the Norman kings, but the lands of RODDAM, named in the grant of Athelstane, descended to the late ADMIRAL RODDAM, through an uninterrupted line of ancestors, intermarrying with the Greys of Chillingham; the Selbys; the Brandlings of Gosforth; the Forsters of Etherston; the Lisles of Felton; Swinburnes of Ethingham; and other eminent northern families.

SIR JOHN RODDAM, knt. of Roddam, m. Ellen, daughter and heiress of John Houghton, of Houghton, in the county of Northumberland, and thus became lord of that manor. He was "slaine in the Palme Sunday Ffiele with the Earl of Northumberland in battaile, anno 1491, the 19th day of March." From this gallant person we pass to his lineal descendant,† — RODDAM, esq. of Roddam, the father of two sons, namely,

JOHN, his successor.

EDWARD, successor to the estates at the decease of his brother.

The elder son,

JOHN RODDAM, esq. of Roddam, and Little Houghton, m. Winifred, daughter and heiress of Ralph Milburn, esq. of Chirton, in Northumberland, and had three daughters, viz.

- I. WINIFRED, who died young.
- II. Mary, m. to Edward Collingwood, esq. of Byker and Dissington, and had issue,

John Roddam leaving thus no male issue, the representation of the family was continued by his brother, EDWARD RODDAM, esq. of Roddam and Little Houghton, who sold the latter estate to Mr. Penrith, and erected Roddam Hall. He m. Jane, daughter of Robert Skelly, esq. and had, with several other children, who died all issueless.

EDWARD, his successor.

ROBERT, heir to his brother.

Collingwood, b. in 1734, a captain in the East India Company's service, m. Miss Buller, but d. s. p. in 1806.

This gentleman had a large quantity of old plate which he left to the Falder family,* amongst which were four candlesticks, said to have been presented to him by TIPPOO SAIB.

Mr. Roddam was s. by his eldest son,

EDWARD RODDAM, esq. of Roddam, who died in 1776 without issue, and was s. by his brother,

ROBERT RODDAM, esq. then an officer of rank in the royal navy. This gallant seaman entered the service as a midshipman on board the Lowestoffe in the year 1735-6; in which capacity he subsequently served in the Russell, Cumberland, and Boyne, and was upon the Antigue station with Captain Drummond, of the Lowestoffe, more than five years. On the 3rd November, 1741, he was made third lieutenant on board the Superb in Cumberland Harbour, from which the next year he was removed to the Monmouth. In 1744 he was appointed second lieutenant, and in two years afterwards promoted to the command of the Viper, sloop of war. About this time Lord Anson (then Mr. Anson), one of the lords of the Admiralty, went to Portsmouth to command the western squadron, and expressing a strong wish to all the captains to stop a fleet at that time lying at Portsmouth, they urged the impracticability of the undertaking in a high south wind, and stated many other concurring obstacles. Mr. Roddam, the youngest captain, however, instantly undertook to try the possibility of stopping them, though his sloop, being just off the stocks, was in every way incomplete; and he eventually performed the arduous duty with so much steadiness, that Lord Anson wrote directly to the lords of the Admiralty for leave to take Captain Roddam under his own command. In 1755 he was appointed to the Greenwich, a fifty gun ship, and sailing to the West Indies, remained on the Jamaica station until 1757. At this period, being on a cruise off Hispaniola, on the 16th March, early in the morning, plying off Cape Cabroon, the Greenwich fell in with four French line of battle ships, two frigates, and a store ship, which the officers and crew of the Greenwich all fully supposed and asserted were merchantmen convoyed by two frigates; but Captain Roddam entertained a different opinion, and, though late, convinced his ship's company of their mistake, as those vessels proved to be the Tonnant, of 84 guns, commanded by Admiral Bofromont; the Desauncene, of 74. Captain Blonal; the Diadem, 74, Captain Rosele; L'Eveille, of 64, Captain Merville; Indeflexible, of 64, and the Savage and Le Bronne, frigates, with a twenty gun storeship. This squadron being to windward dispatched one of the frigates to reconnoitre, which Captain Roddam perceiving, and seeing no possibility of effecting his own escape, endeavoured to draw to the Greenwich. That ship being painted after the manner of the French, he hoped to decoy the frigate, and he had already prepared a boarding party, determined if he succeeded to dispatch her immediately to Admiral Townshend, at Jamaica, with intelligence of the number and situation of the enemy; but the Frenchman, discovering the Greenwich to be a two-decked ship, made all sail to rejoin the squadron. The Diadem first began firing at nine o'clock, and from that hour until nine at night the Greenwich was incessantly assailed by one or other of the fleet. Captain Roddam again prepared to board the L'Eveille, a 64, being the best sailing ship; but several of the enemy renewing the action at the same time, the Greenwich became so much injured in her rigging, and in consequence so unmanageable that he was compelled to abandon the idea. He then called his ship's company together, and told them he had done all in his power to preserve his majesty's ship, but if any of them could point out the French admiral's ship, the Tonnant, he thought the Greenwich could yet divert her an hour or two. The officers and the whole ship's company answered, "They must obey their captain, but they had been unceasingly shot at for twelve hours, and supported an action they believed longer than any ship had ever before sustained." Captain Roddam struck his colours in consequence, but, even after doing so, resisted what he deemed a dishonorable condition on the part of his conqueror. The French ship, L'Eveille, hailed the English captain to hoist out a boat, and to go on board the 64, which he repeatedly refused to do; and finding his interpreter had said, "every thing being cut away they could not get a boat out," instead of stating, "that Captain Roddam would not," he himself hailed, and inquiring if any one on board L'Eveille spoke English, he was replied to by a voice he knew, Mr. Giddy, a Danish officer, who had served in the preceding war with Captain Norris, in the Prince Frederick. Captain Roddam then informed Mr. Giddy that he would not go on board the French man of war in his own boat, but must be sent for, and if that were not complied with, he would hoist the British colours immediately, and defend his ship as long as she could swim. The gallant officer and his brave crew were subsequently treated with great harshness by their captors, they were released however in about two months, and sent to Jamaica, where Captain Roddam was tried by a court martial, and most honorably acquitted. When the court delivered the sentence to Admiral Coates, commander in chief, that officer immediately complimented Captain Roddam by presenting him with the minutes of the proceeding, and requesting, at the same time, that he would cause them to be printed, as reflecting the highest credit on the service and the British flag. Those minutes were accordingly printed at Kingston, in Jamaica. Our limits will not permit us to follow Captain Roddam through his subsequent equally enterprising and gallant career; we shall merely detail his promotions as an index to his splendid services. He was appointed Rear Admiral of the White in 1778, and the next year received the rank of Vice Admiral of the Blue. In 1780, he was made Vice Admiral of the White. In 1787, of the Red, and was appointed on the 20th April, 1789, commander in chief at Portsmouth, where he continued three years, a most active and efficient commander. In 1793, he was raised to the rank of Admiral of the Blue, in 1794, of the White, and, in 1795, made Admiral of the Red. Admiral Roddam m. first, on the 24th of April, 1749, Miss Clinton, dau. of Colonel Clinton, which lady died on the 9th December, 1750, issueless. He wedded secondly, Alithea, daughter of Sir James Calder, bart. of Calder, and thirdly, Miss Harrison, aunt of the present Mrs. Bell, of Woolington. He d. in 1808, in his eighty-eighth year, without issue, when his estates devolved, under his will, upon his kinsman, WILLIAM SPENCER STANHOPE, esq. (the great grandson of Mary Roddam and her husband, Edward Collingwood) who, having assumed the surname and arms of RODDAM, is the present Mr. RODDAM, of RODDAM.

BECKFORD, OF FONTHILL.

BECKFORD, WILLIAM, esq. of Fonthill Abbey, in the county of Wilts, b. 29th September, 1760, m. 5th May, 1783, the Lady Margaret Gordon, sole surviving daughter of Charles, fourth Earl of Aboyne, by the Lady Margaret Stewart, daughter of Alexander, seventh Earl of Galloway, and had issue,

1. MARGARET-MARIA-ELIZABETH, m. in May, 1811, Lieutenant-General James Orde, and d. in 1818, leaving two daughters, Margaret-Juliana-Maria, and Susan-Jemima-Frances.
2. SUSANNA-EUPHEMIA, m. 26th April, 1810, Alexander Hamilton, now Duke of Hamilton, Brandon, and Chatelherault, by whom her grace has one son and one daughter, viz.

WILLIAM-ALEXANDER-ANTHONY-ARCHIBALD, MARQUESS OF DOUGLAS AND CLYDESDALE, b. in 1811. Susan-Catherine-Harriet, m. in November, 1832, to Henry-Pelham Pelham-Clinton, Earl of Lincoln, son and heir-apparent of Henry Pelham, Duke of Newcastle.

This gentleman has long been distinguished by a refined taste in architecture, and the possession of great literary powers: of the former, the magnificent seat of Fonthill was a splendid though fragile testimonial—of the latter, the CALIPH VATHEK,* written originally in the French language, will remain an imperishable record.

Mr. Beckford, who represented the city of Wells, and subsequently the borough of Hindon, in several parliaments, inherited the estates upon the demise of his father, in 1770.

Lineage.

The family of BECKFORD appears to have been of Saxon origin. It was, at an early period of our history, settled in Gloucestershire; deriving its patronymic from, or giving name to, the parish of Beekford, or Beceford, in that county. It occurs, frequently, in the public records, amongst the benefactors to abbees and other religious houses, and has also been distinguished in our warlike annals.

After the conquest of Jamaica in 1656,

Colonel PETER BECKFORD, son of Peter Beckford, esq. who was brother to Sir Thomas Beckford, rose, by his singular ability in military and civil affairs, to the highest stations in that colony. Having, during the reign of CHARLES II., filled the important office of president of the council, he was, by WILLIAM III., appointed lieutenant-governor and commander-in-chief of the island. He died in 1710, possessed of immense wealth; and amongst his immediate descendants are the following representatives of noble houses, viz. in the direct male line, Beckford, now Pitt, Baron Rivers: and in the female line, Ellis, Baron Seaford; Ellis, Baron Howard de Walden; Courtenay, presumptive heir to the earldom of Devon; and Carleton, Baron Dorchester.

Colonel Beckford left two sons, namely,

- i. PETER, of whom presently.
- ii. Thomas, who had issue,
 1. Ballard, whose only son, Ballard, left a sole daughter and heir, Mary, who m. James Johnstone, esq.
 2. Thomas, whose daughter and eventual heiress,
Mary - Ballard, m. Edward Long, esq. of Aldermaston

* VATHEK (says Lord Byron) was one of the tales I had a very early admiration of. For correctness of costume, beauty of description, and power of imagination, it far surpasses all European imitations, and bears such marks of originality that those who have visited the East will find some difficulty in believing it to be more than a translation. As an Eastern tale, even Rasselas must bow before it; his "Happy Valley" will not bear a comparison with the "Hall of Eblis."

The elder son,

PETER BECKFORD, esq. Speaker of the House of Assembly of Jamaica, died in 1735. Having married Bathshua, daughter and co-heir of Colonel Julines Hering,† he had issue,

- i. PETER, his heir.
- ii. WILLIAM, successor to his brother.
- iii. Richard, M.P. for Bristol, died unmarried.
- iv. Nathaniel, died unmarried.
- v. Julines, of Stapleton, in the county of Dorset, M.P. for Salisbury, who was s. by his son,

† This gentleman, through the lines of Oxenbridge, Throckmorton, Nevil, Beauchamp, and Le Despencer, was descended from EDMUND PLANTAGENET, of Langley, Duke of York, fifth son of EDWARD III.

PETER BECKFORD, esq. of Stapleton. This gentleman m. 22nd March, 1773, Louisa, second daughter of George Pitt, esq. of Strathfield Saye, M.P. for the county of Dorset, who was elevated to the peerage, in 1776, as Baron Rivers of Strathfieldsaye, and created in 1802, BARON RIVERS of Sudley Castle, in Gloucestershire; the latter dignity in remainder to his brother, Sir William Augustus Pitt, K.B. and after him to the male issue of his daughter, Mrs. Beckford, which lady left a son, HORACE WILLIAM BECKFORD, who changed his name to PITT, and inherited as third LORD RIVERS; his lordship was father of the present lord.

vi. Francis, of Basing Park, Hants, m. first, Lady Albinia Bertie, daughter of Peregrine, Duke of Ancaster and Kesteven, and secondly, Susannah, only daughter and heiress of Richard Love, esq. of Basing.

vii. Anne, m. to George Ellis, esq. Chief Justice of the Island of Jamaica, and left several sons, of whom John, the second, was father to

CHARLES ROSE ELLIS, esq. who, in 1826, was created BARON SEAFORD. His lordship's eldest son, CHARLES-AUGUSTUS ELLIS, has succeeded, in right of his mother, to the ancient barony of HOWARD DE WALDEN.

viii. Elizabeth, m. first, to Thomas Howard, second Earl of Effingham, and secondly, to Field Marshal Sir George Howard, K.B.

Mr. Beckford was s. by his eldest son,

PETER BECKFORD, esq. who died without issue, in 1737, when the estates devolved upon his brother,

WILLIAM BECKFORD, esq. of Fonthill, who was twice MAYOR of the city of London, and representative in parliament for the metropolis in which his eminent talents, consistency, and patriotism will ever be held in honoured memory.* He died during

* There is a fine marble tablet to the memory of this eminent magistrate in the Guild Hall of the city of London. It represents him, officially robed, delivering the following spirited remonstrance to King GEORGE III. on the 23rd May, 1770.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

Will your Majesty be pleased so far to condescend to permit the mayor of your loyal city of his mayoralty, in 1770; having espoused MARIA, daughter and coheir of the Honorable George Hamilton, M.P. for Wells, second surviving son of James, sixth Earl of Abercorn, who was lineally descended from James Hamilton, second Earl of Arran, Duke of Chatelherault, in France, and regent, and heir presumptive of the crown of Scotland, as great grandson of King JAMES II.; being grandson of James, Lord Hamilton, by the Princess Mary, eldest daughter of that Monarch. The said MARIA was, through her mother, Bridget, daughter and sole heir of William Coward, esq. M.P. for Wells, descended from the Protector SOMERSET; through him, by the illustrious and historical lines of Wentworth, Clifford, Percy, and Mortimer, from Lionel Plantagenet of Antwerp, Duke of Clarence, third son of EDWARD III., and through the lines of Champenowne, Norreys, Fiennes, and Bouchier, from Thomas Plantagenet of Woodstock, Duke of Gloucester, youngest son of the same Monarch. Through her great-great-grandfather, Sir Thomas Hall of Bradford, Wilts, whom the said BRIDGET COWARD represented as sole heir general, she was descended from the noble and illustrious house of Latimer (see descent from the Latimers at foot), Lords of Corby.

Mr. Alderman Beckford had by the said Maria Hamilton, an only child and heir, the present WILLIAM BECKFORD, esq.

London, to declare in your presence on behalf of his fellow citizens how much the bare apprehension of your Majesty's displeasure would at all times affect their minds; the declaration of that displeasure has already filled them with inexpressible anxiety and with the deepest affliction. Permit me, sire, to assure your Majesty, that your Majesty has not in all your dominions any subjects more faithful, more dutiful, or more affectionate to your Majesty's person and family, or more ready to sacrifice their lives and fortunes in the maintenance of the true honour and dignity of your crown. We do then with the greatest humility and submission most earnestly supplicate your Majesty, that your Majesty will not dismiss us from your presence without expressing a more favoured opinion of your faithful citizens, and without some comfort, without some prospect at least of redress.

Permit us, sire, further to observe, that whoever has already dared, or shall hereafter endeavour by false insinuations and suggestions to alienate your Majesty's affections from your subjects in general, and from the city of London in particular, and to withdraw your confidence in, and regard for your people, is an enemy to your Majesty's person and family, a violator of the public peace, and a betrayer of our happy constitution as established at the glorious revolution.

* * It is a remarkable fact, that Mr. Beckford is, paternally or maternally, descended from all the Barons of Magna Charta, or the twenty five Conservators of the public liberties, elected under the provisions of the great charter, from whom there is any issue surviving.

Arms.—Per pale gules and azure, on a chevron argent, between three martlets or, an eagle displayed sable; within a bordure of the fourth, charged with a double tressure, flory and counter flory of the first. The grant of the double tressure, under the authority of the Earl Marshal of England, registered in the college of arms, and bearing date the 20th March 1810, was intended to commemorate, not only the extraordinary accumulation of descents of the grantee, through various noble families, from the blood royal of Scotland which are verified in the line of Hamilton, but also the remarkable facts, that his grandmother, on the paternal side, Bathshua, daughter and coheir of Julines Hering esq., was through the lines above stated, of Oxenbridge, Throckmorton, Nevil, Beauchamp, Le Despencer and Plantagenet, descended from the said blood royal; and that his grandmother, on the maternal side, Bridget Hamilton, was by her grandfather, William Coward, esq. serjeant-at-law, and recorder and member of Parliament for the city of Wells, descended through the ancient families of Dodington, of Dodington, and Wyndham, and the illustrious houses of Howard, Mowbray, Fitzalan, Bohun, and Plantagenet, and also through those of Scrope, Nevil, Stafford, Audley, and Clare, from the said blood royal; and, by her mother, Mary, daughter of William Hastings, esq.; by her grandmother, Bridget, daughter and at length sole heir of Sir Thomas Hall; by her great-grandmother, Catherine, daughter of Sir Edward Seymour; and by her great-great-grandmother, Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Brune, esq. of Athelhampton, Dorset, through several distinct lines not participated by any of the other branches of the house or Hamilton, also descended from the said blood royal: and further, that the grantee having intermarried with the Lady Margaret Gordon, only daughter of Charles, late earl of Aboyne, his daughters by such marriage are likewise maternally descended, by numerous and direct lines, from the kings of Scotland, through many of the greatest families of that kingdom, as well as through the principal sovereign houses of Europe.

Quartering—1st and 4th, Hamilton, gules, three cinquefoils ermine, pierced of the field; 2nd and 3rd, Arran, argent, a lymphad sable.

Crests—First, a heron's head erased or, gorged with a collar flory counterflory gules.

in the beak a fish argent. Second, issuant out of a ducal coronet or, an oak tree fructed ppr. the stem penetrated transversely by a frame-saw, also ppr. inscribed with the word "through," differenced with a shield, pendant from a branch of the tree, charged with the arms of Latimer, being gules, a cross flory or.

* * The second was a crest of Augmentation, assigned under the Earl Marshal's authority, to Mr. Beckford, in memory of his representation of a co-heir of the Abercorn branch of the house of Hamilton; with a distinction in allusion to his descent, through the ancient family of Mervyn, lords of the manor of Fonthill-Gifford, from William, the first Lord Latimer.

Motto—De Dieu tout.

Estates—Lansdown, near Bath; manors of Milford and Woodford, Wilts; Dank's Retreat, and Rock River Plantations, and Bodles Pen, in Clarendon, with other estates in Jamaica.

Seat—Lansdown Crescent and Tower, near Bath.

She wedded secondly, Sir John Mordaunt, and by him was mother of John, first Lord Mordaunt, ancestor of the extinct Earls of Peterborough. Her ladyship espoused, thirdly, Sir John Carew, but had no further issue. Her daughter, by Green, and one of the co-heirs of that gentleman,

Seymour, and left a daughter, eventually his sole heiress,

MARY HASTINGS, espousing William Coward, esq. M. P. for Wells, was mother of

BRIDGET COWARD (sole heiress to her father), who m. the Honorable George Hamilton, M. P. for Wells, as in the text, and left a daughter, KNIGHTS OF THE ROYAL OAK.

Gentlemen chosen by King CHARLES II. to be invested with the Order of the Royal Oak, and the value of their respective estates, A. D. 1660. From a MS. of PETER LE NEVE, NORROY.

This order of knighthood, projected by the restored monarch to perpetuate the loyalty of his faithful adherents, was wisely abandoned, under the apprehension that it might perpetuate likewise dissensions which were better consigned to oblivion.

END OF VOL. I.

INTERESTING NEW WORKS.

HISTORY OF THE NOBILITY AND GENTRY.

I.

DEDICATED, BY PERMISSION, TO THE KING.

MR. BURKE'S PEERAGE AND BARONETAGE OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE, FOR 1834.

The fourth edition, in two volumes (comprising all the New Creations), beautifully printed, and illustrated with upwards of 1,500 engravings, among which is a fine likeness of his Majesty, after Sir Thomas Lawrence's celebrated drawing, price 2*l.* 10*s.* bound in morocco cloth.

This new edition comprises three times the number of families that have ever before been presented to the public in any one publication of a similar description. It embraces every family in England, Ireland, and Scotland, invested with hereditary honours, and every individual in the remotest degree allied to those families; so that its collateral information is now considerably more copious than that of any similar work hitherto published.

"This popular work justly deserves to be considered as a History of the British Nobility. It is enriched by a variety of personal anecdotes, never before published, relative to many illustrious houses, in addition to numerous authentic details connected with their lineage, and communicated to the author by the noble inheritors of the titles. The volumes, containing nearly 1,400 pages of letter-press, are moreover illustrated with upwards of 1,500 heraldic plates, and are printed in double columns, with so remarkably clear and beautiful type as to comprise a quantity of matter equal to no less than twelve octavo volumes."—John Bull.

II.

THE EXTINCT AND DORMANT PEERAGE.

BY JOHN BURKE, Esq.

Beautifully printed in double columns uniformly with the Peerage and Baronetage, price 1*l.* 8*s.* bound.

This work comprises the whole of the Peerages which have been suspended or extinguished since the Conquest, particularising the members of each family, in each generation, and bringing the lineage, in all possible cases, through either collaterals or females, down to existing houses; it connects, in many instances, the new with the old nobility; and it will, in all cases, show the cause which has influenced the revival of an extinct dignity in a new creation. It should be particularly noticed, that this new work appertains nearly as much to extant as to extinct persons of distinction; for though dignities pass away, it rarely occurs that whole families do.

III.

DEDICATED TO THE DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE.
